Marquis of Salisbury Will Form the New British Cabinet.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt Thanks the House of Commons.

Some Conjectures as to the Formation of the New Ministry.

London, June 24.—The marquis of Salisbury conferred this morning with the Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, the Conservative leader in the house of commons, the duke of Devonshire, the Unionist leader in the house of lords and with the Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, the Unionist leader in the house of commons, at his house in London, and proceeded to Windsor at 1:30 p. m., in reply to the summons of the queen, following the resignation of the Rosebery ministry.

The cabinet crisis continues to absorb the attention of the clubs, etc., and the best informed speculations regarding the cabinet agree in the belief that Lord Salisbury will accept the task of forming a cabinet and a new ministry, to be composed of representatives of both sections of the Unionist party, although a dissolution of parliament cannot long be delayed. It may not be necessary to fill all the places in the ministry, as the Times intimates this morning, before taking steps for an immediate appeal to the country.

According to the program, the marquis of Salisbury will become premier and president of the council of ministers and the duke of Devonshire would become secretary of state for foreign affairs. Mr. Balfour is said to be slated for the office of first lord of the treasury and Mr. Chamberlain will become secretary of state for war. The Rt. Hon. George J. Goschen, formerly chancellor of the exchequer, is said to be slated for the post of first lord of the admiralty. Lord Lansdowne, Sir Henry James and Hon. Leonard Courtney, Liberal Unionists are also reported to have been selected for cabinet positions.

The principal members of the Salisbury cabinet must be re-elected immediately and the dissolution of parliament is expected within a fortnight. The marquis of Londonderry, Conservative, is expected to be the next viceroy of Ireland, and in the house of commons today there was a most animated scene and outside the houses large crowds of people gathered eagerly discussing the situation. The speaker, William Court Gully took the chair at 3 p. m. and soon afterwards the secretary of state for war, Mr. Campbell-Bannerman, entered the house amid prolonged Liberal cheers. Mr. Balfour followed and was greeted with vigorous cheering from his supporters. At 3:30 p. m. the chancellor of the exchequer, Sir William Vernon Harcourt, entered the house and the Liberals rose in a body and cheered him to the echo. The supporters of Mr. Chamberlain made a similar demonstration when the Unionist leader entered the house.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt said: "It is my duty to make an announcement to the house that the division of Friday last was a vote of censure of the secretary of war, than whom a more able, respected or popular minister never held office. The government, of course, associated themselves with their colleague, and feeling that they were unable to pass the votes for supply, the government resigned and their resignation was accepted.

"Under ordinary circumstances it would have been incumbent to move an adjournment; but the seal fishery bill must be passed before July 1; when it has passed its third reading the government will move the adjournment of the house."

The chancellor then thanked his supporters and acknowledged the consideration shown to the government by its opponents.

Mr. Balfour said he thought the constitutional manner of proceeding would have been to advise the queen to dissolve parliament instead of throwing the burden of continuing the government on the opposition. At 3:22 p. m. the house went into committee on the seals fishery bills.

Most of the members left when the house went into committee. Numerous questions were asked in regard to the agreement with Russia on the Bering sea question and the complaints received from the government of Canada on the same subject. The parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, Sir Edward Gray, in reply said that satisfactory assurances had been given to Canada on the points raised in behalf of the Dominion. The seal fisheries bill then passed its third reading. Mr. Tanner, member of the middle division of Cork, raised a disturbance by exclaiming that he did not see why the seal fisheries should be given preference over the Irish land bill. The house then adjourned.

It was rumored shortly after the house adjourned that Sir William Vernon Harcourt will not present himself as a candidate for re-election, and that the words of thanks to the house were in reality a valedictory.

There were large crowds present in the house of lords when the premier, Lord Rosebery, rose at 3:45 p. m. to announce the resignation of the cabinet.

The prince of Wales, duke of York and the duke of Cambridge sat on the cross benches. The marquis of Salisbury was at Windsor where he had gone in answer to the command of the queen. The galleries were crowded with peeresses and a number of members of the house of commons were present in order to hear the statement of the retiring prime minister.

Lord Rosebery, amid deep silence, said: "I desire to make a very brief statement, which the house has undoubtedly anticipated. After the vote of the house of commons on Friday which was practically a vote of censure of the secretary of war, than whom a more able, respected or popular minister never held office, the government felt it their duty to place their resignations in the hands of the queen. Their resignations were accepted and the government will hold office until their successors are appointed."

The earl of Cranbrook, Conservative, said that the marquis of Salisbury desired him to say he wished the house to adjourn until tomorrow. Lord Rosebery remarked that there was only one very important bill, the seal fisheries, which would be proceeded with and he expressed the hope that it would pass all its stages tomorrow. The seal fisheries bill then passed its reading.

WHISKY TRUST PROFIT.

Receiver McNulta Has Saved About $300,000.

Chicago, June 24.—Since he has taken hold of the whisky trust, Receiver McNulta has made a profit of $300,000, according to his inventory of June 1, filed in the United States court, as compared with the inventory made on Jan. 1, when the concern went into the custody of the court. At that time there was a surplus of $1,200,000. The receiver now reports a surplus of $1,500,000. The report was filed at the request of Judge Showalter, to aid him in determining the character of the decree to make in the petition for the sale of eighteen of the properties under the reorganization committee's bid.

Gen. McNulta asserts that, in his opinion, the suits which he has begun in the court for the accounting under the cattle feeding contract for additional compensation from Greenhut and Morris, and the other suits, on the $1,000,000 bond issue, and the excess paid in the purchase of the Shufeldt and other plants, will further increase the assets in the hands of the receiver. The receiver adds that an examination of the books revealed large sums of money not properly accounted for, or the validity of the disbursements of which are in doubt, and that as soon as he can get time, he will bring other suits, which if the sums are recovered will further increase the assets. A decree from the court is not looked for before Wednesday.

INDIAN FURORE.

Uncalled for Treatment Accorded a Red Prisoner.

Washington, June 24.—Additional reports received at the Indian bureau on the trouble growing out of the shooting of Cosah Red Lodge at Arapahoo, Oklahoma, implicate Little Man, son-in-law of Soft Belly, of the Cheyenne and Arapahoes as the party who recently outraged an octogenarian woman there, which was the primary cause of the trouble. There are six witnesses ready to testify for the prosecution, and the only one who corresponds with the description is Little Man. He was at Arapahoe when the crime was committed and the evidence points strongly to him.

A report from School Superintendent Seger, who was sent to Arapahoe says: The Indians are quiet considering the inhuman and uncalled for treatment from the sheriff. They believe Red Lodge to be innocent and Little Man guilty. There is a strong resemblance between the two. Red Lodge's version of the shooting is substantially this: He was in charge of the sheriff who told him to get into the buggy with him. He did so, but neither could understand the other's language.

From signs from the sheriff he understood he was being taken out to be thrown into a well or some hole in the ground on the town outskirts, where he saw a crowd gathered. He preferred to be shot, got out of the buggy, faced the sheriff and made signs for him to shoot. Walking backwards a short distance to see if he would not, he kept face toward the sheriff so as to receive the shot in the head and then he turned and ran away slowly, and the sheriff began shooting, one shot grazing his thigh.

Another man, whom Red Lodge thought was going to hang him, shot at him several times, the crowd came up, struck him with a knife and fists, kicked, cursed and abused him and left him unconscious on the ground. The sentiment is strongly against the sheriff, who is charged with laying himself open to prosecution by overstepping his authority. Capt. Mackay, commanding the troops at Arapahoe, reports that on notice of the shooting, every available man was brought there and a probable rupture of friendly relations thereby avoided. Indian officials here do not anticipate further trouble.

A HOMELESS BILL.

Washington, June 24.—A question has arisen in the treasury department as to the payment of expenses incurred by treasury agents in looking after filibusters on the South Atlantic and gulf coasts. An expense account amounting to $17 was received at the department but when it reached the warrant division it was discovered that the department had no appropriation from which the expenses of employes in preventing the violation of the neutrality laws could be paid. It was apparent that it could not be charged to the account for the collection of the revenues, and so the matter was referred to the state department in the hope that it could be paid from its secret service fund.

STRIKERS ARE TURBULENT.

Milwaukee, June 24.—About 100 laborers employed in building an extension of the Milwaukee Street Railway company's tracks to the state fair grounds, struck for an advance in pay. The strikers refuse to allow new men to take their places, and as the plant is in the hands of receivers the marshal will have to take the matter in hand. The ringleaders will probably be arrested if the strikers persist in molesting new laborers.

NEW GERMAN AMBASSADOR.

Washington, June 24.—The new German ambassador, Baron Von Thielmann, was presented to Secretary Olney today by Baron Von Kettler, who has been in charge of the German embassy since the departure of Baron Saurma Jeitsch from Washington. The meeting took place in the diplomatic room at the state department and was informal, being confined to a temporary recognition of the new ambassador by Secretary Olney pending the presentation of his credentials to President Cleveland next fall.

WELL ENOUGH TO TRAVEL.

Washington, June 24.—Miss Abigail Dodge continues to grow stronger and will leave the city within a day or two.

BOB DUNN

State Auditor Replies to the Washington Story About State Lands.

Punctures the Telegram with a Liberally Severe Thrust.

Shows the Story of a Deal to Be False Every Way.

St. Paul, June 24.—State Auditor Dunn, comes back at the government officials, given as authority for the telegram relating to selection of state lands published Satruday evening. It has been stated that a deal had been on between the state and railroad companies to secure possession of the greater portions of land in the Red Lake and other Indian reservations for the use of the companies. The officials seem to be stirred up by the appointment of Platt B. Walker to examine records. They seem to fear that some of their red tape will be interfered with and that they will be forced to work themselves out of a job or something of that kind. The telegram charges the appointment of Platt B. Walker up to Governor Clough.

Auditor Dunn says the governor had nothing whatever to do with the appointment. He made it on his own responsibility. As a matter of fact the total amount of swamp lands claimed by all the railroads is 483,000 acres, of which the Duluth & Iron Range claims 403,000, leaving 80,000 acres for all the other railroads, or about three townships for all the others. The Duluth & Iron Range claim is all in St. Louis and Lake counties, and moreover it is now in dispute.

Auditor Dunn claims that the railroad is not entitled to any of the lands for the reason that it has not complied with the law requiringit to build the road by the shortest and most feasible route. On Friday he wrote the attorney general a letter asking for an opinion on the subject. The company makes no claim whatever to lands on the Red Lake reservation and could make none. The Duluth & Winnipeg, the other road brought into the deal by the Washington people, has never at any time claimed any state swamp lands and makes no claim now.

The telegram further stated that the swamp land grants are being approved down there faster than the state is making its selections. As a matter of fact, the state makes no selections whatever of swamp lands. The lands are selected by the government surveyors, who make their reports direct to the department at Washington and the reports are issued from there to the state. The swamp lands for the state are supposed to be selected from the field notes of the government surveyors allowing the state as swamp lands every forty, more than half of which is swamp. There is just where the state auditor's office and the government officials have differed for some years. The government officials do not comply with the law and select according to the field notes, but appear to juggle the notes and make the selections according to their own sweet will, retarding the work and mixing things generally. It is to have them abide by these field notes that the state is making the fight at present.

The department at Washington has sent out J. M. Farrell as a special agent charged with looking up some fourteen or fifteen townships in two months, while, as a matter of fact, it is a job that would require a year's time, if it is to be done right. Auditor Dunn has asked permission to have a state surveyor accompany Mr. Farrell in his work, but has received no reply as yet.

Auditor Dunn says he has no other object than to serve the state in the swamp land dealings, and that in the selection of railroad grants he aims to give the state the best of it whenever possible.

NOT NOTIFIED YET.

Bayard Has Not Mentioned British Cabinet Changes.

Washington, June 24.—Although it is customary to inform the state department of such an important change, no word has yet been received at the department from Ambassador Bayard touching the downfall of the Rosebery cabinet in London. It is assumed, however, that Mr. Bayard is waiting until the formal announcement is made in parliament and the new ministry has succeeded in power, so as to make his statement complete.

At the state department it is believed that the change from a Liberal to a Conservative government in Great Britain will not affect the relations between the United States and Great Britain. While British politics are subject to more violent and sudden mutations than are known in the United States, there is seldom a sudden change in the foreign policy of the British government.

A DETERMINED SUICIDE.

Humboldt, Iowa, June 24.—W. W. Edgington, 58 years old, an old veteran and member of the G. A. R. tried laudanum last week, but not succeeding, took morphine yesterday, with suicidal intent. Financial and domestic difficulties caused the deed.

COLLEGE BOAT RACE.

Postponed Event to Come Off This Afternoon.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 24.—The weather conditions today are all that the most fastidious of oarsmen could desire, and the Columbia, Cornell and Pennsylvania crews, who are to row in the postponed tri-collegiate race at 4:30 this afternoon, are in high spirits. The river is as placid as a pond, and the wind is in the northwest. A change to southerly or southeast wind blowing against the ebb tide might make rough water, but there is little probability of such a radical shift of the wind. The ebb tide commences at 2 p. m., and boatmen say that at 4:30, the time set for the race, it will be very materially faster than at the same time on Friday.

The Cornell men were the first up today, rising at 6:45 a. m., and, after a hearty breakfast, lounged about the broad piazza and in hammocks until 9 o'clock, when Capt. Troy took the crew out in the shell for a fifteen minutes' pull, just as a muscle lubricator. The Quakers slept until 8 o'clock, when they breakfasted, and then went down to the boat house to give their shell a final test. The oarlocks, which were wrenched somewhat out of position by the accident of Friday, have been righted and the shell is now ready for the contest. E. J. Kearns, of Worcester, who has been here placing his patent oarlocks on the Pennsylvania shell, says that the patches which have been put on the boat will retard its speed four lengths in the four miles.

The Columbia crew slept late. Between 10 and 11 o'clock they took a short row, merely to limber up. The crew will have a hearty meal at noon, after which the men will go to bed to sleep until time to report for the start. All the crews will row with the same personnel as announced on Friday. Cornell is still favorite for first place and the backers of the red and white are not giving the heavy odds quoted last week. Even money is the rule with an occasional bet of two to one on the Ithacans against either of the other crews.

Dr. Brooks will be unable to referee today's race on account of an important business engagement elsewhere, and Robert B. Perkins, Harvard '84, will take his place. The police arrangements today will be more stringent than on Friday. Only the referee's yacht, the police boat Walla Walla and the boat Queen City, will be allowed on the course, and the crews will not leave until every vessel has come to anchor. The revenue cutter Manhattan is here to enforce the police regulations.

WILLIAM IS PLEASED.

Germany's Emperor Likes the Cruiser New York.

Washington, June 24.—Secretary Herbert received a telegram today from Admiral Kirkland, commanding the squadron at Kiel, dated Sunday, June 23, in which he says that the German emperor visited the cruiser New York on that day. He complimented the United States squadron, and the New York particularly, on the appearance of the works of illumination. He asked the admiral to thank the president of the United States for sending such fine specimens of the American navy to the opening of the canal. Admiral Kirkland says that the emperor will visit the New York again for a more thorough inspection.

EXHUMED THE BODY.

Baltimore, June 24.—The body of Jacob S. Kerngood, which was found floating in the Niagara river at Lewiston last week, and which was buried here Friday has been disinterred and sent to the morgue where an autopsy will probably be made. It is said that this action is taken at the hands of an insurance company's adjuster who is not satisfied that the badly decomposed corpse is that of Kerngood, notwithstanding the evidence to that effect. Relatives here claim that Kerngood was insured for only $15,000 and that the last policy was taken out seven years ago.

MILLERS WILL MEET.

Chicago, June 24.—The first convention of the recently reorganized and enlarged National Association of Millers, will begin a three-days' meeting at the Auditorium tomorrow. Frank Barry, of Milwaukee, secretary of the association, opened headquarters at the Auditorium today. An attendance of several hundred is expected. Every milling body in the country has entered the reorganization and the convention will be a delegated one. The old body was composed of about 100 leading firms.

THE GRAND OLD MAN.

London, June 24.—The steamer Tantallon Castle, upon which as the guests of Sir Donald Currie, Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone have been witnessing the celebration of the opening of the Kaiser Wilhelm canal, arrived at Gravesend today. Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone came to London by special train.

DAMAGE BY LIGHTNING.

Wapakoneta, Ohio, June 24.—Lightning and thunder storm played havoc in this vicinity. Nicholas Levy's loss will reach about $1000, while in the vicinity of Bucklandfield the loss cannot be estimated.

TO BE ELECTROCUTED.

New York, June 24.—William Caeser, the West India negro who on March 2 murdered his mistress, Mary Martin, was today sentenced to die by electricity in the week beginning July 29.

REORGANIZATION WANTED.

New York, June 24.—John I. Waterbury, James D. Smith and J. L. Bache have been requested by the holders of a large lot of second mortgage 4 per cent bonds and stock of the Ohio Southern Railway company to act as a committee to reorganize the road.

DIED FROM APOPLEXY.

Willmar, June 24.—D. Bell, proprietor of the Central hotel, was stricken with apoplexy today, expiring in a few moments.

BOILER INSPECTOR SUTTON.

St. Paul, June 24.—The application for a writ of quo warranto against Boiler Inspector Sutton will be argued before Attorney General Childs at the capital tomorrow morning. As the trial will affect the tenure of office of A. F. Ferris, of the fish and game commission, and Factory Inspector Jones, it is presumed that both of them will be present at the hearing.

FIREBUGS

Business Men in New York Indicted for Insurance Swindling.

Supposed to Be Connected With a Number of Incendiary Fires.

Hinted that a High Insurance Official is in the Gang.

New York, June 24.—Three indictments were found by the grand jury today against alleged members of the gang of firebugs whose operations were revealed to the police by Samuel Milch, a fire insurance agent, last week. The men indicted are George W. Holt, fire insurance adjuster; Koppel Friedland, the shirt manufacturer, who was a member of the firm, and Charles F. Lense, formerly detailed for duty at the office of fire marshal.

All the indictments are for complicity in the incendiary fire of the shirt factory of Louis Gordon. Holt is indicted for arson in the second degree, Friedland for arson in the third degree and Lense for bribery in taking money to suppress his knowledge of the work of the firebugs. An indictment was also found against Henry Cohen, a member of the firm of L. Cohen & Co., for complicity.

It is expected that as a result of today's work before the grand jury bench warrants will be issued for the arrest of other insurance men—a number of clerks in the offices of different insurance adjusters and for at least one high insurance company official.

GETS TEN YEARS.

Colored Burglar Sentenced to the Penitentiary.

St. Paul, June 24.—Houston Osborn, the big colored man, who made the assault on Misses Annie and Margaret Knoble and was nearly hung on the spot for his pains, will go over to the state prison for ten years. He was sentenced by Judge Egan in the district court this morning on a plea of guilty which he put in place of a previous plea of not guilty. He was indicted for both burglary in the first degree and for indecent assault and was sentenced on the indictment for burglary.

The crime was committed on June 4 and created great excitement in the neighborhood, where it was done. A number of angry men chased Osborn and strung him up, but were pursuaded to lower him so that the judicial hand might play its part. Osborn is of a low order of intellect, as appeared from his demeanor before Judge Egan.

MISSING MAN HEARD FROM.

Carthage, Mo., June 24.—Ellis Jackson, the Carthage contractor, who mysteriously disappeared in Kansas City during the Priests of Pallas parade in October last, has been heard from. He writes his family from Louisville, Ky., that he came to his senses wandering along the banks of the Ohio river, two months ago. How he came to be in the vicinity of Louisville, or what had transpired in the former six months he claims is all a blank. He is now working in Louisville and has sent for his family.

SMITH'S SOFT SNAP.

Washington, June 24.—Hubbard T. Smith, of Indiana, enjoys the honor of standing first in the competition conducted at the state department for the selection of a consular clerk, and he will receive the appointment. This is the first time that one of these desirable places has been filled by competitive examination. Mr. Smith, who is a musical composer of some note, will probably be assigned to the United States embassy at Berlin, where he will have an opportunity to pursue his musical studies.

FITZSIMMONS ON TRIAL.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 24.—Bob Fitzsimmons appeared in the court of sessions to answer to the indictment charging him with the killing of Con Riordan, in the course of an exhibition given in the city last winter. When the court adjourned at 12:30 o'clock two jurors had been accepted, but they are subject to peremptory challenges. They are Frederick Reihlman, farmer from Otis county, and John A. Robinson, a farmer from Pompeii.

FOURTEEN WERE POISONED.

Montezuma, Iowa, June 24.—At a family reunion near Tilton, fourteen persons have been poisoned. Jacob Trout died but the others will recover. The poison is supposed to have been in the water taken from an unused well. A dead bat was found in the well.

DIPHTHERIA'S CLEAN SWEEP.

Grinnell, Iowa, June 24.—William Case has buried five children within two weeks. Diphtheria was the cause in each case. The father is blind. The five children constituted his entire family.

DROWNED IN LAKE MAGGIORE.

Novara, Italy, June 24.—The party of ten persons drowned yesterday by the upsetting of a sailboat in a squall on Lake Maggiore, as cabled to the Associated Press, was composed of nine passengers and one boatman.

TAKE none of the pretended substitutes for Royal Baking Powder. Royal only is Absolutely Pure.

BURSTED

Steam Pipe Causes Death on the Steamer Christopher Columbus.

Two of the Crew Dead and Many Others Are Injured.

Boat Was Racing Although the Whaleback Officials Deny It.

Chicago, June 24.—By the explosion of a steam valve in the whaleback steamer Christopher Columbus off Waukegan, Ill., Saturday night, two men were killed and thirteen were dangerously or painfully injured. The victims were: Dead:

Frank Wilson, coal man.

E. J. Stelt, fireman.

The injured are: Edward Darrow, leader of the orchestra, scalded on face and hands very painfully; John Hoff, fireman, inhaled steam, and face, back and breast seriously scalded; George W. Kell, waiter, Buffalo, face and hands scalded; John W. Keough, meat carver, Buffalo, hands and face scalded; Robert McCronkey, coal man, head terribly scalded; Miss Miller, orchestra, scalded on hands and face; Frank Rosner, fireman, badly scalded on face, hands and body; James E. Ryan, fireman, scalded on back, neck and hand; Nic Seisser, waiter, Cleveland, hands scalded; Miss Voxheimer, orchestra, face painfully scalded; James Lorimer, coal passer, face, breast and hands seriously scalded.

It was the homecoming trip of the whaleback in its opening summer excursion to Milwaukee. About 350 souls were on board. It was during an exciting race between the Gooderich liner Virginia and the whaleback.

Suddenly there was a shock of explosion. The steam valve in a 6-inch connecting pipe over the starboard battery of three boilers had blown out. Down in the hold six firemen and a water man found themselves in a scalding mist so thick one could not see his hand. The blinding vapor made help impossible. The steam was instantly in every compartment of the vessel, and a panic ensued.

A score or more of women swooned, and in the excitement their friends feared they had been overcome by breathing the deadly vapor. Several gentlemen began to drag out life-preservers and pile them up conveniently. The scalded men were brought up to the cabin as soon as possible and several surgeons who were on board did all possible to alleviate their sufferings.

The boat finally reached the dock in Chicago at 3:15 a. m., with a pretty badly frightened lot of passengers, and all had a story to tell today of the scene on board.

The whaleback company officials were greatly disturbed over the disaster, but denied emphatically today that the the boat had been racing.

KILLED THE SPANIARDS.

Cuban Insurgents Massacre Some Government Troops.

New York, June 24.—A special to the World from Boston says: The steamer Bridablick, which has arrived from Cuba, confirms the story of the massacre of Spanish soldiers at Sama. Several of the Spaniards were killed and quartered and nailed to trees near the beach and others were taken prisoners. Since that massacre a large Spanish army with headquarters at Gibra, fifteen miles distant is engaged in fighting the rebels in the vicinity of Barchay, about ten miles inland from Sama. A regiment of soldiers is stationed at Sama at present and every vessel that enters the harbor is now placed under the care of the Spanish soldiers.

Four of these soldiers occupied the deck of the Bridablick during her stay in port and watched every visitor who came aboard the ship. The cargo also was watched while it was being shipped and care was taken that nobody came away from the vessel who did not belong on her. This is the first time that soldiers have been stationed on the Bridablick. The vessel was thoroughly searched on her arrival and every vessel that enters the harbor from this out will be treated in the same way. None of the crew were allowed to go on shore during the stay at Sama, except the captain.

CUBAN EXPEDITION.

Another One Being Fitted Out to Start Soon.

New York, June 24.—The Cuban revolutionists, it is said, are about to send another big expedition to the island. This one will be under the command of Col. Callago and will start from a small island in the West Indies, which is owned by an Englishman. The latter is in sympathy with the Cuban cause. The landing will be made in Vuelta Abajo, and all the arms and ammunition have already been sent to the island. With Callageo 150 veterans of the last revolution, as well as several West Point graduates, six Gatling guns, six Hotchkiss 1-pounder rapid-firing guns, 1500 Winchester rifles and 75,000 rounds of ammunition for the guns are to be carried by the expedition. The work of landing this large cargo will be dangerous.

Gomez has sent to the coast all the men he can spare to protect the expedition. Three unsuccessful attempts were made to secure a steamer in Florida, but one was finally secured from one of the West India islands. Revolutionists in the city are elated over the news from Cienfuegos has taken arms. Cienfuegos is a Spanish stronghold. There are five Spaniards to one Cuban. The Spaniards are the owners of all the large plantations in that vicinity, and were giving aid to Campos. The insurgents decided to cripple them by blowing up their sugar-crushing machinery, which is very costly, with dynamite, and this they did. The destruction by means of dynamite of the two small forts in Santiago De Cuba, as well as the railroads in that province, is reported by the insurgents.

In Cuban circles the report that Burmedez with his band had surrendered is denied. Dr. Gomez Y'Castro said: "As a matter of fact it was he who acted as leader in the uprising in Cienfuegos. A band of seven men in Camjuano, near Holguin, surrendered, but not in Camjuano in Las Villas."

TREATY ADVANTAGES.

Washington, June 24.—Consul General Jenergan at Shanghai has sent to the state department another report about the commercial advantages of the treaty between China and Japan. The concessions to Japan have given to the world new markets and avenues of trade. Now twenty-eight ports are open and countries which have favored nation clauses in their treaties have equal privileges with Japan. Japan was under restrictions as to the interior trade which have now been removed. The consul complains that several American firms in China and Japan have foreigners for their head agents and he thinks it would be better to have American enterprises carried on by Americans.

HAWAII

Plotting in San Francisco to Overturn Honolulu Government.

Lots of First Class Munitions of War Already Purchased.

Hawaiian Consul Will Not Tell What He Knows About It.

San Francisco, June 24.—A morning paper says: Attempts have been made to organize filibustering expeditions in this city to go to Honolulu and overthrow the government. Exiles are said to be the prime movers in the plot.

Capt. F. Lupp, of this city, is said to have been recently approached by a man named Stewart, and asked if he would go to the islands with a schooner, with a cargo of guns, ammunition and dynamite bombs. The terms offered Capt. Lupp were $5000 down and $10,000 if he succeeded. He was also told to find a fit vessel and report upon the lowest cash price of it.

As the story goes, Stewart says the friends of the exile colony in this city had considerable money for filibustering purposes. Their purchases, unlike those which went to Hawaii to be used in last year's revolt were of first class arms and ammunition. The other time money had been wasted in buying light carbines and revolvers which were no match for the Winchester and Lee magazine rifles of the government troops. The present supplies, so says Stewart, were of dynamite bombs, long range repeating rifles of 45-100 calibre, Colts army revolvers of the latest pattern, and a battery of Hotchkiss and Maxim guns with rounds enough for each pieee to turn the paradise of the Pacific into the inferno of the Western hemisphere.

SIERRA LEONE.

What the Governor Saw on a Recent Trip.

Washington, June 24.—Consul Pooley, at Freeport, Sierra Leone, has sent to the state department a copy of the Weekly News, published at that place, which contains a report of the speech of the governor of the protectorate. The governor had just returned from a tour of several hundred miles into the interior, and addressed the council upon the necessity of building a railroad into the country he had traveled over.

Attention is called to the fact that France, with far less inducements, is constructing a railroad in the colony of Senegal, and is contemplating a railway from Konarkari, through Fonta L'Jallon to the Niger, which, if carried out, while nothing is done in Sierra Leone, will transfer all the traffic of the headwaters of the Niger from English towns to the French.

He also reports that so far as he could learn slavery had ceased. It was also stated that the country did not seem adapted to the planting of European colonies, but that for colonizing Africa would have the advantage over the French because she could colonize from the West Indies.

BRIEF AND NEWSY.

All the sailors wounded by the explosion of the steam launch at Kiel have returned to duty.

Walter Sanger, the amateur champion bicyclist, is to be suspended by the L. A. W., pending an examination into a charge made against him of selling his prizes.

Crow Indians, to the number of 4000, will join in a big 4th of July celebration on their reservation, the first one of the kind in the history of the tribe.

A riot took place among the convicts of the Lincoln, Neb., state penitentiary. Scalesi, an Italian convict, armed with a stilleto made from scrap iron, attacked a fellow convict, named Sullivan, and then pitched into several other convicts and a general fight ensued, which was quelled with difficulty.

Eugene Blanel, at one time a famous operatic tenor, died in San Francisco. He was, in his prime, the musical idol of the Pacific coast.

David Oldham, a Baptist deacon in Ukiah, Cal., has been arrested for robbing the Mendocino stage a week ago. An accomplice gave him away.

Private Matthey, of the United States army, has arrived at Chicago, on a bicycle with dispatches from Gen. Miles to Gen. Merrit. He made the trip of 1300 miles in thirteen days, seven hours and forty-five minutes, breaking the record by one hour and fifteen minutes.

F. C. Cunningham, a Texas Pacific express messenger, was found dead in his car with a bullet hole in his heart. His own gun was found near him with one shell discharged. The affair is very mysterious.

Two passengers, a man and woman, were fatally injured by an electric car jumping the track, near New Bedford, Mass. There were sixty passengers on board and many were injured. The car turned completely over.

Emmet Chester, at Montgomery, Tex., murdered G. F. Wilson by shooting at him from the shore. Wilson had been intimate with his stepdaughter.

Lincoln, Neb., had a $125,000 fire yesterday. A large drug house was destroyed.

City Treasurer Stapf, of South St. Paul, has been arrested for a shortage in his accounts of $9400. Bondsmen will make the amount good at once.

Fisher's powder mills at Krebb's station, Pa., exploded Sunday morning. There were no workmen in the building, and no one was hurt. The shock was felt thirty-five miles away.

ANOTHER WILL 'O THE WISP.

Escalon, Mex., June 24.—Three Americans, Louis Desmond, James Chrismore and Hall K. Jeffrey, have fitted out an expedition and will leave here today for the Sierra Madre mountains in search of the famous lost mine, La Fuente, which according to tradition, contains a vast amount of ore of fabulous richness. The mine was abandoned by the Spaniards on account of the Indians over a century ago and although many attempts have been made to discover it, none have been successful.

DE CAMPOS IN HAVANA.

Havana, June 24.—Capt. Gen. De Campos arrived this morning at 3 o'clock from Cienfugoes. At Quivicanso, near Havana, the insurgents have raised a small band of men. It is reported from Remdios, province of Santa Clara, that the insurgent leader, Zelayas, has been killed.

The Only Remedy in the World that Refunds Purchase Price if it Fails to Cure the Tobacco Habit in 4 to 10 Days is

Narcoti-Cure

It Cures While You Continue the Use of Tobacco.

The greatest discovery of the age!

A certain, pleasant, permanent cure.

A lifetime's suffering ended for $5.00.

Why smoke and spit your life away? Why suffer from dyspepsia, heartburn and drains on your vital forces?

Stop using tobacco, but stop the right way! Drive the nicotine from your system by the use of this wonderful remedy!

Narcoti-Cure is warranted to remove all desire for tobacco in every form, including Cigar, Cigarette and Pipe smoking, Chewing and snuff taking.

Use all the tobacco you want while under treatment, and in from four to ten days your "hankering" and "craving" will disappear—the weed won't taste good. Then throw away tobacco forever.

Narcoti-Cure is entirely vegetable and free from injurious ingredients. It never fails to give tone and new vigor to the weakest constitution.

Remember Narcoti-Cure doesn't deprive you of tobacco while effecting a cure; doesn't ask you to buy several bottles to be entitled to a guarantee; doesn't require a month's treatment; and, finally, doesn't enable you to stop togacco only to find yourself a slave to the habit of tablet chewing.

With Narcoti-Cure, when you are through with tobacco you are through with the remedy. One bottle cures.

The Narcoti Chemical Co.,
Springfield, Mass.

Gentlemen:—I have used tobacco for over twenty-five years, chewing and smoking every day from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m., stopping only for meals.

On Monday, February 4, I called at your office in Springfield and bought a bottle of the Cure, which I used as directed, and on the tenth day the desire for tobacco had left me and it has not returned. I did not lose a meal while taking the Cure. My appetite has improved and I consider Narcoti-Cure a grand thing.

Very respectfully.
CHAS. I. LINCOLN.

Mr Frank H. Morton, of Chicopee Falls, Mass., late inspector of public buildings for Massachusetts, says:

I used tobacco for twenty-five years and was a confirmed smoker. In just eight days' treatment with Narcoti-Cure I was through with tobacco; in fact the desire for tobacco vanished like a dream.

Very respectfully.
FRANK H. MORTON.

GEOLOGICAL GEMS.

Reports Made Public for Last Year's Work.

Washington, June 24.—The report of the geological survey on precious stones of the United States for the calendar year 1894, completed by Special Agent George F. Kung, of New York, was made public today. The principal developments of the year are summarized as follows. The finding of a ten and seven-eighths karat diamond at Dowagiac, Mich.; developing of a new ruby mine near Franklin, N. C.; findings of emeralds at Mitchell and near Earls station, N. C.; memorial to congress to preserve the world renowned agatized forests; finding of a remarkable compact variscite, giving a new ornamental stone and a smaller output of turquoise mines due to the depressed financial conditions.

The rumor that circulated early in this year of the discovery of brilliant diamonds at Mount Edgrome, near Sitka, Alaska, was proven to be without foundation.

INDIAN SCHOOL INSTITUTES.

Washington, June 24.—Superintendent of Indian schools, W. N. Hallman, left here today on a tour of visitation to the institutes of Indian school teachers to be held in the West during the summer. There will be three institutes. The first will be at Sioux City, Iowa, and the others at Tacoma and El Reno. The forenoons of each day at all of these meetings will be devoted to the discussion of questions of general education, and the afternoons to section meetings of agents, superintendents, teachers, employes of the industrial departments and employes of the school matrons, general addresses to be delivered in the evening.

WILL WEAR A ROBE INSTEAD!

Philadelphia, June 24.—Disappointed because her sister had not bought her a shirt waist, 14-year-old Katie McCoy, who lived in the rear of 1397 Lawrence street, committed suicide last night by hanging. The child lived with her sister, Mrs. Mary Baker, who had promised her the coveted garment on Saturday, but failed to keep her word. Katie was much chagrined when she learned of her disappointment, and last night she quietly crept up stairs and, attaching a clothes line to her neck, hanged herself.

LEMONS AND ORANGES.

Washington, June 24.—Consul Seymour at Palermo, Italy, informs the state department that during the year 1894 the exportation of oranges and lemons from Palermo to the United States was eight times as much as the exportation during the same time of the same articles to all other foreign countries.

DULUTH'S OLD SHORTSTOP.

St. Louis, June 24.—Al C. Buckenberger has resigned as captain of the Browns. Joe Quinn will probably succeed him, the position having been offered Mr. Quinn.

This costly freight has been divided, and it was the purpose to send half of it over the Northern Pacific to Seattle and the other half on the Santa Fe to San Diego, from the latter port, a second expedition was to leave in a schooner to be commanded by an American named McFarland.

When Charles T. Willard, the consul of Hawaii was asked what he knew about the matter, he said he did not wish to affim or deny anything.

KENTUCKY DEMOCRATS.

Will Be a Lively Time Among Them Tomorrow.

Louisville, Ky., June 24.—The Democratic state convention here tomorrow will be among the hottest contests in the history of the commonwealth. Many delegates were here over Sunday. All are here today for the preliminary skirmish in the district meetings. The polling of all the Louisville papers show the gold delegates to be in the majority. The silver men dispute their estimate and charge that the Louisville papers claim more instructed delegates, when these delegates are equally divided. The lines are drawn on the endorsement of the administration, with Carlisle's friends leading for the administration and Blackburn's friends against its financial policy. Gen. Cassius M. Clay is the administration candidate for governor and Gen. P. W. Hardin is the anti-administration candidate.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—

Whereas, default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, which was duly executed and delivered by N. Frederic Hugo and Amie W. Hugo, his wife, mortgagors, to John L. Dodge, mortgagee, bearing date the 20th day of April, A. D. 1891, and which was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds, in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the 2nd day of May, A. D. 1891, at two thirty (2:30) o'clock p. m. in Book eight-two (82) of mortgages, on page one hundred seventy-one (171) which said mortgage, given to secure the principal note, contains provisions, that if any default be made in the payment of any installment of interest due on said note, or any part of said interest, on the day whereon the same is made payable, then and in any such case, the said mortgagee may elect without notice that the whole principal sum thereby secured and all accrued interest thereon, and all sums paid in accordance with the provisions of said mortgage, shall immediately become due and payable and may enforce payment thereof by foreclosure or other legal measures, and,

Whereas, default has been made in the payment of the semi-annual installment of interest upon said note and mortgage due October 30th, 1893, amounting to the sum of three hundred eighty ($20,000) dollars, the payment of which was secured by said mortgage, and in the payment of five hundred fifty and 41-100 ($50.41) dollars taxes and one thousand one hundred thirty-eight and 72-100 ($1138.72) dollars special assessments upon said mortgaged premises heretofore paid by said mortgagee, which said taxes and assessments were paid by said mortgagee under and by provisions contained in said mortgage, by reason whereof the said mortgagee has elected to exercise said option and has heretofore duly declared, and does hereby declare, the whole principal sum secured by said note and mortgage, with all accrued interest thereon and one thousand six hundred ninety-nine and 13-100 ($1699.13) dollars taxes and assessments heretofore paid by said mortgagee in accordance with the provisions of said mortgage to be now due and payable, and,

Whereas, there is therefore claimed to be due and there is actually due upon said mortgage debt at the date of this notice the sum of eight thousand two hundred ten and 65-100 ($210.65) dollars, principal and interest, together with said further sum of one thousand six hundred ninety-nine and 13-100 ($1699.13) dollars taxes and assessments paid and one hundred ($100.00) dollars attorneys' fees, stipulated for in said mortgage in case of foreclosure thereof, and,

Whereas, said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form, which has become operative by reason of the default above mentioned, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof,

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: All those tracts or parcels of land lying and being in the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, described as follows, towit: Lots one (1), two (2) and three (3), in block fifty-three (53), in Portland Division of Duluth, according to the recorded plat thereof, also that portion of Washington avenue (vacated) attaching to said lots one (1), two (2) and three (3), as per decree of court vacating same, being a piece or parcel of land, seventy-five (75) feet by one hundred thirty-five (135) feet, which said premises with the hereditaments and appurtenances will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest and taxes (if any) on said premises and one hundred ($100.00) dollars attorneys' fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the 28th day of June, A. D. 1895, at ten (10) o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the date of sale, as provided by law.

Dated May 13th, A. D. 1895.

CERTIFICATE OF AMENDMENT

—OF—

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION

—OF—

DULUTH IMPERIAL MILL COMPANY,

—AND—

AFFIDAVIT OF President and Secretary.

State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis, —ss.

We, B. C. Church and W. B. Sheardown, do hereby certify that we are respectively president and secretary of Duluth Imperial Mill company, a corporation organized under the laws of the state of Minnesota and that, at the annual meeting of the stockholders of said corporation, held at the office of said company, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on Saturday, the 27th day of April, A. D. 1895, at two o'clock p. m., and at an adjourned session of said annual meeting, held at said office at two o'clock p. m., on Monday, the 29th day of April, A. D. 1895, Articles V, VI, IX and X of the articles of incorporation of said corporation were amended so as to read as follows, respectively:

Article V.

The amount of capital stock of this corporation shall be one million five hundred thousand dollars ($1,500,000.00), of which five hundred thousand dollars ($500,000.00) shall be held as treasury stock and be issued and sold at such time, in such amounts and at such price as the board of directors by resolution shall direct.

ARTICLE VI.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation shall at any time be subject is the sum of six hundred thousand dollars ($600,000.00).

ARTICLE IX.

The president, vice president and treasurer shall be elected by the directors from their own number. The secretary may be chosen from the stockholders. The secretary and manager shall be elected by the board of directors. The offices of president and manager may be filled by one and the same person in the discretion of the board of directors.

ARTICLE X.

The capital stock of this corporation shall be divided into fifteen thousand (15,000) shares, of the par value of one hundred dollars each.

We do further certify that each of the foregoing amended articles of incorporation was adopted at said annual meeting by a majority vote in number and amount of all the shareholders and shares of the said corporation.

In witness whereof we have subscribed this certificate and caused the corporate seal of said corporation to be hereto affixed this 7th day of May, A. D. 1895.

Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check in the sum of one hundred dollars—payable to the order of F. W. Paine, treasuer.

Bonds will be required equal to the full contract price.

The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the committee on buildings and grounds.

H. W. PEARSON, Clerk.

Two Police Officers Disturbed a Little Card Party Saturday Evening.

They Entered Rather Too Suddenly and Caused a Decided Commotion.

Lightning Struck a West Duluth House Yesterday ---Other News.

A quiet card party was held on Saturday evening. It was strictly an invitation affair so select and private that it did not receive mention in the social columns of the Sunday papers. None were admitted except by pass word and visitors, especially police officers, were distinctly barred out.

The guests had all assembled and the game was progressing finely when it was suddenly interrupted by the unwelcome advent of two officers. Their forced entrance was the signal for a general stampede of the players and there were more articles flying in the air at one time than ever Juggler Schaeffer attempted to keep moving at one time.

The place of gathering was in the rear room of one of the central avenue saloons and the names of those present were given to the police as John Doe and Richard Roe. There were no arrests made but there probably will be if the little episode is repeated.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

A dwelling house north of the Bennett hotel, on Fifty-third avenue was struck by lightning yesterday morning about 9 o'clock. The electric bolt struck the roof, tore up the shingles and passed down through the house. The plastering was broken to pieces in several places and the total damage amounts to $50 or $60. Two families are living in the house but fortunately all escaped unhurt.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

Dr. Kenney, dentist, over Mfr's bank.

Houses, rooms to rent. C. W. Hoyt.

Miss Maren Mitchelet, of Minneapolis, is visiting Miss Schibsted.

A. D. Grant is laid up in Ontonagon, Mich., with a broken leg.

Mrs. Leonard Bjornson is visiting friends in Stillwater.

G. A. Brandt will preach the gospel tonight in the hall on the corner of Fifty-eighth avenue and Grand avenue at 7:45 o'clock.

Next Thursday evening a special meeting of the congregation of Westminster Presbyterian church will be held for the election of trustees and other business.

The Labor Meeting.

The labor mass meeting appointed for the Bethel Saturday evening failed to materialize, owing to the fact that it had been poorly advertised. The few who attended, however, accompanied the speakers in joining the meeting at Great Eastern hall, West Duluth, which was a success. Addresses were made by Harry Franklin, K. H. Bjeckford and A. Bill, of St. Paul, and E. R. Cobb and Henry Haskins, of Duluth. It unfortunately happened that a number of the local unions held regular meetings Saturday night and this fact aided in limiting the attendance. Nearly all the out of town delegates registered at the Tremont and were at the West Duluth mass meeting.

WEAVING.

We are weaving every day, as we pass along our way,
Intent upon our busy work or just as busy play;
Beneath the casual gaze of men, the angels' steady eyes,
The Robes of Resurrection in which we shall arise.

When the trumpet's thrilling call upon our ears shall fall,
And dear dust shall throb and quiver, and its vanished life recall,
When each hurrying atom seeks its own,
though distance disallow,
We shall wear the Resurrection Robes that we are weaving now.

Then the threads we sadly spun, and in darkness one by one
Wove in the fabric, wishing that the long, hard task was done,
Shall gleam and glimmer as a mist of lovely rose and blue,
And the blacker threads of sorrow shall be made lovely too.

The glimmering glints of gold from a patience manifold
Shall make a pattern sweet and strange, and beauteous to behold;
And the white of purity shall shine, the tear spots fade away,
As we don our Resurrection Robes upon that last great day.

O King of joy and pain, let us not weave in vain!
Touch Thou the fabric of our lives and make them fair again,
That, when our task is finished, within the Heavenly place,
Clad in our Robes of Righteousness, we may behold Thy face.

A REMARKABLE RELIC.

One of the most interesting things to be seen in Washington, says the Post, is an old, battered harpoon head, branded with the letters "Mon T." The history of the relic is remarkable. It was found bedded deep in the body of a whale killed by the fleet after a terrific fight in the Compas grounds, off the northwest coast, some years ago. It was a great swivel-headed spear, well preserved, except where the shank of the iron had been eaten away by the salt water down to the whale's body. From the brand on the iron its history could be traced. The mark was that of the steam whaler Montezuma, which was formerly a British man-of-war, and nearly sixty years ago was purchased by the Nantucket whalers and cruised in the North Atlantic.

During the late war the Montezuma, which was then a worthless old hulk, was purchased by the government and sunk as a part of the famous stone fleet to cage in the blockade runners at Charleston. From all the facts in her history it must have been nearly sixty years ago that she lost the harpoon in the great whale in the Atlantic, and as the humpback whale never goes south past the tropics this one must have worked his way over through the northwest passage and under the ice floes to the Compas grounds off the northwest coast, where he was killed by the San Francisco fleet nearly half a century later. This harpoon was long in the office of the whaling company in San Francisco, and was presented by Senator Perkins to the National Geographical society of Washington.

CURES OTHERS

To build up both solid flesh and strength after grip, pneumonia, fevers and other prostrating diseases, there is nothing to equal Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

PROSTRATION FOLLOWING GRIP.

MRS. GARRETT.

Mrs. REUBEN GARRETT, King George C. H., Va., writes: "I was taken with grip which finally resulted in pneumonia. Was prostruted for three months. Had a terrible cough and was emaciated and very weak. Was fast drifting into "quick consumption." The doctor gave me medicines all the time. I grew weaker. He advised cod liver oil emulsion. I took two bottles of it without any relief. I had pain in my left shoulder and back. I wrote you, and you prescribed your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I took only one bottle before I felt better. After two bottles I could sit up, and felt I had been saved from the grave. I increased rapidly in flesh and strength."

WOMAN WITH A PAST.

I'h fair to view—one could not guess
My age by many a year;
But those who know declare I'm not
As young as I appear.

My gown is black, my figure chic,
My get-up recherche;
I go in for simplicity,
And aim to be au fait.

I'm fresh as any debutante;
I rouge a bit, 'tis true,
But you'll agree that nowadays
The girls who don't are few.

My silken hose and lingerie,
My gown, wrap and chapeaux
Are all the latest Paris styles,
As everybody knows.

I've posed in many a different role,
As widow—ingenue,
As injured wife and divorcee,
And others—entre nous.

My jewels cost a fortune small,
And wondrous are to see,
And tell of the devotion
Of my different chers amis.

But, as I've said, I'm older
Than I really care to own
And therefore truthfully can say
My wild oats are all sown.

I'll choose a husband, join the church,
I'll frown upon the fast,
And will be called in years to come
The woman with a past.

STRONGER

The Wheat Market Was Stronger Today and Made an Advance.

It Was a Day of Surprises, However, Owing to Fluctuations.

The News Was Bullish But Bears Caused a Temporary Decline.

Wheat was strong at the opening today, owing to talk of too much rain, stronger cables and generally bullish news. July opened 1c up at 73c, declined to 71½c by 11 o'clock, reacted to 71¾c and then sold off to 71¼c. The decline in the face of bullish news—irrespective of the crop damage—was a surprising thing to the crowd and hard to account for. The activity of the bears, added to the liquidation by the longs of their July wheat, was the chief reason which made the decline, with so much exclusively bullish surroundings. The visible supply decreased 1,462,000 bus and the total now is 46,225,000 bus compared with 55,852,000 bus a year ago and 63,213,000 bus two years ago. The amount in the visible, outside of the stocks held at Chicago, Minneapolis and Duluth, is only 8,461,000 bus. It was after the visible figures were received, but by no means on account of these, that the surprise to the crowd was sprung upon them. That refers to the course of the fluctuations which again moved up, and began the close July resting at 72¾c, September started ⅞c up at 71c, declined to 69⅝c and advanced late to 70⅞c. The mills paid 1¼c premium over July for No. 1 hard to arrive. The close was ⅛c higher than Saturday for cash and July and ⅜c higher for September. Following were the closing prices:

No. 1 hard cash 72½c, June 73c, July 73c. No. 1 northern cash 72c, June 72½c, July, 72½c, September 70½c. No. 3 northern cash 68¼c. No. 3, 64¼c. Rejected 62¼c. To arrive—No. 1 hard 73¾c. No. 1 northern 73¼c. Rye 60c. No. 2 oats 28¾c. No. 3 oats 28c. Barley 41c. Flax, cash $1.47, September, $1.21.

Car inspection—Wheat 105, oats 1. Receipts—Wheat 67,519 bus, oats 5634 bus. Shipments—Wheat 54,795 bus, oats 2268 bus, rye 1302 bus.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

Wheat opened strong, 1c higher, held steadily for an hour or more and then broke badly to the lowest price for many weeks, leaving local traders mystified and demoralized. The news had been bullish and there was no apparent cause for the decline. After every weak holder had been shaken out, the market turned strong and sold higher than first prices. The real cause of the break was the selling out of about 2,000,000 bus for a big plunger. The news from the wheat fields has been extremely bullish. The visible supply showed a good decrease and the amount on ocean passage decreased 280,000 bus. Russian shipments last week were 4,800,000 bus instead of 7,000,000 bus, as estimated Saturday. Argentine shipments for the week were 450,000 bus. Temperature today in Kansas and Nebraska ranges from 85 to 95 and fears of hot winds in the spring wheat region are expressed.

Corn and oats sold off early on favorable weather, but rallied later in sympathy with wheat. Oats begin to act tired. Provisions featureless, fluctuating within a narrow range.

The stock market strengthened up today and at the close has every appearance of going higher tomorrow. The best buying is noticeable in the granger stocks, and would not be surprised to see them sell higher.

FUEL OF THE WORLD.

Some of the Strange Substitutes for Coal.

The fuel question is becoming more and more a problem of economy, as one may see by the number of contrivances patented recently for cheapening the cost of this necessary of life, says the Cleveland World.

One of the most interesting of the patented fuels is a brick or cartridge of highly porous clay, which is to be soaked in paraffin, and put into a stove when wanted. The housewife has only to touch a match to it, and the fire is ready for cooking. No laborious preliminary process of kindling is required before breakfast can be prepared. At first blush the idea seems to be a delightful one, but after a few trials it is discovered that soot is given off in such quantities from the burning bricks as to blacken everybody and everything in the kitchen.

In France pressed bricks of tannery waste are used by economical housekeepers to keep up fires at a slow rate of combustion. All over Europe bricks of coal dust are largely employed for running locomotives. In Japan charcoal is ground and made into balls with ashes for cheap fuel. In certain shoemaking towns there are some very poor people who burn nothing else but leather chips from one end of the winter to the other. They get them from the factories by the wheelbarrow load. Such chips, of course, smoulder with a great deal of smoke. Nearly all of the sawdust from saw mills everywhere is utilized for fuel.

But one must go to Utah in order to find hay put to the same purpose. There the Mormons have peculiar stove ovens constructed for the combustion of hay. They twist the hay into tight wisps, and at night they fill the fire-box of the stove with it as full as possible, closing the damper, and permitting it to smoulder all night. Maize is a first-rate fuel, and makes a rousing hot fire. Dried manure is utilized for fuel all over the world, from Peru to Asia Minor and the plateaux of Thibet. It is used in this way to such an extent in India that the authorities are making great efforts to stop the practice. What cattle and other browsing animals take from the soil ought to go back to it, instead of which it is burned and lost for ever. Thus the soil is becoming steadily impoverished.

In Egypt mummies, chiefly those of cats, ibises and other animals held sacred by the ancient inhabitants, were employed within recent years for running trains between Cairo and Alexandria. Dried fish, particularly the salmon, have been, and perhaps are to this day, employed to some extent as fuel by the Indians in parts of British Columbia. They contain enough oil and muscular fibre to burn well. On the coast of Scotland petrels are utilized in an odd way. They are very fat, and are made to serve as candles, wicks being run through them. The employment of the candle-fish of Alaska in a similar fashion is familiar. But this is a question of illumination and not of heating. The Eskimo lamp of soapstone, filled with whale-oil, is a stove.

Speaking of primitive methods of heating, it is undoubtedly a fact that man in early ages used bones to some extent as fuel, mixing them with pieces of wood. Bones contain much fatty matter, and small ones burn readily. In the desert regions of Arizona, where there is no vegetation worth mentioning, the Indians dig up for fuel the enormously developed roots of various plants. Pine cones make a fine kindling, and are utilized for that purpose all over Europe, particularly in the black forest and other parts of Germany.

The attention of many scientific men has long been engaged in trying to devise some sort of apparatus for employing the sun's rays as fuel. One of the more noted experimenters in this line is Professor Edward Sylvester Morse. Mirrors are most commonly used to concentrate the rays of the solar orb for this purpose.

In one instance not long ago success was obtained in an attempt to cook a goose by a sun-stove. Unfortunately at the conclusion of the operation it was found that the bird was spoiled, being rendered unfit for food by the chemical action of the sun's rays. This, of course, might be avoided by shutting up the articles to be cooked in closed ovens. But the objection to the sun-stove, thus far found insuperable, is its necessary elaborateness and consequent great loss.

Alcohol is an ideal fuel. It gives great heat, and its combustion is perfect, without smoke or other solid residuum. In burning it resolves itself into water and carbonic acid gas. Of course, it is too expensive for common use, but chemistry may yet discover a way of producing it at a small fraction of its present cost. Some machinery is already run by chemicals without fire. Nature understands this. The human body is a machine run by chemical energy. Sulphate of magnesia has been employed for running engines. Cans are filled with this compound and heated. In cooling and crystallizing it gives off heat.

There is a tradition in Ireland to the effect that the present peat-bogs of the Green Isle were formerly fertile fields belonging to the Druid priests, and that that great religious reformer, St. Patrick, blasted them. If the peat-bogs could lie undisturbed and be covered over for ages they would be transformed into coal.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, bearing date of September 14th, 1889, made by Lottie E. Hicken and William A. Hicken, her husband, mortgagors, to the Minnesota Loan & Trust Co., a corporation, mortgagee, and filed for record in the office of the register of deeds of St. Louis county, Minnesota, September 23rd, 1889, and on that day duly recorded in Book 37 of mortgages, on page 372, which said mortgage was afterwards duly assigned by the said Minnesota Loan & Trust Co. to Sarah R. Flagg, by an instrument in writing, bearing date of October 29th, 1889, and filed for record in the office of the said register of deeds of St. Louis county, Minnesota, November 4th, 1889, and on that day duly recorded in Book 32 of mortgages, on page 176, upon which mortgage there is now due and payable the sum of four thousand two hundred twenty-two and 62-100 (4222.62) dollars.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale therein contained, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, to be made by the sheriff of the said county of St. Louis, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on Tuesday, August 6th, 1895, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, to satisfy the amount which will then be due upon the said mortgage, the costs and disbursements of sale, and seventy-five dollars attorney's fees, stipulated to be paid in case of a foreclosure of the said mortgage. The premises described in the said mortgage and so to be sold are all those tracts or parcels of land lying and being in the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: All of lot one hundred nineteen (119), in block thirty-five (35), of Duluth Proper, Third Division; and all that part of lot one hundred seventeen (117), block thirty-five (35), Duluth Proper, Third Division, according to the plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the register of deeds in and for said county of St. Louis, that lies within seventy-five (75) feet of the northwesterly line of West Third street, Duluth, Minnesota.

Dated June 21st, 1895.

HIGH-WATER MARK.

THE WEATHER.

U. S. Agricultural Department, Weather Bureau, Duluth, Minn., June 24.—An area of low pressure, which has continued since Saturday morning over the Northwest, has increased in intensity. On its eastern side heavy rains fell yesterday in Eastern Minnesota and Northwest Wisconsin, while during the night light showers have been numerous in the Canadian Northwest, Montana and the western half of North Dakota.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 49; maximum yesterday, 56; minimum yesterday, 49; rainfall, 0.88 inch.

Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity till 7 p. m. tomorrow: Showers; clearing Tuesday; warmer Tuesday morning and afternoon; easterly winds, shifting to westerly by Tuesday afternoon.

JAMES KENEALY,
Local Forecast Official.

Chicago, June 24.—Forecast until 8 a. m. tomorrow. For Wisconsin: Showers and slightly warmer tonight. Tuesday showers and cooler; fresh southeast winds. For Minnesota: Showers tonight; Tuesday showers and cooler, fresh southeast, shifting to westerly, winds.

Depth of water over miter sill in St. Mary's ship canal, 14 feet 1 inch, and the forecast is that it will rise during the next twenty-four hours. Upper lakes—Variable winds, becoming southeasterly, with an occasional thunder shower during the next thirty-six hours.

Since Saturday morning showers have occurred in the Upper Mississippi valley, the Middle Mississippi valley, the lake region, Montana and North Dakota, attended by considerable cloudiness and light showers this morning.

OF IMPORTANCE TO DULUTH.

The executive board of the International Deep Waterways association will meet in Chicago tomorrow to make arrangements for the next annual meeting of the association. It will probably be held in Chicago in September and will undoubtedly accomplish much in furtherance of the project for a deep waterway from Duluth to the Atlantic ocean. The first meeting of this association, held in Toronto last year, did much good in behalf of the project. The executive committee is gathering facts and arguments for the next meeting upon the following subjects:

1. Necessity and utility of ship channels from the great lakes to the Atlantic.
2. Value and volume of freight to be accommodated; general transportation charges; value of anticipated reductions.
3. Cost of construction and maintenance of each of the separate routes, national and international.
4. Whether joint ownership is practicable.
5. Whether joint ownership is desirable.
6. Cost, value and utility of the locks, canals and improvements already built by either country.
7. Basis of entering upon joint possession of the works now complete where that is necessary.
8. Basis of joint construction and maintenance.
9. International agreement for impounding waters and controlling great lake levels.
10. International board or court of arbitration for hearing and determining all disputes arising between citizens and interests of the United States and Canada.

Many of the promoters and officers of the association are Canadian business men and they are endeavoring to educate the people on both sides of the line to the importance of a deep waterway to the sea, which can be obtained at the smallest expense by utilizing some of the Canadian canals. It is proposed to place the waterway under control of an international commission and both countries would bear the expense equally of deepening the canals and other waterways so that ocean-going vessels could make the passage from the Atlantic to Duluth and Chicago. As Duluth is naturally interested in this matter, in view of the fact that direct connection with the ocean would result in a tremendous expansion of the city's commerce, there should be a large representation from Duluth at the September convention in Chicago. Not only should the delegation from this city be large but it should contain men who have given the question careful study and are prepared to discuss it in all its aspects. The purpose of the association is largely educational, and the annual meetings should produce speeches and papers that will impress the people with the tremendous importance of the movement.

The Boston Herald a few days ago had an article on the commerce of the great lakes which will have a good effect in the East, where the subject is but little understood. "Very few people," said the Boston paper, "stop to realize the significance of the fact that more tonnage passes in and out of Lake Superior through the St. Mary's Falls canal than passes through the Sue canal. But the St. Mary is only the first of a series of connecting links by which the people of the Northwest propose to secure not less than twenty feet of water from Duluth to the Atlantic. Nothing less is aimed at than to make 'the Queen City of the Unsalted Seas' an open ocean port, from whence the wheat of Manitoba, Minnesota and the Dakotas would be shipped direct to Liverpool. There are eight states bordering on the great lakes, and, counting the people who live in adjacent territory with closely related interests, nearly half the population of the country has some obvious reason to favor the making of a 20-foot navigable channel clear from the lakes to the sea. It is contended that the attainment of this would reduce the freight and increase the price of the products of the soil throughout the whole of the West and Northwest. It is even claimed that the enhanced value of one year's crop would pay the total cost of the work still necessary for the purpose."

It is stated that Canada has already expended $50,000,000 to our $8,000,000 to make new channels for lake commerce. The whole additional cost of completing a 20-foot channel from Duluth to the Gulf of St. Lawrence is placed at $65,000,000. Of course, the Dominion government has no idea of undertaking this work on its own responsibility. It is argued that as the route is essentially an international one, the work ought to be undertaken by both governments, so that the two countries shall contribute to its entire cost in proportion to their respective interests therein. It is a fixed idea of the promoters of this scheme that every foot of navigation from the head of Lake Superior to the sea should be free, and it is proposed that it should be placed like the navigation of the Danube, under the control of a permanent joint commission. "The interests behind the movement," the Boston Herald says in conclusion, "are active and aggressive enough to warrant the statement that we have not by any means heard the last of it."

BY POPULAR VOTE.

The State Federation of Labor, in session in Duluth yesterday declared in favor of the election of United States senators by direct popular vote. There is a very widespread belief now that the senate is not thoroughly representative and is virtually a rich men's club; that a poor man has no show of being elected to a senatorship, that the majority of senatorial elections are the occasion of gross corruption in the state legislature and that the man who has the largest "barrel" and will tap it most liberally is sure to win. Consequently it is urged that the senators should be elected by the popular vote. There is no doubt that many men who have reached the senate would never have attained that position had the matter been left to the popular vote. Only by the aid of venal and corrupt legislators was their success possible. We do not have to go far from home to find an illustration of the truth of this statement.

The Chicago Record in a recent article pointed out another argument for the election of federal senators directly by the people and that is the deleterious influence of the present system on the state legislature. That body is important enough to be considered an end in itself. It is too bad that it should be treated merely as a piece of machinery for the selection of a United States senator, like the electoral college that exists solely for the choosing of a president. The public had the spectacle last fall, says the Record, of Republican newspapers urging voters to support men admittedly incompetent, some of whom were nominees only by the grace of a Democratic board of review in opposition to the wishes of a majority of their own party solely on the ground that such candidates could at least be trusted to vote for a Republican for United States senator. Incompetent Democrats received party support for a similar reason. With no United States senator to elect there would be less excuse for voting for members of the legislature on any other ground than that of their ability to serve the state wisely and faithfully.

"From this point of view," adds the Record, "the Illinois plan of nominating senators in state convention only exaggerates the evil. Its tendency is even more to make the general assembly simply an electoral college, inasmuch as the zeal for the particular candidates is stronger with the people than the zeal for some partisan yet unnamed. The intention of the framers of the constitution was that members of the state legislatures in their wisdom should elect able men for senators. This was to be incidental to the work of the legislature as a lawmaking body. If this conception is changing and state legislatures are to be chosen primarily for the purpose of electing senators, and only incidentally with reference to their functions as lawmakers, the sooner United States senators are elected directly by the people the better it will be for the cause of good government." To this The Herald heartily subscribes.

BIG INCREASE IN LOANS.

The New York bank statement of Saturday last showed a remarkable increase in loans during the previous week, the expansion amounting to about $5,000,000. When it is recalled that this represents a gain of $32,467,700 since April 6 last, less than ninety days in all, some idea may be formed as to whether money is in demand or not. Under ordinary circumstances such an enormous expansion would have been followed by a sharp advance in money rates, but the continued flow of currency from the interior prevents an increase in ruling quotations. On April 6 the deposits in the New York banks were $500,822,300. For the week ending June 22 they had risen to $574,459,000, an increase of almost $75,000,000.

"This enormous gain," says the New York Financier, "clearly illustrates why the New York money market is easy. The greater part of this money has come from the interior. Some of it, of course, has been locked up by the bond syndicate. But why it is that the New York banks are breaking all previous records so far as loans are concerned, while interior institutions find no use for current funds, except to send them to New York, where they can earn a slight interest, is not to be explained easily. A turn in the tide would drain out of the New York banks a great deal of the excess reserve now lying idle, and further result in the calling of the short loans, but there is no indication that such an event will occur soon. When it does come, however, granting that the volume of loans remains at anything like its present figure, that market is sure to go up, and while currency will be abundant, foreign money might enter the field in competition with home funds. Rates abroad are even lower than on this side and it would require only the slightest variation to create such a condition of affairs."

THE BRITISH CRISIS.

The statement in The Herald Saturday that the British cabinet had decided to resign has been confirmed by the official statement that Lord Rosebery went to Windsor and tendered to the queen the resignation of himself and the other members of the government. The resignation was accepted and Lord Salisbury, who is the recognized Conservative leader, was summoned to form a new cabinet. It is the general opinion in London today that he will accept the responsibility and at once form a cabinet representing all sections of the Unionist ranks, preparatory to a dissolution of parliament and a general election. The latter action is a necessity because the new government could not count upon a working majority in the present parliament.

There will be some surprise that Mr. Balfour is not to be premier, instead of Lord Salisbury. It is the custom that the retiring prime minister shall recommend to the queen his successor, and Lord Rosebery undoubtedly named Lord Salisbury. It is etiquette for the queen to send first for the person named, and this is how Lord Salisbury was summoned. He may not accept, however, and may suggest Mr. Balfour, but today's dispatches indicate that the former premier will not give way to his nephew and will form a cabinet, in which Mr. Balfour will be first lord of the treasury and, of course, the government leader in the house of commons. There will undoubtedly be considerable dissatisfaction over this arrangement, as there is quite a strong sentiment in English political circles against having a peer for premier. It is the sentiment that the prime minister should be a member of the house of commons, and there is no doubt the Rosebery ministry was weakened because its premier sat in the house of lords. Lord Salisbury has the not very agreeable task of satisfying all the members of the Unionist forces who will demand recognition in the makeup of the ministry.

To the young man who has an idea that he will enter politics and get an office, Mr. Depew's recent address at Nashville is recommended for careful reading. "The most lamentable wrecks I have seen, in the thirty odd years since I was graduated," said he, "have been the men who have abandoned everything for the public service, only to be thrown out by the changes of politics, and to find that their places in the professional and business world have been occupied by younger men, leaving them helpless and stranded." Almost every public man will tell the same story from what he has seen and heard.

The Chicago Chronicle describes Theodore Roosevelt as "a forceful and insistent person with a shrewdness educated by Western life and a determination established by long coping with the unruly cow and still more unruly cowboys." Evidently his education in the West was of a thorough character, as the manner in which he is stirring the New York police department demonstrates.

The Milwaukee Sentinel is making a fight against the smoke nuisance, but so far the aldermen remain deaf to the public clamor and decline to pass an ordinance dealing with the question. The people can apply the remedy by dealing with those aldermen in the proper way at the next election.

Mr. McKinley thinks the Republican league convention acted wisely in not passing a resolution on the silver question. This may be true, but it does not answer the query frequently repeated as to where Mr. McKinley himself stands on the financial question?

Neither Governor McKinley, Chauncey Depew, ex-Senator Ingalls or Senator Allison appeared at the Cleveland banquet, although they were advertised to speak and many people paid $5 a head to hear them speak. Who is responsible for bunkoing the crowd?

President Cleveland writes to a Southern friend named Scruggs that "I am not going to succeed myself." Mr. Cleveland appears to have a very correct idea of the state of public feeling.

All of the defenders of Fort Sumter but seven are said to be dead. This fact shows how rapidly the old veterans are passing away. There should be nothing too good for them while they live.

Japan proposes to build at Tokio a steel tower 1000 feet high to commemorate the victory over China, and if there is no steal in connection with its erection Japan will be fortunate.

Minneapolis has a novelty at last in the comic opera line. "Pinafore" is the name of the production, and the Minneapolis papers express the belief that it will be a success.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Benefits Three Generations.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in my family ten years with the best of results.

"Before taking it I had falling of the womb; such bearing-down pains, backache, and kidney trouble. I had had eight children, and was approaching the change of life.

"I took the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills; was cured of all my troubles, and passed through the change all right, and now am fifty-four years old and well. My daughter had catarrh of the bladder, and it cured her. I send you my picture with my grandson, whose mother was cured by your remedies. I will recommend your Compound to every body."—MRS. L. WHEN THE NOTE FALLS DUE.

You may say that life is trouble
When the clouds are in the blue,
But a fellow finds it double
When the Note
Falls
Due!

Sorrow's nothing but a bubble
That will vanish from the view;
But it's trouble, trouble, trouble
When the Note
Falls
Due!

And the corn it goes to stubble,
And the rose—it withers, too;
And it's trouble, trouble, trouble,
When the Note
Falls
Due!

Go it single file or double,
There'll be work enough for you
In a living world of trouble
When the Note
Falls
Due!

WHAT IT INDICATES.

Two Harbors Iron News: Some comment on Congressman Towne's position on the silver question would indicate that every voter does not read the platform of candidates for whom he votes, or all newspapers that of candidates they support.

A ROCKEFELLER DEFENDER.

Cleveland Marine Review: The Merritts, of Mesaba iron range fame, have secured a verdict in Minnesota for $940,000 against John D. Rockefeller. It was probably not a very difficult task to have a home jury bring in a verdict against a millionaire, but there are other courts to pass on such a verdict. The fact is that the Merritt mining properties would never have been developed without Mr. Rockefeller's money, and it is not probable that he is even now satisfied with the load he undertook when he went into the iron mining business upon the failure of early promoters of the Mesaba.

OF COURSE HE IS GUILTY.

St. Cloud Times: The Duluth Herald asserts "that Mr. Towne is sticking closely to the instructions he received from the Republicans of the Sixth district through their chosen delegates." Now, Alvah, what say yo, are ye guilty or not guilty of misrepresenting your congressman?

MUST PRACTICE ECONOMY.

Two Harbors Iron News: There is no probability that Harold McCormick will cancel his engagement with Edith Rockefeller because of the verdict of the Duluth jury against the prospective bride's father. By scrimping, the young people will manage to get along on what papa can spare from the annual profits of the Mesaba investment.

RELIEF IS NEEDED.

Cleveland Marine Review: With vessels subjected to delays of twelve hours and more at the St. Mary's Falls canal, and with little prospect now of the Canadian canal offering any material relief this season to the enormous increase in the fleet of deep-draft vessels engaged in Lake Superior commerce, it is quite probable that the Lake Carriers' association will soon be forced to take up with Gen. Poe the question of endeavoring to provide, through action on the part of the war department, means of hurrying work on the big 800-foot lock. Members of the association are already urging this matter with some of the officers.

FIREBUGS LYNCHED.

A New Orleans Suburb Furnishes a Sensation.

New Orleans, June 24.—Gretna, a small town just across the river, was the scene of a mysterious lynching last night. The victim was John Fry, a young man 22 years old. His dead body was found dangling to a telegraph pole at the outskirts of the town early this morning. Fry belonged to a gang of young toughs, who made a business of setting fire to and burning down property in Gretna. In the gang were Frank Strahan, a nephew of the sheriff; James Whitesides, a nephew of the chief of police, and Gustav Raphael.

Last night the gang were caught dead to rights setting fire to a disorderly house, occupied by negroes. They defied the police and did their work right under the eyes of two policemen. Later Raphael, Strahan and Whitesides were arrested and lodged in jail. Fry was captured some hours afterwards and while being taken to jail his captors were overpowered and their prisoner taken from them. That was the last seen of Fry until his dead body was found this morning.

MURDERED CARNOT.

Honors to His Memory by Many Prominent People.

Paris, June 24.—In the presence of enormous crowds the anniversary of the death of President Carnot, who was assassinated at Lyons, June 24 of last year by Caesero Santo, the anarchist, who was afterwards executed for the crime, was observed today at the Pantheon with touching ceremony. In the official cortege were President Faure, M. La Cour and M. Brisson, followed by the cabinet ministers, ambassadors, senators and deputies.

The cortege arrived at the tomb at 11:05 a. m. M. Faure in depositing a crown on the tomb said: "In the name of the Republic, on the day on which is renewed the mourning of the country I lay this crown upon the tomb of President Carnot." The religious ceremony took place in the Church of La Madelaine at 11 o'clock.

LIGNITE COAL COMBINE.

Denver, June 24.—Northern coal mine operators are jubilant over the new combination they have formed which will commence operations July 1. The new combination will be known as the Northern Colorado Coal company, and it has already signed contracts with all the northern mines to buy all of the output at a stated price per ton, and it will have a complete monopoly of all the coal produced in Northern Colorado. All mine operators of the lignite field are interested in the new company. Contracts have also been made with the wholesale dealers, who will after the first of the month, buy their coal through the Northern Colorado company instead of from the mine direct as at present. This plan, it is anticipated, will insure a uniform price for all lignite coal coming into Denver or being sold elsewhere in the state.

A FORGING LAWYER.

New York, June 24.—Edmund Huerstel, a lawyer, with an office at 290 Broadway, was arrested today on a warrant charging him with forgery. The specific charge is alleged forgery of a check for $7900, although the amount involved is said to reach many thousand dollars. The complaint is brought by Eugene LeCour.

ATTORNEY GENERAL HARMON.

Washington, June 24.—Attorney General Harmon has returned from a week's visit to Cincinnati, where he went to attend to some legal matters requiring his personal attention. He now expects to remain in Washington during the entire summer, with occasional brief visits to his family.

MINNESOTA CYCLONE.

Minneapolis, June 24.—An Albert Lea, Minn., special says: A cyclone passed eight miles south of here at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A number of barns were wrecked and horses killed, but no one was injured. The storm was accompanied by hail, and crops in a limited area were badly damaged. Hailstones as large as lemons are reported to have fallen near Hokah, Minn.

EXCITED ABOUT A DEATH.

Dayton, Ohio, June 24.—The district six miles southeast of this city is intensely excited over the death of Anna Frost, aged 18, which is alleged to be due to the admisistration of drugs for a criminal purpose. Her lover, Alonzo Miller, is suspected. He has been in trouble before, being accused while an attendant at the Southern Ohio lunatic asylum, of brutally beating an inmate, John Sloth, causing his death. The jury disagreed in trial. Miller was acquitted. Investigation is in progress.

FATAL FIRE IN RUSSIA.

St. Petersburg, June 24.—Over 100 houses have been destroyed by fire at Visnee-Volotchok, seventy miles from Tver, on the Zna. Many of the inhabitants perished.

CHEAP RATES TO DENVER.

The convention of the National Education association will be held this year, July 5 to 12, at Denver, Colo. A very low rate, not more than about $27.90 for return from St. Paul and Minneapolis will be made by the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad, with correspondingly low rates from other points. An elegant vestibuled train with all modern appointments will run through on very fast time. No change of cars. Magnificent service.

LABOR

Semi-Annual Convention of the Federation Held in Duluth Yesterday.

Resolutions Sympathizing With Eugene V. Debs Unanimously Adopted.

Free Coinage of Gold and Silver Favored---E. R. Cobb for President.

The semi-annual convention of the State Federation of Labor held at the council chamber yesterday accomplished a long and hard day's work. Action was taken on a number of highly important questions and the convention scored a decided hit and complimented the Zenith City by the election of a Duluth man as president. It was a thoroughly representative gathering of intelligent men from all over the state. Minneapolis had eleven delegates present, St. Paul fifteen and St. Cloud six.

The council chamber had been tastefully decorated with the American flag and a number of union banners which lent a glint of color to the scene when the convention assembled at 10 a. m. President Julius Adams, of St. Cloud, occupied the chair and called the delegates to order.

THE MAYOR'S WELCOME.

Then Mayor Lewis stepped on the platform. He said: "Mr. Chairman and members of the State Federation of Labor: In performing the duty which devolves on me of welcoming you to Duluth I desire also to assure you of the sincere pleasure it gives me personally and as a citizen. In these latter days very much is said about the 'nobility of labor' and the 'rights of labor' much of which is merely complimentary and many things are now and then very extravagantly stated. But after all is said and done the truth remains that labor, including in the word all the great activities by which necessary production is achieved is of vital concern to us all and in its organized capacity, honorable and elevating, it deserves the co-operation of all good citizens and the protection of the laws. In a society destined always to be most largely made up of men and women engaged in some kind of useful labor especially when general education is becoming all the time better adapted to its object labor will never long lack a voice to make its proper rights known nor perception to see that the law of the state and customs of society are guarded and respected. Such I am sure is the view of the intelligent and patriotic people I have the honor to address. To you as the representatives of self respecting, progressive law abiding labor I extend the freedom of our noble city and wish you a pleasant visit and a fruitful deliberation."

There was a burst of applause and everyone glanced out of the windows to see the rain coming down in torrents. So Alfred McCallum, president of the local Federated Trades assembly proceeded to apoligize for the weather and extend a welcome from Duluth organized labor.

THE PRESIDENT RESPONDS.

President Adams responded for the visitors in well chosen words and the convention proceeded to business.

The following committees were appointed: Credentials, chairman, John Klaus, of St. Paul; resolutions, chairman, M. E. Murray, of St. Paul; constitution, Harry Franklin, of St. Paul. The convention then adjourned until 2 o'clock.

The afternoon session opened with the reading and approval of the minutes of the previous meeting which was held at St. Cloud. A communication from the brewers and maltsters, of La Crosse, Wis., was read. As a result the delegates were instructed to remind the unions that there still remains a boycott on the beer made by B. S. Melkie and John Gund at La Crosse.

A press committee, composed of Delegates Franklin Krieger and Emil Applehagen, was appointed on motion of Vice President Cobb, and then Alfred McCallum, of Duluth, moved that the convention re-endorse the blue label of the Cigarmakers' union and that union men demand union cigars. The motion went through with a rush. Then Delegate Smith, of Minneapolis, reminded the convention that the boycott was still in force on the Pullman sleepers. There was a great cheer went up at this announcement.

THE SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The report of Secretary W. B. Hammond, of Minneapolis, was then read. In it reference was made to the continuous fight labor is making against adverse legislation, and the services of an efficient lobby was declared absolutely necessary. The recommendation was made that the offices of organizer and secretary be united.

Next came the report of State Organizer F. W. Smith, who narrated the progress of the work of organization. The limited treasury had exceedingly hampered him in securing results.

Then local President McCallum arose and announced that the Duluth Federated Trades assembly had 4000 members of the unions affiliated. The delegates cheered heartily at this. The reading of the treasurer's report followed.

The resolutions committee declared their readiness to report. They were loaded for bear and the desk of the chairman was strewn with voluminous documents.

The first one read was expressive of the deepest sympathy for Eugene V. Debs and his associates. It condemned the decision of the supreme court as unjust and declared it a direct blow at the rights of labor by the plutocracy. "His cause is ours, and his wrongs shall never be forgotten." The resolution was unanimously adopted and copies ordered sent to the supreme court and the president of the A. R. U.

BOYCOTTS APPROVED.

The boycott of the product of the Washburn-Crosby mills at Minneapolis and the Imperial mill at Duluth received the endorsement of the convention.

Then a resolution was adopted asking congress to enact an amendment to the constitution providing that when contempt of court is committed out of presence of the court the offender shall be entitled to a jury trial, and the punishment fixed by law. Congress was also asked to pass a federal law allowing workingmen to put a lien on building material furnished in one state and used in construction in another.

Delegate Murray, of St. Paul, then presented a resolution with a somewhat lengthy preamble, setting forth that the feeling that the church had been gradually becoming the abiding place of the rich was obtaining a wider spread among workingmen and engendering much unchristian like spirit. Ministers had been uttering phrases antagonistic to organized labor from their pulpits. This, however, was probably due more to ignorance than malice. With a view, therefore, to ascertain the relations existing between the church and labor a copy of the resolution, the platform of the federation and a letter asking for an expression of views thereon will be sent to the clergy of every denomination in the ten largest cities in Minnesota.

It was recommended and adopted that the minutes of the meeting be exchanged with all central labor bodies notmembers of the State Federation of Labor.

Government control of telegraph service, election of the president and United States senate by popular vote, foreclosure of the Union Pacific mortgages, proportionate political representation, the defeat of the Nicaragua canal scheme, and a single tax resolution were heartily endorsed.

FAVORED FREE COINAGE.

Here a resolution favoring the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 to a per capita of $50 was read. It was like shaking a red rag before a bull. Delegates all over the house were on their feet in an instant clamoring for recognition. A majority appeared to favor the free silver project but the resolution was finally amended to include the free coinage of gold.

It was resolved that the Federation aid in every manner possible in the organization of the working women and an adjournment till 7 o'clock was taken.

The convention went into executive session immediately on resuming business in the evening. Reports of the members who lobbied with the legislators were read and considered and a telegram of sympathy sent Eugene V. Debs.

E. R. COBB ELECTED PRESIDENT.

The nomination and election of officers followed, and, as expected, Duluth carried off the honors by the election of E. R. Cobb as president. M. E. Neary, of Minneapolis, was chosen vice president, C. L. Kirkland, of Wilmer, second vice president, W. D. Hammond, of Minneapolis, secretary and F. J. Kennedy, of St. Cloud, treasurer. All were installed and made short addresses.

It was decided in conformance with the report of the committee on constitution that the executive council should be chosen from one city in order to meet monthly. In this way the field can be surveyed with less expense and an organizer sent to any part of the state when his presence is required. Harry Franklin, of St. Paul Typographical Union No. 30, is chairman. The other members of the committee are E. B. Lott, of the bookbinders, J. S. Krieger, of the cigarmakers, C. H. Bonn, of the theatrical stage employes and M. E. Murray, of the barbers. All are of St. Paul.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Winona in December and the assembly adjourned in time for the Twin City delegates to catch the 11:15 train.

THE OFFICERS.

E. R. Cobb, of Duluth, the newly-elected president of the State Federation of Labor, commenced life as a steamfitter's helper and became a member of local union No. 11. Three years ago he entered the service of the Duluth Street Railway company, and for two years has represented the street railway employes in the Federated Trades assembly. He was chosen six months ago as the delegate from the federation to the chamber of commerce. At the last meeting of the State Federation of Labor at St. Cloud Mr. Cobb represented the street car men and was chosen first vice president of the federation. Mr. Cobb is possessed of remarkable executive abilities and has all the qualities which enter into the make-up of a good presiding officer.

THE WILBURS.

The first sacred concert by the Wilbur Opera company, given at the Lyceum yesterday evening, showed no falling off in the size of the audience, and "standing room" was all that could be obtained at the box office, and mighty little of that was left.

"La Mascotte" is always a funny opera, but it seemed in the hands of the Wilburs, to be brighter, happier and more laughable than usual. The honors of the evening belonged to the Prince Lorenzo of Mr. Kohnle and the Rocco of Mr. Amsden in the male characters, and Miss Mortimer as Bettina, the mascotte, and Miss Bolton as Fiametto were as they always are, very pleasing.

The following new pictures were presented, some of them much finer than any of the first week series: "Flower Girl," "The Moon Fairy," "After the Ball" (comic), "Ruth and Naomi" (Scriptural), with Bible recitation; "The Diver," "The Passing Policeman," in four parts, with descriptive solo to each picture; "Nymph of the Wave," "Comin' Thro' the Rye," "The Two Frogs," "An Innocent Victim," "Soap Bubbles," "Little Puck." There were four of the old favorite pictures repeated, namely, "Spring," "The Sirens," "The Bathers" and "Grace Darling."

Saturday's performance of the "Two Vagabonds" and the matinee of "Nell Gwynne" were well given and the house was, as usual, packed to the doors.

"THE TWO JOHNS."

This is the thirteenth annual tour of the "Two Johns" company, and the management claims to have a great treat in store for the patrons of the Temple tonight and tomorrow night. J. C. Stewart and Quinn Phillips have reunited after a separation of a number of years, and have surrounded themselves with a great company who are well known all over the country and comprise some of the best artists in their lines, among whom may be mentioned Miss Mabel Meredith, the phenomenal singer, and the Star quartet, who are without exception the kings of harmony; Messrs. Green and Stanley, the celebrated musical duo, and a host of others.

JOHN DILLON.

John Dillon did not draw a very large audience at the Temple Saturday evening. The performance of "Wanted the Earth" was a good one so far as Mr. Dillon was concerned, but the company is decidedly ordinary. The play is not much to boast of, but contains a good deal that is amusing.

WILL HAVE RACES.

The Limited Cycle club has arranged a series of races to be held at the driving park July 4. A slow race of 100 yards, the winner of which will be the last man to cross the tape without a fall, will be first on the program. The mile team race between four men from Duluth and an equal number of Superior men, will be a prominent feature and a quarter mile in heats, a 5-mile handicap, a half-mile open and a quarter-mile handicap for club members only, will be given.

WORK IS OVER.

English Lutheran Synod Closed on Saturday Evening.

The fifth annual convention of the English Evangelical Lutheran synod came to an end Saturday evening. Red Wing was selected as the next place of meeting. In the evening a reception was tendered the visitors at the home of Rev. S. W. Kuhns, pastor of St. John's English Lutheran church.

Yesterday the services at St. John's church were conducted by visiting clergymen. In the morning Rev H. K. Gebhart, of Fargo, N. D., officiated. In the evening Rev R. L. Leatherman spoke on "Home Missions," and Rev. James F. Beates, of Salt Lake City, on "Utah." Rev. W. K. Frick, of Milwaukee, president of the synod, spoke briefly. He congratulated the members on the interest and zeal they have shown in the work and paid a tribute to the pastor of St. John's church, Rev. S. W. Kuhns, and his wife. A special program of music was given.

WILL ORGANIZE.

All ladies interested in forming a Duluth chapter of theDaughters of the Revolution are invited to attend a meeting tomorrow afternoon in the parlors of the Spalding at 2:30 o'clock. The application papers have come and a fine and enthusiastic chapter will be formed.

DEATH OF MISS LAYCOCK.

Beatrice Walsh Laycock died yesterday morning from consumption at the home of her sister, Mrs. Fred Schofield, 222 East Second street. Miss Laycock took great interest in the work of the Bethel and Christian Endeavor society, and will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends. Her remains were taken this afternoon to Woodstock, Ont., for burial.

THE JUNIOR RECEPTION.

The junior reception to the senior class was given at the High School on Saturday evening and a large number were present. The hallway on the upper floor was used and dancing was the principal entertainment of the evening. On the stair landing the class colors, American flag and two large hearts were displayed. It was the most pleasant social event in the history of the school.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

A REFINED SHOW.

Ladies Orchestra, Elocutionist and Others at the Pavilion.

The Pavilion this week is offering the most refined and thoroughly pleasing entertainment it has given. From variety dancers and singing comedians to an orchestra of excellent merit and an elocutionist of a high order of talent is a pretty long jump but it has been made and the audiences yesterday seemed to appreciate it.

The Clara Schumann Orchestral club opens the program and supplies all the musical portion instead of the band. It is composed of twenty young ladies lead by a male violinist. Their music is of the popular order and they render it in excellent manner which shows their thorough training. A violin solo was admirably rendered by one of the young ladies.

Miss Edith Cline Ford, it must be confessed, would receive better appreciation at a concert or parlor recital. The acoustics of the Pavilion are not very good and it is difficult for her to be heard, although she has a very strong voice. Her work is artistic, rather too much so, for the Pavilion crowd.

Diana, the dancer, received an enthusiastic reception. Her dance is the same as the one which Mme. Hermann gives and which has created such a furore. It is beautiful and bewildering.

The crowning attraction of the week is the Japs. There are eight of them and they give a great exhibition of tumbling and juggling.

Fought a Draw.

Ed Shepard, the colored pugilist, met Ed Gallagher, of Buffalo, in a 4-round contest at the Parlor theater Saturday night. The fight was a warm one, and no time was lost by either man. It ended in a draw and Gallagher challenged Shepard to a fight later for $100 a side, which was accepted.

Ed Wright and Ed Ramsley were to have fought a 10-round contest, but Ramsley hurt his arm in the fourth round and the fight was awarded to Wright.

RESCUE OF MEN.

Col. H. H. Hadley, of New York, vice president of the National Men's Christian union, and superintendent of the Bartholomew mission in New York city addressed large meetings at the Bethel yesterday morning and at the Y. M. C. A. rooms yesterday afternoon. At the latter meeting he outlined the objects of the union and urged the formation of a rescue committee in connection with the association.

In the evening Col. Hadley spoke again to a large audience in the First Presbyterian church, telling how St. Bartholomew's mission was formed and what it is intended to do. During the week Col. Hadley will deliver a number of addesses through the city.

The association of which Col. Hadley is vice president has for its object the rescue of at least one person by each member from the drink habit and from religious skepticism. Its badge is a blue celluloid button with a white cross. The members must be active church members and must pledge themselves to rescue one soul each year at least. It is undenominational, and seeks to place its converts into the church to which they may have belonged or toward which they may lean.

UNDER THE WHEELS.

A fatal accident occurred at Virginia last Thursday night. Elias Baune, a Finlander, who was formerly employed on the section, while returning to his boarding place at Ole Johnson's, near the Franklin mine, was overtaken by a switch engine hauling ore cars and instantly killed. The scene of the accident was on the curve of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, near where the old powder house, which exploded about two years ago, stood. The engine and four cars passed over his body, completely severing it.

C. J. BROOKS RESIGNS.

C. J. Brooks, who was appointed Northern passenger agent of the Eastern Minnesota some time ago, has tendered his resignation, to take effect upon the appointment of a successor. Mr. Brooks moved his family to St. Paul Friday, and will follow in a few days. He has accepted a position as traveling passenger agent of the Chicago-Great Western, with headquarters at St. Paul. His successor has not yet been named.

SERIES OF ENTERTAINMENTS.

The Grand Army posts are arranging for a course of literary and musical entertainments for the fall and winter of a very high order. Among those already invited to appear are Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, who, it is hoped will open the course; Hon. Stewart L. Woodford, of New York; Col. George W. Bain, of Kentucky; Col. L. F. Copland, Howard Saxby, of the Cincinnati Enquirer; Hon. C. K. Davis, of St. Paul; the Ariel Ladies' sextet; the Cunningham quintet and possibly the famous Mozart Symphony club, of New York.

SEEKING HIS WIFE.

William Shelladine is Here on a Sorrowful Mission.

William Shelladine, a respectable appearing middle aged man from Muskeg, Minn., is in the city trying to obtain news of his eloping wife, whom he thinks is living in Duluth under the name of Ida Shell. He told a pitiful tale to Chief Armstrong this morning.

Shelladine and his wife had been living on a claim several miles from Muskeg, which is a watering station on the Northern Pacific road. Mrs. Shelladine found life too lonesome on the claim, so her obliging husband erected a shack for her near the water tank, where she could live and see the trains go by, and study the hats of the passengers. In another shack near by lived Eldredge Phillips, a 19-year-old son of the man who attends to the water tank. Shelladine went back to the claim after warning his wife, who is 40 years old and has been married twenty-two years, against the attentions of Phillips. All this happened about March 1, and on the 15th the husband visited the shack to find his wife gone and with her some $50 of hard earned money. On May 24 a letter came postmarked at Duluth, written by the missing wife, saying she was on her way to her parents at Clear Lake. It was signed Ida Shell.

As Phillips mysteriously disappeared about the same time as Mrs. Shelladine, her husband thinks the couple eloped and are probably living in Duluth.

MR. DAILEY DEAD.

C. S. Dailey, the railway mail clerk who was seized with a paralytic stroke in Sullivan's barber shop on Saturday, died yesterday at St. Mary's hospital. He was about 30 years of age and has a wife and child living at Motley. He ran between Duluth and Staples. His father-in-law arrived yesterday and took the body to Motley.

Dr. Harris Bruised.

Dr. James G. Harris, the city veterinary surgeon, was thrown from his sulky this morning about 11 o'clock and badly bruised and shaken up. He was driving down Superior street when his horse took fright and started to run west. The doctor was thrown on the pavement and the horse tore down Superior street, starting a number of other teams by striking them.

He fell in front of the city hall and smashed the sulky into kindling wood. Then he recovered himself and was stopped by Chief Armstrong at East First street. A team belonging to the Zenith City Bottling company was one of those frightened and the horses had a good hot run before being captured.

New Excursion Boat.

The Baltimore Packing company is to establish a passenger and excursion line at Duluth. The route has not been out yet, but President LeClair will arrive tomorrow from Minneapolis for that purpose. The boat will arrive tomorrow also. The steamer Liberty, which has been on Lake Michigan waters, will be put in service here and will arrive in a day or two. She is entitled to carry 250 passengers and is about four years old. V. LeClair, of Minneapolis, arrived in the city today and will be connected with the boat.

AN OLD OFFENSE.

A man giving his name as William O'Neil was arrested this morning about 11 o'clock by Officer Kenna. On investigation it was found he answered the description of the man wanted on a charge of grand larceny in stealing $350 from one Michael Cully on Jan. 14. He was arraigned this afternoon on this charge before Judge Boyle and pleaded not guilty. The case is set for hearing July 1 at 10 a. m., and bonds fixed at $400.

FERRY BIDS OPENED.

Bids for conducting the ferry across the ship canal were opened this morning by the board of public works. John Mears' bid of $173.73 per month was the lowest. Rufus Johnson, who conducts the ferry at present, put in a bid of $200. Bids for improving Orange street were also opened.

BURGLARY

Ward Ames' Residence on East Second Street Entered Last Night.

Mr. Ames Awoke and Grappled With the Unwelcome Visitor.

The Burglar Fired a Shot and Narrowly Missed Mr. Ames.

There was a burglary and attempted murder early this morning at the residence of Ward Ames, corner of Eighteenth avenue east and Second street. Mr. Ames was awakened about 3 a. m. by the sound of a match being struck in his sleeping apartment. Springing hurriedly to grapple with the intruder who wrested himself away and fled into the hallway and down the stairs. When half way down the thief slipped and fell.

Recovering himself he drew a revolver and fired a shot at Mr. Ames who was returning for his own revolver. The bullet lodged in the wainscotting near where Ames had been standing. Then the burglar dashed out through the kitchen door and succeeded in escaping with a vest which had a nice crisp $5 bill tucked in one of the pockets.

Mr. Ames fired two shots from the window after the retreating form. Entrance had been gained through the kitchen door by turning the key with a pair of nippers. The watch dog which is usually very fierce was not aroused.

Chief Armstrong is of the opinion that the work was done by an experienced hand, probably one attracted here by the coming circus. He suggests that citizens use extraordinary precautions until after the departure of the circus.

LARGE DAMAGES ASKED.

Gust Lundquist Sues the Street Railway Company.

Gust Lundquist, a laborer in the employ of the Duluth Street Railway company, has sued his employers for heavy damages because of injuries received while working on track repairs last summer. In the complaint which was filed Saturday by John Jenswold, Jr., it is claimed that the accident occurred on Superior street near Third avenue west while the pavement was being removed and the track fixed up. A rule of the company made it imperative for the motormen of cars to approach such a place at a reduced speed and to announce the coming of the car by the use of the gong on the front platform. It is claimed that both these rules were violated in this case, and as a result Lundquist was injured. He wants $10,250 damages.

A transcript of judgment and mandate from the supreme court in the case of W. F. Marvin against E. H. Foster et al affirming the order of the lower court in favor of the defendants, has been received and filed in the office of the district court. The case is well known.

In the matter of the assignment of T. O. Hall, A. P. Wilson, assignee, has been ordered by Judge Ensign to sell all property at auction Aug. 7. The order is made upon the petition of certain preferred creditors.

A Lucky Youngster.

The 3-year-old son of Pat Dougherty, a teamster, living at 1403 East Third street, had a narrow escape from death by a runaway about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Dougherty and his son were on the seat of a garbage wagon driving down Fourteenth avenue east when the horses became frightened at some object and started to run. The teamster was thrown from his seat and severely bruised, but the child clung to the wagon with desperation. The horses continued on their headlong dash and were finally stopped at Jefferson street by Officer Reese. The boy was uninjured, and those who saw the runaway regard his escape as almost miraculous.

HOIST WITH HIS OWN PETARD.

Anderson, Ind., June 24.—Lawson Berger and Frank Duffy, two glass blowers, called at the house of the Misses Nicum in this city this morning. The two men entered the yard and began teasing the girls. The father of the girls heard the noise and, raising a window, emptied both barrels of a shotgun into the bodies of Berger and Duffy, seriously wounding them. The gun exploded and Nicum was also injured. The whole crowd is in jail.

GRAIN COMMISSION EARNINGS.

St. Paul, June 24.—The earnings of the state grain warehouse commission for May amounted to $12,172.58.

LOG SCALING CASE.

St. Paul, June 24.—James Matthews, in his case against the Hersey Lumber company, has secured a verdict of $1680.31. This was the third time the case had been on trial. It is a dispute concerning the scaling of a lot of logs sold to the defendant by the plaintiff.

SLOAN-COLLINS.

Pretty Wedding at First Presbyterian Church Today.

Today at high noon Miss N. Gertrude Sloan and Dr. Homer B. Collins were joined in marriage at the First Presbyterian church. It was a quiet and simple wedding but one of the very prettiest Duluth society has been privileged to see. The church was beautifully decorated in green. A great bank of evergreens, palms, potted plants, ferns and daisies was arranged just back of the spot where the ceremony was performed.

At precisely 12 o'clock the bridal party moved down the west aisle. R. B. Doane was at the organ and played the Lohengrin wedding march. The ushers, Arthur G. McKinley and Clarence D. Shepard, walked first. The bridesmaids, Miss Maren Miller and Miss Mary Magoffin, followed. They wore charming gowns, Miss Miller's being organdie over white silk with lace and pink ribbons and Miss Magoffin's green silk and organdie with satin and lace trimmings. They carried pink roses. The bride walked alone. She was attired in a bridal gown of white satin with point lace and carried white bridal roses.

At the altar they were met by the the groom and his best man, George Herbert Smith, of Rochester, N. Y. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank Sneed, of Minneapolis, assisted by Dr. Cleland. The organ played softly "The Angel's Serenade." At the conclusion of the ceremony Mr. Doane and Arthur Drake played Mendelssohn's grand wedding march and the bridal party moved down the east aisle.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. William Harrison. This evening Dr. and Mrs. Collins leave on the North West for a trip.

BOOM IN DRUNKS.

Busy Day for Judge Boyle in Municipal Court.

In the municipal court this morning, before Judge Boyle, Henry O'Brien, Herman Erickson, Nick Abrahamson, Anda Sweeny and Fred Donnelly were each committed in default of a $10 fine for drunkenness. George Nelson, who is a porter on the Japan, and Charles McCue, a sailor, were up for the same offense and made a strong appeal. They were taxed $10 each, which was paid. E. Lindberg and T. F. Schofield, who had each deposited $10 to appear on a drunk charge, failed to show up, and their bonds were declared forfeited. Alexander McIntosh lost the $10 he had deposited for not answering to a charge of assault in the third degree.

E. Ellison and Robert Harris pleaded guilty to trespass. They had been caught sleeping in a car on the Duluth & Iron Range tracks. They claimed to be from Butte City bound to Tower, and were discharged to continue their journey. The cases against James Lundberg and E. Oettal for keeping unlicensed dogs were dismissed on the parties taking out licenses.

WHEAT CARGOES OFFERED.

Cleveland, June 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Duluth brokers are offering 2⅝ cents for boats to load wheat next month.

THE PORTAGE CANAL.

Houghton, Mich., June 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Superintendent G. A. Marr, of the Portage Lake Ship canal, officially states that all vessels that can pass the Sault locks can pass both the lower and upper Portage canals at Portage entry. Several sharp points have been cut off, rendering the channel much easier to pass through.

THE FREIGHT SITUATION.

The only element of strength in lake marine freights is ore, which still continues remarkably firm in spite of the low condition of other lines. The supply of lumber tonnage is considerably more than adequate to the demand, consequently rates are not at all strong. There is practically no wheat rate, as there is no demand whatever for shipment at present. The ore rate is as good as 2½ cent wheat, so no tonnage outside of the liners will take wheat at a less rate. The liners have taken small amounts at various times at 2 cents, but as soon as package freights pick up they will discontinue the practice, so the rate is nominally 2½ cents.

MARINE NOTES.

Richards & Poole are doing a large amount of improvement work on their property at New Duluth. One of Williams, Daugherty & Uphams dredges is at work making extensive additions to the dock front.

IN SUMMER
cooling drinks are necessary. They are the universal antidote for excessive warmth. Nothing is so popular with the fair sex in Duluth as our soda served in all the various flavors and with cream for only a nickel a glass. To have their attentions well received, young men should treat their sweethearts coolly, by inviting them to enjoy our soda, which is really the coolest and most delightful summer drink in Duluth, wholesome, healthful and invigorating. Soda heads the list of summer beverages, and the foaming stream from our fountain heads the list of all sodas.

KENTUCKY

Democratic State Convention In Full Blast at Louisville Today.

Bourbon Bitterness Exists and There Are Many Hot Contests.

Both Factions Are Striving for Supremacy and Give no Quarter.

Louisville, June 25.—The Democratic state convention today is more than the annual political derby. It may not be a record-breaker, but there is no doubt about it being of the highest grade in Bourbon bitterness. The delegates from the eleven congressional districts met at 10 a. m. to choose their respective members for the general committees. Every place was sharply contested, and especially those for the committee on resolutions, rules and order of business. The control of the latter committee was wanted by the Hardin men, so that nominations would precede the adoption of the platform. The "sound money" men who favor Clay for governor wanted the platform adopted first, so that in the event of the nomination of Gen. Hardin, who is for free coinage, he could not influence the committee in forming a platform to suit his views for unlimited coinage. Gen. Hardin has been co-operating with Senator Blackburn in all the preliminary skirmishing.

There was a double contest in selecting members of the committee on resolutions. First, both the silver and gold men wanted to get a majority of members, so as to have their respective views incorporated into the platform; and second, Senator Blackburn and ex-Governor McCreery, both candidates for the senatorship, were running their first heat in competing for the chairmanship of the committee. The senatorship is involved in the convention more than the governorship or any of the state offices. The other candidates for senator are ex-Governor Buckner and Governor Brown. Blackburn and Brown are free silver men; McCreery and Buckner are against it. All are on the ground watching their chances.

Senator Lindsay is working with Clay, McCreery, Buckner and others for an "an honest money plank." About the only prominent Kentucky Democrat who is not here is Secretary Carlisle, and he is represented by his private secretary, appointment clerk and others from Washington. The conservatives yesterday worked hard for a compromise on the selecting of two members-at-large for each of the committees. The state committee did not select the temporary officers, but the convention was in the hands of Chairman J. D. Carroll, of the state committee, till it elected a temporary chairman, for which position the silver men wanted Judge William B. Kerr, and the sound money men wanted Congressman W. J. Stone.

As the chairman of the convention appointed two members-at-large on the committee on resolutions and one other committee, there was a very hot fight for the presiding officer, and the conservatives had no hearing today on their plan to divide the members-at-large of the committees, each side getting one member. This would leave the contest to the congressional, but today neither side would listen to the conservatives. It was evident from the start that each side would take everything it could get and give no quarter to postponements.

Some of the delegation meetings lasted till noon, when it was announced that the convention would assemble at once. The silver men were very much excited and charged trickery in the selection of members of the committees in some districts. The hottest fight was in the Seventh congressional district, where Senator Blackburn was beaten for member of the committee on resolutions by Professor Arthur Yeager, the friend of Secretary Carlisle. The delegates from that district are largely for "sound money," but Blackburn had hoped to get the support of personal friends who oppose his free silver views.

The following is the committee on resolutions: First district, August Coulter, silver; Second, W. T. Ellis, silver; Third, J. S. Rhea, silver; Fourth, Ed Walker, conservative; Fifth, J. M. Atherton, gold; Sixth, R. A. Elliston, gold; Seventh, Professor Yeager, gold; Eighth, J. B. McCreary, gold; Ninth, J. F. Hager, gold; Tenth, J. P. Salyer, gold; Eleventh, R. M. Jackson, conservative.

The anti-silver men claim that the conservatives will vote for a sound money platform, including the endorsement of the administration and special mention of President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle. Messrs. Coulter, Ellis and Rhea announced at once that there would be a minority report signed by them if by no others.

The silver men are still depending on the Hardin forces in organizing the convention, so as to give them the two members at large of the committee on resolutions, in which event the conservatives might hold the balance of power. The administration men, however, confidently claim a majority of the committee that will frame the platform and they appeal to Gen. Hardin to prevent such a fight as will embarrass his campaign by wide differences in the party. The results of the district meetings tend to moderate the fight that was expected on the assemblage of the convention in selecting a chairman, as it was said early today that no concessions would be granted, but all the leaders are hopeful this afternoon of such concessions on both sides as will prevent serious fighting.

As soon as the district meetings were over the delegates flocked to Music hall which was packed long before 12 o'clock. Promptly at noon the convention was called to order by Chairman Carroll, of the state committee, who spoke at length on the preliminary canvass of the convention, the new issues, the result of the last election and the prospects of the pending campaign. The election of a temporary chairman was announced as the first thing in order, when some time was consumed in clearing the aisles of intruders so delegates could be seated. The names of ex-Congressman W. J. Stone and Judge W. N. Beckner were presented for temporary chairman when the roll of 119 counties was called. The roll call had not proceeded far when Chairman Carroll ruled that instructions were matters for delegates to settle with their constituents and that the votes would be counted as announced by the chairman of each county delegation.

The roll call proceeded with all sorts of points of order and dilatory confusion for over an hour, when the result was announced at 2 o'clock as follows: Beckner, 448½; Stone, 373½; the total vote being 878, but it was not all cast owing to the contests. Necessary to choice, 440. The election of Beckner as temporary chairman was made unanimous. As the combination of Hardin for governor and the silverites supported Beckner, and the combination of Clay for governor and the sound money men supported Stone, the result of the selection of temporary chairman was received with cheers as a direct advantage for Hardin and indirectly an advantage for the silver men, who had been beaten during the forenoon in the district meetings.

William Cromwell, J. E. Stone and J. K. Shrader were elected secretaries and then the congressional districts were called for members of the resolution committee. When the Second district was called W. S. Ellis declined to serve and Senator Blackburn was announced as the member of the committee on resolutions from that district. Mr. Ellis had given Senator Blackburn his proxy, immediately after the latter was beaten in the Seventh district.

In appointing the members-at-large on the committee, Chairman Beckner divided them equally. Senator Lindsay, gold, and J. D. Cleary, silver, were appointed, so they did not affect the complexion of the committee on resolutions. The convention then took a recess until 8 o'clock.

SOMEWHAT FISHY.

A Seattle Story About a Honolulv Expedition.

Seattle, Wash., June 25.—The schooner G. W. Watson, which cleared from this port at the local customs office last night with 575,000 feet of lumber for Honolulu, intends to take on field pieces, small arms, and ammunition off Cape Flattery. A large shipment of arms and ammunition has been made to the sound by rail and is now either stored or cached at various points along the sound in the vicinity of Everett and Whatcom. After the Watson rounds Cape Flattery it is said that she will dump her big cargo of lumber into the sea and a large number of sloops and schooners will sail seaward from near the points named bringing the new cargo.

After the lumber cargo has gone into the waves it is said that she will head for a small island in the Hawaiian group which has been selected and is peculiarly adapted to the landing of the contraband cargo. If her plans do not miscarry an insurrection may be expected to follow. A bold scheme is said to have been unearthed by the government agents recently. It is said that some San Francisco shippers and a woman in Honolulu who is worth $2,500,000, proposed fitting up a schooner at this port with heavy guns and small arms and then go to a small island in the Hawaiian group and land them.

The strength of the royalists and the supposed allies of Queen Liliuokalani in San Francisco would greatly help out the scheme. It is also said a certain man in this city, well known for his fighting ability, was offered command of the expedition at a salary of $350 per month. He was to have a position under the royal government.

UPPER MISSISSIPPI.

Convention to Urge Its Improvement Now in Session.

Minneapolis, June 25.—A convention for the improvement of the Upper Mississippi is now in session here, delegates being in attendance from Grand Rapids, Aitkin, St. Cloud, Minneapolis, St. Paul and St. Louis. The government will be asked to open navigation on the Upper Mississippi as far as Grand Rapids.

This would necessitate a number of canals around the falls, but the plan is declared perfectly feasible by Maj. W. A. Jones, government engineer in charge of the Northwest district. H. V. Winchell, of Minneapolis, was made chairman, and E. A. Creamer, of Grand Rapids, secretary.

PERALTA CLAIM A FRAUD.

Santa Fe, N. M., June 25.—In the United States land court the Peralta claim for 12,000,000 acres in Arizona was pronounced a fraud and rejected. James A. Peralta Reavis, the claimant, was immediately placed under arrest.

A MAN DROWNED.

St. Paul, June 25.—A Red Lake Falls, Minn., special to the Dispatch says: Michael Jeffers and Fred Emard were driving over a dam when they fell in and Jeffers was drowned. He was 67 years old and was twice register of deeds of Rice county. The body has not yet been found.

BOY MURDERER GUILTY.

Atlanta, June 25.—William G. Myers, aged 19, who enticed Forest Crowley into the woods and murdered and robbed him last fall, was found guilty of murder in the first degree today. This is the second time he has been tried and found guilty. His attorneys will again appeal the case.

NAVAL CADETS APPOINTED.

Washington, June 25.—Among the cadets appointed to the naval academy are E. B. Graves, Glencoe, Minn.; W. McEntee, alternate, Montgomery, Minn.

LEGALLY INCORPORATED.

St. Jaul, June 25.—The Northern Security company, of Duluth, was legally incorporated today with a capital stock of $50,000.

MARRIED

Royal Wedding of Princess Helene and the Duke of Aosta.

Celebrated in London This Morning With a Magnificent Display.

Monarchs, Present and Future, and Titled People Were There.

London, June 25.—Prince Emanuel Filiberto, duke of Aosta, nephew of King Humbert, of Italy, was married today at the church of St. Raphael, Kingston-on-Thames, his bride being the Princess Helene of Orleans, second daughter of the countess of Paris and sister of the duke of Orleans. The wedding ceremony was a most brilliant affair. The route from Kingston railway station to the church was spanned by triumphal arches made dazzling with color by a multitude of French and Italian flags and ensigns, and by escutcheons representing the arms of Savoy and of Orleans. Masses of people lined the streets of Kingston and cheered the arrivals most heartily. Nine gentlemen of the Orleans household in full dress, black lined with blue silk, with gold buttons and white waistcoats and wearing many orders and other decorations, had charge of the church. There they received the ladies and gentlemen, the former in gorgeous toilettes and the latter nearly all in splendid uniforms who came by carriages in streams from all parts.

Among the first to arrive were the Prince and Princess De Joinville, the duke of Aumulae, the duke of Chartres, Princess Margaret of Orleans, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador to Great Britain, Count Deym von Stritez, Sir Frederick Leighton, president of the Royal academy, and the duke and duchess of Teck. The interior of the church was made positively beautiful with artistic floral decorations, softened by the judicious use of palms, ferns and other plants, contrasting nicely with the colors of the ladies' toilettes and with the uniforms of the military guests. In the front of the altar were two gold chairs, upholstered with red velvet for the use of the bride and bridegroom and on the other side were smaller gilt chairs for the accommodation of the witnesses of the marriage ceremony.

The family pews, richly draped with red velvet and trimmed with gold, were reserved for the members of the Orleans family and for the relatives of the duke of Aosta. The Infanta Eulalie of Spain arrived at the church at 10 a. m., and was closely followed by the duke of Orleans in evening dress and carried by four gardes chasse (game keepers) in their handsome blue uniforms, from the Chateau D'Eu. The duke took the seat on the left of the bride's chair. The duke of Aosta, in the uniform of his regiment (colonel of the Fifth regiment of Italian seige artillery), and wearing the order of the Black Eagle, entered the church at 10:20 a. m., and shook hands cordially with the duke of Orleans, after which he seated himself on the gold chair prepared for his occupancy. The next arrivals were the prince of Wales, the duke and duchess of Fife, the duke and duchess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, and after them came Prince von Hatzfeldt-Wildenburg, the German ambassador and M. De Staile, the Russian ambassador to the court of St. James, and other distinguished members of the diplomatic corps, after which came the prince of Naples, Victorio Emanuel, the heir apparent to the throne of Italy; Prince Ferdinand of Roumania, the duke and duchess of Connaught, the duke of Cambridge, the grand duke of Saxe-Weimar Eisenach, the duke of Montpensier and the Infanta Marie Louise of Spain, and many other members of the royal families of France, Spain, Italy, Portugal and Great Britain.

All the male members of the different royal families were in uniforms of their respective countries and wore gorgeous decorations, giving to the inside of the church a dazzling glimmer of gold and precious stones to which the silks and laces, jewels and flowers of the ladies framed a beautiful setting. The air was fragrant with the perfume of flowers mingled with that of artificial essences and from the organ came soft, soothing murmur of preparatory music as loud cheering echoing from a distance announced the coming of the bride.

Princess Helene of Orleans, the personification of womanly health and beauty, distinguished as a graceful athlete and charming linguist, occupying a closed carriage with her mother, the widowed countess of Paris, crossed Kingston bridge at a quarter to eleven, bowing modestly to the cheers upon cheers which rose from the masses of people lining the route to the church. Hats and handkerchiefs, parasols and sticks were waved enthusiastically in the air, and the charming princess was visibly affected by the warmth of the welcome accorded her by the people. This enthusiasm upon the part of the masses continued, hearty cheers rending the air, until the princess entered the little old church of St. Raphael in which her parents were married in May, 1864.

The duke of Chartres, uncle of the bride, who was also married in the church in 1849, waited the coming of the bride at the church door and conducted her with old-time grace and courtesy to the vacant gold chair on the left of the bridegroom. The countess of Paris followed the bride. As soon as the bride was at the altar, the service commenced, both bride and bridegroom making the responses in English, clear voiced. At the conclusion of the marriage ceremony, which lasted ten minutes, the duke and duchess of Aosta entered the sacristy, followed by the prince of Wales and the prince of Naples.

While the marriage registry was being signed the choir sang "Ave Verum." The duke of Chartres carried the register to the old duke of Orleans for the latter's signature. After these formalities had been complied with, a low mass was celebrated, the service being most impressive. The bride was collected throughout the ceremony.

The church was crowded to the extreme and clouds of perfume were almost overpowering. The bride and bridegroom left the church to the strains of a wedding march and were driven away in a closed carriage amidst tremendous outbursts of cheering to Orleans house at Twickenham not far distant where a wedding breakfast was served to members of the royal families. At the church the Rt. Rev. John Butte, Roman Catholic bishop of Southwark, of St. George's cathedral, officiated at the marriage in full canonicals, assisted by Monsignor d'Hulst, the chaplain of the Orleans family. The bride was given away by the duke of Chartres, owing to the fact that the duke of Orleans is still unable to stand as a result of the breaking of his leg, caused by a fall from his horse while hunting in Spain recently. The wedding dress of the bride was a sumptuous creation of exquisite brocade shot with pale rose piping. The dress was brocaded all over with flowers of gold and silver and was draped with old Italian lace, the gift of relatives of the bridegroom. The bridal veil was a magnificent specimen of Chantilly lace about fourteen feet long, made at Bayeux and having a border enriched with a floral pattern, diminishing in elaboration as it reached the hair. Springing from the train were two branches forming in the middle a ring medallion enclosing the arms of the bridegroom, surmounted by the cross of Savoy and the arms of the royal family of France with the fleurs-de-lis above the two escutcheons, being the crown of the princess of Savoy.

Twickenham was as gaily decorated as Kingston and the route to Orleans house was crowded with people who cheered the bride and groom most heartily. In London four hotels in addition to the Hotel Bristol, occupied by the countess of Paris, have been secured for the use of the wedding guests and their suites and at the Bristol a number of dinner parties will be given in honor of the newly married couple.

This evening the duke of Orleans will give a dinner at the Hotel Metropole to all the princes and their suites, and it will be followed by a reception which is to include all persons present at the wedding ceremony. The wedding presents were so numerous that columns would be required to give a complete list of them. They included a magnificent set of pearls and diamonds and a splendid emerald and diamond necklace, from the bridegroom; a diamond bracelet set with pearls and diamonds from the duchess of Monpensier, and diamonds, pearls and rubies from the prince and princess of Wales and their family. The king and queen of Italy sent a number of rich and beautiful pieces of jewelry, and there were appropriate presents from Queen Victoria and from nearly everybody present at the marriage.

TAYLOR'S TOUR.

Detectives Report on the Defaulter's Wanderings.

Chicago, June 25.—The official report of the detective agency which was employed to capture ex-State Treasurer Taylor, of North Dakota, was made public today. The report differs from the account given by the fugitive of his wanderings, and while Taylor claimed to have thrown the detectives entirely off his track, they claim that they were but two weeks behind him and would soon have effected his capture had he not decided to give himself up.

The report says that Taylor was first located at Havana, where he was registered as C. B. Phelps, and where his brother-in-law, H. M. Benedict, was registered as H. B. Mason. From there the report says Taylor visited the following places in this order: Vera Cruz, City of Mexico, Manzanilla, Guatemala, Port Limon, Kingston and thence back to the United States.

ILLINOIS EXTRA SESSION.

Springfield, Ill., June 25.—The Illinois legislature assembled in special session today in response to the call of Governor Altgeld to consider arbitration of railroad rates, Chicago justice shop abuses, child labor and state finances, which the governor asserts were not adequately cared for at the recent regular session. The hot weather does not tend to improve the temper of the members. The message of the governor was submitted when the legislature assembled, but contrary to somewhat general expectation, it was not caustic or of a sensational character.

BLESSES THE SCHOOL.

Green Bay, Wis., June 25.—Bishop Messmere has received a letter from the propaganda at Rome containing the blessing of the pope on the Columbian summer school to be held at Madison, Wis., in July. The school district includes six archdioceses—Milwaukee, St. Paul, Dubuque, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Chicago—and thirty dioceses, representing sixteen states.

NOT DEAD

Frank Woodward, the Ex-Duluth Reporter, in a Spanish Dungeon.

Will be Taken to Gibara for Trial and There May be Shot.

All Correspondents Ordered to Leave the Country at Once.

Boston, June 25.—Frank Woodward, correspondent in Cuba for a New York newspaper, is in a Spanish dungeon for visiting an insurgent camp. He was under surveillance and tried to escape on the British steamer Ely which has arrived here from Banes, Cuba, but the Spanish guards recognized him and then thrust him in prison. He is to be taken to Gibara for trial.

Woodward arrived at Banes from the interior June 16, the day before the Ely sailed. His horse was nearly dead from fatigue and both man and horse were covered with mud. This was what aroused Spanish suspicions. Woodward was ill. He had a lot of notes detailing the strength and movement of the rebels which the Spaniards took.

Woodward asked Capt. Donovan to immediately notify the press of the United States so as to bring his arrest to the notice of the state department for he fears the papers the Spaniards took will be used against him. The Spaniards, it is understood, will charge him with being a rebel officer trying to escape to the United States.

Woodward told the officers of the Ely there are 11,000 rebels about Holguin. There was a rumor in Banes before the Ely left that two United States correspondents had been arrested near Santiago. The authorities have ordered all correspondents to leave the country immediately.

TROLLEY WAS OFF.

And a Bad Collision Was the Result.

Pittsburg, June 25.—The fast meat train on the West Pennsylvania railroad collided with an electric car on the Sharpsburg and Citizens' lines at Sharpsburg at 12:30 this morning and five people were injured. They are: Dan Nolan, motorman, fatally injured; Dr. G. M. Kelly, badly hurt but not fatally; Dan Cyphers, Mrs. Noble and Frank Dougherty, cut and bruised.

There were about thirty passengers in the car, and the accident occurred at a crossing. Just as the electric car neared the railroad tracks the trolley came off the wire, leaving the car in darkness. The engineer of the approaching train, which was running at a high rate of speed, did not see the car until he was quite near it. He applied the air brakes, but could not prevent the collision. Most of the passengers on the street car were able to get off before the accident occurred, but the motorman stuck to his post and will probably forfeit his life.

THE MERRY WAR.

Peculiar Contest in Kansas City Matrimonial Matters.

Kansas City, June 25.—A matrimonial fee war is threatened in Kansas City, and marriage ceremonies may be performed cheaper than they are now. The justices of the peace are dissatisfied over the manner in which Probate Judge Angle is handling the matrimonial end of his court. The justices claim that the probate judge is violating the ethics of the profession by soliciting trade in matrimonial lines.

They assert that Judge Angle solicits the prospective grooms to permit him to tie the knots, and almost always succeeds in getting the job. A justice stated that in order to bring the probate judge to time there was talk among the justices of reducing the price. They will first reduce the fee to $1, and if that does not have the desired effect, they will perform the ceremonies for a while for nothing.

SOCIETY GIRL SUICIDES.

Toulon, Ill., June 25.—Miss Pleasie Culbertson, a prominent society girl of this place, committed suicide today. Her body being found in a shallow cistern at her mother's house. Miss Culbertson had been ill for several days and is supposed to have drowned herself while temporarily insane. She must have bin down in order to get her head under water. Miss Culbertson was a beautiful young woman, highly educated, was one of the wealthiest women in Central Illinois, having recently been left a large fortune by her grandfather.

CHILIAN CAPITOL.

Minister Strobel Officially Notifies the Government.

Washington, June 25.—United States Minister Strobel, at Santiago, sent to the state department this account of the burning of the Chilian capitol: "I regret to report the destruction by fire of the building occupied by the house of congress. The fire broke out at 1:30 o'clock May 18. The edifice was regarded as the finest in Chili, and but very little of the furniture or archives were saved. The loss is estimated at about $1,000,000 in United States gold, without considering the archives, which can never be replaced.

"There are rumors that the fire was the work of incendiaries, but it seems to me more natural to regard it as the result of an accident. The government has called for plans for a new building. The extra session of congress, called to consider the financial question, is now being held in the state university."

BRIEFLY TOLD.

Columbia college crew defeated Cornell by five lengths over the four mile official Hudson river course at Poughkeepsie yesterday in 21:20, a full minute below the New London record. The Pennsylvania eight were not in it, and kept in the rear nearly all the way, their shell finally sinking, and the crew was rescued by a tug. There was an immense crowd of spectators.

William Mosely, aged 77 years, fifty-five of which were spent as locomotive engineer on the Northwestern road, died at Lake Geneva Wis.

The will of the late Secretary Gresham was admitted to probate in Chicago yesterday. It was dated Dec. 18, 1888, and covers a total of $51,000 of property, $40,000 of which is in realty and the balance in personal effects. His wife is the sole legatee, and is named as executrix.

Dr. William Crawford, the celebrated English naturalist, is dead, near London.

Dan Creedon knocked Billy Hennessy out in six rounds at Boston last night.

The investigation into the loss of the Pacific mail steamer Colima has been concluded at San Francisco, and the reports will be made in a few days at San Francisco.

Dr. Dennis Seaman is on trial in Detroit for committing a criminal operation on Emily Hall, from the effects of which she died. This is a part of the celebrated Rev. Jonathan Bell case. Mrs. Alice Lane, keeper of the lying-in hospital will be tried separately.

A severe hailstorm, near La Crosse, damaged crops in Wisconsin and Minnesota on Sunday night. In some places the hailstones fell to a depth of twelve inches.

Lieut. Jose Roderiguez, a Cuban patriot, and engineer of some note, is in New York studying up explosives. He hints at the use of dynamite by the Cubans in fighting the Spanish troops.

A BIG BOULDER OF SILVER.

Hackberry, A. T., June 25.—From Peach Springs comes the story of the finding of a nugget, or boulder rather, of pure silver, such as there has been no record of in the history of mining in the West. The boulder weighed about half a ton and its value is anywhere from $8000 to $10,000. It was found by William Tucker and John Doyle and they have kept the facts to themselves heretofore, because of the chance that there was more silver where this lump came from and they wanted the best location before letting the world into the secret.

FATAL MISSOURI CLOUD BURST.

Kirksville, Mo., June 25.—A rain and hail storm raged here last night and did much damage to crops and property in all parts of Adair county. On Sugar creek, in the Charitan bottoms, Mrs. Stewart and her infant daughter were drowned in the overflow. The drowned woman and her two children lived with her father and brother in a tent near Pickler's big tie camp. A cloud burst is thought to have occurred and the Charitan is out of its banks.

TO DEVELOP GOLD MINES.

San Francisco, June 25.—The Dos Amigos and Eureka mines, situated in the Morris district, Chihuahua, and reputed to be among the largest gold mines in Mexico, have been sold by S. E. Harvar and Capt. Alfred Williams to an English syndicate. The price is said to be about $250,000. A fifty stamp milling plant will be erected by the new owners and the property developed for all that it is worth.

CUT IN CALIFORNIA WINE.

San Francisco, June 25.—Information has reached the Winemakers' corporation that the San Francisco houses are offering wine at 12½ cents a gallon. As this is 2 cents below the market price, it has ceased making shipments to this point until the stock of the undersellers, which is said to be small, is gone.

What Will Germany do About an International Conference?

After Germany Decides the Other Powers Will Have to Consider.

English Change of Government Said to be Favorable.

Washington, June 25.—There is apparently considerable confusion as to the prospects of an international conference to consider the rehabilitation of silver to be called on the initiative of Germany. This is due to the conflicting reports that have been received and also apparently to the complications of the question as it presents itself in Germany. Those who have given attention to the progress of the agitation in Germany say that Chancellor von Hohenlohe announced in the beginning that Germany's action in the matter would depend upon two circumstances. The first of these was that the German state legislative bodies should instruct for the issuance of the call, and second that there should be a substantial agreement among the powers as to the terms of the call.

The latest report makes it appear that a majority of the federal government want the conference and desire that Germany should issue the call for it. It is understood now that accepting this action on the part of the different states in the light of an instruction, the chancellor will proceed to negotiate with the other European powers as to the terms of the call. The United States have made known their wishes in this respect, so far as an executive branch can act in the appointing of congressional delegates. This resolution provides that the United States should be represented only in the case the conference should be called to provide for a restoration of bimetallism.

When the question was before the Prussian diet an effort was made by Chancellor Hohenlohe to amend the resolution so as to leave the requirement that the call should be on these lines, but it failed. If the other federal German states have taken the same position as Prussia, the chancellor, it is held, will be virtually pledged to vote Germany for a call on a basis of a return to the bimetallic system.

If then remains to be determined whether the other powers will accept this basis and especially what England may do in the premises. The advocates of an international understanding feel that the changes of administration in England will be in the interest of the movement and they are upon the whole considerably encouraged as to the outlook for another conference.

COLORADO TUNNEL OPENED.

Denver, June 25.—The Alpine tunnel on the South Park road, said to be the highest railroad tunnel in the world, was reopened today. It has been snowed up the past five years. The tunnel is at an altitude of 11,660 feet, is 1776 feet long and was bored nine years ago at a cost of $260,000.

VOLUNTARY RAISE OF WAGES.

Cleveland, June 25.—A special from Lorain says: The Johnson Steel company posted notices of a 15 per cent increase in wages to the men in the converting mill, dry houses and machine shops. The men in the shape mill had their wages raised last week. The increase is entirely voluntary on the part of the company. There will be an advance in all departments by July. The mill is rushed with orders and every branch is running to its full capacity.

DEEPER WATERWAYS.

Executive Board Now in Session in Chicago.

Chicago, June 25.—The executive board on the International Deep Waterway association met today at the sanitary district offices and will continue in session for two or three days. This board consists of seventeen members distributed from Boston to Winnipeg on both sides of the chain of lakes. The organization is the outgrowth of the Toronto convention held last September, which declared in favor of navigation of a depth of not less than twenty-six feet into the great lakes.

In compliance with the action of this convention congress authorized a commission to examine into the matter with power to co-operate with a similar commission to be appointed by the Dominion of Canada. The Dominion government has recently authorized the Canadian commission. These two bodies are charged with the duty of examining all feasible routes, each in its own domain and jointly a route of an international character, as the St. Lawrence route, the freedom of which is granted under the treaty of Washington.

The states of Minnesota and Wisconsin have each passed a bill providing for co-operation and promotion of the deep waterway idea. The waterway bill recently passed by the general assembly of Illinois specifically authorizes the waterway commissioner to promote the same object. The province of Ontario has also taken action on its own account. It will be seen that considerable work has already been done by the deep waterway association. The object of the present meeting is to arrange for the holding of a meeting in September next, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago being suggested as places of meeting.

It is proposed to make the convention a deliberative body, delegates from the various trade and municipal organizations to be selected on account of their special knowledge. Topics, covering all phases of the question, from the transportation, commercial and engineering standpoint, will be arranged and specialists assigned for their discussion, so that literature of the convention will be exhaustive of the subject matter.

CAPTAIN HOWGATE.

No Date Fixed for Imposing of Sentence.

Washington, June 25.—The case of Capt. Henry W. Howgate, recently convicted in the criminal court of forgery and falsification of government accounts, will probably be taken up in the district court of appeals during the first week in October. His counsel are preparing a bill of exceptions to carry the case to the higher court and expect to file it in a few days. The feature of the bill, and the point on which the strongest fight will be made, is the "fugitive from justice" question.

It will be contended that Howgate was fully entitled to the benefits of the statutes of limitations and that the position of the court as set out in the charge to the jury and in overruling many points made by the defense was wrong. The sentence may be pronounced by Judge McComas during the present week, although no date has been fixed as yet.

The offense of which Capt. Howgate was convicted made him liable to a sentence of from one to twenty years' imprisonment on each of the two indictments. The probability is that he will remain in jail pending the action of the appelate court as it is understood bail will be refused if offered.

FREE FOR ALL.

No Sectarianism in St. Louis House of Refuge.

St. Louis, June 25.—A spirited religious struggle, that has been going on for some time, has been terminated by the board of managers of the House of Refuge, who decided to instruct Superintendent Bristol to allow clergy of all denominations to hold services in the institution according to the forms of their several creeds. The superintendent some weeks ago refused to permit the Catholic clergy to enter the institution for the purpose of holding services, as they have been doing for fifteen years.

The Marquette club, the leading Catholic organization of the city, took up the cause of the excluded ecclesiastics, the A. P. A. organizations defended Bristol. Delegations from these bodies and from the women's A. P. A. organization, which represents 6000 members, presented resolutions to the board and the result was as indicated. A good deal of feeling has been aroused and the A. P. A. take their defeat with much bitterness.

CURES THE TOBACCO HABIT IN 4 TO 10 DAYS OR MONEY REFUNDED.

Use All the Tobacco You Want Till Your "Craving" is Gone.

NARCOTI-CURE is the only remedy in the world that acts directly on the nerves and drives the nicotine from the system in from four to ten days, It leaves the patient in better health than before taking, and is warranted free from any injurious ingredients.

NARCOTI-CURE is popular because it allows the patient to use all the tobacco he wants while under treatment, or until the "craving" and "hankering" are gone. It is then no sacrifice to throw away tobacco forever.

NARCOTI-CURE is sold at the uniform price of $5.00 a bottle, and one bottle cures.

Money refunded if a cure is not effected when taken according to the directions.

Gentlemen—Replying to yours of the 1st, would say that I have used tobacco for 46 years, and of late have consumed a 10-cent plug a day, besides smoking considerably. I commenced to use tobacco when I was only 11 years old, and have never been able to give up the habit until I took NARCOTI-CURE, although I have tried other so-called remedies without effect. After using your remedy four days all "hankering" for chewing disappeared, and in four days more smoking became unpleasant. I have no further desire for the weed, and experienced no bad effects whatever. I am gaining in flesh and feel better than I have for a long time. To all who wish to be free from the tobacco habit I would say use NARCOTI-CURE.

Yours truly, W. N. WAITE

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—

Default has been made in the conditions of a mortgage containing power of sale, dated June 10th, 1892, recorded in the office of the register of deed of St. Louis County, Minnesota, June 15th, 1892, at 8 o'clock a. m., in Book 103 of mortgages, on page 47, whereby Jacob B. Raab and Rebecca Raab, his wife, mortgagors, mortgaged to Thomas E. Ferrier, mortgagee, that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: Lot number four (4) of block number sixty-eight (68), Oneota, according to the recorded plat thereof, by which default the power of sale has become operative;

And no action or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the debt secured thereby or any part thereof; and there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of eight hundred and sixty-seven ($867.00) dollars. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of such power of sale the said mortgage will be foreclosed and said premises sold at public auction, by the said sheriff of said county or his deputy, on Thursday, the 25th day of July, A. D. 1895, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the front door of the court house in the city of Duluth, in said county, to pay said sum, and fifty ($50.00) dollars attorney's fees, and the costs and disbursements allowed by law.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—

Whereas, default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, which was duly executed and delivered by Daniel G. Cash and Alice B. Cash, his wife, Charles T. Cash and Grace A. Cash, his wife, James Cash and Ada L. Cash, his wife, and Fannie Cash, a widow, mortgagors, to the Duluth Loan, Deposit and Trust Company, a corporation, mortgagee, bearing date the 8th day of August, A. D. 1892, and which was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds, in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the 8th day of August, 1892, at three (3) o'clock p. m. in Book seventy-six (76) of mortgages, on page one hundred sixty-eight (168), and which contained a power of sale in due form in case of such default, which mortgage and the note secured thereby were thereafter duly assigned for a valuable consideration by the said Duluth Loan, Deposit and Trust Company to Robert J. Hubbard, by an instrument of assignment dated the 24th day of September, A. D. 1892, and which was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds, for said St. Louis County, on the 27th day of September, A. D. 1892, at eight (8) o'clock a. m. in Book fifty-five (55) of mortgages, on page two hundred six (206), which said mortgage and the principal note thereby secured contain provisions that if any default be made in the payment of any installment of interest thereon, or of any part thereof on the date whereon the same is made payable, then and in any such case, the said mortgagee or its assigns, may elect without notice, that the whole principal sum thereby secured and all accrued interest thereon, shall immediately become due and payable, and may enforce payment thereof by foreclosure or other legal measures, and,

Whereas, default has been made in the payment of part of the semi-annual installment of interest upon said note and mortgage due January 1st, 1894, amounting to one hundred eighteen (118.00) dollars, as also in the payment of the semi-annual installments of interest due upon said note and mortgage, respectively the 1st day of July, 1894, and the 1st day of January, 1895, amounting to three hundred thirty-six (336.00) dollars, the payment of which was secured by said mortgage.

By reason of such defaults the said assignee of mortgagee has elected to exercise said option and has heretofore duly declared, and does hereby declare the whole principal sum secured by said note and mortgage to be now due and payable, and,

Whereas, there is therefore claimed to be due, and there is actually due, upon said mortgage debt at the date of this notice, the sum of four thousand eight hundred ten and 97-100 ($810.97) dollars, principal and interest, and seventy-five (75.00) dollars, attorneys' fees as stipulated for in said mortgage, in case of foreclosure thereof, and,

Whereas, said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form, which has become operative by reason of the default above mentioned, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof,

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by the sale of the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: All those tracts or parcels of land lying and being in the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, described as follows, towit: Beginning at a point on the southwesterly (sw) line of Eighth (8th) avenue west, Duluth Proper, Third (3rd) Division, according to the recorded plat thereof, at a distance of twenty (20) feet northwesterly (nw) from the northwesterly (nw) line of Myer's Park, according to the recorded plat thereof; thence northwesterly (nw) along said southwesterly (sw) line of Eighth (8th) avenue west one hundred five (100) feet to a point; thence at right angles to the last mentioned line one hundred sixty (160) feet to a point; thence southeasterly (se) on a line at right angles to the last mentioned line one hundred five (105) feet to a point; thence northeasterly (ne) on a line at right angles to the last mentioned line one hundred sixty (160) feet to the place of beginning.

Beginning at a point on the southwesterly line of Eighth (8th) avenue west, Duluth Proper, Third (3rd) Division, according to the recorded plat thereof, at a distance of one hundred sixty (160) feet northwesterly (nw) from the northwesterly line of Myer's Park, according to the recorded plat thereof; thence northwesterly (nw) along the southwesterly (sw) line of Eighth (8th) avenue west eighty-seven (87) feet to a point; thence southwesterly (sw) on a line at right angles to the last mentioned line one hundred sixty (160) feet to a point; thence southeasterly (se) on a line at right angles to the last mentioned line eighty-seven (87) feet to a point; thence northeasterly (ne) on a line at right angles to the last mentioned line one hundred sixty (160) feet to the place of beginning, which said premises, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes (if any) on said premises, and seventy-five (75.00) dollars, attorneys' fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on Friday, the 5th day of July, A. D. 1895, at ten (10) o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

New Duluth Citizens Want at Least One for Night Duty.

They Claim That Robbers Are Too Numerous for Comfort.

Several West Duluthians Arrived on the North West--An Accident.

"Old Duluth's youngest is all right," remarked a prominent citizen of New Duluth yesterday, "but there is one thing we would like to have pa do for us and that is give us a night watchman. We have our officer during the day but at night are left to the tender mercies of any band of marauders who choose to fasten themselves upon us. Do you know that three robberies have taken place here within a few weeks? Three different business houses have been entered at night, the cash drawers rifled and small amounts of goods stolen. In fact the people are becoming frightened over the frequency of these petty thefts and are almost afraid to go to bed at night. Our isolation from the main portion of the city and our wooded surroundings are particularly dangerous conditions and we think entitle us to the protection of one night patrolman at least.

WEST DULUTHIANS RETURN.

The North West brought in several West Duluth people last evening as well as a number of visitors to this portion of the city. Sumner Prescott, who has been attending Oberlin college arrived home to spend his summer vacation. Miss Sharp returned from an extended Eastern trip accompanied by Miss Lathrop, who will be her guest during the summer. Miss Annie Holliday, who has been attending school at Clinton, N. Y., arrived to make a short visit with her uncle, J. O. Hancock, while on her way home at Red Wing, Minn. She was accompanied by Miss Wood, of Clinton.

cooling drinks are necessary. They are the universal antidote for excessive warmth. Nothing is so popular with the fair sex in Duluth as our soda served in all the various flavors and with cream for only a nickel a glass. To have their attentions well received, young men should treat their sweethearts coolly, by inviting them to enjoy our soda, which is really the coolest and most delightful summer drink in Duluth, wholesome, healthful and invigorating. Soda heads the list of summer beverages, and the foaming stream from our fountain heads the list of all sodas.

THE IROQUOIS RELEASED.

Cleveland, June 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer Iroquois, with ore for Ashtabula, which went ashore in the fog at Sturgeon Point early yesterday morning, was released by the tugs Sunol and William D, after jettisoning about fifty tons of her cargo. She was taken into Ashtabula, where it was found that she was apparently uninjured.

MARINE NOTES.

A Cleveland dispatch says that Lake Erie ports are jammed to the piers with ore vessels. This is due to so many boats having been sent to Escanaba for a short trip last week while an effort was being made to advance the rate from the head of Lake Superior. Still it does not seem possible that the Lake Superior rate can be abadvanced to 90 cents for several days yet.

Clearances, June 24: 107, 2300 tons ore, Buffalo; Pennington, 1700 tons ore, Buffalo; Ogarita, 850,000 feet lumber, Tonawanda; 118, 2350 tons ore, Buffalo; Samuel Mather, 2200 tons ore, Buffalo; Toledo, 500,000 feet lumber, Buffalo; Vanderbilt, 11,000 barrels flour, Buffalo; Roman, 2100 tons ore, Buffalo; Birckhead, 300,000 feet lumber, Buffalo; Samuel Mitchell, 2200 tons ore, Buffalo; Canisteo, 700,000 feet lumber, Chicago; Italia, 2000 tons ore, South Chicago; Lockwood, 1950 tons ore, Buffalo.

THRESHING MACHINE FATALITY.

St. Paul, June 25.—A Hastings, Minn., Berres, of Lakeville, was instantly Beres, of Lakeville, was instantly killed at 8 o'clock three miles east of here, by the explosion of a threshing machine. He was 30 years old, single and was highly spoken of.

Philadelphia Record: A West Philadelphian has a pet baboon which he has taught to black his shoes. This is a real case of monkey shines.

Detroit Free Press: Mrs. One—How is your husband today, Mrs. Tother? Mrs. Tother—Better, thank you. He is always better when he is sick than at any other time.

Chicago Tribune: "You used to do a little trading on 'change, didn't you, Higgs?" "Yes." "Were you a bull or bear?" "Neither, Blobbs. I was a lamb."

Washington Star: A folding bed that closes up, should its incumbent snore—it's strange that our inventors haven't thought of it before.

ADVANCED

The Bulls Were on Top in the Wheat Market Today.

Too Much Rain in the Northwest and Bad Crop Reports.

There Were Also Good Buying Orders, Causeding the Bulge.

After a weak start, wheat became strong. The opening weakness resulted from the disappointing cables. There was too much rain in the Northwest, however, and with bad crop reports and good buying, prices advanced quickly. July opened ⅛c off at 72¾c, declined to 72c, but advanced rapidly to 73¾c. It declined ⅛c during the noon hour, but recovered and sold up to 74c. September started ⅛c down at 70⅝c, and advanced to 71⅜c, lost ⅛c, reacted to 72c and then sold down to 71⅝c. The close was 1½c higher than yesterday for cash and July and 1⅝c higher for September. Following were the closing prices:

No. 1 hard cash 74c, June 74½c, July, 74½c. No. 1 northern cash 73½c, June 74c, July, 74c, September 72¼c. No. 2 northern cash 69⅝c. No. 3, 65¾c. Rejected, 69c. No arrive—No. 1 hard 73½c, No. 1 northern 72½c. Rye 66c. No. 2 oats 29½c. No. 3 oats, 28c. Barley, 41c.

Car inspection—Wheat 163, oats 8. Receipts—Wheat 50,515 bus. Shipments—Wheat 83,022 bus.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

The crowd jumped on to the wheat market at the opening and hammered it down nearly 1 cent from Monday's close. Their offerings were absorbed and an active demand springing up in the face of weak cables and nothing reported taken for export, the market rallied more than 2c from the bottom and closed near the top with indications of a stronger market tomorrow. It is evident that the July liquidation is about over and natural influences are at work. Everything indicates little or no early movement from the new crop, what few cars that come in show poor quality and are undesirable for milling. The old wheat is likely to command a premium over the new; as soon as this is discovered the elevator people will probably tighten their grasp on present holdings as harvesting progresses. It is apparent that the winter wheat is going to be nearer a failure than in any other year for two decades and considerably higher prices will doubtless be paid ere long.

Corn and oats closed a little better than yesterday but show no snap. The weather is fine for the new crops and it will be hard to bull these cereals under the circumstances. Provisions have about recovered their late decline; it is believed they were raided by Armour to test the market.

The stock market continues strong and it looks as if stocks would see materially higher prices. The country is investing largely in the granger stocks.

Puts, July wheat, 70⅝c.
Calls, July wheat, 73½c.
Curb, July wheat, 71⅝c.

MRS. LAWKING.

Mrs. J. H. Lawking, of South Glen's Falls, Saratoga County, N. Y., writes: "After my third child was born, I barely gained strength enough in two year's time, so as to be able to crawl about to accomplish the little house work that I had to do, and that only by lying down to rest many times each day; had sick headache very often, many pains and aches all the time. After I had taken one bottle of your 'Favorite Prescription,' I could see a great change in my strength and less sick headaches. Continued taking the medicine until I had taken seven bottles of the 'Favorite' and one of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' I am now able to do housework for myself and husband and two children aged nine and five. I also take dressmaking, and enjoy walking a mile at a time, when I can have the time to do so. And I am sure it is all due to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as I know I was failing fast before I commenced to take it." Sold by medicine dealers everywhere.

GOOD FOR CROPS.

Past Week Beneficial in Two Western States.

Chicago, June 25.—The Illinois weekly weather crop bulletin issued today says: The past week has been an excellent week for growth of vegetation and harvest. Much good resulted from the showers but the lack of heavy general rains is severely felt in all but a few favored Southern counties. The wheat harvest continues in Central and Southern counties and the yield everywhere is light and the quality usually good. Wheat is also being cut with fair yield, but heads are poorly filled. Some threshing of wheat will be done in South Central counties during the week and much stacking. Oats are ripening fast in Southern counties and cutting will probably be done during the coming week. Bugs are adding damage to the short straw in oats, many fields are being pastured. Corn is generally doing well, fields are exceptionally clean and where rain fell plants are vigorous. Potatoes and gardens are considerably revived by the rain, pastures also in Southern counties. Hay is very short.

Des Moines, Iowa, June 25.—The weekly crop bulletin today says: This has been one of the best weeks of a most propituous season with weather conditions what could be most desired. The only complaints have been of an excess of moisture causing the rank growth of grain in the Northwest and a deficiency of rainfall in some of the Eastern counties. All crops have made good progress. Corn has attained more than an average height for the season. In some fields it is reported so large as to need cultivation within thirty days after planting. Oats are in full head and the harvest of the earliest fields will begin within two weeks. The present condition of this crop justifies the promise of the largest crop of oats Iowa has ever harvested. Other spring grain crops are also in good condition. The harvest of fall wheat and rye is in progress in the southern districts and the yield of wheat promises to be better than was anticipated.

St. Louis, Mo., June 25.—The Missouri weather crop bulletin says: Although considerable damage was done to crops by wind, fruit trees are budding and harvest and corn plowing were delayed by rains in some of the western counties, the week on the whole has been very profitable to farmers. The mean temperature was near normal in all sections. In a few of the east central counties more rain is needed. Wheat and rye harvest is well advanced, except in some of the extreme northern counties and correspondents report that wheat is turning better than expected. Corn has become foul in some districts, but generally the crop is in fine condition and growing rapidly. Oats, meadows and pastures are greatly improved, since the late rains and flax is doing well.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—Default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed and delivered by Melvin R. Baldwin and Nettie Baldwin, mortgagors, to Eliza F. Phelps, mortgagee, dated the first day of December, 1891, with a power of sale therein contained, recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 11th day of December, 1891, at eight o'clock a. m., in Book 61 of mortgages on page 209.

Said default consists in the non-payment of the semi-annual installments of interest on the debt secured by said mortgage, which by the terms and conditions thereof, became due and payable on the 1st day of December, 1894, and the 1st day of June, 1895, each of which is for the sum of two hundred eighty dollars ($280.00), and in the failure of said mortgagor to pay the taxes and assessments on said mortgaged property for the year 1892 and subsequent years. The mortgagee on the 6th day of May, 1895, paid taxes and assessments upon said property, together with interest, costs and penalties thereon, amounting in the aggregate to five hundred ninety-nine and 3-100 dollars ($599.03), and by the terms of said mortgage the sums so paid for taxes and assessments became a part of the debt secured thereby and became due and payable immediately.

Said mortgagee on account of the defaults above mentioned, has elected, and hereby does elect to declare the whole sum secured by said mortgage due and payable, and there is therefore claimed to be due, and is due at the date of this notice, including principal and interest secured by said mortgage, and taxes and assessments paid by the mortgagee as aforesaid, the sum of nine thousand one hundred seventy-eight and 52-100 dollars ($9178.52). No action or proceeding has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, the same being situated in St. Louis County, Minnesota, and described as follows, to-wit: All that part of lots thirteen and fifteen (13 and 15), West First street, Duluth Proper, First Division, according to the plat thereof on file or of record in the office of the register of deeds in and for said county of St. Louis, described as follows: Commencing at the northwesterly corner of lot 15, on the alley, running thence in a southerly direction along the line of First avenue west twenty feet to the place of beginning, running then in an easterly direction at right angles to the avenue one hundred (100) feet to the dividing line between lots eleven and thirteen (11 and 13), running then in a southerly direction along said line forty feet (40), running then in a westerly direction at right angles to the last mentioned line one hundred (100) feet to the line of the avenue, running then in a northerly direction along said line of said avenue forty (40) feet to the place of beginning, being a rectangular piece of ground forty by one hundred feet in size (40x100), with the hereditaments and appurtenances, which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County at the front door of the court house in the city of Duluth, in said county, on the 24th day of July, 1895, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of nine thousand one hundred seventy-eight and 52-100 dollars ($9178.52), and interest, and one hundred dollars ($100.00) attorneys' fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the date of sale as provided by law.

Dated June 4th, 1895.

THE MORA CLAIM.

The report that the state department has made a peremptory demand for payment by Spain of the amount admitted to be due on the old Mora claim is probably true. The Madrid papers have had several excited articles on the subject, which would hardly have appeared if they had not learned of such a demand being received by the Spanish government. The principal cause of their excitement is the prospect of drastic action on the part of the United States if payment should be further delayed, it being reported that Secretary Olney's ultimatum contained a threat that if the claim were not settled at once this country would seize the customs house at Havana and collect the amount in the manner that Great Britain proposed to do at Corinto in the case of Nicaragua.

The Mora claim is an old story. It grows out of the wrongful confiscation of the property of an American citizen and resident of New York, Antonio Maximo Mora, during an insurrection in Cuba in 1869. His valuable sugar-producing estate, worth about $2,500,000, was seized by the Spanish authorities on the false plea that he had given aid and comfort to the Cuban revolutionists. He himself was sentenced to death, but fled from the country and returned to the United States, of which he was a naturalized citizen. As soon as he was able he laid his case before President Grant, and the then secretary of state, Hamilton Fish, and on Nov. 23, 1870, the latter made a formal protest against the acts of the Spanish authorities, and accompanied the protest with a demand for reparation. As a result of much correspondence and repeated demands for prompt settlement, Spain, in the latter part of 1873, ordered the Cuban authorities to restore the property to Mora. Owing to the sudden downfall of the Spanish republic and other complications the order was not heeded, and two more years were wasted in practically fruitless correspondence. After Mr. Fish's retirement the case was successively handled by William M. Evarts, James G. Blaine, Frederick T. Frelinghuysen and Thomas F. Bayard, but nothing definite was accomplished until 1886—sixteen years after Secretary Fish made his demand—when Secretary Bayard, through Minister Curry, secured a proposition from Spain to pay Mora $1,500,000 in full for all damages sustained, the sentence against him having previously been annulled by the king of Spain. The cortes was to include the sum named in the next royal budget. The United States accepted the offer, but to this day the cortes has never made the appropriation, and the affair has remained precisely as it was in 1886.

Meanwhile there has been more correspondence, renewed promises of payment have been made, only to be broken, the dignity of the United States has suffered, and Mora, from whose estate the thieving Spanish government has drawn more than $2,500,000 in revenue, has lived a life of care, anxiety and almost of destitution in the city of New York. Nothing appears to have been done by Secretaries Blaine, Foster or Gresham to collect the claim, and Secretary Olney has made the first ringing and peremptory demand upon Spain to redeem its promise of 1886 that has ever been made. He has added something like $500,000 to the $1,500,000 which Spain promised to pay, this additional sum representing the interest which has accumulated since 1886, and is said to have insisted upon a prompt settlement without further parleying. The cortes is now in session and it must make the necessary appropriation or take the consequences. This is not a petty, trumped-up claim, but one that has been acknowledged by Spain and payment of which was pledged many years ago. Let us hope that Secretary Olney will not swerve from his expressed intention to secure payment of this just debt, even if it be necessary to send our navy to Cuba and take charge of the collection of customs at Havana.

PROGRESS OF BIMETALLISM.

The accession of the Conservatives to power in England is an event of great importance in its relation to the cause of bimetallism. Lord Salisbury, Mr. Balfour and many other Conservative leaders are strong advocates of bimetallism and they will undoubtedly lend encouragement to the movement which has in view the holding of an international conference to agree upon some plan for the remonetization of silver. There is no doubt that in the coming elections bimetallism will be an issue in many constituencies and that the Bimetallic league will exert itself to increase its strength in parliament.

The silver sentiment in Great Britain is steadily increasing in strength, and it is a fact which gold monometalists in the United States take pains to conceal that among the members of the Bimetallic league in that country are many of the most prominent English financiers and business men. A very strong memorial to the British government has just been signed by many politicians, bankers, merchants and representatives of the working classes. Among the signers is Mr. Gibbs, a former governor and at present a director of the Bank of England. The memorial attacks the contention of the monometallists that the prosperity of England is due to the gold standard, and is written in a forcible and convincing style.

"These results," say the memorialists, "were achieved before the adoption of the gold standard in this country. And it must also be remembered that during the chief part of the that period, for nearly sixty years, after 1816 all the business of this country and of the world was conducted under the dominating influence of the bimetallic system. So long as that system was maintained by the action of foreign countries there was little, if any, fluctuation or divergence in the relative values of gold and silver; the parity between the two metals for all practical purposes was comparatively stable, industries flourished, general prosperity increased and the commerce of this country was conducted with equal facility, whether with the gold or silver-using countries, in all parts of the world.

"We acknowledge that so long as that position was maintained the gold standard sufficiently supplied our needs. But the experience of recent years has entirely convinced us that these important results were due, not to the operation of our single standard, but to the universal effect of the bimetallic policy, so long as it prevailed. We are confirmed in this opinion by the fact that with the abandonment of bimetallism the immense advantages we have referred to have certainly disappeared. Since that event and silver was dethroned the attempt has been made for the first time in history to conduct the business of the western world upon a gold basis alone. This novel and great experiment has been followed by its natural results—a wide and increasing divergence and constant fluctuations in the value of the precious metals, which have hindered and embarrassed trade, and a progressive fall in prices, which has been fatally injurious to industrial undertakings."

The Herald has not space to quote further from this notable document, which concludes with a reference to the "desire on the part of France, and of Germany and of the United States to join with the United Kingdom in a serious endeavor" to re-establish bimetallism. Almost simultaneously with the report of this memorial comes a Berlin dispatch stating that it is expected that an international monetary conference will be called by Germany before Oct. 15. The bundesrath, after receiving replies from the various federal governments, stands 16 to 42 in favor of such a conference. The opposing sixteen members come from the three South German states and the towns of Hamburg, Bremen and Lubeck, while Prussia, Saxony and the middle states favor the calling af a monetary conference. The only point still unsettled is as to what extent Germany, in calling the conference, is to engage herself—whether she is to state the purpose as being the ultimate restoration of bimetallism, or only to fix upon a new ratio between gold and silver. It will thus be seen that bimetallism is making even greater progress in Europe than in this country—a fact that should spur the American bimetallists to renewed efforts.

DEMOCRATIC POLITICS.

The report again comes from Washington, and in a very positive form, that President Cleveland is a candidate for a third term and expects to be nominated. He is not certain, it is stated, that the Democratic party will select him as its standard bearer, but, failing to get the regular nomination, he will become a candidate of the so-called "sound money" men in this party. This means that he will have the support of Wall street and the money power in all the Eastern states, and that he will have strength in the West and in some portions of the South is also believed by Mr. Cleveland to be a fact. It is also said that President Cleveland has decided, in order to further his own candidacy and to oppose the free silver sentiment in his party, that he will take the stump in October against the free coinage of silver.

The story that President Cleveland and Mr. Whitney will soon meet at Gray Gables, and confer as to the advisability of Mr. Whitney being made the administration candidate for the nomination next year, is positively denied. There is no understanding and will be none between these two Democratic leaders. Mr. Whitney has announced that he is a bimetallist, by which he means that he favors the coinage of both gold and silver at a fair ratio. This statement of Mr. Whitney's views effectually bars him from obtaining support from President Cleveland or his friends, because they are gold monometallists and are unalterably opposed to bimetallism. They represent the Wall street view on this great issue. If Mr. Whitney should become an aspirant for the nomination, however, it would result in a pretty three-cornered fight in New York state. David B. Hill will be a candidate, beyond all doubt, and he will make a determined fight to secure the backing of the New York delegation. With Whitney and Cleveland also in the field, it is not unlikely that Mr. Hill would capture the delegation. There will be some clever moves upon the political checkerboard within the next twelve months, and the astute New York senator will hardly be caught napping in such a game.

A breach of promise suit in Kentucky is to be tried by a jury composed exclusively by women, as under the new constitution of that state women are eligible for jury service. Another unique feature of the case is that the plaintiff is a man, and he will submit to the consideration of the court and jury a number of very loving letters written by the fair defendant.

The Pennsylvania legislature passed a law abolishing the "three days of grace" on notes. The law will take effect Jan. 1, 1896. It also makes notes falling due on legal holidays payable the next secular day thereafter, "provided they shall not be protested on a Saturday, but on the next business day."

The serious illness of Professor Thomas H. Huxley, the eminent naturalist, causes the keenest regret in the scientific world. His name stands at the head of English science with those of Spencer, Tyndall and Darwin, and since 1851 his pen has contributed every year much of value to the literature of science.

The St. Louis Star-Sayings claims the old idea that it was the duty of a baseball club to win as often as it could is exploded. It does not make any difference nowadays how many defeats are scored, so long as the manager is ready to explain how the thing occurred.

Frank Woodward is now in a Spanish dungeon. The result will undoubtedly be an expose of the horrible treatment accorded to those confined in Spanish prisons. Frank is an old hand in the business of exposing abuses of this kind and he will not let such a golden opportunity slip.

The bursting of a steam valve and the fatal injury of two men and severe scalding of others on the whaleback steamer Christopher Columbus while racing with the steamer Virginia from Milwaukee to Chicago calls for a strict investigation. Racing on the great lakes is a dangerous amusement.

The decision of Judge Brown that Editor Dana, of the New York Sun, cannot be taken to Washington to be tried for criminal libel is of far-reaching importance. It establishes once more that a newspaper man accused of libel must be tried in the city where the paper is published.

A St. Louis citizen has received the most noble order of the Double Dragon from the emperor of China for his service in bringing about the peace with Japan, and Chicago will at once take steps to capture an order of the Triple Dragon, no matter what the cost.

The tide of trade is steadily rising. There are good prospects, mills and factories are reopening and those that were running are working extra time, while the wages of operatives are advancing. This is the time to invest in order to secure big returns.

It is announced that the National Union of Machinists has abolished the color line and been received into the American Federation of Labor. John Brown's "soul goes marching on."

Mayor Schieren, of Brooklyn, has appointed five women as members of the board of education in that city. And they will no doubt prove very efficient members of the board.

A change in the Northern Pacific reorganization plan is reported, but there is no change in that portion of the plan which contemplates that Mr. Hill shall have control.

The demand for loans which is reported by the New York banks is an excellent indication of returning prosperity.

Lord Salisbury, who again becomes the British premier, is noted for his rudeness and brusquerie.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

Shelton, Neb., June 25.—During a heavy thunder storm yesterday Frank Kilkenny was killed by lightning and his two sisters dangerously injured. When the storm commenced they got into a wagon to go home when the bolt descended killing the boy and both horses and so severely shocking the girls that they were rendered unconscious for some time. Severe hail prevailed, doing much damage to windows.

THE ROUNDER.

A scene that was somewhat amusing to the witnesses occurred on a street car the other day. A woman accompanied by a small boy of the age when the tongue runs so far ahead of judgment that the term enfant terrible has been supplied to fit the article, got on at the West End, and from the time of entering the car the young one kept up a running fire of conversation.

Soon the child turned its attention to its mother's attire, and began to scan her cloak.

"Ma," said the boy, "that aint your cloak."

Upon this discovery and announcement mama blushed and said:

"Hush."

The boy looked up in his mother's eyes innocently and remarked:

"Ma, you've got on the lady's cloak."

The mother colored again, and tried to close the little cherub's mouth. In this she succeeded by turning his attention to somethinge lse, but her embarrassment was so palpable that the occupants all smiled, seeing which she left the car at the first opportunity.

Another talkative youngster entered a doctor's office some time ago, during the small pox scare, accompanied by his mother. The boy came to be vaccinated. His mother took off his coat and started to roll up his left sleeve.

"Other arm, please," said the doctor.

The mother began to tackle the other sleeve. She, also, blushed when the boy said:

"Why, mama, that aint the arm you washed."

A well known manager of a Duluth jobbing house, accompanied by several friends, took a fishing trip to Deerwood sometime ago. They had a nice time and caught plenty of fish, of course, but that is another story. In order to take the train from Deerwood one has to rise at a ridiculously early hour, somewhere about the small hours when one is just getting down to his best sleep. To hustle out of bed and out into the chilly night air at 3 o'clock in the morning is not the most pleasant sensation in the world, and the trip home is likely to be a sleepy one.

So it was in this case. The manager of the wholesale house, who is the hero of this veracious tale, had hardly got into his seat before he was fast asleep, and so were his companions, one of whom sat in the seat with the manager and the other slumbered in the rear of the car. When they were safely snoring a railroad man who is something of a practical joker, came through the car and "lifted" the manager's elegant gold watch from his vest pocket without disturbing his slumbers.

The train thundered swiftly along. Kimberly, McGregor, Tamarack, Wright, Cromwell, Corona were passed in quick succession and still the party slept. As the train swept into Thomson the manager awoke with a start from a dream in which an immense black bass was pulling him over the side of the boat into the lake. Relieved to find that it was only a dream, he yawned, meanwhile looking about the car placidly.

Then he looked out of the window at the landscape. As the train moved out of Thomson he settled comfortably back into his seat and mechanically reached for his watch pocket. His fingers encountered emptiness. He rose upright in his seat and a startled look crept into his expansive countenance. He looked into his other pocket with the same result. Then he gasped and looked around at the passengers. His eyes fell upon the companion who slumbered at his side with a beatific smile on his face.

His expression was then altered by a reassured smile and he poked the sleeping passenger in the ribs.

"W'at's mat'r," said he, sleepily.

"That's a pretty good joke, bnt I'd like to have my watch."

All knowledge of his watch was indignantly denied, and the companion went to sleep again. Another arousing and more conversation cleared him of complicity in the joke.

Then the manager arose and approached his last hope, the other fisherman in the rear of the car. The reassured smile had by this time become a sickly grin, and it was in a spiritless manner that he awoke his friend.

The result was the same, and with a sigh the manager went back to his seat, giving the watch, which was a valuable one, up for lost. When Duluth was reached he was going disconsolately away when the watch was handed to him. It seemed to be the general sentiment that he should "buy" and buy he did.

PETROLEUM PRODUCTION.

Washington, June 25.—Some notable features of the production of petroleum in the United States during the year 1894 are pointed out in the report of Special Agent Joseph D. Weeks, of the United States geological survey. The principal feature was the continued decline in production in the older fields and the increase in the newer fields, and the increase of consumption, resulting in a heavy decline in stocks held at the wells, and the increase in price as compared with 1893. The total value of the year's production was $35,522,095, or 72 cents a barrel, an increase in aggregate valuation of almost $7,000,000 over 1893.

Pursuant to the provisions of the statutes of the state of Minnesota, relating to the extension of the term of existence of corporations, and pursuant to authority conferred by resolutions of the board of trustees of the Duluth Savings Bank, and recorded in the minutes of its meetings, as well as by resolution adopted at a stockholders' meeting of said corporation, the undersigned, John C. Hunter, president of the said board of trustees and of said corporation, and Angus R. Macfarlane, cashier and secretary of the same, do hereby certify under the seal of said corporation, as follows:

That at a regular meeting of the board of trustees of the said Duluth Savings Bank, duly held on the 5th day of June A. D. 1895, at which all of the trustees and members of said corporation were present the following resolution was unanimously adopted and was entered in the records of the proceedings of said corporation, viz:

"Resolved, That the term of the existence of this corporation be and is hereby renewed and extended for the period of twenty years from May 15th, 1892, and Article Second of the articles of incorporation be and is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"The time of the commencement of the said corporation shall be May 15th, 1872, and it shall continue for the period of twenty years after May 15th, A. D. 1892."

And we do further certify that at a regular annual stockholders' meeting of said corporation, convened and held on the 13th day of May, A. D. 1892, a resolution in the same terms as that above stated was unanimously adopted, the same being as follows:

"Resolved, That the term of the existence of this corporation be and is hereby renewed and extended for the period of twenty years from May 5th, 1892, and Article Second of the articles of incorporation be and is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"The time of the commencement of the said corporation shall be May 15th, 1872, and it shall continue for the period of twenty years after May 15th, A. D. 1892."

And we do further certify that at a meeting of the board of trustees of said corporation convened and held on the same 13th day of May, A. D. 1892, at which all of the members of said board were present, the following resolution was duly adopted, viz:

"Resolved, That the corporate existence of this corporation be extended for the period of twenty (20) years from May 15th, 1892."

In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names and have affixed the corporate seal of said corporation, this 5th day of June, A. D. 1895.

AMENDED

Telephone Ordinance Now Bears no Resemblance to Original One.

Term of Years Cut in Two and Rental Rates Fixed.

Water Works Committee is to Confer With the Two Companies.

At the council meeting last night the committee presented a substitute for the ordinance granting a subway franchise to the Duluth Telephone company. The framers of the original ordinance would hardly have known their pet it had been so badly torn and twisted under the manipulation of the committee. The changing now grants the franchise for twenty-five years instead of fifty as formerly. No underground conduits or subways are to be put on Superior street although the first mile, which must be completed within six months of the acceptance of the franchise, must embrace connections with the business portion of the street. Any telegraph or telephone company may use the subways by paying a proportionate sum of the cost. The rental of residence phones shall not exceed $25 per year and for business and other purposes $40 per year, charges to be paid semi-annually in advance. The council reserves the right to fix and regulate telephone rentals at the end of every five years provided that they shall not be lower than the charges made in other cities for similar service and under similar conditions.

In return for all these privileges the company must agree to pay the city 20 cents annually per lineal yard for the first three miles and 15 cents for each additional lineal yard. One hundred lines for-fire and police department use must be furnished without charge and the city will pay only one-half the regular business subscribers' rates for the use of telephones.

NEEDED FURTHER TIME.

After the ordinance was read Alderman Hale said that the committee presented the substitute merely for reading and did not recommend a final passage at once. The amended ordinance would be published and the committee needed further time to consider objections.

Alderman Cox said he would willingly vote for the recommendation of the substitute but wanted time to consider before voting for its final passage. The word passage was stricken out of the phrase "your committee recommends the passage of this substitute." The ordinance then passed its first reading by a unanimous vote.

Then Alderman Harwood bobbed to the front with a resolution that the water-works special committee, consisting of Aldermen Ash, Cox and Christensen, be instructed to confer with the Duluth Gas and Water company and also with the West Duluth Water company to devise means for securing city control of both plants and consolidating them. The committee is asked to devise a plan for resubmitting the question to the people.

ALDERMAN HARWOOD TALKS.

The resolution was adopted after Alderman Harwood made a stirring speech in its behalf. The "grand old man" of the council declared that the people who had no water facilities at present were making an urgent demand. They wanted water and assured him they must have it. Besides the quality of the water could be considerably improved. Said he: "There is a common cavalcade continuously on its way to the cemeteries because our water is impure. Besides all these reasons the additional mains and improvements which must be made would give work to a large number of men when work is most needed."

The committee on appropriations reported adversely on the expenditure of $500 by the city in conjunction with the chamber of commerce for a Fourth of July celebration. Also the request of the Duluth City band for $250 of the city's money for the purchase of instruments was disallowed.

Assistant Attorney Benham's salary was raised to $1800 per year and the request of the Superior Cycle club for the loan of a steam roller to prepare the tracks for the coming bicycle tournament was granted. Then the council adjourned.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE WILBURS.

"The house is packed to the doors and no more money will be taken," is the sign the Lyceum hung out last night. The Wilburs never drew so well in Duluth as they have this time, and the audiences have grown in size each night. "The Bohemian Girl" was sung last evening. This opera is rather heavy for the Wilburs, but they manage it pretty well.

Miss Eloise Mortimer made a captivating Arline and sang excellently. Especially good was her solo "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls," and she received an immense floral basket. E. A. Clark was fine as the count, and his solo, "Heart Bowed Down," one of the gems of the opera, was admirably sung. J. E. Conly took the part of Thaddeus in a capable manner. Miss Hattie Richardson made a charming gypsy queen and sang the role excellently. The other members of the cast were all good. The chorus work was rather weak.

The living pictures, as usual, delighted the audience and were received with great applause.

Tonight the famous and very funny opera, "Boccaccio," will be sung. Kohnle will have a role which will give him ample opportunity to perform all the antics he chooses, and they will doubtless be many. Miss Mortimer will appear in the title role and Miss Richardson as Fiametta. Tomorrow afternoon "The Merry War" will be sung.

"THE TWO JOHNS."

J. C. Stewart's old "Two Johns" company appeared at the Temple last night before an audience that was somewhat few in numbers in the lower part of the house, though the sounds that proceeded from the gallery during the funny parts of the play proclaimed the fact that the gods were out in force.

"Two Johns" has elements of success in its plot that will withstand the counter influence of a good deal of poor acting. The complications arising from the similarity in appearance between the two fat heroes are ludicrous in the extreme, and the play is full of amusing situations that cannot fail to bring laughter. The audience was convulsed with merriment during a greater part of the time.

The company is only fair, and many of its members are inclined to be amateurish. The two Johns, J. C. Stewart and Quinn Phillips, are quite good, Stewart himself showing the effects of years of experience in the part. The remainder of the company was of very ordinary merit. The singing was fair, and W. A. Stanley's instrumental specialty was good.

"The Two Johns" will be repeated this evening.

CURE FOR HEADACHE.

As a remedy for all forms of headache Electric Bitters has proved to be the very best. It effects a permanent cure and the most dreaded habitual sick headaches yield to its influence. We urge all who are afflicted to procure a bottle, and give this remedy a fair trial. In cases of habitual constipation Electric Bitters cures by giving the needed tone to the bowels, and few cases long resist the use of this medicine. Try it once. Large bottles only 50 cents at Max Wirth's drug store.

OLD SOLDIER DEAD.

Denver, June 25.—Damian Hauser, who has just died, aged 92, was formerly a resident of Illinois, a lieutenant in Illinois state troops, who drove the Mormons out of that state in 1843 and took part in the attack on the barn near Nauvoo, when Joseph Smith, the first prophet of Mormonism, was shot dead.

CABINET OFFICERS' OUTING.

Washington, June 25.—Secretary and Mrs. Carlisle and Secretary and Mrs. Morton left Washington on the Pennsylvania railroad at 11 o'clock for Marion, Mass., where they will be the guests of the brothers and sisters of Assistant Secretary Hamlin, of the treasury department. At Jersey City they will take the lighthouse tender John Rogers for Marion, which is across the bay from President Cleveland's summer home.

UNDERTAKING.

R. E. Patterson & Co. have purchased the stock of the Duluth Casket company and will remove the establishment to 21 Fifth avenue west. The new company will continue the manufacture of caskets and will carry as large a stock as any in the Northwest. INFANTS DYING.

Early Appearance of Cholera Infantum.

Serious Times Ahead for the Badly Nourished Ones.

When Children Run Most Risk of Diarrhoea.

The Diet Invariably Used in Most Careful Homes.

Children Take Lactated Food Eagerly and Retain It.

Only by the most judicious feeding can children be saved from intestinal disorders that now lie in wait for every enfeebled infant.

Children should not stop growing and steadily increasing in weight during the summer months. Any decline in strength, activity and high spirits at such times should be even more quickly observed and remedied than at other seasons. Any sign of let-up in the healthy nourishment of the child should be met with lactated food.

The carefully studied composition of this perfect infant diet, so accurately adapted to the needs of growing children, makes it easy to induce them to take abundant food of a highly nourishing quality and of absolutely assured purity. Babies fed on a diet of lactated food lose that pinched look almost immediately, the profuse perspiring that usually accompanies weakness ceases; their sleep becomes restful, and their pale cheeks and white lips get full and ruddy.

All this change will be due to the simple effect of that richer, completer and more satisfying diet of lactated food.

At the beginning of the summer the physicians give warning that the utmost care must be taken to use pure food for children. That this emphatic warning does not reach every city and town in this state is evident from the high infantile death rate. But in those places where the newspapers have published the discussions that are now going on regarding proper infant feeding in summer, large quantities of lactated food are used. The result is, statistics show, that the fewer deaths occur in those towns and cities where the larger amount of lactated food is used.

Comparisons of this sort are absolutely convincing.

June is a fatal month for the little ones, and without the utmost care the local physicians say that the dreadful mortality and increasing amount of sickness among children will continue.

The one safe plan is to feed infants on lactated food.

Physicians say that in every case of cholera infantum the child is improperly fed and nourished, and hence the disease.

"It is absolutely certain," says a physician, in one of the medical journals, speaking of the alarming summem mortality, "that the cause of this high death rate among infants is indigestion."

Thousands of physicians prescribe lactated food for their little patients, at the beginning of the summer, with the full assurance that the dread disease is not likely to appear in that family.

It must be borne in mind that lactated food is so inexpensive that it is within the reach of everyone. One hundred and fifty meals can be made from a dollar package of the food, and prepared for use it costs less than five cents a quart.

Mothers must remembered that cholera infantum can be more easily prevented than cured. Feed the baby with pure lactated food, and keep the child well and strong.

JULY WEATHER.

James Kenealy, local forecast official, has completed the record of July weather as the books of the weather office for the past twenty-four years show it to have been. The mean or normal temperature of July has been 66 degrees. The warmest July was in 1878, when the average was 71 degrees and the coldest in 1891 the average then being 61 degrees. The highest temperature reached on any July day was 99 degrees on July 1 in 1883, and the coldest 45 degrees on July 1 in 1888. The average precipitation has been 3.76 inches, average number of cloudless days, 9; partly cloudy, 15; cloudy, 7. Prevailing winds have been from the northeast and the greatest velocity reached was forty-two miles on July 24 in 1882.

THE POINT OF THE PISTOL

Is an effectual persuader, and there are many persons so unmindful of the symptoms of oncoming disease that it would almost take that deadly argument to induce them to adopt precautionary measures. The best of these is a recourse to that fine botanic restorer, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It vanquishes malaria, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, baffling digestion, biliousness and irregularity of the bowels, and completely fortifies the system against their further inroads. Its ingredients are drawn from nature's storehouse, consequently it is free from the objections attaching to many absolutely or semi-mineral remedies. For the delicate, infirm, convalescent and elderly it is peculiarly beneficial. It well merits continuous and systematic use. Take it at bedtime to induce sleep and between meals to stimulate appetite and digestion. The medical fraternity concur in indorsing it.

REDUCED RATES TO BALTIMORE.

On account of the meeting of the Baptist Young People's union at Baltimore July 18 to 21, the B. & O. R. R. Co., will place on sale at all ticket stations on its lines west of the Ohio river excursion tickets at one fare for the round trip. These tickets will be sold July 16 and 17, valid for return passags until Aug. 5. The rate from Chicago will be $17.50, and proportionately low rates from other points. Tickets will also be placed on sale at all coupon offices west of Chicago.

Whatever point you start from, be sure your ticket reads via B. & O. In addition to the historic country through which the B. & O. runs, the B. & O. is the only line from Chicago to Baltimore running via Washington, a double daily service of fast express trains run between the West and East.

HIGH CLASS SHOW.

Pavilion is Presenting a Fine Entertainment This Week.

One element which has heretofore been present in the Pavilion entertainments in either large or small doses is missing this week and that is horse play. There is none of it and in consequence there is a better attendance of the more critical people. The Clara Schumann ladies orchestra is composed of musicians of a high order of talent. Several of them wear medals which they have received as rewards of merit. Their selections are popular enough to catch the crowd and yet do not depart one jot from the artistic.

Miss Edith Cline Ford, the elocutionist, has been heard here before and has a large circle of friends here. She is a talented young woman of charming presence.

The dancing of Diana is bewilderingly beautiful and captures the crowd completely. Round after round of applause follows the drop of the curtain.

The Japs have always captured the Pavilion crowds and this year are more popular than ever. They give a great performance.

North West Late.

The North West was nearly eight hours late last night. She was due at 12 o'clock, and did not get in until 7:25. It would appear that the Northern Steamship company had set a pace for its big passenger boats that is too swift for them, for neither the North Land or the North West have been in on time yet.

The North West exchanged her 105 upbound passengers for sixty return passengers in fifty-five minutes, and at 8:15 pulled out on her down trip.

Now is the time to provide yourself and family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a safeguard against an attack of bowel complaint during the summer months. It costs but 25 cents and is almost sure to be needed before the summer is over. This remedy never fails, even in the most severe cases, and is in fact the only preparation that can always be depended upon. When reduced with water it is pleasant to take. COURTNEY A NATURALIST.

Making Monkeys Out of English Newspaper Men.

New York, June 25.—A special from Binghamton, N. Y., to the Press says: According to a letter received in this city by a member of the Cornell university from a member of the Cornell crew now in England, Courtney is fooling the Englishmen. Among other things the writer says:

"Do not pay any attention to reports you see in the newspapers. Every since we came here Courtney has been making monkeys of the English newspaper men. The crew has been changed each day and every stroke known has been rowed. The boys and their friends are all confident of winning. The Americans all feel sure Cornell will win. Considerable money will be put on the race."

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

LADY OF LOURDES.

Devout Americans Will Visit the Lachrymose Shrine.

New York, June 25.—There will be another American pilgrimage to the shrine of Lourdes this year, under the direction of the fathers of mercy. The pilgrims will sail on the Red Star steamer Westernland on July 10 and will return in the middle of September. Monsignor Satolli has thus endorsed the pilgrimage:

"I learn with very great pleasure that the success which attended the pilgrimage made last year to Rome and to other shrines has encouraged the fathers of mercy to undertake the organization and direction of a similar one this year. Surely nothing could be more desirable at this time than the reawakening of that spirit of faith which gave rise in centuries gone by to the pious custom of visiting these places made sacred by some special connection with the origin or growth of our holy religion. Last year the pilgrimage was composed of the faithful from a restricted territory. I am glad that this year you have determined to make it more general. You have my best wishes for the success of the undertaking, and I am sure that you and all who co-operate with you will reap rich blessings."

Archbishop Corrigan in a letter to Rev. Father Smith says: "The attraction offered to intending pilgrims is very great and I trust that many Catholics will be able to take part in these religious exercises. A pilgrimage devoutly made up, to a distant shrine is a sublime act of faith. I congratulate you and your reverend companion on the prospect that our country will be well represented in this grand demonstration of Christian piety."

Police Think They Have the Man Who Robbed Daniel McDonald.

Robbery Occurred Three Months Ago Just Beyond Lester River.

Two Men Claim to be Able to Identify William O'Neil.

William A. O'Neil, who was arrested yesterday morning by Officer Kenna, on a charge of stealing $350 from one Michael Cully on Jan. 14, and whose case comes up for hearing July 1 is now thought by the police to be the man who robbed and attempted to murder Dan McDonald on March 21.

Circumstantial evidence points strongly to his guilt and two of the parties who assert that they saw the robber claim to be able to identify O'Neil as the man. He has been hanging around Duluth for some months according to the police claiming to sell timber and they have had the man under surveillance. A telegram was received this morning by Chief Armstrong from D. H. McAllister, of Green Bay, Wis., who alleges that O'Neil secured a sum of money from him about a month ago under false pretences and asking that he be held.

THE ROBBERY.

The circumstances of the robbery are these: Daniel McDonald, a farmer, living a few miles beyond Lester river, had been selling wood in Duluth, March 21, and was crossing Lester river after dark on his return home when he was shot and wounded by a highwayman, who demanded his money. McDonald climbed off this wagon and scuffled with the man who attempted to stab him. He jumped back and received a bullet in his side just under the left arm.

After being wounded McDonald surrendered dis watch and chain and about $20 to the man who commanded him to drive on and then disappeared in the woods. He reported the occurrence to the police and described the robber as a tall, heavy man. McDonald was erroneously supposed to have a large sum of money on his person at the time.

THE PARLOR MUSICALE.

A parlor musicale was given last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Page Morris by the pupils of Mrs. Emil Schmied. A large number were present and a fine program was given. Those who took part were: Misses Belle Barnes, Blanche Costello, Elizabeth Morgan, Gertie Smith, Eunice Smith, Ella Muenster, Margery Quilliard, Lottie Norris, Bernice Crowley, Berta Schmied, Ursula Joerns, Imra Richards, Grace Richards, May Kennedy and Minnie Meining, Mrs. Schmied, Mrs. Wieland and Page Morris.

THE MOOSE KILLERS.

S. F. Fullerton, executive agent of the fish and game commission, returned to St. Paul yesterday from a trip to Ely and Tower. While away he made several arrests on warrants charging the illegal killing of moose and the selling of the meat. The man arrested at Ely was cleared, but the wardens got possession of the young moose in his possession, and when they are old enough will ship them to the fish hatchery at St. Paul. The men arrested in Tower will be tried next week. Mr. Fullerton says that there is no question but moose are being killed almost daily in the iron regions and the meat sold to the hotels and boarding houses. The work has been going on for some time, but sufficient evidence to warrant arrests was not secured until recently. The wardens have been instructed to keep a close lookout and Mr. Fullerton thinks that he has the case well in hand as a result of his trip.

MR. TOWNE RETURNS.

He Has Not Decided to Call a Silver Convention.

Congressman Charles A. Towne returned today from Cleveland, Ohio, over the South Shore road, having stopped at the Sault on the way up. He says the league convention was a fine meeting. The line of action on the monetary question was precisely that which Mr. Towne advocated in the Minneapolis Journal a month or so ago, and he is greatly pleased that it was so. He considers that it is by far the most politic course to pursue and will best subserve the interests of the Republican party.

Mr. Towne has been reported by a number of papers as being inclined to call a silver convention in Minnesota within a short time. He was asked about this and said:

"I have not decided to call any silver convention, and cannot say whether I will or not. If I should determine to issue a call it will be for a Republican convention."

A GOOD RECORD.

Shell of Duluth Shot Well at Minneapolis.

Shell, who represented the Central Gun club at the Minneapolis Gun club tournament held Saturday and Sunday, returned this morning with no end of scalps hanging from his belt. He took part in twenty events, and he represented the Central club in excellent style, securing money prizes in seventeen events out of the twenty.

Burkhart, of St. Paul, won first average by a score of 284 out of a possible of 300. Shell's average, 253, was well up. He secured one first prize, six seconds, seven thirds and three fourths. While there Shell met Dr. Carver, the champion live bird shot of the world, and he made arrangements to have the noted shot here during the tournament. He will give exhibitions both days.

WILLIE IS TOUGH.

Aronson Boy Arrested Yesterday for Grand Larceny.

Willie Aronson, an 8-year-old boy, living in the basement of 106 East Superior, street, was arrested yesterday afternoon charged with the larceny of a locket, ring and pocketbook containing $5 belonging to Miss Mary M. Walsh. The theft occurred May 10. Miss Walsh resides at 102 East Second street, and her apartments have been entered twice within the last three months and jewelry and other articles stolen.

Yesterday afternoon young Aronson was discovered by Miss Walsh trying to force an entrance through the window. He was arrested by Detectives Benson and Hayden and the stolen articles were found concealed in a trunk belonging to his sister.

This is the fourth time Willie has been under arrest according to the police, who say he has been implicated in numerous depredations. This morning the boy pleaded not guilty before Judge Edson to a charge of larceny and will be tried this afternoon. He will probably be sent to the reform school.

THE MUNICIPAL COURT.

Judge Edson in the municipal court this morning fined Robert Hall, Patrick Nolan and John Carrington $10 each for drunkenness and the trio will work for the city. It was John Toban's second offense so he will labor twenty days. Frank Johnson went up on a $5 fine for trespassing on private property.

GETS HER DIVORCE.

Mrs. Falconer Separated From Her Faithless Husband.

Judge Ensign has filed his findings in the divorce case of Catherine Falconer against Daniel Falconer, a West Duluth jeweler. The case created some interest when it was first developed. It will be remembered that Mrs. Falconer came from Scotland in search of her husband, who had eloped in company with May Sheperd, a young unmarried woman.

She found them living together in West Duluth and she had her recreant husband arrested. Afterwards divorce proceedings were instituted on the ground of adultery. Judge Ensign gives her absolute divorce and half of Falconer's property, which consists of a house and lot in West Duluth. She is given permission to resume her maiden name of Saunders.

MILLERS' ASSOCIATION.

Ninth Annual Convention in Session at Chicago.

Chicago, June 25.—The ninth annual convention of the Millers' National association of the United States began at the Auditorium today. Of the total membership of over 200, about 150 were present. The association has heretofore been merely an organization for the general benefit of the trade. It was recently decided to give the organization a business and legal standing by corporation, under the state law of Illinois, and papers were filed June 15. It is for perfecting this organization that today's convention was called.

The order of business for the day was an address by the president, A. C. Loring; the reports of the executive committee and the secretary and treasurer, followed by the general business of the convention and election of officers. A petition was read to obtain an expression of opinion of the convention in regard to changing the name of "Bakers' flour" as a brand to "second and third grade flour."

RED HOT

The Kentucky Democratic Convention Is of the Liveliest Kind.

Hardin Men Defeated on the Credentials Report Amid an Uproar.

Bitter Fight Over the Resolutions Endorsing Cleveland and Carlisle.

Louisville, Ky., June 26.—On reassembling at 8 p. m. yesterday the boxes at Music hall were filled with ladies in brilliant dress and the crush in the galleries was even greater than during the day. The heat made the hall almost unendurable. A resolution denouncing the American Protective association was offered and a commotion caused by efforts to adopt it without reference. The resolution was referred. The committee on permanent organization reported Congressman A. S. Berry for permanent chairman and other officers. Mr. Berry made a vigorous speech on taking the chair. Numerous dilatory motions were indulged in, the Clay men wanting an adjournment till today. As neither the committee on credentials or the one on resolutions were ready to report, this filibustering was kept up for over two hours with much disturbance. The committee on resolutions was ready with the report at 9 p. m., but delayed its report, awaiting the outcome of the credentials, which was fighting over contests among the delegates from Louisville and Newport.

Senator Lindsay prepared the majority report on resolutions, which embraced a strong honest money plank and endorsed Cleveland and Carlisle by name for their financial policy and administrations. It was signed by nine of the thirteen members of the committee. There were two minority reports, one signed by Rhea and Ellis for the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1, and the other simply reaffirming the platform of 1892, signed by Clary and Coulter. There was intense feeling because the fight between the Hardin and Clay men, on seating delegates, in the committee on credentials delayed the resolutions and the proceedings of the convention, but nothing could be done toward facilitating business.

Several hundred motions to adjourn were voted down and the convention remained waiting, although the committee on credentials at 11 p. m. announced it could not report till after midnight. Senator Lindsay and Chairman Berry refused to report the resolutions or do anything to the report on credentials. The committee on credentials closed up shortly before midnight and reported in favor of the Hardin delegates in Louisville and at Newport, when the scenes of disorder had a short suspension. When the Clay men offered a minority report on credentials another lively scene was begun, with the usual motions for adjournment.

The following is the financial plank of the minority report of Clary and Coulter, who represent the conservatives, the other minority plank being a declaration for unlimited coinage, 16 to 1: "We believe in the coinage of both gold and silver as the primary money of the country into legal tender dollars, receivable in payment of all debts, public and private."

The following was offered by Mr. Rhea in the committee and voted down: "Resolved, that we endorse the platform adopted by the Republican convention that recently convened in the city of Louisville, and have great confidence in the ability of the united forces of the Democratic and Republican forces to win a great and glorious victory over the common enemies, the Prohibition and Populist party, at the next November election."

Offered by Coulter: "We give thanks to the present administration for its veto of the Bland seignorage bill, thus administering a righteous rebuke to the Populist congress."

Offered by Rhea: "We believe that next to the president and secretary of the treasury, J. Pierpont Morgan is entitled to the most credit and honor for the successful operation of the 'Bond syndicate,' and further believe that the syndicate made large profits, as it had the right to do, considering the fact that it brought to the support of their contract the vast resources of the Rothschilds in every financial center of the world."

Discussion and filibustering was kept up until 2 o'clock this morning, when the uproar and confusion became so great that Chairman Berry declared the convention adjourned until 9:30 o'clock.

TODAY'S SESSION.

The Democratic state convention reassembled at 9:30 promptly after having adjourned at 2 a. m. in the midst of unusual disorder. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. W. Ellis. Yesterday the Hardin men were considerably in the lead, notwithstanding the fact that Hardin and Blackburn had been canvassing the state in their mutual interests, on the issue of free coinage, and that the anti-silver men had carried a majority of the district meetings and organized the convention so as to control it as decidedly as the committee on resolutions. All along there were many "sound money" delegates for Hardin, notwithstanding his pronounced views for silver. There were not so many silver men for Clay who agreed with Carlisle and the administration on the financial question.

The Clay men won their first point in preventing any nomination last night, in the hope of gaining time, so as to get the anti-silver men away from Hardin. It was for this reason that Hardin's forces fought so desperately last night to force a nomination before adjournment. Meantime the fight between Hardin and Clay for governor intensified in aggressiveness and bitterness. Everybody knew what the platform was to be, although they could not anticipate the struggle in disposing of the minority reports on resolutions. The interest, however, centered in the nomination for governor and the old silver question was involved in that fight as the views of Clay and Hardin were as divergent as those of Carlisle and Blackburn.

Today the fight by the Hardin men was to have nominations precede the report on platform so that the Clay men could not say the platform was unsuited to Hardin. Meantime the Clay men were working for the adoption of the majority report on resolutions as a handicap to Hardin and for its adoption before nominations were called for. When the convention adjourned in the early hours of the morning, the pending position was on the minority report from the committee on credentials and the discussion thereon was resumed.

After discussing for an hour and a half the motion to substitute the minority report on credentials for the majority report, the call of 119 counties began. The Clay men favored the substitute and the Hardin men opposed it. As the vote was considered a test of strength it was watched with great interest and resulted: 448 ayes, 425 nays. The result was greeted with loud cheering by the Clay men. The Hardin men rushed to the platform, charged false counting and fraud, and created a most tumultuous scene, which was finally checked by crowding Senator Lindsay through the fighters to the front of the platform, when he opened another hot contest by presenting the majority report of the committee on resolutions:

To the Democratic convention in session at Louisville: The undersigned, a majority of your committee, beg leave to submit as their report the accompanying resolutions:

First. The Democracy of Kentucky in convention assembled congratulates the country upon the repeal of the McKinley tariff law, and upon the evidences we have on every hand of returning prosperity, under the operations of reduced and equalized tariff legislation, and we denounce as fraught with danger and disaster the threat of our Republican adversaries to re-establish a protective tariff, and to reinaugurate a policy of unequal taxation, which, in connection with general misgovernment by the Republican party, culminated in the business panic of 1893.

Second. The Democratic party, which has always stood for the separation of church and state, for the sake alike of civil and religious freedom, does not hesitate to condemn all efforts to create a distinction among citizens because of differences in faith as repugnant to an enlightened age and abhorrent to the instincts of American freemen.

Third. We reaffirm, without qualification, the principles and policies declared by the national Democratic platform of 1892, and declare that our present Democratic administration is entitled to the thanks of the party for its honest, courageous and statesman like management of public affairs; and we express our undiminished confidence in the Democracy and patriotism of President Cleveland and his distinguished co-advisor and secretary, John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky.

The mention of President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle was received with prolonged applause. John S. Rhea took the floor and presented the minority report.

THE MINORITY REPORT.

"The undersigned, members of the committee on resolutions, dissent from the views expressed by the majority of the committee on resolutions, which is proposed as an endorsement of the national Democratic administration, because the said resolution is ambiguous, obscure and uncertain in its meaning, and is, in our opinion, an attempt to straddle the most vital question now attracting the attention of the American people, and while the undersigned do not concur in the views expressed in said resolution, nor in the views expressed in the amendment which is here submitted, they nevertheless believe that it is the duty of the Democratic party to express itself in clear terms on this subject. The financial policy of the present Democratic administration deserves an unqualified endorsement at the hands of the Democratic party or it does not deserve such; and with a view of taking the opinion of the representatives of the Democracy of Kentucky in convention, we submit the following as an amendment to said resolution:

"Resolved, by the Democrats in Kentucky, in convention assembled, that the present Democratic administration is entitled to the thanks of the whole country for its statesmanlike management of public affairs, and we further declare that President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle are entitled to the unqualified endorsement of the American people for maintaining the gold standard and thus maintaining the credit of the government; and the issuance of $160,000,000 of interest-bearing bonds is hereby expressly endorsed.

"The undersigned, members of the committee on resolutions, believing that the Democratic party of Kentucky should plainly declare in favor of true bimetallism or the gold standard, offer the following as a separate resolution and ask its adoption:

"Resolved, that we believe in the coinage of both gold and silver as the primary money of the country into legal tender dollars receivable in payment of all its debts, public and private, upon terms of exact equality."

Mr. Rhea made a most vigorous argument and offered a second or supplementary minority report, which simply reaffirmed the national platform of the party of 1893, and urged its adoption as a measure of expediency, owing to the divergent views in the party in Kentucky on the financial question. Congressman Ellis opened the debate for the minority report.

Ex-Governor James B. McCreary, who is a candidate for the senate, made a vigorous appeal for the Kentucky Democracy co-operating with Cleveland, Carlisle and the Democracy, as its principles had been declared in 1893. Senator Blackburn sat immediately back of the speaker. When McCreary argued that there was no room for two Democratic parties, the "sound money" men cheered loudly. Mr. McCreary opposed the minority report and its supplement most vigorously, and held the floor, notwithstanding the calls for Blackburn and other disturbances.

After McCreary concluded the Hardin men insisted on a recount of the vote by which the majority report was substituted for the minority report on credentials, and the convention for some time resembled a riot.

DENOUNCED CLEVELAND.

The secretary discovered errors and Chairman Berry announced that the correction would be made later if the delegates would allow the consideration of the resolutions to proceed. John S. Rhea was accorded the floor and made such a vigorous speech against the majority report on resolutions as to clear up all disturbance and command the closest attention. He denounced Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle in as bitter and eloquent words as the queen's English could furnish. He quoted Henry Watterson as saying in 1892: "Nominate Grover Cleveland and you rush from a slaughter house to an open grave." With the sentiment of the convention against him, Mr. Rhea not only brought it to order, but also commanded its closest attention for a long time in his philliplc on Cleveland and Carlisle as the associates of the Rothschilds and Morgan, and not of the peopel.

Jacob Rowe followed Mr. Rhea with another phillipic on the administration and in support of the minority report and its supplement on resolutions. He wanted a compromise affirming the platform of 1892 and going no further, and claimed to be offering the olive branch.

Senator Blackburn had been called for all day, and finally came to the front. He said at the outset that he was opposed to Bradley, the Republican candidate for governor of Kentucky, and for that reason he was opposed to the majority report on resolutions. He replied especially to the argument of Congressman McCreary with most intense earnestness. He stood for harmony, but he warned the convention against endorsing Sherman. He had never endorsed a Republican platform, and he did not want the Kentucky Democracy to do so today. He was for Democratic bimetallism and not for the Republican gold standard. He was not here for any new departure, but for the old, time-honored Democratic principles, and to oppose the new-fangled policies of the Republican element that was trying to shape the policies today for the Democracy of Kentucky. The applause for Blackburn was tremendous.

Senator Lindsay was then introduced and made a remarkably strong reply to Senator Blackburn, and his defense of the administration, especially when he named President Cleveland, was greeted with stirring demonstrations. The convention reached a climax when the senator denounced the insinuation that the majority report was a Republican platform. His voice sounded like the roaring of a lion as he warmed up in replying to the insinuations that the majority of those on the committee, or in this convention, were advocates of Republican doctrines of any kind.

Senator Lindsay was interrupted by numerous questions from the silver men, among them being one: "Why the reaffirming of the platform of 1892 would not be enough?" He replied that they wanted more of a good thing. Senator Lindsay moved the adoption of the majority report, and there was a response of "nay" and "yea" in loud chorus. Chairman Berry announced that a revision of the count by the secretary sustained the previous announcement of the substitution of the minority report on credentials for the majority report. The Clay men cheered this announcement and the Hardin men precipitated another riot.

The previous question was ordered on a viva voce vote after 1 o'clock on resolutions. Chairman Berry was equal to the emergency in his rulings, or the vote and the result would never have been reached. Ex-Congressman Ellis moved to amend section 3 of the majority report after the words "platform of 1892." This amendment struck out that part endorsing the administration, Cleveland and Carlisle.

Mr. Rhea offered a substitute to his resolution of thanks to Cleveland and Carlisle for their negotiations with Rothschilds and Morgan. This was ruled out, and the next vote taken was on the amendment of Mr. Ellis, which reaffirmed the Chicago platform of 1892 and cut out the endorsement of Cleveland and Carlisle. At 1:30 the secretary began calling the roll on what was termed the vote on Cleveland and Carlisle.

The Ellis amendment was defeated by a large majority. It was considered with favor for Clay as well as a victory for Cleveland and Carlisle. The vote on the Ellis amendment was announced: Yeas, 270 1-30; nays, 598 29-30, when there was loud cheering for Cleveland and Carlisle.

MINORITY REPORT BEATEN.

It was moved that the majority report be adopted by a viva voce vote. Messrs. Rhea, Ellis and others claimed that they were entitled to a separate vote on the original minority report, which was a sarcastic endorsement of Cleveland and Carlisle for maintaining a single gold standard. The Ellis amendment was known as the supplemental report. The roll had been called on it, and the silver men insisted on the roll being called again on substituting the original minority report for the majority report. There was an overwhelming viva voce vote against the minority report, but a call of the 119 counties was demanded and ordered at 2:30.

The final vote on substituting the minority report for the majority report on resolutions had only 22 ayes. When the minority report as well as the supplemental was lost, the question recurred on the adoption of the majority report. Although the previous votes showed that the majority report would be overwhelmingly adopted, still the silver men demanded a call of counties which proceeded a little after 3 p. m.

PINE LAND CASE.

Itasca County Furnishes One of Great Interest.

St. Paul, June 26.—An interesting pine land case came before the state treasurer and auditor today. While Mr. Biermann was auditor it appears he sent an agent to Grand Rapids and sold two tracts of land, a forty and an eighty-acre tract to G. P. Sims, logging manager for the Itasca Lumber company, for $5 per acre, the minimum price for which lands may be sold. Sims paid the usual 15 per cent down and took time on the remainder. Then it developed that another party was willing and had been all along to pay $1000 for the forty-acre tract, and $2300 for the eighty or $3200 for the whole.

There was a row about the land going for the smaller price, under the circumstances, and the sale was held up. Finally the certificate was marked cancelled, but the first payment was evidently left on deposit with the auditor of Itasca county, for before Auditor Dunn assumed office Mr. Biermann drew upon Sims for the first payment, evidently intending to close the deal. The money arrived Jan. 3, but Auditor Dunn, after assuming office refused to issue the certificate. Sims was notified but he refuses to take back the money, and insists upon having a certificate of sale of the land.

Auditor Dunn refuses to issue the certificate on the ground that the sale was made illegally as shown by the investigations of the pine land committee who first had the sale held up. Sims may apply for a writ of mandamus to compel the issuance of the certificate, and then there will be an interesting case in court.

FORTUNE TELLING.

Detroit Tribune: The soothsayer looked yet again.

"You have much before you to contend with," she whispered solemnly.

"I was fearful of it."

With a dry sob the girl who was sensitive about her Roman nose rose and hurriedly left the tent.

RENTON

Honduras at Last Will Punish Participants in His Murder.

Three Alleged Accomplices Have Already Been Arrested For It.

State Department Was Urgent in Bringing the Matter About.

Washington, June 26.—As the result of much vigorous urging and pressing by the state department, the government of Honduras has been brought at last to take steps to punish the people who committed the Renton murder, and today a cablegram was received from Mr. Pringle, the United States charge d'affaires at Guatemala city, stating that he had received a telegram from the Honduras minister of foreign affairs announcing that three of the persons implicated in Renton's murder had been arrested.

This case has been managed from the beginning by Assistant Secretary Uhl, and it is expected that the firm stand of the state department in this matter would have a good effect on the status of American citizens in all the small republics of Central America. The treaty between the United States and Honduras contains a provision guaranteeing, in the strongest terms, full rights to protect citizens of one country sojourning in the other, but heretofore in all of these Central American countries, the governments have made few efforts to give effect to such treaty stipulations where our citizens were concerned.

One peculiar feature of the Renton case is that all of the parties to the murder, assault and incendiarism were foreigners and not native Hondurans. Because of their prominent position and influence with the lesser native officials, it has been difficult to induce the government to move against them. Six persons were concerned in the murder, but it is believed that as a result of the vigorous prosecution of the case by our government three of them have fled the country and escaped the punishment threatened.

WHEAT RATE CASES.

Still Grinding Away in the St. Paul Court.

St. Paul, June 26.—The Great Northern wheat rate case was continued this morning. Mr. Kellogg, for the Northern Pacific road, called Mr. Beard, assistant general traffic manager of the Northern Pacific, to the stand and introduced a number of tables in rebuttal showing that the rates for wheat are lower on the Northern Pacific than on the Burlington & Missouri River road, in Nebraska; the Santa Fe road in Kansas and the Missouri Pacific road in Missouri, also that these rates were lower than the rates on the Omaha road into St. Paul and Minneapolis and the rates on the Iowa & Minnesota and Hastings & Dakota divisions of the Milwaukee road.

Col. Clough went on the stand to explain why the rates on the Hastings & Dakota division, between Ortonville and Fargo, on the Milwaukee, are less per mile than for a similar number of miles on the Great Northern road. This was because the Great Northern line is the short line and makes the rate. Several farmers, among them Andy Stevens, of Crookston, went on the stand and testified that farmers were growing wheat at a profit.

WIND IN INDIANA.

Anderson, Ind., June 26.—Madison county was visited by a very destructive storm today. In this city a number of houses were unroofed and trees were blown down. Lightning shattered the dome of the High School building, struck and burned Currenbell's large barn, and ignited a big gas well, which cannot be controlled. The barn of Stephen Fund was also burned. The entire telephone system was disabled. Reports of a severe wind come from the interior of the county, doing considerable damage.

PROSPEROUS RENVILLE.

St. Paul, June 26.—Renville county people sent in some documents to the state auditor and treasurer today which show a high degree of prosperity out there. They were the drafts in settlement of state land sales, amounting in all to $22,794.13. The prosperity of the people is indicated by the fact that $10,569.76 is advance payment of principal on these lands. The people have had the money and preferred paying in advance to paying 5 per cent interest on their lands and keeping their money at home. No other county has yet been able to make so good a showing in the payment of principal on state lands. The amount of interest paid by Renville was $12,284.37.

FASTER TRAINS.

A new time-card will go into effect on the Duluth & Winnipeg railroad about July 1. The passenger train will leave Duluth at 3:05 and arrive in Grand Rapids about 30 minutes earlier than at present. Returning it will leave Grand Rapids thirty minutes later and arrive here the same time as now. This shortens the running time half an hour.

NEW EDITOR NEEDED.

St. Paul, June 26.—O'Neill, the life convict sent up from Sibley county for murder was released from the state prison yesterday and taken to his home. Grimes, the editor of the Prison Mirror, was also pardoned and released.

ALUMINIUM NECKTIES.

Aluminium neckties have been introduced into Germany. They are really made of cosmopolitan metal, and frosted or otherwise ornamented in various shapes imitating the ordinary silk or satin article. They are fastened to the collar button or by a band around the neck, and are particularly recommended for summer wear, since they can be easily cleaned when soiled, while they are not perceptibly heavier than cotton, cambric, or silk.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Great Crowds Are Arriving Now in Chattanooga.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 26.—Delegates from every state in the Union and from other countries are arriving on trains today to attend the international conference of all Epworth leagues which convenes in this city tomorrow. From advance bulletins received as to special trains, it is estimated that there will be fully 15,000 delegates in attendance by noon tomorrow. It is estimated that the full attendance will be about 25,000. The exercises will be held in a tent which has a seating capacity of 10,000.

Many of the most noted Methodists of the United States and Canada will deliver addresses and participate in the exercises. Excursions will be made to Lookout mountain, Chickamauga, National park and other noted places around this city. The weather is fine and the arrangements for handling the crowds are excellent. The local committee of arrangements has been at work for six months perfecting details. It will be the largest and most successful gathering which ever assembled here.

CAUGHT AT LAST!

Methodist Preacher Confesses a Lapse From Grace.

Arkansas City, Kan., June 26.—Rev. W. E. Broadhurst, pastor of the M. E. church, who a few days ago was found in a compromising position with a woman of his congregation, today publishes the following card in the Arkansas City Traveller:

"It is due to the public that I make this confession. I am a fallen preacher after twenty-one years of acceptable work in the church. I have resisted thousands of temptations, but was caught at last. My sin is such that I make no defense." He has resigned his pastorate.

SANTA FE SYSTEM.

Topeka, Kan., June 26.—A party of Santa Fe gentlemen, consisting of D. B. Robinson, agent of the receivers, and acting president of the road; H. V. Mudge, general superintendent; Chief Engineer Munn, and Superintendent of Machinery John P. Laler, will arrive in Topeka from the West this evening from an extended tour covering the Southwestern lines of the Santa Fe down to Old Mexico. It is stated that the significance of the trip was to consider the advisability of extending the Kansas line so as to shorten the distance to the Pacific coast 300 miles.

ATTEMPTED MURDER.

Hazelton, Pa., June 26.—An attempt was made this morning to assassinate the family of Matteo Grode by placing dynamite under the house, but the family escaped injury. Grode, who conducts a wholesale cigar manufacturing establishment, recently discharged several men, and it is believed that they hatched a plot for revenge. Fire followed the explosion destroying three buildings. Peter Pacallo, has been arrested on a warrant sworn out by Grode. Grode has many enemies among the Italians.

KOUTH RUNS AMUCK.

Richmond, Ind., June 26.—William Kouth early this morning made an attempt to kill his wife. He clubbed her with a wooden roller and cut her throat with a razor. She escaped by jumping from the roof and fleeing to another neighbor's. He then set fire to the house, cut his own throat and died. Mrs. Kouth will not recover.

HIS SKULL WAS CRUSHED.

St. Louis, June 26.—A special to the Post Dispatch from Liberty, Mo., says: Daniel Stone, a bachelor from Reimer, living near Smithville was found dead in bed by one of his neighbors. His skull was crushed as though it had been done with an ax. Stone was well off and it is thought that robbery was the motive.

MISSOURI WIND STORM.

Springfield, Mo., June 26.—A wind storm here last night, having some of the features of a cyclone, did heavy damage to growing crops, especially to fruit orchards, which in some places are almost ruined. A circus tent at Billings collapsed and caused a panic, but no one was badly injured.

MOTHER-IN-LAW KILLED HER.

St. Louis, Mo., June 26.—Annie Smith, aged 22, was shot and killed instantly this forenoon by Mrs. Louisa Barnes, her mother-in-law. There were no witnesses to the shooting, which Mrs. Barnes says was accidental, but which the police think was intentional. Mrs. Barnes is under arrest awaiting an investigation by the coroner's jury.

WILL FIRE HIM OUT.

Topeka, Kan., June 26.—Labor Commissioner Bird still refuses to resign. Governor Morrill today instructed Attorney General Dawes to bring proceedings against him for removal from the office on the ground of levying tribute from clerks in his office.

ANOTHER ORIENTAL WAR.

London, June 26.—Special dispatches received here from Shanghai say that high officials who are well informed express the opinion that war between Russia and Japan over Corea will break out before the end of the next three months.

WOOLEN MILLS BURNED.

Cleveland, June 26.—A special to the Evening Post from St. Mary's, Ohio, says: A fire here last night destroyed the woolen mills and seven buildings. The loss will probably reach $100,000.

HOT IN OKLAHOMA.

Hennesey, Okla., June 26.—Today is one of the hottest days known here and it is having a bad effect on corn.

FITZSIMMONS' CASE.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 26.—The first panel of jurors summoned for the trial of Pugilist Fitsimmons, charged with having killed his sparring partner, having been exhausted, and none of the second panel reported there was no session of the court this forenoon.

COPIOUS SHOWERS FELL.

Lewiston, Ill., June 26.—Copious showers last night broke the drought in Fulton and other counties in the military tract of Illinois.

TREASURY

The Gold Reserve Continues to Show a Gratifying Increase Rate.

Today's Balances Show the Amount on Hand is $107,447,855.

Supposed to be Result of the Operations of Gold Syndicate.

Washington, June 26.—Today's treasury statement will show the gold reserve to be $107,447,855. While no information has been received at the treasury other than that yesterday's gold deposits would bring the reserve up to the amount given, it is assumed that this deposit covers the entire amount due under the contract. Whether yesterday's deposit of $7,000,000 was in foreign gold is regarded extremely doubtful, as no information has reached here of the arrival of any sum approximating that amount. It is thought, therefore, that this deposit was made by the syndicate in domestic gold, in order to save interest. This domestic gold, of course, will be replaced by importations within the next few days when the formal transfer of the bonds will be made.

As to the question whether the obligations of the syndicate to use its best efforts to protect the treasury from withdrawals of gold for export ceases on the deposit of the full amount of gold called for by the contract, Secretary Hamlin declined to express an opinion. From other officials, however, it is learned that it was an understanding with the syndicate at the time the contract was made that the obligations were to continue until Oct. 1. The question, however, has not been formallay raised nor is it thought that it will be raised.

No doubt is expressed in any administrative quarter, but that independent of the assumed contract obligation, the syndicate will find it to their personal interest to continue to exercise its influence to protect the treasury gold. Under normal conditions the movement of gold usually begins to set toward the United States about the middle of August or before, and even under present conditions, the officials confidently expect that within the next very few weeks the pressure from abroad will be greatly relieved.

EVERYTHING QUIET.

American Interests on African Coast all Right.

Washington, June 26.—Commander Perry today cabled the navy department from Lourenzo Marques, Mozambique, saying that the Castine was about to sail from that port to Cape Town. The Castine was sent to the eastern coast of Africa to look after American interests which were threatened by the disturbances occurring there. Commander Perry has made no report upon the condition of affairs on the African coast, but the fact that he has started on his return trip is taken by officers of the department to mean that he has found American interests in no danger.

A report received by the department from Commander Perry after he had visited Zanzibar, on the east coast, said that he had been received with every demonstration of approval and that a most friendly feeling existed toward Americans.

MCKINLEY WILL SPEAK.

Columbus, Ohio, June 26.—Governor McKinley on Thursday will speak at the Meadville, Pa., college commencement.

ENTERTAINING AN EMPEROR.

Kiel, June 26.—Emperor William will be the guest of the officers of the United States cruiser New York tonight on board that vessel.

Nervousness

Is only another name for impure blood, for no person is weak and nervous whose blood is perfectly pure.

When the blood is full of the germs of disease, and lacking in the red corpuscles which give it vitality, when it fails to properly nourish the organs and tissues of the body, what can you expect but that tired feeling and nervousness?

Of course Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Catarrh and Rheumatism are universally recognized as blood diseases, for which Hood's Sarsaparilla, as the best blood purifier, is everywhere acknowled the greatest remedy.

Therefore, as Hood's Sarsaparilla cures all blood diseases, it is the best remedy for that condition of the blood which causes Nervousness.

It is a false idea to think you are curing your nervousness when you are taking a preparation which only quiets your nerves! It is like trying to "drown" your sorrows in the flowing bowl. They are sure to return.

We wish to make most impressive, then, this truism:

You cannot purify your blood by DEADENING or QUIETING your nerves with opiate, narcotic or nerve compounds. If you take such articles you are only TRIFLING with your troubles. There is SURE to be a REACTION which will leave you worse than you were before.

Why not then, take the true course, follow the bee-line to the state of health, purify your blood and cure your Nervousness by taking

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

MILLERS MEETING.

Officers Elected and Other Business Transacted.

Chicago, June 26.—At the Miller's National association meeting yesterday the following officers were chosen: President, C. A. Pillsbury, Minneapolis; first vice president, M. H. Davis, Shelby, Ohio; second vice president, George Urvan, Jr., Buffalo; third vice president, F. H. Ladgeburg, Milwaukee; treasurer, C. J. Martin, Minneapolis; secretary, Frank Barry, Milwaukee.

Four additional members were chosen to constitute together with the above a board of managers. They are: C. J. Ballard, Louisville; C. B. Cole, Chester, Ill., A. R. Jamps, Buffalo; W. A. Coombs, Coldwater, Mich. Thirty-one trustees were also elected, each state being represented in this body according to its flour output. The aggregate output of the entire association is 125,000 barrels a day. On this basis Minnesota received eight, New York and Wisconsin two, and the remaining nineteen ,entitled to representation, including the District of Columbia, one each. After this was done the convention adjourned sine die.

INTRIGUE AND DEATH.

A Very Frenchy Affair in the French Capital.

Paris, June 25.—A woman named Mme. Carre, formerly the wife of a Vienna banker, named Balitzer, employed Carre as counsel to obtain a divorce from Balitzer. The acquaintance thus formed resulted in her marriage to Carre. The latter, however, had an intrigue with a married woman, whose husband threatened to get him disbarred from practice. Carre induced him to agree to a duel instead, whereupon the woman informed Mme. Carre of the intended duel, with a view to preventing it.

Carre entered the room while the woman was revealing the affair and, gathering from his wife's countenance that she was unlikely to forgive him, said that nothing remained but to kill himself. Mme. Carre replied "Yes," and rushed to the dressing room and seized a bottle of laudanum. Carre's secretary, who followed, snatched the bottle away and at that moment a shot was heard.

Carre had committed suicide. He fell into the arms of his wife and secretary. His wife exclaimed: "I forgive you, my dear; I love you," and while the secretary was wiping the blood from Carre's temples, she took the revolver from her husband's hands and rushed back into her dressing room and shot herself. Both died in a short time.

MISSOURI DEMOCRATS.

State Committee Refuses to Call Silver Convention.

St. Louis, June 26.—Chairman C. C. Maffitt, of the Democratic central committee, has mailed to each county chairman in Missouri an address of which the following is a part: "Your state committee having noted through the public press that some of the enthusiastic persons in behalf of free, unlimited and unconditional coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 were clamorous for a convention of the Democratic party in this state for the purpose of giving expression of sentiment upon that to the exclusion of all other important articles of the Democratic creed, convened on June 1, with the view of canvassing the policy, propriety and wisdom of committing the party by its action to such an unusual and unprecedented project.

"Upon the assembling of a full committee the general phase of the subject was considered and thoroughly canvassed, the arguments for and against having been patiently held and carefully and dispassionately weighed. The judgment of the committee was registered against the calling of a convention by the decisive vote of 10 to 5.

CHINESE PLAGUE.

It is Already Epidemic at Hong Kong.

Washington, June 26.—The United States consul at Foo Chow, China, reports the appearance of the Hong Kong plague at that place. He says it is already established as an epidemic, but that so far it is confined to the city proper.

He adds: "There is no question or doubt about the epidemic in the city being identical with that which last year caused such mortality in Hong Kong and Canton and other Chinese ports. The symptoms attending its appearance and progress unmistakably stamp it as the plague and in the infected districts within the city, the rats are dying in great numbers, just as has been the invariable rule wherever the plague has shown itself."

PROTECTED THE BANK.

Idaho Springs, Col., June 26.—George B. McClelland has resigned as cashier and director of the First National bank and has turned over to his bondsmen all his property. His brother has also deposited collateral sufficient to protect the bank. Mr. McClelland had borrowed money largely to carry on mining deals.

A RUSSIAN LOAN.

St. Petersburg, June 26.—The Bourse Gazette says that the Russian-French syndicate receiving no reply from China has offered the Russian government to issue a 4 per cent loan of 400,000 francs. The proceeds to be employed for conversion purposes to strengthen the imperial bank or to be expended on railroads.

ARGENTINE INSURGENTS.

Buenos Ayres, June 26.—The insurgents under the command of Admiral De Gama have been defeated by the government troops at Campos. Admiral Osorio was wounded and captured. He subsequently succumbed to his injuries.

A COMPROMISE EFFECTED.

Cleveland, June 26.—All of the 225 striking workmen at the United salt works returned to their places this morning. The men struck for an increase of 15 cents a day and they resume work on a compromise of 10 cents.

PILGRIMS

Presbyterians Visit the Old World to Hunt up Church History.

Another Party Goes for the Purpose of Studying Church Music.

Prominent Clergy and Laity ---Male and Female--- Are Members.

New York, June 26.—On board the steamship Berlin which sailed today for Southampton is a company of 100 Presbyterian clergymen and laymen who will spend eight weeks in visiting the scenes of interest in the old world connected with the early history of their church.

The Berlin carries another company of 100 designated as a church music party, who are to visit the principal musical centers and cathedral cities of England, France, Switzerland and Belgium and Holland. By special arrangement the pilgrim party will be landed at Queenstown while the church music party will proceed to Southampton.

In the latter party are Professor B. D. Allen, Beloit, Wis.; Miss Anna D. Amoria, Fond du Lac, Wis.; J. E. Bigelow, San Francisco; Miss A. E. Bundy, Beaver Dam, Wis.; S. W. Heeler, Evanston, Ill.

Among the Presbyterian pilgrims are the following: Miss Catherine A. Jones, Chicago; L. J. Lamson, Mrs. L. J. Lamson, Miss Josephine R. Lamson, Warren A. Lamson, Chicago; Rev. Warren H. Landon, San Francisco; Mrs. William F. Rollo, Chicago; Miss Mary M. Stuart, Miss Catherine Stuart, Dayton, Ohio.

DISSOLUTION URGED.

Conservative English Party Want Parliament Dissolved.

London, June 26.—Replying to Henry Boucher, member for Northampton in the house of commons today, Stephen Akers Douglas, the Conservative whip, said his party was anxious for a dissolution of parliament at the earliest possible moment and hoped to be able to make a statement on the subject on Monday next.

He then moved that new writs for an election be issued in the cases of East Manchester, West Bristol, St. Georges, Hanover Square and West Birmingham, represented respectively by A. J. Balfour, the new first lord of the treasury, the Rt. Hon. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the new chancellor of exchequer, the Rt. Hon. George J. Goschen, the new first lord of the admiralty and the Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, the new secretary of state for the colonies, all of whom have to be reelected upon their appointment as cabinet members. The mention of Mr. Chamberlain's name was greeted with cries of "Judas" from the Irish benches.

A LABOR PROBLEM.

St. Louis, June 26.—The August Gas Bank Note and Lithographing company has filed a suit against Fairmore association No. 5, of St. Louis, a subordinate association of the Lithographers' International Protective and Insurance association of the United States and Canada. The defendants were plaintiffs employes. They struck because the company refused to discharge two women who had been given places, hence the suit. Conspiracy is charged and a restraining order is asked.

A DETECTIVE MURDERED.

Ritzville, Wash., June 26.—L. A. Condlee, a constable and detective for the Cattlemen's associations, was found dead with three bullet wounds in his body. Condlee arrested Alfred Simes on Monday and started for Ritzville with him on horseback. Simes is supposed to have overpowered Condlee and taken his pistol. Simes is a member of a gang of cattle thieves, whose rendezvous was recently found near Rocklake, Whitman county, where large quantities of stolen goods and many head of cattle were found.

RESTRAINING ORDER ISSUED.

Santa Cruz, Cal., June 26.—Judge Breen has issued an order restraining the city treasurer from paying any interest on the water bonds. This order, unless dissolved, will have the effect of tieing up the money claimed to be due on the bonds due the treasury until the suit is decided. Suits are now pending to set the bond issue aside on the ground of its illegality. Most of the bonds are owned by Eastern capitalists.

TWO FORGERS ARRESTED.

Salt Lake, Utah, June 26.—A special to the Herald from Butte, Mon., says: Two forgers, who gave their names as William McMahon and H. A. Sloan, and claimed to be representing a publication known as Laird's Industrial Gazette, were arrested tonight after swindling several firms on forged contracts for advertising.

ALLEGED TRESPASSING.

Greeley, Col., June 26.—Deputy United States Marshal Lovell today arrested John P. King, charged with having fenced in a portion of the public domain, embracing about 10,000 acres. King waived examination and was released on $600 bond.

THREE BOYS DROWNED.

Seattle, Wash., June 26.—Three boys, varying in age from 16 to 10, were drowned in the bay yesterday afternoon while playing on a log.

WILL CLAIM EVERYTHING.

Paris, June 26.—The Eclaire, referring to the conflict between French citizens and citizens of Brazil on the frontier of French Guinea, says that advantage must be taken of the occurrence by France to formally claim the whole disputed territory, especially to annex the entire counties of Arias.

A STEAMER ASHORE.

Trieste, June 26.—A dispatch received from Madras states that the steamer Thisbe which sailed from Trieste on May 30 for Madras is ashore on Sacramento shoal near Madras. The crew were saved.

CROP STATISTICS.

New Assignment of Districts to Agents Completed.

Washington, June 26.—The assignment of state agents in the new system of gathering crop statistics has been completed save for two districts. The new plan practically does away with the state agencies, as the states are grouped into districts which only one state agent will supervise. The present system of committee reports will also be supplanted by one providing for a report in every township and the two systems will be used conjointly, each acting as a check on the other. The country will be divided into twenty-one districts. Fourteen of these will comprise groups of states and seven single states. Some of the state agents have been retained as district agents and others will be dropped from the rolls.

The personnel of the new corps is as follows: New England states, Professor A. L. Perry, of Massachusetts; New York and Pennsylvania, S. S. Neely, of Pennsylvania; New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, Nathan Pratt, of Delaware; Virginia and West Virginia, Professor J. M. McBride, of Virginia; North and South Carolina, W. A. Withers, of North Carolina; Georgia and Florida, ex-Governor W. J. Nortenh ;Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, James H. Lane, of Alabama; Wisconsin and Minnesota, L. M. Fay, of Wisconsin; Tennessee and Kentucky, C. S. Smidt, of Tennessee; California, Oregon, Washington and Idaho, Edwin F. Smith, of California; Kansas and Missouri, Henry Garvey, of Kansas; Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Arizona, Nevada and New Mexico, Frank E. Carstarphen, of Colorado; Michigan, M. K. Marsh; Ohio, L. B. Stephens; Indiana, Washington, G. D. Duncan; Illinois, Frank Y. Dilatus; Iowa, S. R. Davis; Texas, Allen Blacker; Nebraska, ex-Governor Robert Furnas.

The agents for two districts embracing Arkansas and Oklahoma and the other North Dakota and Montana have not been selected. The arrangement eliminating all salaries below $720 a year and makes averages of $1000. There were formerly forty-five agents and the reduction to twenty-five makes an aggregate saving of several thousand dollars.

DEAD ALIVE.

Insurance Swindler Said to Have Been Located.

Topeka, Kan., June 26.—Secretary John E. Moon, of the Kansas Mutual Life Insurance association, returned from Kansas City last night, where he had been in conference with the officials of other companies interested concerning information that has come to them to the effect that Dr. Fraker, for whose supposed death the companies are under obligation to pay $41,000 next August, is alive.

The person who furnished the information says that Fraker is under surveillance and will be delivered upon assurance that $20,000 reward which has been offered will be forthcoming.

"LOST CABIN" MINE.

William Murray Claims That He Has Found It.

Redding, Cal., June 26.—William Murray, who has a mine at the junction of Kosh Creek and Pitt river, about sixty miles northeast of here, brings news of having discovered the richest mine in this country and says it is the original "lost cabin" mine, which he has been searching for during the past thirty years.

He has discovered a lode 800 feet wide and 4000 feet high, impregnated with free ore, which bears gold and silver to the value of from $75 to $150 per ton. The range where this mine was discovered is a continuation of that upon which is the great Lost Confidence mine, or what is generally known as the Sierra Mount. It was recently sold to an English syndicate for $300,000.

A DRESSMAKER'S STORY.

San Francisco, June 26.—According to a local paper Mrs. Lobe, a dressmaker for the Fair family, asserts that Senator Fair called at her house some time before his death and there met a Miss McKibbon. Senator Fair afterwards married Miss McKinnon before a justice of the peace in Oakland. Two children were born, one a boy, 14 months old, is still living. A few weeks before his death Senator Fair called on her and read a paper in which he provided for the children. The mother of the children now lives in Lodi, Cal., and is preparing to make a fight for some of the dead man's millions.

ANOTHER CLAIM DISMISSED.

Denver, June 26.—In the United States court of private land claims at Santa Fe, N. M., the petition of Dr. Heath, for Juan Gid grant claimants, has been dismissed. The claim called for 130,000 acres in the Mesilla valley, now occupied by 7000 people. Justice Stone, in behalf of the court, briefly dismissed the petition of J. B. Cessna, J. B. Keidel et al, for the confirmation, because of evident lack of authority in the power originally attempting to make the grant, abandonment of the grant on the part of the grantee, and other reasons.

The Only Remedy in the World that Refunds Purchase Price if it Fails to Cure the Tobacco Habit in 4 to 10 Days is

Narcoti-Cure

It Cures While You Continue the Use of Tobacco.

The greatest discovery of the age!

A certain, pleasant, permanent cure.

A lifetime's suffering ended for $5.00.

Why smoke and spit your life away? Why suffer from dyspepsia, heartburn and drains on your vital forces?

Stop using tobacco, but stop the right way! Drive the nicotine from your system by the use of this wonderful remedy!

Narcoti-Cure is warranted to remove all desire for tobacco in every form, including Cigar, Cigarette and Pipe smoking, Chewing and snuff taking.

Use all the tobacco you want while under treatment, and in from four to ten days your "hankering" and "craving" will disappear—the weed won't taste good.

Then throw away tobacco forever.

Narcoti-Cure is entirely vegetable and free from injurious ingredients. It never fails to give tone and new vigor to the weakest constitution.

Remember Narcoti-Cure doesn't deprive you of tobacco while effecting a cure; doesn't ask you to buy several bottles to be entitled to a guarantee; doesn't require a month's treatment; and, finally, doesn't enable you to stop togacco only to find yourself a slave to the habit of tablet chewing.

With Narcoti-Cure, when you are through with tobacco you are through with the remedy. One bottle cures.

Huntington, Mass., March 18, 1895. The Narcotl Chemical Co., Springfield, Mass.

Gentlemen:—I have used tobacco for over twenty-five years, chewing and smoking every day from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m., stopping only for meals.

On Monday, February 4, I called at your office in Springfield and bought a bottle of the Cure, which I used as directed, and on the tenth day the desire for tobacco had left me and it has not returned. I did not lose a meal while taking the Cure. My appetite has improved and I consider Narcoti-Cure a grand thing.

Very respectfully, CHAS. I. LINCOLN.

Mr Frank H. Morton, of Chicopee Falls, Mass., late inspector of public buildings for Massachusetts, says:

I used tobacco for twenty-five years and was a confirmed smoker. In just eight days' treatment with Narcoti-Cure I was through with tobacco; in fact the desire for tobacco vanished like a dream.

Very respectfully, FRANK H. MORTON.

If your druggist is unable to give full particulars about Narcoti-Cure, send to us for Book of Particulars free, or send $5.00 for bottle by mail.

SERVICES

Rev. Morley Will See That Congregational Church is Supplied.

West Duluth is to Have a Lodge of United Foresters.

Police Are Looking for William Blake, a Car Company Employe.

Since the departure of Rev. T. M. Price the affairs of the Congregational church have been rather in a chaotic state. It was expected that the church would be closed for a season at least, and all services suspended. The future prospects of the church have had quite a gloomy aspect for some time, but there is now a rift in the clouds which will probably grow wider as times improve. Through the kindness of Rev. Morley, services will be continued uninterruptedly. He has agreed to supply the pulpit himself until other arrangements can be made.

A NEW LODGE.

There is a prospect that another secret order will be represented in West Duluth. G. L. Lowe, of Duluth, is working on the organization of a branch of the United Order of Foresters. This is distinct from the Independent Order of Foresters, of which there is quite a flourishing lodge in West Duluth. Mr. Lowe says he has good promise of success in the undertaking.

HE IS WANTED.

The police are looking for William Blake, a frmer employe of the car company, who left town this week under the suspicion of having pilfered a watch, a few coins and articles of clothing from J. A. Seasted at the Glover boarding house on Fifty-sixth avenue west.

MACHINERY OVERHEATED.

The overheating of one of the pins in the big engine of the Duluth Street Railway company this morning necessitated the use of the smaller engine and a consequent reduction in the number of cars running. This the riding public soon found out, and not knowing the cause, was disposed to grumble. The accident was repaired this afternoon and cars will again be running as usual this evening.

IN SUMMER

cooling drinks are necessary. They are the universal antidote for excessive warmth. Nothing is so popular with the fair sex in Duluth as our soda served in all the various flavors and with cream for only a nickel a glass. To have their attentions well received, young men should treat their sweethearts coolly, by inviting them to enjoy our soda, which is really the coolest and most delightful summer drink in Duluth, wholesome, healthful and invigorating. Soda heads the list of summer beverages, and the foaming stream from our fountain heads the list of all sodas.

RECORD WON OUT.

The Record and Zenith, champions of the rival tug lines, had a pretty race on the lake this morning. Both had been out after tows, and the race took place on the return trip. The Record won by four lengths in about four miles. Capt. King, of the Record, said, "the Zenith is in it no more," and when he got back to the dock placed a broom on the Record's cabin.

The Henrietta, Capt. Inman's new excursion steamer, is expected up tonight with the Belle Cross tow.

MARINE NOTES.

Capt. W. H. Singer went down the lakes Saturday and it is reported that the object of his visit is to purchase three new tugs.

HIGHER

Wheat Went Up Half a Cent on More Bullish News.

There Were Reports of Yields of One Bushel Per Acre.

Buyers at Chicago on Account of St. Louis and New York.

The wheat market was strong here at the opening today, although Chicago was somewhat weak owing to liberal selling by Partridge and others at the start. The slight downward tendency at the opening at Chicago was also due to the cessation of rain in the Northwest and the reduction of temperature there to a point sufficient for the growth of the plant without being injuriously stimulating or promotive of rust. The first quotations from St. Louis showed an advance there of about 2 cents over the closing prices of the day before. That at once brought into prominence the very disappointing yields from the winter wheat threshings, reports of which were sent out in great numbers. Those reports mentioned yields of less than one bushel per acre in several instances.

All that sounded so alarming that the traders at Chicago could not help giving expression to feeling by a lively wrestle among themselves for the rather meagre quantity that was for sale, while it was most badly wanted. The business was largely local in character. Among the more prominent of the early buyers were M. C. Mitchell, Logan & Co., Z. P. Brosseau, and brokers who usually do business for St. Louis and New York. Among the prominent sellers were Counselman & Day, E. C. Gifford & Co., Norton & Worthington and Schwartz, Dupee & Co. The latter firm bought freely at the immediate opening.

The trading on the Duluth board was mostly in September wheat, although July was not neglected. September opened ⅜c up at 72⅞c and advanced to 73c. Then it declined and ruled pretty steady around 72⅝@72⅞c up to noon when it touched 72¾c. There was a break to 72¼c during the noon hour, but the market became firm and September sold up to 73c, easing off before the close. July started ⅛c higher at 71⅜c, declined ¼c, recovered and again sold down to 74½c. The mills reduced the premium over July for round lots of No. 1 hard to ½c. The close was ½c higher than yesterday except wheat to arrive which was ¼c higher. Following were the closing prices:

No. 1 hard cash, 74½c; June, 75c; July 75c. No. 1 northern cash, 74c; June, 74½c; July, 74½; September, 72⅝c. No. 2 northern cash, 70¼c. No. 3, 68½c. Rejected, 64½c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 75½c; No. 1 northern, 75c. Rye, 60c. No. 2 oats, 28½c. No. 3 oats, 25c. Barley, 41c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 120. Receipts—Wheat, 13,476 bus; oats, 5481 bus. Shipments—Oats 90,667 bus.

CATTLE AND HOGS.

Chicago, June 26.—Hogs, official receipts, yesterday, 14,735. Cattle, 6463; sheep, official yesterday, 15,776; shipments, 314. Estimated receipts hogs tomorrow, 27,000. Shipments cattle, 229. Hogs receipts, 25,000; left over 3500. Market active at 5@10c advance. Light, $4.40@4.75; mixed, $4.45@4.85; heavy, $4.45@4.97½. Rough, $4.35@4.55. Cattle, receipts, 31,000, including 2000 Texans, market slow, but generally steady. Texas steers, $2.90@4.90. Sheep, receipts, 15,000; best, easy; others, 5@10c lower.

NEW YORK MONEY.

New York, June 26.—Money on call easy at 1½ per cent. Prime mercantile paper 2½@3½ per cent. Sterling exchange firm with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.89½ for demand and $4.88½@¾ for sixty days. Posted rates $4.89½ and $4.89½. Commercial $4.87½@$4.88¼. Silver certificates 65¾@⅞, sales 10,000. Bar silver 65¼.

THE LIVERPOOL MARKET.

Liverpool, June 26.—Wheat, spot steady; demand poor; No. 2 red winter, 5s 5½d; No. 2 red spring, stocks exhausted; No. 1 hard Manitoba, 6s ½d; No. 1 California, 5s 6½d. Futures opened firm with near and distant positions ¾d higher. Closed firm, with near positions 1@1½d higher, and distant positions 1½@1¾d higher; business heaviest on middle positions. June, 5s 6d; July, 5s 6¾d; August, 5s 7½d; September, 5s 8d; October, 5s 8½d; November, 5s 9d. Corn, spot firm; American mixed new, 4s 3¾d; futures opened firm, with near and distant positions ¼d higher; closed firm, with August ½d higher and other months ¼d higher. Business heaviest on middle positions. June, 4s 3¾d; July, 4s 3¾d; August, 4s 4¼d; September, 4s 5½d; October, 4s 5¾d; November, 4s 6¾d. Flour, dull; demand poor. St. Louis fancy winter, 7s 9d.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

There is a growing confidence in wheat values, and although the market reacts sharply at times, holders do not get panicky and sell out on the breaks. The situation is getting so strong that outsiders are coming back into the market and local traders are not left to carry their burden alone, as for some days past. There is no improvement in the foreign situation. Markets abroad are relatively weaker than our markets, and the export demand is discouraging. Threshing returns are the most convincing arguments on the long side. Everywhere they tell the same story of disappointment, and this may be depended upon to furnish the force for the next upward movement. Primary receipts are light and the old stocks of wheat are not liable to be added to by the new receipts of wheat, at least for some time. St. Louis is down to 100,000 bus in the public warehouses and is still bidding a big premium over Chicago for the wheat which cometh not.

Corn and oats heavy, with a disposition to raid oats. Provisions, very little doing and prices easily moved on a moderate order.

The stock market weakened slight at the close on heavy realizing. Considering the amount that was thrown on the market, it held very good. Stocks are a purchase on the sharp breaks and a sale on the rallies.

Puts, September wheat, 72⅞c.
Calls, September wheat, 75⅝c.
Curb, September wheat, 74c.
Puts, September corn, 48⅝c.
Calls, September corn, 49⅝c.

New Trial Asked.

The plaintiff in the case of Meniece & Norris against the city has filed notice of a motion for a new trial upon the grounds that the verdict was not justified by the evidence, that it was contrary to law and that it gave inadequate damages apparently under the influence of passion and prejudice. The jury in the case gave a verdict for $1.

BOOM IN LICENSES.

Today was a good one in Hymen's line of business, twelve happy people taking out of the clerk's office the permission of the county to make themselves six. They were Millege Murray and Abbie McCarthy, George Dale and Anna Campbell, Frank J. Kissinger and Pauline B. Arndt, E. J. Duffies and Grace Lowe, John A. Bloom and Christina S. Nelson, and T. J. C. Fagg and Fannie Pauline Upham.

ACCIDENTALLY DROWNED.

On Sunday last Charles T. Albin and Thomas McGuire, two men who were working for Mr. Green at Little Pokegama lake, concluded to go on a fishing excursion, says the Grand Rapids Herald. They got into a birchbark canoe and commenced trolling. From some unexplained reason the frail bark was capsized, and the two occupants precipitated into the water. Albin could not swim and his companion had all he could do to save his own life, he being but an indifferent swimmer. There was no one to render Albin any assistance and in a short time the unfortunate man sank to rise no more. He was a single man, about 28 years old, and very little is known about him.

Remember the Rathbone Sisters' excursion to Fond du Lac next Saturday.

JUDGE EDSON'S FIRST.

John A. Bloom and Christina L. Nelson were married this morning in the municipal court by Judge Edson. Chief Armstrong officiated as best man, and warmly congratulated the groom and blushing bride. The couple were arrested about 10 o'clock last night by Sergt. Nelson in a room in a West End house. This morning a license was procured and Judge Edson performed the first ceremony in his judicial career.

THE WEATHER.

U. S. Agricultural Department, Weather Bureau, Duluth, Minn., June 26.—Moderate to heavy rains have fallen in the upper lake region, the Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys and Arkansas, and light showers in the Dakotas and Minnesota.

The temperature is above normal in the lower lake region and the Ohio valley and is generally below normal throughout the Northwest and the plateau regions.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 52; maximum yesterday, 72; minimum yesterday, 48; rainfall for twenty-four hours ending at 7 a. m. today, .28 inch.

Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity till 7 p. m. tomorrow: Generaly fair; cooler today; warmer Thursday; fresh northwest winds.

JAMES KENEALY,
Local Forecast Official.

Chicago, June 26.—Forecast until 8 a. m. tomorrow: Wisconsin—Fair, and cooler tonight; Thursday fair and cooler. Fresh northwest winds. Minnesota—Fair and slightly cooler tonight; Thursday fair with warmer west and north. Northwest winds.

Upper lakes—Fresh northwest winds next thirty-six hours, with thunder showers and cooler today and tonight. Depth of water over miter sill in St. Mary's ship canal, 14 feet, 2 inches, and it will remain stationary during the next twenty-four hours.

Heavy thunder showers in the upper lake region, with frequent squalls on the great lakes. A moderate depression in the barometer, attended by a cloudy and showery condition of air, covers the lake region.

ROBBING THE TAXPAYERS.

In another column will be found a detailed statement of the receipts and expenses of the office of register of deeds. It is an article which should be carefully read by every taxpayer in St. Louis county. A state of affairs is presented which demands the application of a remedy at once. It is shown that the office is being run at a loss, and that the county will be called upon to make up a good-sized deficit unless steps be taken immediately to introduce some economies in the running of the office. Last year the office cleared $3000, and it is asserted that for the first five months of this year there is a deficit of over $725, which must come out of the pockets of the taxpayers.

The cause of the deficit can be easily traced. The office is being run in a recklessly extravagant manner. In addition to the register, who receives a salary of $3000, there are ten people whose salaries are from $50 to $125 a month each. This is a greater number of people than are employed in any other office in the court house, and a greater number than were ever employed before in the register's office. As there has been no extra rush of business requiring additional help, the only conclusion is that the political bosses are doing just what The Herald predicted months ago that they would do—they are filling the county offices with men who are thus being paid for their political work. The spoils system is responsible for the taxpayers being called upon to pay additional taxes to make up the deficit.

From 1884 to 1888, including two years of the big real estate boom, where there was a flood of transfers daily, three people did the work of the register's office and did it well. Today, with not as much daily business, eleven men are at work in the office. Is it any wonder that a deficit is being piled up this year? For this state of things the county commissioners are responsible. They can reduce the force so that the office will return a revenue to the county instead of producing a deficit. The county should get at least $3000 surplus revenue yearly from the register's office. The manner in which the office is now conducted means that the taxpayers are being robbed to provide places for the friends of the political bosses to whom the register owes his nomination.

IGNORANT OR WORSE.

The gold monometallist papers never lose any opportunity to throw cold water upon the idea that bimetallism can be secured by international agreement, and they do not hesitate to misrepresent the situation in the most brazen manner. Possibly in some cases the misrepresentations may be the result of ignorance, because there is evidence that many of the gold standard papers, and not a few free silver papers also, have given the subject very little or no study and are incompetent to discuss it intelligently.

These remarks are prompted by the following, which appeared in a recent issue of the Evening Wisconsin, of Milwaukee, the leading evening newspaper of that state: "Though it is reported that Germany will favor an international monetary conference, even if it is called the result will not be favorable to silver, for the reason that England will adhere to the gold standard, and Germany will also, for Prince Bismarck still exerts a vast influence on German legislation. He is the father of the gold standard in Germany, and he is not likely to yield to the advocates of silver as long as England stands out."

If the Wisconsin writer was well informed he would know that both the assertions made in the above paragraph are very far removed from the truth. By what authority does he claim that England will adhere to the gold standard and consequently will not join in an international conference to agree on a plan of bimetallism? The new premier of England, Lord Salisbury, is very favorably disposed towards bimetallism. The new first lord of the treasury, Mr. Balfour, who is also a nephew of Premier Salisbury, is one of the most prominent advocates of bimetallism in England. He is a leading member of the English Bimetallic league and loses no chance to express his sympathy with the movement and to advocate the remonetization of silver. Other members of the new cabinet are reputed to share Mr. Balfour's views on this question. If Germany calls an international monetary conference it is certain that Great Britain will send representatives, and it is hardly likely that Lord Salisbury and Mr. Balfour will appoint delegates who are not friendly to bimetallism.

The Wisconsin also solemnly asserts that Germany will adhere to the gold standard, because Bismarck still exerts a vast influence on German legislation, and he is the father of the gold standard in Germany. There is no doubt about Bismarck's influence or that he introduced the gold standard in Germany, but if the Wisconsin editor had read recent interviews with the ex-chancellor it would have seen that he has taken a stand in favor of bimetallism and has expressed regret that he is chargeable with the paternity of the gold standard in "the fatherland." In extenuation of his mistake in abandoning bimetallism, he pleads that he yielded to the advice of the financial experts at that time, although contrary to his own views. It will thus be seen that Bismarck's influence will be on the side of an international agreement on bimetallism. When the Wisconsin displays such dense ignorance on the progress of bimetallism in Europe, it lays itself open to the charge of deliberate misrepresentation, and The Herald can hardly believe that it would stoop to such despicable methods to score a point against bimetallism.

ARCTIC EXPLORATION.

A few days ago the members of the Greenland scientific expedition of 1895 sailed on the steamship Portia from Brooklyn to bring back Lieut. Peary and the two companions who have shared with him the perils of the past winter in the Arctic regions. At St. John's, N. F., they will take the steamer Kite and will sail for Greenland. It is expected the Kite will reach St. John's on her return about Oct. 1, when definite news will be forthcoming as to the safety of the bold explorer, who has now faced the perils of the Arctic region since August, 1893. Lieut. Peary's expedition of 1891, which sailed June 6 of that year and returned in September of 1892, has been gracefully and graphically described by Mrs. Peary in her "Arctic Journal." The members of this expedition numbered but five besides Lieut. Peary and his wife. One of these was Matthew Henson, Peary's faithful colored servant, who is one of the two persons who remained with him last fall.

In August, 1893, Lieut. Peary, again accompanied by Mrs. Peary, returned to Greenland and established his headquarters at the head of Bowdoin bay, christening their new home "Anniversary Lodge," so called because they expected to celebrate at least two more anniversaries there. In July, 1894, the steamer Falcon sailed from St. John's, N. F., with the Peary auxiliary expedition, for the purpose of bringing the explorer and his companions back to the United States. The Falcon in September brought back Mrs. Peary and all the other members of the party except Lieut. Peary, Hugh J. Lee and Matthew Henson.

Lieut. Peary determined to remain in order to complete, if possible, the work which he had mapped out, and which sickness and severe weather had interfered with. In a few months, if not sooner, the world will learn whether he has been able to add anything of a substantial nature to the fruits of the expedition of 1891-2. The main results of that expedition, as summarized in a note to his wife's Journal, were "the determination of the rapid convergence of the shores of Greenland above the seventy-eighth parallel of latitude and consequently the practical demonstration of the insularity of this great land mass; the discovery of the existence of ice-free land masses to the northward of Greenland; and the delineation of the northward extension of the Greeland ice-cap."

Sometimes you see children propped up on bicycles in front of fond fathers, but it is an extremely dangerous practice. An expert cycling authority says: "Parental fondness is apt to run to foolish extremes in the carrying of infants on bicycles. So long as the contrivance in which the child is seated is securely fastened, and the parent is careful, the liability to accident may be reduced to a certain extent, but the folly and danger of the whole thing is readily apparent to a person possessing sound judgment. In the first place, the bicycle is not made for the purpose of carrying a child in a seat attached to the handle bars, seat post or upper part of the frame, or in any other manner. It is impossible to keep under control a bicycle thus equipped, and to jeopardize the lives of tender infants by placing them on an overweighted, overbalanced bicycle, incapable of being controlled at critical moments by the rider, is little short of criminal ignorance."

It is said that the senior class book at Yale this year shows the average expenses to be $912 for the freshman, $943 for the sophomore and $942 for the junior and senior years. It will not do, the Chicago Record says, to suppose that these items include only necessary expenses, and there is nothing more misleading than figures dealing with averages. If a village had 1000 men in it, of whom 999 were paupers and one a millionaire, the average wealth would be $1000. In the same way a few extravagant young men in a class, who lived expensively, would bring the average of the expenses so high as to be no sort of indication as to the amount necessary to take a young man through the course in a respectable or even generous manner. The sum expended above $400 a year by a student in an average American college is the measure of extravagance in which the student has indulged.

After all the discussion about the microbe and the bacillus and the endeavors to find something to kill these disease germs, we are now told that they are an absolute necessity. A bacteriologist declares that healthy, red-blood-making digestion is impossible without the aid and consent of the microbe and the other unpronounceable things that associate with him. The situation now seems to be, says the St. Louis Star-Sayings, that if we escape bacteria entirely, we are just as bad off as if we make an apartment house of our entire system for the accommodation of these bugaboos of science. The question as to whether we admitted or excluded the right gang of wandering microbes can be satisfactorily settled only by a post-mortem examination, which, after all, seems to be the most frequent way out of most of the labyrinths into which medical science leads us.

The Richmond, Va., Times thinks it is horrible for "hotel keepers to have to serve colored people as they do white." It says such a law "to a Southerner has a weird sound, but it serves those right who would support a party capable of enacting such a law." The Chicago Inter-Ocean expresses the belief that the editor was in all probability brought up by a colored nurse.

The number of immigrants arriving during the first ten months of this fiscal year is 193,621; at this rate the number for the whole year will be 222,345. Since 1880 no such small number had been registered. The immigration of 1893 added 502,917 to our population, that of 1880 added 669,431. In 1882 the number of immigrants was 778,992; in 1887 it was 546,889.

That the free silver sentiment in Missouri is strong and influential, says the Chicago Record, is shown by the fact that the silver wing of the Democratic party bids fair to succeed in its attempt to force the state central committee to call a convention similar to that held at Springfield under the call of the Illinois Democratic state central committee.

Lord Rosebery is said to have started his career with three ambitions—first, to marry the richest heiress in England; second, to become premier, and third, to win the derby. He succeeded in all three ambitions. He won the derby twice, and will probably try to secure the premiership again.

Alderman Peter Maguire, of Paterson, N. J., is reported to have voted against an ordinance providing for twenty-seven new policemen on the ground that he (Maguire) was opposed to the use of physical force to execute the laws.

The letter carriers in a number of leading cities have been under espionage for about six months, and the inspectors have made special reports on all slow work or inattention to their duties.

Dr. William T. Harris, the United States commissioner of education, states in his report for 1894 that the total number of pupils in all the schools was 15,530,268, an increase of 450,000 over the previous year.

Boss Croker says "there is too much restriction of individual liberty in America." Boss McKane, formerly of Gravesend and now of Sing Sing, endorses the statement.

Another indication of the return of prosperity is reported. There are more young men at summer resorts than last year.

THE ROUNDER.

There were a number of comical coincidences at the recent Medical society meeting here, just as there are at any other convention, and not all of them found their way into the newspapers. The doctors can appreciate a joke just as well as anyone else and with the assistance of President Ohage, who has a great big bump of wit and humor there were any number of laughs.

One of the incidents which created a little amusement will bear repeating, to Duluth people at least. A resolution was offered by a Twin City man requesting the state board to locate the new hospital for insane between St. Paul and Minneapolis. He supported his motion in a short speech saying that St. Paul and Minneapolis furnish a large portion of the insane patients—at least 400 a year—and that it is advisable anyway to have the state hospitals near large cities where medical consultation can be easily obtained. His arguments were generally conceded to be good.

One rather waggish individual had listened to this with interest and as the Twin City man sat down arose with a twinkle in his eye, but with a perfectly grave face and said:

"I endorse the gentleman's resolution and believe that the Twin Cities do need the hospital. The great growth of this superb city at the head of the lakes has been watched by the entire state and it is truly causing an increase in insanity among the St. Paul and Minneapolis people who see their supremacy being rapidly wrested from them. In fact it has been common comment that the people of those cities are being driven insane. With the continued progress of Duluth it is fair to presume that this insanity will show a greater increase and I say, by all means give the Twin Cities the hospital."

The author of the resolution was slightly stung by this and in a dignified and chilly manner announced that it was not a funny matter nor one to be made light of, but was of a decidedly serious nature.

The other man remarked quietly that he thought so, too, and then there was another laugh. The Twin City man got his resolution through, nevertheless.

R. C. Stone, manager of the Dress Stay company, has returned from a trip through the Southwest.

"I noticed a general improvement in business in all the country I visited," he said, "but in no city did I see streets so busy and business so brisk as it appears to be in Duluth. The weather throughout the Southwest was insufferable. The day was a torment and the heat at night was so intense that rest was impossible."

"Duluth and Buffalo are bound to be the greatest cities in the United States." That is the prophecy of W. G. Alexander, who is visiting friends in the city. He delivered a course of lectures here a year ago, and since that time has been all over the United States and Canada in his travels. And he continues his prophecy by saying, "Fortunate indeed is the man who holds Duluth real estate."

After the heavy rain of Sunday morning a scene was witnessed in the Union depot which reminds one of Mrs. Partington, who tried to sweep the sea back with a broom. The space in the train shed where hacks and wagons usually stand was covered with six or eight inches of water, and a number of employes were vainly trying to bail it out with scoop shovels.

THE DOG TAX.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The public may not generally be aware that during the spring the city council passed a resolution whereby one half of the dog license money was to be turned over to the "Police Relief Fund" of the city; such, however, is the case. Now this was no doubt done with a view to more efficient enforcement of the dog ordinance and the collection of the fines. The results so far this year show the wisdom of our city fathers, for notwithstanding hard times, the collections to date for this year's tax have exceeded $1600, as against something over $1100 for last year. From this it is evident what a little extra inducement will effect in stimulating police duty even in so small a matter. But by what authority of law do our aldermen undertake to allot public money for private uses? If so charitably disposed why not appropriate this money for our hospitals or relief societies which are always in need, and yet are dependent almost entirely on individual charity for their support? Many might not object so strongly to this, but on the other hand our police force is well paid and should not have to be reimbursed to perform a duty which they are already sworn to do.

The time has come when such gross usurpation of public funds should cease; the motive may be ever so excellent but the precedent cannot be too strongly condemned, because if allowed to exist it could be carried to any extent. It would be wise for our city council to take advice in time and to revoke, without delay, the resolution which they passed and thus save the city the cost of injunction proceedings which will otherwise surely follow. Taxpayer.

TO FIX A COAL RATE.

Pittsburg, June 26.—A special meeting of the Coal Operators association has been called for Friday afternoon to receive the report of the strike committee. It is rumored that the real object of the meeting is to make a uniform rate of 55 cents per ton throughout the district. The rates now paid vary from 55 to 60 cents.

POTTERY BURNS—TWO INJURED.

Pittsburg, June 26.—The Keystone pottery at Rochester, Pa., near here burned this morning. The loss was about $50,000, with insurance in the Lloyds company of $30,000. Two employes were badly injured by a falling wall.

CHICAGO MEATS.

Biased Report in China Concerning Them.

Washington, June 26.—Consul Fowler at Ningpo, China, has sent to the state department a clipping from the China Gazette, published at Shanghai, containing an article which was evidently first printed in the medical press and circular, as it is credited to that publication. The article says:

"Some very harrowing details are to hand concerning the preparation and packing of meat at Chicago for export. It is stated on what appears to be good authority that the precaution enjoined with the object of preventing the use of flesh from animals suffering from actinomy-oosis, that newly discovered and terrible fungoid disease, are systematically set at naught by unscrupulous persons.

"Even more revolting are the details of the preparation of extracts of beef, which are offered to the public in dainty cans, but are often made from the sweepings and drainings of the refuse from the canning rooms and cellars. The tanks of this extract of filth are left open and the bodies of dead rats, in an advanced state of decomposition, are from time to time withdrawn before the delicious and nourishing compound is put in the jars aforesaid. No analysis or other method of examination can be relied upon to reveal the antecedents of these extracts.'"

Mr. Fowler suggested that the clipping be handed to the secretary of agriculture for such action as he may deem proper, and adds: "The animus of such articles is not hard to divine, for it is well known that the market for American canned meats, etc., is a large and constantly increasing one in the orient, consequently the demand for the products of Europe are fast diminishing. The newspapers of the whole East are entirely in the hands of the English and they never let an opportunity pass whereby they can make some disparaging remarks upon America, Americans and American products."

FREIGHT CAR THIEVES.

Two Slick Operators Were Arrested in Spokane.

Spokane, Wash., June 26.—The authorities here have arrested two freight car thieves operating in the West. Their plan was to spot a freight car they desired to pillage, spring the doors at a station and board the train, and when it was in motion throw off what they wanted. When the train slowed up, they would drop off and go back and pick up their plunder. A short time ago two men went to a second hand store here and offered to dispose of a lot of goods they had concealed a few miles east of Spokane, on the line of the Northern Pacific.

The dealer communicated with Chief of Police Mertz and directed him to go ahead and buy the goods. They did this and last night the thieves went to the place with a wagon and secured $300 worth of dry goods, boots and shoes and started back to town. The officers were stationed on the road and placed them under arrest. They have also been operating on the Great Northern. It is thought the men are part of an organized gang.

CORRECTS THE REPORTS.

New York, June 26.—At the office of the American Fire Insurance, President pro tem Downer, who succeeded Provisional President Cornelius, in the management of the company, was busily engaged preparing a statement of the condition of the company which he said was not rightly represented in the report of the insurance superintendent published in the newspapers this morning. He said the present condition of the company is very different from what it was at the time that the report was prepared, owing to the fact that the unexpired business of the country had been reinsured and that the company has netted quite a sum on commissions. President Silas P. Wood said, "our capital is now practically intact and a meeting of the executive is called for this afternoon when it will be made entirely so."

PRESIDENTIAL APPOINTMENTS.

Washington, June 26.—The following appointments by the president were announced at the White House today: Elias E. Dorsey, Denver, to be receiver of public moneys at Denver. Aaron M. Gamble to be third lieutenant in the revenue marine service.

AN UNLUCKY NUMBER.

Denver, June 26.—The grand jury has indicted thirteen prominent citizens of this city for renting houses for immoral purposes. As this is the first time a crusade against vice has been undertaken on these lines in Denver, the movement is exciting a great deal of interest.

RECEIVER APPOINTED.

Cleveland, June 26.—Thomas W. Hill, cashier of the Cleveland National bank, has been appointed a receiver for the Lorain Manufacturing company. Suit was brought by Adolph Pollock to subject stockholders liabilities. The bond is $100,000. Louis J. Grossman, one of the interested parties, says the concern will pay 100 cents on the dollar.

NOMENCLATURE THE CAUSE?

Chicago, June 26.—During a quarrel last night, Joseph Syskonski, who was intoxicated, shot and fatally wounded John Pysemski and then shot and slightly wounded Frank Clinger and Andrew Lokowski. Synskonski was arrested.

CHEAP RATES TO DENVER.

The convention of the National Education association will be held this year, July 5 to 12, at Denver, Colo. KNIGHTS TEMPLAR ELECT.

The Officers Chosen at the Annual Conclave.

The thirteenth annual conclave of the grand commandery, Minnesota Knights Templar, was held at St. Cloud Monday. About one hundred delegates were present, including prominent men from all parts of the state and representing commanderies at St. Paul, Minneapolis, Winona, Mankato, Owatonna, Red Wing, Stillwater, Albert Lea, Austin, Redwood Falls, Brainerd, Duluth, Luverne, St. Cloud and Preston. The report of Grand Commander W. H. S. Wright, of St. Paul, showed a large increase in the membership.

The afternoon session was taken up with the discussion of the report of the committee on revision of the constitution and by-laws. Recommendations of changes affecting the government of the grand commandery were adopted. At the evening session the following officers were elected: H. E. Whitney, Faribault, grand commander; John H. Randall, Minneapolis, deputy grand commander; Benjamin F. Farmer, Spring Valley, grand generalissimo; O. C. Chase, Fergus Falls, grand captain general; George H. Davis, Mankato, grand prelate; E. H. Milham, St. Paul, grand senior warden; J. C. Monro, St. Cloud, grand junior warden; J. G. McFarlane, Minneapolis, grand treasurer; Thomas Montgomery, St. Paul, grand recorder; W. E. Richardson, Duluth, grand standard bearer; T. E. Mercer, Minneapolis, grand sword bearer; O. M. Metcalf, St. Paul, grand warden. It was decided to hold the next general conclave at Stillwater on June 24, of next year.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

IS LOSING

Register of Deeds' Office Running at a Loss This Year.

Large Force of Clerks Maintained There is Causing the Deficit.

Poor House Addition Scheme ---A Threatened Drain on the Tax Payers.

A short time ago the time came around with its usual promptness and exasperating surety for property owners to waltz up to the treasurer's office and pay their taxes. For several days the scene was a busy one, and the full force of the office was kept busy receiving money and making out receipts.

In such trying times there is usually more or less profanity. This time was no exception, and the rafters of the treasurer's office are said to be badly scorched as a result of the surprise of different gentlemen when they found out what their taxes amounted to. It is a pretty expensive thing to run a county of St. Louis' size, and when those who pay for the whole thing are concentrated in so small a compass as the inhabitants of St. Louis county are in comparison to the size of the county, the burden becomes noticeable to individuals. Therefore any unnecessary addition to the county's expenses should not only be frowned upon, but stepped upon, and that decisively.

It must be confessed that the political system of spoils is in a large measure responsible for heavy taxes, and the result of this system will be shown up when the county comes to figure up its expenses for 1895. There are many men now working for the county who are entirely unnecessary, and who would not have their jobs were it not for the pressure of the successful candidate's friends, who insist upon recognition for their services.

IS LOSING MONEY.

The office of the register of deeds now employs eleven people, including the register, P. J. Borgstrom, who receives a salary of $3000. The salaries of the others run from $50 up to $125 a month. Perhaps none of these salaries are excessive, but this year, for the first time within the records, the register's office is losing money for the county instead of turning over a surplus each month.

These eleven people are more than any other office in the court house employs, and more than any office ever employed. Yet the business of the office is not so great as that of other offices, nor is it so great as it has been in other years. During last year nine was the highest number employed.

From 1884 to 1888, including two years of the big real estate boom, when property was changing hands daily, three people did the work of the office, though there was fully as much work as there is this year so far. Up to Jan. 1, 1895, the office was conducted so that a surplus above expenses was turned over nearly every month. Every month since then there has been a deficit.

Last year the office cleared nearly $2000, and there was less business than there is this year. For the first five months of 1894 the office received $201.39 above all expenses. For the first five months of this year there is a deficit of over $725, which must come out of the pockets of taxpayers.

EXTENT OF THE DEFICIT.

For January, 1895, the receipts were $650.35 and the pay roll amounted to $860. In February the receipts were $696.89 and the pay roll was $875. In March $874.26 was received and the pay roll was $930. In April $800.30 was received and $920 was paid out in salaries. Nn May $794.93 was received and the pay roll was $930.

The total deficit, counting salaries alone, is $408.87. At least $25 a month for postage, express, etc., must be counted, making a total deficit of $733.87 for the first five months of this year. At that rate the office will be an expensive one for the county before the end of the year.

The office used to be a fee office instead of a salaried office. Does anyone believe that there was a deficit then? Did any of the registers who held office under the fee system pay the running expenses of the office out of their pockets, securing only glory as a recompense for their work? Nay, nay. Then there is no reason why the county should pay such a difference between receipts and expenditures now.

A business man, in speaking to a Herald reporter about the matter the other day, said: "I would give a bond to make the office clear at least $3000 a year to the county under the worst circumstances." And it should clear that amount instead of being an expense to the county.

FORCE RECEIVES VACATIONS.

At present business in the office is lighter even than it has been. Thirty-five papers a day is a fair average, while in more prosperous times, with a smaller force, eighty papers a day has been the rule at times. Yet the same full force is continued, and they are receiving two weeks' vacation each at the county's expense.

The vacation is all right. It is a good thing for both employer and employe, and The Herald does not wish to rob the employes of the register's office of their pleasure. But business men with property on which taxes are due cannot afford to take vacations, but must stay at work and hustle in order to make both ends meet. It would seem to the man who views the above statements of facts and who looks in upon the register's office at any time, that there are more employes than the work would warrant, and that there is no excuse for the failure of the office to pay for itself.

POOR HOUSE ADDITION.

Another thing to which the attention of taxpayers should be drawn is the proposed addition to the poor house. One of the commissioners has been making a personal "hustle" to get this thing built this summer, to be ready for occupancy by fall. It has not yet come up, but it probably will at the June meeting of the commissioners.

It is proposed to erect an addition to the poor house 100 feet in length by 75 feet in breadth, at an estimated cost of $8000 to $10,000. This addition is to include an infirmary, in which consumptives, lying-in patients, incurables and convalescents who demand a minimum of care and need only quiet and comfortable surroundings. All such are now kept in hospitals at a cost of $4.50 per week.

The arguments in favor of this proposition are good ones as far as they go. Here is one: These patients could be cared for by the county cheaper than at the hospitals, as board costs about $1.05 at the poor house as against $4.50 at the hospital; therefore, it is argued, the place would pay for itself in a short time. The other stock argument is that the poor house is inadequate and that more room is necessary.

These points are both good. There are many patients now kept at hospitals, such as those mentioned above, who could be cared for cheaper at the poor house were there accommodations. The addition would pay for itself in time, but not in two or three years, or even five years. Perhaps it would in the latter period, but in the meantime there are other considerations.

VISITED THE FARM.

A short time ago, thanks to the kindness of Commissioner Dinham, a Herald man was enabled to look over the poor house and to listen to the above arguments in favor of building the addition. The farm is in a better condition than it ever has been before, and the house is neat, clean and cheerful, thanks to the efficient superintendence of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Rockwell.

There is no doubt that at times there is not sufficient room, especially during the meal hours in the dining room, which is small. But at a pinch the house will hold seventy-five people, and while it is not what it should be by any means, when conditions prevent a betterment, it can be made to do for another year. The average number of inmates is not over fifty-five, and at present there are but forty-three.

In a recent article on the subject the morning paper said that "the upstairs wards have little or no ventilation. This is not true. There is one small room in which the ventilation is vile, and on that account the room is not fit for a human being to live in. But in the larger wards, and, indeed, in every other part of the building, the ventilation is excellent.

Ultimately the addition will be needed. But this year, when the county's funds are so low and business is not yet quite out of the doldrums, most taxpayers say it should not be built or thought of by any means. The money would have to be provided outside of the regular poor fund, and if the commissioners should vote to build, the auditor would be justified in refusing to sign orders for money to be used in that way.

ANOTHER PROPOSED DRAIN.

Another threatened drain is the creation of the office of supervisor of assessments, which was authorized by the late legislature. The matter has come up several times in the board meetings, but nothing has yet been done decisively, except at the last meeting, when Commissioner Dinham introduced a resolution appointing E. C. Holliday to the position. The resolution did not receive a second and it was therefore lost.

Doubtless the legislature authorized the creation of this office with the best intentions in the world, but nobody has yet shown that the salary which the officer will receive will bring the slightest return to the county which employs him. To be sure, the office gives those in power an opportunity to repay those who aided in placing them in power, but the idea that the county government is a source of political pap is not the correct one.

It remains yet to be shown that the county needs such an officer at all. There are always difficulties about taxes and assessments, but it is the general opinion among business men who have looked at the matter that a supervisor will not be able to bring about a different state of things.

The following expression of opinion of a prominent citizen who occupies one of the highest positions in the county seems to fit the situation in about as few words as possible: "It will not remedy a single evil, and it is an entirely useless expense."

Painless Dentistry.

The most sensitive teeth may now be filled without pain. By a combination of anaesthetics the worst kind of decayed teeth and old roots may be extracted positively without pain or danger to the patient. Hundreds, yes, thousands in this city can attest to this fact and if you are not aware of it, ask your friends or neighbors. Endorsed by physicians. This anaesthetic is a new and happy combination of gaseous compounds. NOT A DROP OF CHLOROFORM, ETHER OR COCAINE ENTERS INTO ITS COMPOSITION. It is the safest, most harmless and pleasant of all anaesthetics. Dentists who sometimes have patients they cannot control on account of hypersensitive dentine, nervousness or irritability will do no better and owe a duty to them by sending them to me. Physicians treating cases of chronic pyaemia (BLOOD POISONING) originating from deseased teeth, nervous prostration, or weakness peculiar to women, who never get well and on account of which the teeth are often a common factor, can confer no greater benefit than to advise this anaesthetic for the extraction of their teeth, (the entire set without pain or danger and at one sitting.) If your teeth need filling or extracting, be convinced. If you do not find it to your entire satisfaction, no charges will be made. Respectfully,

W. W. Schiffman,

400-401-402 Woodbridge building, opposite Howard & Haydle's.

FLOUR RATE BASIS.

Descent of Five Cents in Rates Threatened.

Though the flour rate basis is theoretically maintained the rates themselves could hardly be more sorrowfully tangled. An abrupt descent of 5 cents is threatened. To get the business lake managers must break the pool, for now the lake and rail rate from Duluth is 2½ cents higher instead of 2½ cents lower than from Chicago. If the lake men stand by their pool and the basis is maintained the rail lines via Chicago will get nearly all the tonnage. The situation is very critical.

Flour carrying lines at St. Paul met in the office of General Freight Agent Clark, of the Omaha, Monday morning to meet the horrible complication arising from Eastern cuts as best they could, and decided on a proportional rate of 10 cents for St. Paul-Chicago lines, which makes a through basis, all rail, of 25 cents, as against 30 cents hitherto in effect. The basis of lake and rail rates via Duluth will ostensibly remain at 22½ till the general managers get together and decide on the lake rate from Duluth.

The present arrangement is eminently satisfactory to the St. Paul-Chicago lines, but the Northern lines cannot endure it. If the general managers of the lake lines decide to maintain the regular differential the rate from Duluth will become 12½ cents and from Minneapolis 17½ cents. Then the rail lines to Chicago would seek a prorating arrangement with the lake and rail lines from Chicago and Milwaukee to meet these low rates, and terribly complicated demoralization would follow. If existing relations are not mended immediately the basis will surely be wrecked.

It was charged at the meeting that one Milwaukee line applied the lake and rail proportion of 8 2-10 cents across lake to the through differential rail rate. The line repudiated the charge and agreed to maintain the 10 cents, making the cross lake rate 23 cents, as against the lowest rate of 22½ cent from Minneapolis via Duluth. St. Paul lines can do no more until they find out whether the lake pool or the flour basis is to be sacrificed.

THE CROWD GROWS.

The Pavilion Entertainment is Drawing Immense Houses.

If last night's audience is any criterion the Pavilion is increasing its already great hold upon the popular fancy. Every available seat was filled, and when the applause came, as it frequently did, it made the welkin ring with echoes. And the performance fully justifies every particle of enthusiasm one is capable of. There were Japs of assorted sizes, who performed all kinds of wonderful acrobatic feats. The little brown men have scored a decided success, and keep the observer in a state of mingled delight and wonder.

Then the Clara Schuman orchestra was decidedly popular, especially among the young men. The twenty young ladies who compose the organization would draw a genuine music-lover up the hill, even if he had to walk.

Edith Cline Ford, the engaging and brilliant elocutionist, is always interesting with her readings. She is possessed of talent in a high degree, and understands perfectly the limitations of her art.

Diana floats across the stage like a thing of ethereal beauty. There is a wave of electric light, a glimpse of iridescent draperies and the Chameleon dances are over all too soon. Great is Diana, of the Pavilion.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.

Not long ago the Board of Trade baseball nine issued a general challenge for a game. Yesterday the Marshall-Wells Hardware company employes sent a formal acceptance of the challenge through George Springer, their manager. The game is to be played July 6 at 3 p. m. on grounds to be chosen by the challenging nine.

SIX O'CLOCK.

WEARY WOMEN WATCH FOR THAT BLESSED HOUR.

Help for our Working-Girls and Women Near at Hand.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

IN the stroke of six ends the day's work at stores, offices, factories, mills, where women are employed. But their necessary work at home, sewing, mending, etc., must be done after that time, and "their work is never done."

All women work; some for ambition, some for economy in the household, but the great mass of women work for their daily bread. All are subject to the same physical laws; all suffer alike from the same physical disturbances, and the nature of their duties often quickly drifts them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, ovarian troubles, inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, leucorrhœa, and perhaps irregular or suppressed "monthly periods," causing severe backache, loss of appetite, nervousness, irritability and weakness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for all these troubles. It strengthens the proper muscles, and cures displacement.

Backache, dizziness, fainting, bearing-down, disordered stomach, moodiness, dislike of friends and society—all symptoms of the one cause—will be quickly dispelled. Write Mrs. Pinkham about your trouble.

You can tell the story of your pain to a woman, and get the help that only woman can give. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

PACKED AGAIN.

Wilburs Crowded the Lyceum to the Doors Last Night.

"Boccaccio" as given by the Wilburs last evening, before the usual crowded house, was simply an added success to the long list which this company has scored during the present engagement. Miss Mortimer's Boccaccio, while fully as pleasingly taken as any of her other parts, was not quite so prominent in comparison with the balance of the cast as usual. Miss Richardson was really entitled to first place in the honors of the evening, and she received and graciously responded to several very hearty encores in the character of Flametta. Miss Bolton as Peronella was very good and Miss Kurz as Isabella made the most of an awkward part. Mr. Conly as Pietro had a rather weak character to sustain, but did it well, and the comic trio—Mr. Kohnle as Lambertuccio, Mr. Amsden as Lotteringhi, and Mr. Vaughan as Scalza convulsed the entire audience. The coopers chorus in the second act received a liberal encore. The Checco of Mr. Pincus was well done.

The pictures, as usual, were a success and in the one entitled "Jack and Me," the audience were treated to a diversion which, while it pleased them, must have sorely vexed Miss Daniel's artistic heart. Jack (the dog) walked off the picture leaving only his tail visible, to which the child clung in sheer desperation. It was unavoidable, but very funny. Tonight "Dorothy" will be given, and the "Merry War" was set for this afternoon's matinee. Tomorrow afternoon "The Bohemian Girl" will be sung at the matinee.

THE BIG SHOWS.

Lemen Brothers' Circus Coming Here Next Monday.

The children here and roundabout are in the ninth heaven of ecstacy in anticipation of Lemen Bros.' big shows. Almost every child who attends school has read or heard of Jumbo, who in his days was the largest elephant in the world. He was owned by P. T. Barnum and was killed in a railroad wreck in Canada about seven years ago. The present feature of Lemen Bros. is Rajah, who is two inches taller and weighs two tons more. So he is beyond a doubt the largest brute ever born to live, and was brought to this country in chains from India. The foreign agent of Lemen Bros. bought him from the rajah of India, paying a fortune for him as he is today the greatest feature in the show world. From all appearance the show will have immense audiences.

A kangaroo is the latest candidate for the boxing championship, and while Jim Corbett and Peter Jackson are screwing up their courage to accept the challenge, it is daily having a "mill" with its captor and trainer, Professor Landerman, with the great Lemen Bros.' shows. The animal fights under the marquis of Queensbury rules, shakes hands before starting, promptly ceases hostilities at the call of "time," and retires generally to his own corner between the rounds, though he is guilty of occasional lapses. At a recent contest the first day opened in favor of the man, but the kangaroo, after the third round, had not turned a hair, while his opponent was in a profuse perspiration. The exhibition is amusing and interesting in its way.

Lemen Bros.' circus will show here on July 1—next Monday.

Municipal Court.

There was a motley assembly of drunks in the municipal court this morning and Judge Edson was compelled to listen to a varied assortment of excuses, some of which were decidedly original. A. J. Johnson, Ole Lunberg, James Lynch and John Campbell will each work ten days for the city to make up for the good times they had last night. G. Blaisdell and Adolph Folker, who had been captured while sleeping in empty freight cars, were each taxed $5 and costs for their lodgings.

Then the case of Joseph Mechlik for assault in the third degree was called. Chauncey Ray Pattinson says Mechlik "did take hole of him, the said complainant, and violently threw him to the ground." Mechlik pleaded not guilty and his case was set for hearing June 29 at 10 a. m.

Mrs. Cameron Sues.

A Detroit dispatch says that Mrs. Mary E. Cameron, who ran away from that city with Samuel D. Mrs. Cameron is now said to be at Pike lake, employed in a hotel there.

ESCAPED

Two Section Men Had a Close Call at Ironton Today.

They Were Coming Down Grade When the Handcar Brake Broke.

Passenger Train Was Coming Along and Narrowly Missed Them.

Two section men on the St. Paul & Duluth railroad had an experience this morning that beat anything they ever met before. As a result their hair has been erect ever since and they have not been able to think or talk of anything else since. They escaped being jerked into the henceness through the agency of a passenger locomotive by a fraction of a second.

A side track which runs from the Ironton steel plant to the main line of the St. Paul & Duluth has an abrupt descent, on which a good deal of speed may be accumulated. The two section men were placidly pumping away on a hand car just before the passenger train came along. When the grade was reached the brake was applied, but it would not work, and away went the hand car.

As the descent was made the speed increased until it took the breath of the section men away, and when the junction was reached they were frantically clinging to the car. Just about that time the passenger train arrived on the scene, and the hand car slid upon the main track less than a second ahead of the train.

Had the train struck the hand car the section men would undoubtedly be going yet. The train stopped, and Conductor Sargent asked the scared men what was the matter.

"Vell, ve culd no help. The broke broke," responded one of the terrified men.

Suing Mr. Piper.

Judge Lewis' division of district court resumed operations this morning with the case of W. W. Strickland, Carrie M. Raberts against George F. Piper. It is claimed that in 1890 Piper sold 640 acres of land in the town site of St. Louis for $48,000 to N. C. Otis and J. H. Upham, and that the latter sold a quarter section to the plaintiffs.

Later it was discovered, so the complaint alleges, that the land was wild and unoccupied and furthermore that Piper had no title to it. Suit is brought for $4000, the amount of the cash payment made. Charles N. Clark has another suit upon the same grounds for $3000, he having purchased another quarter of the section sold to Otis and Upham.

KENTUCKY

Hardin, a Free Silver Man, Nominated for the Governorship.

Today's Proceedings Much Less Turbulent Than Yesterday's.

Progress in Work of Nominating the Entire List of Candidates.

Louisville, June 27.—After being in session two days and two nights, the Democratic state convention convened at 9:30 today for the third day's session. With the platform adopted yesterday and Gen. Hardin for governor and R. T. Tyler for lieutenant governor, nominated last night, the general interest has been eliminated, but there was the usual large attendance, and the delegates were on hand promptly.

For the other seven places on the state ticket there were many contestants, and an animated as well as protracted session was expected. The big banner reading, "Democracy and honest money" still hangs over the stage, but the issues today were not national. The pull for state favorites was even harder than for national affairs. The weather was hot and the delegates were weary today. Chairman Berry, in rapping for order, said the convention would not wait for prayer or anything else, but proceed at once to complete the nominations. For state treasurer the names of W. H. Gardner, John C. Herndon, W. C. Kendall and R. C. Ford were presented with such eloquent speeches as indicated no abatement of enthusiasm among the orators.

The ballot for state treasurer resulted: Gardner, 286; Herndon, 172; Kendall, 94½; Ford, 270½; E. N. Kenlon, 58. On a motion to drop the lowest after each ballot the name of Kenlon was withdrawn. As 440 votes were necessary for a choice, there was no nomination. The second ballot for state treasurer resulted: Gardner, 386; Herndon, 43; Ford, 459. Ford was declared the nominee.

For auditor of state Luke C. Norman was nominated by acclamation.

The committee on permanent organization reported the usual rules for the executive committee and state central committee. John B. Castleman and John M. Atherton were made the members-at-large of the committee on permanent organization of the party. Charles R. Long was made the chairman to manage the campaign. A resolution to increase the number of members-at-large was tabled.

For register of the land office the names of G. B. Swinglo, A. P. McCoy, R. F. Harrison, J. J. Glen and M. F. Brinkley were presented. The ballot resulted: Swinglo, 269; McCoy, 109; Harrison, 165; Glen, 207½; Brinkley, 271½. No nomination. G. B. Swinglo was nominated for register of the land office on the second ballot.

Nominations for attorney general were next. W. J. Hendricks, of Franklin county, was nominated by acclamation. A motion was then made to adjourn, but it was put down by a large majority.

ALMOST A BOOM.

Iron Manufacturers Are all Very Busy Now.

Cleveland, June 27.—The Iron Trade Review this week will say: The advance in iron and steel is gaining momentum every week, and while there is no concealment of the fear that things may be moving too rapidly for the health of the trade, nobody seems to be seriously trying to hold the market down. With their product engaged from sixty days to six months ahead, and inquiries and orders steadily growing, the mill and steel works are swinging along towards a condition that now lacks only a few of the chief elements of a boom. They are busier, meantime, in turning down orders that cannot be filled, than in figuring about the success of the demand, or trying to determine how long the present rate will keep up.

The call for structural material, that has been more and more a figure in steel consumption, the past few months, reached such a point in the present market week that the leading producers put up prices $3 a ton, making $1.45 cents the minimum. The Manhattan Elevated company contract, amounting to upwards of 3000 tons was placed in the week and went to Pittsburg. The advance in steel rails, from $22 to $24 Eastern mill, decided on at New York last week, has already been followed by buying. The Old Dominion lines contract for 1000 tons went to Pittsburg and some Central Western buying of lesser tonnage is reported.

LEGISLATURE MUST ACT.

Springfield, Ill., June 27.—Governor Altgeld this afternoon informed a committee from the Democratic house caucus that if the legislature now convened in special session adjourned without acting on the matters mentioned in his proclamation, he would in a week or two reassemble the legislature.

STRAWBOARD ADVANCED.

Chicago, June 27.—It was announced today that the American Strawboard company will on Aug. 1 advance its product $12.50 per ton, the new price being $32.50.

COAL PRICES UNCHANGED.

New York, June 27.—At a meeting of the railroad coal sales agents the old circular was reissued. Nothing was done in regard to prices. It was agreed that the output of coal for July should be about 75 per cent of this month's production. An adjournment was taken until July 2.

A LIBERAL GIFT.

Richmond, June 27.—Dr. D. K. Pearson has given $50,000 to Berea, Ky., college endowment fund.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Great Convention Gathering in Progress at Chattanooga.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 27.—The second international convention of the Epworth league is proving to be as large a demonstration as the most sanguine had expected. All of the bishops of the church are here except Bishop Vincent, who will not be able to attend. Twenty-five special trains have already arrived, with delegates from every state and territory in the United States. Five thousand visitors are already on the grounds. Trains bearing 5000 more are on the way. In addition to the trains, there are special excursions from adjoining states, which will bring the number of visitors to at least 15,000.

Among the most notable visitors may be mentioned Bishops Hendry, Galloway and O. P. Fitzgerald, Dr. Edwin A. Shell, secretry of the league; John Potts, of Toronto; and Dr. Steel, chairman of the general committee. A significant feature of the convention is the desire on the part of all to make it a big event, worthy of Chattanooga. Headquarters have been opened for the various state departments, and rallies of these departments are arranged in addition to the stated program.

The conference formally opened at 2:30 this afternoon, in the big tent, which has a seating capacity of 10,000, chair provisions for 1000, and reserved seats for 250 guests and seats for 100 representatives of the press. The huge tent was crowded at the opening session and an inspiring song, led by a chorus of 1000 voices started the great convention to work. The opening remarks were made by J. A. Patten, representing the Chattanooga committee. Eloquent addresses of welcome were delivered by Mayor George W. Oches, representing the city, and Rev. Dr. McFerrin, representing the Methodism of this city. Fraternal responses were given by Bishop E. R. Hendry, of Kansas City, representing the M. E. church south of that city. Bishop S. M. Merrill, of Chicago, for the M. E. church at large, and Rev. Dr. John Potts, of Canada, for the Canadian delegation. Following these speeches the conference was formally turned over to Dr. Steele, chairman of the general committee.

Tonight Bishop I. W. Joyce will preside and Bishop Galloway will deliver the conference sermon. A feature never before seen in a meeting of the size will occur tonight, in the administration of the sacrament of the Lord's supper to fully 10,000 people. At 2 o'clock tomorrow 3000 to 5000 delegates will make a pilgrimage to the top of Lookout mountain for the purpose of holding a sunrise prayer meeting above the clouds on the east brow of the mountain directly in front. The most significant feature of the conference is the absence of sectional and denominational feeling and the spirit of unity which prevails. Many of the most noted visitors are unhesitatingly in favor of wiping out the lines that separate the southern and northern divisions of the Methodist Episcopal church. This will probably not be mentioned in the conference, but it is frequently made the topic of conversation in fraternal gatherings of northern and southern delegates.

NOT OVER 10,000.

That is the Limit of Attorney Holman's Shortage.

St. Paul, June 27.—Senator Thompson, of Preston, called at the capitol this morning. He said that even if Attorney Holman proves to be a defaulter, the amount will not be over $10,000 at any rate. Some days before Holman left he sent the county treasurer several thousand dollars in cash and personal checks for $1300. The check was rejected at the bank because there were no funds with which to meet it. At any rate, Senator Thompson says, the county will lose nothing more than the $1300 for which the check called, and not that unless the county treasurer issued the tax receipts upon it.

Holman was not regularly authorized to collect the taxes in that end of the county, and if he has disappeared with any funds, the taxpayers from whom they were collected will have to make the loss good. Mrs. Holman has received letters from her husband daily, each letter saying he would be home the next day, but thus far he has not shown up. He is said to have been seen on a train between Austin and Faribault one day last week.

MUST STAY IN JAIL.

No New Trial Allowed for the Floyd Boys.

St. Paul, June 27.—The Floyd boys will have to serve out their terms in the penitentiary. Justice Collins, of the supreme court, this morning handed down a decision in which all of the members of the court concurred, denying the application for a new trial.

Among the other decisions was one of interest to Duluth people, that of Edmund Sherwood, respondent, vs. Roger S. Powell, appellant, in which the order of the lower court was affirmed. Other decisions were unimportant except to the immediate litigants.

THIER RELATIONS OFFENSIVE.

Columbus, O., June 27.—A house in Adams county occupied by Dyas Matheny and a Mrs. Pence, was blown to pieces by neighbors last night with dynamite and both were terribly injured. Cause, disapproval of the couple residing together.

A SEVERE TEST.

Louisville, June 27.—Paul Alexander Johnston, a mind reader, gave a performance today at a drug store to demonstrate the power he claims to possess. The test was severe, one of filling a prescription while he was blindfolded, the actual work being done through reading the mind of the prescription clerk.

'VARSITY

Yale Triumphs in Today's Great Race of Freshmen's Eights.

Blue First, Harvard Second and Columbia Third, Was the Result.

Pretty Race Between the Two First Crews of College Men.

New London, Conn., June 27.—The Harvard freshmen eight-oared crew, confident of victory, were defeated today by Yale, while Columbia was third in the annual triangular race over two miles of Thames' water. Coach Watson, of Harvard, is said recently to have stated that if his freshmen could not win this year there was little hope for his 'Varsity eight, which rows Yale tomorrow. Be that as it may, Mr. Watson after the race today was a severely disappointed man. Bob Cook, who coached Yale, and who has grown used to feeling well after London boating events, was serenely comfortable, though possibly somewhat surprised after the event of today. Mr. Peel, the rubicund coach of Columbia, saw his white and blue lads beaten with greater equanimity, as though he had not secured the prestige of Monday's victory.

The weather and water favored a good race. A fair southeast breeze was blowing up the course over an incoming tide, heavy clouds shaded the water, the attending steamers were well under control, and all things united to good racing and comfortable observation. Just above the railway bridge whence the crews were to row two miles up the river with the tide, was anchored a huge float. Yale's launch, with the freshmen aboard, and towing their shell, was the first to steam down from their quarters and anchor alongside the float. The shell was brought to the other side and the men deposited themselves in the light craft and pulled down below the bridge.

Harvard's little launch with Coach Watson and the Harvard crew aboard next drew to the float and entered their shell, pulling down below the starting line, so that Columbia might range for the float and board their shell which they did about 10:15 o'clock. All three crews then paddled about below the line until the referee's whistle summoned them to the stake boats. Referee Guy Richards lined up the crews, while Veteran Adee stood beside him to do official timnig, at 10:35 o'clock the word "go" was given.

Harvard first caught the water. Columbia's flashed next, while Yale in the middle course, was holding back. Harvard on the Groton side and the Columbia on the New London side, pulled each a half length ahead within six strokes. This order was soon broken, however. Harvard, after her short starting strokes, squared away in an effort for the lead, rowing within forty strokes to the minute. This told in the feet and inches of difference between the crimson and the blue, Harvard gaining on Yale and Yale overhauling Columbia by an equal distance at the quarter. As on yesterday there was no clear water between the shells.

Columbia grew ragged as she neared the first half mile, and it became thus early evident that the New York lads were outclassed by the two other crews. At the first half the time tells the story. Harvard went over the line in 2:18, Yale, half a length behind, came on swinging steady at thirty-eight strokes to the minute, in 2:20, while there was then clear water between Yale and Columbia, who rowed gamely, though ragged, nearly two lengths behind Harvard, in 2:25. Entering the second half of the first mile, Columbia's bow man caught a "crab" and broke the fastening bar of his rowlock. Thence onward the bow was a load in the boat. He was scarcely able to pull his weight. There was distress, too, in Yale's boat; No. 2 was losing his first wind and No. 4 in Harvard's shell was bucking his oar. The crimson crew were in ragged form.

Yale, though distressed, was pulling along gamely at thirty-four strokes to the minute as the shells passed the first mile flags. She was then lapping Harvard by one-third of a length, and her time at the mile was 4:58. One-quarter of a second later came the crimson shell, while Columbia trailed over three clear boat lengths in the rear in 5:15. Thence the race was Yale's, though by an exceedingly slender margin. The margin grew, however, from the first mile flags. No. 2 in Yale's boat had gained his second wind and was again bending his back on the oar with some power. Harvard's men had dropped their stroke to a weary swing at thirty-two and thirty-four strokes. Columbia was losing momentarily. Her bow man frequently unshipped his oar and his comrades were obliged to carry his dead weight until he was able to replace the blade.

The closing of the race, viewed broadly, so that the distress in neither of the leading shells was evident, was close and spirited. The nearness of Harvard to Yale kept alive the crimson hope of the winning spurt. It was not in the boat, however, and Yale went over the two mile and finish line in 10 m 28 sec. Harvard crossed in 10:33, a length behind, while poor Columbia, with a doubled outrigger, finished in 11:18½ from the start, about sixteen lengths behind Yale.

The official time was: First half, Harvard, 2:18; Yale, 2:20; Columbia, 2:25. First mile, Yale, 5:08; Harvard, 5:05; Columbia, 5:15. Second mile and finish, Yale, 10:28; Harvard, 10:33; Columbia, 11:18½. Yale won by over a length.

BLOODY AFFRAY.

Caused by an Article in an Oklahoma Paper.

South Enid, Okla., June 27.—R. W. Patterson, register of the United States land office at this place, and City Marshal Williams lie dead at the city morgue, while J. L. Isenburg, editor of the Daily Wave, is badly wounded, the result of a sensational street fight that occurred here last evening. Isenburg will recover.

The cause of the tragedy was a criticism of Patterson written by Isenburg in his paper. The objectionable write-up appeared in yesterday's afternoon paper and no sooner had Patterson read it than he started on a search for Editor Isenburg. The men met on the main street at 7 o'clock in the evening. A prelude of angry words was almost immediately followed by blows. Several passes at one another had been made when Patterson flashed a revolver and began shooting. Several shots were fired before Isenburg could seek cover, one ball taking effect at the outer edge of the left eye and producing a painful wound. In the midst of the fracas Marshal Williams appeared upon the scene when Patterson turned his gun upon him. His first shot caught Williams in the right breast, passing clean through the lung. Before Williams dropped he whipped out his revolver and managed to fire at his would-be murderer. Unsteady as was his nerve Williams' bullet was true, taking Patterson in the forehead and killing him instantly. Williams was carried by on-lookers of the tragedy to a doctor's office near by but he was beyond hope and died within an hour.

Editor Isenburg meanwhile had himself found treatment and at a late hour was resting easy. Patterson's body was removed to the morgue where it rests near by that of Williams. Patterson leaves a widow and three little girls, while Williams leaves a widow and one child. The city tonight is in a state of intense excitement over the tragedy.

CLAYTON'S OPINION.

Says Southern Republicans Favor McKinley.

St. Louis, June 27.—Gen. Powell Clayton, of Arkansas, is stopping at the Planter's with his wife. He arrived today from Cleveland, where he had been attending the Republican league convention. Gen. Clayton was seen and asked why the Republicans took no action on the silver question at the convention.

"There was no dodging," he said, "The constitution of the organization prohibits the making of a platform and for this reason no open declaration on the question could have been made. Had there been any expression on the monetary question, however, I am confident that it would have been in favor of a gold standard, for the proportion of silverites in the convention was small.

"Who will be the next Republican candidate for president?"

"Well, its a long way off yet, but the Southern Republicans are in favor of McKinley. He is one of the few Eastern Republicans who have come South or taken an interest in us." Gen. Clayton and his wife leave tonight for their home in Eureka Springs, Ark.

LADIES DID IT.

Issued a Big Edition of the St. Paul Dispatch.

St. Paul, Jnue 27.—Editor George Thompson today gave up the Dispatch to the ladies of the city, who have been preparing for the publication for several weeks, and a mammoth edition was issued, both in size and in circulation. It was published for the benefit of three local charities—the Protestant Orphan asylum, the day nursery and the children's ward in St. Luke's hospital. The reportorial, editorial, literary and business work were all done by the ladies, the Dispatch's fine picture work also being much in evidence. The edition was 100,000 copies.

HARVARD WILL NOT ACCEPT.

Boston, June 27.—The Harvard University committee on Athletic sports has sent a reply to the English challenge for an international university contest next autumn. The reply, which is a declination, closes as follows: "If we should be fortunate enough, in some future year, to win on this side of the water, the leadership in the track athletics, which this year belongs so unquestionably to Yale, we shall hope to have the pleasure of competing with one of you as the winner of the Oxford-Cambridge games."

PROFESSOR HUXLEY IS WEAKER.

London, June 27.—There is no improvement today in the condition of Professor Huxley, who has been suffering for a long time past from the after effects of influenza. He was weaker this morning.

LUMBER DEALER SUICIDES.

Washington, Kan., June 27.—J. C. Getts, local manager of the Chicago Lumber company, committed suicide at his home here last night. He shot himself in the head with a revolver. His accounts with the company are all straight and no cause is known for the deed.

ANOTHER TAX KNOCKED OUT.

Columbus, Ohio, June 27.—The supreme court today declared the law to tax inheritances by direct heirs unconstitutional.

PARLIAMENT WILL DISSOLVE.

London, June 27.—In the house of lords today the premier, the marquis of Salisbury, announced that he hoped to obtain the quorum consent to a dissolution of parliament on July 8.

YUCATAN

Mexico Preparing to Subjugate the Unruly Yucatan Indians.

A Vigorous Campaign by Land and Water Will Now Commence.

Country Which is Now Unsafe Will be Thrown Open to All.

City of Mexico, June 27.—The war department is engaged in active preparations for another vigorous campaign against the rebellious Yucatan Indians. Large bodies of infantry and cavalry have been concentrated at the towns of Becanchen and Bacalar, in Southern Yucatan, and others being put in readiness for marching from Merida, the capitol. The people of the state of Yucatan are enthusiastic over the movement to permanently subjugate the troublesome rebels who have long caused the southeastern peninsula of Mexico to be shunned by commerce and other enterprises, afraid to risk robbery and death in a region exceedingly rich in mahogany, dye woods and other natural products.

The Second battalion and other bodies of troops have been detailed to lead in the campaign. The troops by land will receive co-operation at the front by sea. The landing will be made by Mexican boats at Abunscion and Espiritu Santo, two good bays on the Atlantic. From these landing places the troops can easily reach the heart of the rebellious district, and the attack will be made from opposite directions. This is deemed a peculiarly propitious time for making the move, as there are several rival cliques in the various divisions of the Yucatan tribes, each striving for the ascendency.

On the appearance of a superior power it is probable some of the leaders will desert to the Mexican troops and fight with one the thousands which will attempt to withstand the federal power. As the troops advance the country conquered will be occupied and fortified, and in this way, even should the Indians escape across into Belize, they will be prevented from returning.

The Indians have of late been making large purchases of rifles and ammunition in the city of Belize, and are evidently preparing to make a strong defense, as they have successfully defied other campaigns against them.

WARNER DOWNCAST.

He Predicts a Split of the Democratic Party.

Cleveland, June 27.—Gen. A. J. Warner, the champion of free silver, who is at present in this city, speaking of the Democratic convention at Louisville, said: "The outcome of the Louisville convention was not unlooked for by the bimetallists. We knew how easy it is, with the assistance of office holders, to pack a convention, but anyone who has visited Kentucky knows that the convention did not represent the sentiments of a large majority of the people of the state, who are undoubtedly opposed to the gold standard and in favor of the resumption of the coinage of metals."

The general then went on to show that a split of the party was almost inevitable at the coming national convention. "This is the outlook now," he said, "and I believe it is safe to predict that John Sherman and Grover Cleveland will vote for the same man for president in '96."

"Will there be a separate silver party?"

"The silver men will get together," said Gen. Warner, "just how it is too early to predict. That will make a silver party, by whatever name it is called. They must get together, or they might as well give up the fight."

STOCKMEN ARE EXCITED.

Sprague, Wash., June 27.—A great number of stockmen have been arriving in this city, and the excitement over the killing of Deputy Sheriff Conlee by Desperado Alfred Simes grows more intense. Half a dozen posses are now out hunting for the murderer. Stockmen are so wrought up over the affair that there is liable to be a bloody battle should they come across any of the gang. At a mass meeting of citizens this morning $500 was guaranteed for the capture of Simes, and stockmen declare they will band together to exterminate the entire gang of cattle rustlers.

DUBOIS

Free Silver Champion Talks of the Cleveland League Convention.

Says the Press Reports Were Unreliable and the Facts Perverted.

Professes Pleasure in the Growth of the New Silver Movement.

Washington, June 27.—Senator Dubois has returned from the convention of the Republican clubs at Cleveland. He was one of the leaders of the fight made there for a declaration in favor of silver and acted as a member of the committee on resolutions. He takes exception to some of the reports sent out from the convention as to the course pursued with reference to the silver question and in discussing the matter said today. "It is very amusing to read some of the press reports of the convention. Take for instance, the representation that the silver men were in favor of 'the address to the people,' of which so much has been said, and that the gold men were opposed to it. In this representation it is claimed that the gold advocates insisted on a declaration regarding the curency question if the league should pronounce upon any subject, and that the silver men did not want any declaration regarding the currency.

"Every one who was at Cleveland knows that this is an utter perversion of the facts. The silver men met before the committee on resolutions were appointed and instructed Col. Trumbo, of Utah, to offer a straight silver resolution, and agreed unanimously that they would demand a plain and unequivocal definition from the convention as to its position on the currency question. They insisted that the question should not be ignored. In accordance with these instructions Col. Trumbo presented it in convention and it was referred. The sub-committee on resolutions, after many hours of wrangling, by a vote of 9 to 2, agreed to report the 'address to the people.'

The silver men on the sub-committee, of which I was one, brought in a minority report against the address, and the silver men unanimously and with great vigor, fought the adoption of the report before the whole committee, finally defeating it by a unanimous vote, and substituting the Patton resolution, declaring against any declaration on the subject. The silver men wanted and insisted on a declaration in regard to silver, and took the position in the beginning and maintained to the end that the convention should take a position for or against silver.

"The opponents of silver finally agreed to compromise by utterly ignoring everything which looked like politics and by declaring that under the constitution of the league they were debarred from giving expression to any views. The silver men made no objection to the course as they were entirely willing to leave the matter open until the national convention, where of course this issue must be squarely met." Concluding, Senator Dubois said: "There were strong free silver men in almost every delegation present, and the silver men generally were well pleased with the manifest growth of sentiment for the restoration of silver shown by the number of silver advocates who were there as delegates from every section of the country."

NEWFOUNDLAND NEWS.

St. John's, N. F., June 27.—Sir Herbert Murray sails for England on Saturday. Governor O'Brien has refused to invite any of his cabinet to meet the French Commodore Ricoloux, because they have been convicted of bribery and corruption. Men returning from the interior where they went seeking work on the building of the railway complain of the hardships endured, many having been compelled to walk fifty or 100 miles, and most of them are destitute. The supply bill has passed, and also the bill rearranging reduced education grants. The Allan line steamer Carthagenian has arrived and brought all the necessary discounts for arranging the loan. The first installment of the loan will be placed to the credit of the colony in London.

No Silver Convention of Democrats in California.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 27.—Chairman Gould, of the Democratic state central committee, has addressed a communication to J. W. Mitchell of this city in answer to a request that the state Democratic committee be convened for the purpose of calling a convention to take a position on the silver question. He says in part: "I cannot now see how it will be practicable to call together a convention in this state whose conclusions could supplant the position taken by our party last fall unless county conventions be held, which of course I am satisfied would not meet with popular favor.

"A Democratic state convention met last fall in San Francisco, as numerous, as able and as representative as any that ever assembled in California. That convention announced the position of the party on the silver question, as on other matters, and I cannot but consider it rather presumptious for me, or for the central committee, to assume that the solemn declarations made by our last convention; that convention which brought this committee into existence; to say that convention was a blunder and ask them to rectify that error."

THE YARDMASTERS.

Old Duluth Railroader Elected National President.

Denver, June 27.—The convention of the Railway Yardmasters association of the United States and Canada has disbanded the old organization and formed a new one under the name of the National Yardmasters' association, with the following officers: President, J. M. Galvin, Staples, Minn.; vice president, Joseph McMahon, Chicago; second vice president, Edwin Smith, Denver; secretary and treasurer, J. W. Coneys, Cincinnati. Directors for three years, B. B. Todd, Peoria; C. A. Wolf, Chicago. Directors for two years will also be elected.

The insurance feature of the old organization is elimated from the new one, the main object of which is to bring the yardmasters into closer relations with the division superintendents.

NO FILIBUSTERING THERE.

Galveston, June 27.—Capt. Clark, of the revenue cutter Galveston, stationed here, has received orders to keep a sharp lookout for Cuban insurgents. B. J. Gautier, Spanish consul, when asked concerning the reported visit of the Raleigh and its mission, said: "I am satisfied there is no filibustering going on here. If any arms or munitions of war are being sent from here they are being shipped to Mexico and from there to Cuba. They can get out of Mexican ports quite easily, besides it is only a short distance to Cuba from these ports. I have had no information to send out concerning the Texas insurgents. I know of a few sympathizers, but they are not of the law violating kind, and I do not believe they are concerned in any secret movement to supply the revolutionists with arms and munitions."

Narcoti-Cure

CURES THE TOBACCO HABIT IN 4 TO 10 DAYS OR MONEY REFUNDED.

Use All the Tobacco You Want Till Your "Craving" is Gone.

NARCOTI-CURE is the only remedy in the world that acts directly on the nerves and drives the nicotine from the system in from four to ten days, It leaves the patient in better health than before taking, and is warranted free from any injurious ingredients.

NARCOTI-CURE is popular because it allows the patient to use all the tobacco he wants while under treatment, or until the "craving" and "hankering" are gone. It is then no sacrifice to throw away tobacco forever.

NARCOTI-CURE is sold at the uniform price of $5.00 a bottle, and one bottle cures.

Money refunded if a cure is not effected when taken according to the directions.

Springfield Mass.

Gentlemen—Replying to yours of the 1st, would say that I have used tobacco for 46 years and of late have consumed an ounce a day, besides smoking considerably. I commenced to use tobacco when I was only 11 years old, and have never been able to give up the habit until I took NARCOTI-CURE, although I have tried other so-called remedies without effect. After using your remedy four days all "hankering" for chewing disappeared, and in four days more smoking became unpleasant. I have no further desire for the weed, and experienced no bad effects whatever. I am gaining in flesh and feel better than I have for a long time. To all who wish to be free from the tobacco habit I would say use NARCOTI CURE.
Yours truly, W. N. WAITE.

DILKE'S OPINION.

Says the Liberals Have no Show for Success.

New York, June 27.—A special to the Herald from Paris says: Sir Charles Dilke, being interviewed on the English political situation, said: "The Liberals have not a ghost of a chance at the coming election. I don't think that anybody honestly believes to the contrary."

"Don't you think the Unionists will appropriate part of the Radical program?"

"Why, of course they will. Among other things they will adopt a constructive social scheme, but first of all they will bring in an Irish land bill and then probably an Irish local government bill. Thus they will get around the Parnellites. Not exactly that I think Ireland is turning Conservative, but the whole Irish party, not merely the Parnellites, will vote for any particular measure which it deems favorable, even if the Conservatives bring it forward."

A TEMPORARY INJUNCTION.

Denver, June 27.—The matters which were subject of a dynamite duel between Rico miners recently have found their way into court. The owners of the Hiawatha mine have applied to United States Judge Hallet for an injunction restraining the Rico-Aspen people from prosecuting work further into the property of the complainant. A temporary restraining order was granted.

CHARGES AGAINST CRISPI.

Rome, June 27.—Signor Felice Cavallotti, the Radical member of the chamber of deputies and editor of the Secolo, of Milan, who has recently become notorious by his repeated attacks upon Premier Crispi, charging him with bribery, etc., now announces that he will prefer charges in court against the premier.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—Default having been made in the payment of the sum of four thousand seven hundred and twenty-two and 57-100 dollars which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by George H. Crosby, mortgagor, to Charlotte Rouchleau, mortgagee, bearing date the 17th day of October, 1892, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds, in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the 19th day of October, 1892, at 4 o'clock p. m. in Book 92 of mortgages, on page 147.

Which said mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby, was duly assigned by said Charlotte Rouchleau, mortgagee, to M. J. Miller, by written assignment dated the 13th day of December, 1892, and recorded in the office of said register of deeds, on the 14th day of December, 1892, at 8:20 o'clock a. m. in Book 107 of assignment of mortgages, on page 12.

And no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz:

Lots seventeen (17), eighteen (18), nineteen (19), twenty (20) and twenty-one (21), in block one hundred and forty-nine (149), in West Duluth, Fifth Division, and lot six (6), in block forty-four (44), in West Duluth, First Division, according to the recorded plats thereof, being in St. Louis County and state of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the county court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the 6th day of July, 1895, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of $4722.57 and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five dollars, attorneys' fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage, in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Whereas default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Lena Olsen (formerly Ferguson) and Andrew Olsen, her husband, mortgagors, of St. Louis county, Minnesota, to the Union Building and Loan association, of St. Louis county, Minnesota, mortgagee, bearing date the 23rd day of April, 1894, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the 26th day of April, 1894, at 8:20 o'clock a. m., in Book 129 of mortgages, on page 109.

Said default consists in the non-payment of monthly interest on the principal sum for more than four months after the same has become due.

And whereas the seven shares of stock described in said mortgage have been sold for the non-payment of dues.

And whereas the mortgage contains a provision that in case of default in the payment of monthly interest or any part thereof, for the space of four (4) months after the same shall have become due, or should the 7 shares of stock described in said mortgage be sold for the non-payment of dues, then in such case the whole principal debt secured by said mortgage shall become immediately due and payable and recoverable. And the said mortgagors in such case authorize and empower the mortgagee to sell the mortgaged premises at public auction to satisfy the mortgage debt and interest and all costs and charges and also the sum of fifty dollars, as attorney's fees. Said mortgagee has elected to declare the whole debt due because of such default as aforesaid.

And whereas said mortgage provides that if mortgagors fail to keep mortgaged premises insured, then mortgagee may effect such insurance, and amount paid for insurance shall be secured by said mortgage. Mortgagee has paid $27.00 for insurance, and no part of same has been repaid.

And whereas there is claimed to be due and is due on said mortgage at the date of the first publication of this notice the sum of fourteen hundred forty-five and 40-100 dollars, $27.00 being for said insurance, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof;

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the premises described in and covered by said mortgage, viz: Lot eleven (11), of block seventy-two (72), West Duluth, Second division, St. Louis county, Minnesota, will, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt of $1445.40 dollars and fifty dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis county, Minnesota at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, St. Louis county, Minnesota, on the 2nd day of August, 1895, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the date of sale as provided by law.

West Duluth Citizens Preparing to Have a Glorious Celebration.

Meeting of Citizens and Selection of a Committee Last Evening.

Permanent Organization Will be Effected at Another Meeting Tomorrow.

West Duluth will celebrate. At least this was the unanimous decision reached by a meeting of citizens held at the Phillips hotel yesterday afternoon. A temporary organization was effected with J. O. Hancock as chairman and S. C. Murphy secretary.

A committee consisting of Messrs. Parsons, Brown, Boerner, Flick, Wills and Hays was appointed to solicit subscriptions, and P. Mulligan and A. J. Filiatrault were appointed to estimate the cost of the proposed celebration. The chairman of the meeting was instructed to see the proper authorities and if possible to get permission for the local fire department to turn out in the procession. The committees were also instructed to report at the next meeting.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the parlors of the Phillips hotel another meeting will be held at which a permanent organization will be made, the necessary committees appointed and other arrangements perfected. All citizens interested in making the affair a success are earnestly requested to be present and unite in the work. The program of the day as contemplated includes a parade, speeches, music by the band, the usual sports, a baseball game and a dancing pavilion.

HER LITTLE JOKE.

Princess Christian is perhaps the best known of Queen Victoria's daughters, says an English paper, and is always actively engaged in philanthropic causes. At a recent bazar she was seen going from stall to stall making purchases, Prince Christian good-naturedly stowing away the small parcels in his pockets. One article purchased, however, was of considerable size; so the attendant put the question: "Shall I send it for you, madame?" to which the princess made answer: "Oh, yes; send it to Buckingham Palace, if you please." "To whom shall I address it?" was the next query; and her royal highness, who dearly loves a joke, gave the prince a comical warning look and said: "Address it to Mrs. Christian." The attendant was quite unsuspicious of the rank of her customers and so the parcel was duly dispatched to "Mrs. Christian, Buckingham Palace."

IN SUMMER

cooling drinks are necessary. They are the universal antidote for excessive warmth. Nothing is so popular with the fair sex in Duluth as our soda served in all the various flavors and with cream for only a nickel a glass. To have their attentions well received, young men should treat their sweethearts coolly, by inviting them to enjoy our soda, which is really the coolest and most delightful summer drink in Duluth, wholesome, healthful and invigorating. Soda heads the list of summer beverages, and the foaming stream from our fountain heads the list of all sodas.

Boyce's Drug Store

THE SCHOOL BOY

—is often a sufferer from headache. The seat of sick headache is not in the brain, for if you regulate the stomach and bowels you'll cure it. Too much brain-work and brain-tire brings on a rush of blood to the head with headache, dizziness or "nose bleed."

Miss BERTHA WOLFE.

Miss BERTHA WOLFE, of Dayton, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., writes: "I suffered from loss of appetite, constipation, neuralgia, and great weakness, and had terrible attacks of sick headache very frequently; also nose bleed. My health was so poor that I was not able to go to school for two years. I took Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and in a short time I was strong and well. Many friends are taking your medicines, seeing what they have done for me."

BALD HEADS.

Almost Certain Sign of Intellectual Activity.

A French doctor, who has been studying the subject for many years, says that out of 100 people from 20 to 30 years of age, taken at hazard, twenty-seven will be found to be bald, says the Louisville Times. Women conceal such a deficiency with great cleverness, and are not often detected, but while the loss of hair is not so prevalent among them as among men, yet if the proportion of the fair sex whose heads are as smooth as doorknobs could be accurately learned the results would undoubtedly be startling. Between the ages of 30 and 40 the percentage of bald heads rises to forty-seven.

The critical period, however, is between forty and fifty years. Out of a hundred chance subjects, but twenty-five will be found good growth of hair, while the other seventy-five were almost entirely destitute of capillary covering. When the sixtieth year is passed, the French doctor asserts, it is rare to find a man who has enough hair on the top of his head to make parting possible.

It is consoling to know, however, that this affliction is an almost certain sign of intellectual activity, for brain workers are most liable to it. On the other hand, people of the laboring classes, who gain their bread with their hands, are generally exempt from baldness until they have passed beyond the sixty-year mark. Why the average workingman, who takes no particular care of his head hatch, should be able to preserve it longer than the man who spends much time in having it brushed and shampooed is a mystery not yet explained. Among horses it has been remarked that the mane of the thoroughbred is thinner than that which ornaments the neck of his humbler brother who drags a dray or a horse car.

Another curious thing is that a strong growth of hair is generally indicative of longevity. Most centenarians have extraordinary heads of hair. There is no rule without its exception, however. Bismarck is an octogenarian of wonderful vitality, but almost utterly bald. For some years European caricaturists have been exaggerating and making fun of the three hairs which he has left. This did not deter an enthusiastic admirer of his—an American—who had been much interested in reading of the iron chancellor's birthday fetes, not long ago, from writing him for a lock of his hair, which he said he would hand down as a precious relic to his heirs. In due time his letter came back with Prince Bismarck's marginal notation: "Entirely impossible."

In London there is a Baldheaded club, every member of which must have a smooth and shiny pate. One of their favorite amusements is to attend in a body music halls and theaters where the ballet is a feature. The attention of the audience, however, is always riveted on the array of bald heads as their owners file down the aisle and seat themselves in the front rows, and throughout the performance they receive more or less notice in the way of friendly remarks from the gallery.

Not many years ago there was a Parisian wit and boulevardier named Siraudin, who would have been eligible to the presidency of the London club, for his head was absolutely destitute of hair. One hot day he was sitting bareheaded at one of the tables out of doors on the boulevard, with a number of friends about. He noticed a hair on his coatsleeve and carefully picked it up and placed it on top of his head amid the laughter of his companions. Suddenly he began to mop his face with his handkerchief and show every sign of excessive suffering from the heat.

"Dieu! How warm I am," he exclaimed exhaustively a couple of times, then the reason for it occurred to him, and he cried as he raised his hand to his head:

"Ah! I know what makes me so warm. It's my hair," and he carefully removed it and placed it on the table as he would a wig.

FORTUNE'S TURN.

Max Maretzek, noble in his old age, is giving lessons for a living and eating at "Little Del's," where half a dollar goes a long way, says the New York Press. Mme. Pappenheim, once the rage of New York, is earning a living in the same way—teaching music. Victor Capoul, the great tenor, failed with his conservatory here and returned to Paris to live by his wits. Campanini, the greatest actor of all the great singers, lives from hand to mouth here in New York, and we often hear him referred to as "poor old Camp." Tagliapietra, who could command almost any price fifteen years ago, has about twenty pupils, who support him in pretty good style. He is independent of managers now. Poverty is no crime; it is, however, a great inconvenience.

CHESS IN ENGLAND.

The Danes and Scandinavians first brought chess to England when returning from some of their voyages to Byzantium. There is a mention of chess in a chronicle relating to the court of King Pepin of France, 764 A. D., which says "In the fourteenth year of King Pepin he bestowed many precious gifts on the ecclesiastics, such as a set of crystalline chessmen, various gems and a large sum of gold."

DAY DREAMS.

Truth: Farmer—Look how many blossoms are on those trees. If every blossom would bring forth an apple I would be rich next fall.

Dr. Bolus—And if every apple were eaten green, and every eater got a colic, my fortune would be made right off.

SOMEWHAT DIFFERENT.

"The door is open wide," he said, "and you'll be welcome there."

"Thank you, I really hope I shall," replied the matron fair.

But oh! in their thoughts there was wide variety.

For he meant heaven, and she society.

WEAKER

Wheat Market Was Bearish Today and Prices Took a Drop.

One or Two Sudden Rallies But They Were Only Temporary.

Many Reports of Threshing Returns, Both Bearish and Bullish.

Wheat opened weak today. The weather was decidedly favorable, cables were disappointing and the Price Current review was bearish. September opened ¾c down at 71⅝c, advanced to 72¼c, sold down to 71⅞c and reacted to 72c. Weakness continued to be the feature of the market in the forenoon with one or two smaller temporary rallies, proceeding from apprehensions of frost in the Northwest. There were numerous reports sent from St. Louis in regard to threshing returns, but they did not pursue the usual course of such messages in that they gave both sides of the story in one day. At noon September was around 71¾c. Later it firmed up to 72c but lost ⅛c before the close. July opened ⅛c lower at 74c, declined to 73¾c, reacted to 73⅞c and ruled fairly steady thereafter. The mills were paying ⅜c over July for round lots of No. 1 hard to arrive. The close was ⅛c lower than yesterday. Cash in store, 1⅜c lower for wheat to arrive and 1¼c lower for futures. Following were the closing prices:

No. 1 hard, cash, 73½c; June, 73¾c; July, 73¾c. No. 1 northern, cash, 73c; June, 73⅜c; July, 73⅝c; September, 71½c. No. 2 northern, cash, 69¼c. No. 2, 69¼c. Rejected, 68c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 73¾c. No. 1 northern, 73⅜c. Rye, 50c. No. 2 oats, 28½c; No. 3 oats, 28c. Barley, 40c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 88. Receipts—Wheat 58,515 bus; oats, 1213 bus. Shipments—Wheat 93,841 bus.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, June 27.—Wheat, June, 70⅝c; July, 71c; September, 72⅝@73c; December, 75¼c. Corn, June, 47¼c; July, 47⅝c; September, 48⅜c; December, 41c; May, 40⅝c. Oats, July, 26c; September, 25⅞c; May, 28¾c. Pork, June, $12.47; July, $12.47; September, $12.72. Lard, June, $6.65; July, $6.65; September, $6.82. Ribs, June, $6.42; July, $6.42; September, $6.62. Short ribs, June, 70⅝c; corn, 47¼c; oats, 25⅞c; pork, $12.47; lard, $6.65; ribs, $6.42. Barley, 52c. Whisky on the basis of $1.21 for high wines. Rye, cash, 49c bid; July, 61c bid; September, 63c asked; October, 63c asked. Flax, cash, Northwestern, $1.49½; September, $1.22. Timothy, cash, $5; spot, $1.20.

NEW YORK MONEY.

New York, June 27.—Money on call nominally 1@2 per cent. Prime mercantile paper 2½@3 1-2 per cent. Sterling exchange dull and a shade easier with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.89 6@⅝ for demand and at $4.88½@⅝ for sixty days. Posted rates $4.88½ and $4.90. Commercial bills $4.87¾. Silver certificates 66⅜@⅝; no sales. Bar silver 66⅝. Mexican dollars 53¼.

NEW YORK GRAIN.

New York, June 27.—Wheat, July, 76⅛c; December, 78⅝c. Corn, July, 52¼c. Oats, July, 29¼c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Minneapolis, June 27.—Wheat closed steady at the opening price and 1c lower than yesterday; June, 72¾c; July, 72⅛@¾c; September, 69¾c. On track, No. 1 hard, 73¾c; No. 1 northern, 73c; No. 2 northern, 72c.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

Lower cables again this morning, in spite of higher American markets, had a discouraging effect and the market opened nearly 1c lower. There was a brief rally on predictions of light frosts tonight in the Northwest, but this was soon forgotten and prices again sold off. Threshing returns from Missouri reported yields from fourteen and one-half to twenty-seven bushels per acre and Kansas City stated that about one-fifth of the receipts there for three days past had been new wheat. Primary receipts were nearly twice what they were yesterday and exports were quite heavy of wheat and flour. Parties who bought two or three days ago were free sellers today and the market has staggered today under the weight of long stuff thrown over. Late in the session there was a report of frost at Brandon, Manitoba, last night and this started shorts to covering again, the market rallying to almost top prices.

Corn and oats weaker on brighter crop prospects with the local crowd quite bearish. Large trade in oats on soft spots. Provisions slightly firmer but with no trade to speak of.

The stock market was weak especially for the trust stocks. Chicago Gas shows a loss of five points and sugar three. We think the grangers a good purchase on any further decline.

Puts, July wheat, 71½c.
Calls, July wheat, 73⅝c.
Curb, July wheat, 72⅝c.
Puts, July corn, 48⅜c.
Calls, July corn, 48⅞c.

SENT AS WRITTEN.

Several years ago a young man, whom we will call H, was employed as night operator at a small town in Illinois, says the Chicago Inter-Ocean.

The second night of his service a circus arrived in town and with it a great many farmers from the surrounding country. He went on duty at 7 o'clock in the evening. About an hour later a stranger came in to send a telegram. As soon as he had written and paid for the message the operator sat down to the instrument and proceeded to tick off the telegram, which was brief, and read, not including address and signature:

"Have scan the party send mee the muney."

When the operator had nearly finished sending the message the receiving operator telegraphed back, "What you givin' us?" referring to the spelling in the message.

The rules of the Western Union company prohibit any conversation on the wire between operators, but nevertheless this rule is frequently broken. It is also a strict rule that messages shall always be sent and words spelled as they are written, even if, as is often the case, the words are spelled wrongly.

But at the time H took this job he was as ignorant of these rules as an Indian, so to the operator's query as to what he was "givin' him" he replied thusly: "Make it read, 'Have seen the party, send me the money.'"

"That's more like it," said the receiving operator.

"I guess the bloke that wrote it never saw the inside of a school," said the sending brass pounder.

The next moment he was chilled to the marrow by the soft words that wafted o'er his shoulder.

"Young fellow, that was a cipher message. I am a detective and also an operator. I heard your remarks on the wire, and if you don't send that message the way I wrote it I shall sue your blamed company for $50,000. And, further, if you don't take back and apologize for the remarks you made about my schooling I will pound your head off." These words came from the "bloke" that wrote the message.

It is superfluous to add that the apology was forthcoming and the telegram sent again according to the "bloke's" rules for spelling.

WHERE DOES IT STAND?

The News Tribune made an apology to Congressman Towne in this morning's issue. Yesterday it published an interview with that gentleman on the Cleveland convention and the monetary question and misrepresented him in several important particulars. In the apology this morning it is stated that the injustice done to Mr. Towne was due to a verbal substitution. The fact is that the carefully dictated interview with Mr. Towne was changed by some person acting in an editorial capacity, and wherever Mr. Towne spoke of bimetallists the words "silver men" were substituted, and wherever he referred to bimetallism the word "silver" was substituted. That this resulted in a radical change in the sentiments expressed by Mr. Towne can readily be perceived.

In apologizing for the liberties which were taken with Mr. Towne's statement, by placing words in his mouth that he did not utter, the News Tribune says: "In this question, as in all others, the News Tribune desires to do Mr. Towne justice. It has no desire to misstate his belief, to distort his words or to put him in a false light by an extreme construction of his sentiments. An apparent but not intentional injustice was done to Mr. Towne, and the News Tribune wishes to express its regret for the error in quoting his words. Mr. Towne is not a free silver man in that acceptation of the term which applies to men who prefer the attempt of the United States alone to support the free coinage of both metals without welcoming the assistance of any other nation. While the News Tribune does not entirely agree with Mr. Towne, it believes his views should be fairly and freely presented by the papers which hold allegiance to the party of which he is a member."

This is quite a fair and reasonable explanation, as far as it goes, and it is to be hoped that the morning paper will live up to its promise to treat Mr. Towne's views with fairness. But while it is upon this subject, will not the News Tribune enlighten the public as to its own position on the financial question? So far it has failed to definitely state its position. It has quoted quite freely from gold standard papers, thus creating the impression that it is a gold monometallist like the St. Paul Pioneer Press, the New York Evening Post and others of that class. This may be an erroneous impression, and it may be removed when the News Tribuns makes a definite explanation of the views it entertains upon this live issue. It says it "does not entirely agree with Mr. Towne." It is well known that Mr. Towne does not believe in a single gold standard but is a staunch supporter of genuine bimetallism. If the News Tribune does not "entirely" agree with him, in what particular does it agree with him, and upon what phase of the question does it differ from him? Where does the morning paper stand?

THE MILLENIUM OF COOKING.

Mrs. Sarah J. Rover has been painting the millenium of cooking only as she can. She declares that the cooks of the twentieth century will have comparatively easy times. Everything will be done from scientific reasons. Meals simple and most beautifully served, for the eyes as well as the palate should be pleased. Foods eaten for a special purpose, not simply to "fill up." Eating, in other words, will be a refining element, rather than a coarse one, and our lady will be proud to say that she is a cook, because it will require more brains to be a cook than to be a physician.

Yes, but of what avail will all this be, asks the St. Louis Star-Sayings, without legislation to inhibit the man of the house from stopping at some sample room and loading up on the wienerwurst or chicken salad to such an extent that by the time he reaches home all the dinner he wants is a place to lie down and a signed agreement that everybody will go away and let him alone?

THE PUZZLE NUISANCE.

The Milwaukee Sentinel has a timely article on the puzzle nuisance, which is the result of the enterprise of Mr. Kohlsaat, of the Chicago Times-Herald. "Anybody," says the Sentinel, "who lives tolerably near Chicago, and who is rightly or wrongly suupposed, either from the nature of his business or because he is known as a victim of an inordinate fondness for photographs, to be familiar with all sorts of notorious faces, is held up in his office, at his home, on the street, at the door of the sanctuary, and called upon to identify the likeness of presidential aspirants, of authors, actresses and various other persons. The questioner is hunting for a bicycle, which he prefers to get by the short and easy method of tapping somebody else's brain. It never occurs to him, apparently, that he is one of many, and that his victim is pestered out of season—there being no season when these questions are appropriate—by all sorts and conditions of persons, and is called upon to give away perhaps half an hour's or an hour's time every day."

The editor of the Sentinel is no doubt speaking from personal experience, and The Herald endorses his suggestion of a remedy. It is a good one, and will no doubt be acted upon by some person. Why does not some enterprising person, he asks, hire a small shop, where he can display cuts of everybody, and charge an admission fee for puzzleguessers? He would do a rushing business, for a few weeks at least. He would not be obliged to supply good likenesses, for Mr. Kohlsaat prefers to print many cuts which bear only a faint resemblance to their originals, and a few which are almost equally unlike three or four well-known persons. The follower of this new business would greatly relieve a hundred suffering victims, and would perhaps grow rich enough to live on his capital. It is to be hoped that someone will start in this line of business at once.

THE LIBERALS CANNOT WIN.

Sir Charles Dilke, who at one time was one of the most prominent Liberals in England and was regarded as the probable successor of Mr. Gladstone when old age should compel him to abandon the leadership, is reported to have stated in an interview that the Liberals have not a ghost of a chance in the coming election, and he does not think that anyone honestly believes to the contrary. Sir Charles Dilke has been out of public life for several years as a result of a social scandal which involved his name but he has again come to the front having lived down the odium which he incurred, very unjustly as many people thought. In his early days he was a pronounced Radical and preached republicanism for a time, but later he became more conservative and it would not be astonishing to see him in the next parliament supporting the Salisbury government. This will, of course, depend upon the policy which the new ministry will pursue.

Sir Charles looks to the appropriation of part of the Radical program by the Unionists. For one thing he expects to see the new government introduce an Irish land bill that will receive the support of the Parnellites and he would not be astonished to see an Irish local government bill made part of the ministerial program. The fact is that the English Conservatives have in recent years been more liberal in their policy than have the majority of the so-called Liberals. They are impressed with the necessity of legislation of some sort in regard to Ireland, and Mr. Balfour has in the past intimated that if given the opportunity they would present a scheme of local self government that would satisfy all classes except the extreme home rulers who really desire the political separation of Ireland from Great Britain. It is evident, from the Dilke interview, that the Conservatives and Unionists will have an easy victory in the coming elections.

OUR GREAT RESOURCES.

A New York dispatch reports that the wonderful improvement in the iron and steel market is such that the Minnesota Iron company has just received an offer to buy from it 1,000,000 tons of Bessemer ore at a price 50 cents per ton higher than previous sales. The company has not accepted the offer as yet, and may not do so, relying upon the bright business outlook for higher prices. Such offers are increasing the commercial prestige of Minnesota and directing renewed attention to her great resources. The revival in the iron industry, it is added, is astonishing and indicates a general advance to better times in all home industries. The fact that there will undoubtedly be a steady demand for Minnesota's exhaustless supplies of ore means much for Duluth.

The unfortunate Mrs. Maybrick has, within the last few days, been visited at Woking convict prison, where she has been under detention since her conviction. She is in the hospital in a very weak state of health. It is contemplated to discontinue Woking prison, and Mrs. Maybrick and other prisoners confined there will be shortly removed to Aylesbury jail, which has been converted into a convict prison. Meanwhile all efforts for Mrs. Maybrick's pardon seem to be as unavailing as ever. The advent of a new home secretary may possibly be a change in her favor.

The issue between federal and state authorities in South Carolina, with reference to the dispensary law, has assumed an acute phase. The United States court at Charleston has sent to jail three of the state whisky constables for contempt of court, because they seized liquors which had been sent into the state for personal use, the seizure being in violation of the recent decision of the court. This summary action will make the state constables more diffident about trying to enforce the state law, and it will impress upon the bumptious young governor of South Carolina the fact that the federal government is not without means for executing the mandates of its courts.

The Norwegian residents of New York and Brooklyn are organizing with the purpose of raising funds to aid their native country should the differences between it and Sweden result in war. They are said to be collecting a fund with which to build a cruiser. Norway at present having no war vessels of modern construction. A society has been organized under the name of the Norwegian Patriotic association of America, with Dr. H. Volckmar, of Brooklyn, president, and Capt. C. Ullenaess, superintendent of the Brooklyn Scandinavian Sailors' home, treasurer. A branch of the society is said to have been formed in Chicago. This shows that the Norwegians do not intend to give up the fight that they are now making against the action of Sweden towards them.

Harry Hayward, around whose neck the shadow of an impending noose is already circling, has again demonstrated his possession of immaculate nerve and so-called "gall." His latest exhibition is the formal application for the $10,000 insurance money, for which it has been proven Miss Ging was insured, and to obtain which, it is also proven, he caused her to be murdered.

The New York Herald publishes a regular sermon with a text and a benediction among the editorials in its Sunday edition, and more people read that sermon than are found in all the New York churches on Sunday morning.

In 1894 but 5 per cent of the bicycle sales were to women. In 1895 the female sex has so far bought one-third of all the machines sold. Evidently the new woman is trying to come as fast as she can.

HE "CAUGHT ON."
Cleveland World: J. Laurence Laughlin, who has been wrestling with "Coin" the past three months, "caught on" to Chicago style without any trouble. His wife, not wishing to leave Boston to come and live with him in Chicago, he rushed through a divorce, got it and in less than a month after was married to a Chicago girl. Some men get naturalized and acclimated much easier than others.

GETTING TO BE A FACTOR.
Superior Leader: Congressman Towne, of Duluth, has returned from the league convention at Cleveland. As a genuine bimetallist he is highly satisfied with the result of the convention. He has been getting, recently, a large amount of advertising in connection with the report that he will be instrumental in calling a Minnesota silver convention. When newspapers cartoon him as the Minneapolis Journal recently did, it is evident that he is getting to be a factor in Minnesota politics.

WILL MEET OPPOSITION.
Wadena Tribune (Rep.): The New York chamber of commerce is inaugurating a vigorous crusade against free silver. No one expected the Wall street banks and brokers to do otherwise, but unless the signs of the times fail they will meet with no little opposition from the great mass of the American people.

OPPORTUNITY.
Master of human destinies am I!
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait,
Cities and fields I walk, I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and passing by
Hovel and mart and palace, soon or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate!
If sleeping, wake; if feasting, rise before
I turn away.
It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire, and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and woe,
Seek me in vain, and uselessly implore,
I answer not, and I return no more.
—John J. Ingalls.

COVERED WITH MOSS.
Boston Transcript: It is sad to see the dear old minstrel joke of "eating what one can and canning what one can't" revamped to fit Delaware peaches, and given out as coming fresh from Bryn Mawr. Sadder still is it to see it quoted as a proof that the college woman is witty. It is a joke tottering with age. Indeed it is said that Eve said to Adam in the garden that "we will eat what figs we can, and can what we can't." Certainly they believe that in California, whence, by the way, very good canned figs come.

A FOURTH ATTEMPT.

Warden Sage Preparing to Execute Dr. Buchanan.

Sing Sing, N. Y., June 27.—Warden Sage has returned from Albany and is busy today making preparations to execute Dr. Buchanan during the week beginning next Monday. For the fourth time invitations to the execution are to be sent out tonight. The warden will not say just what time the execution will take place, but it is generally believed it will be ordered at 11 a. m., Monday, unless the court interferes.

Warden Sage says there have been so many postponements that he cannot tell until the hour arrives, whether the execution will take place or not. While in Albany yesterday, the warden was assured by the attorney general that Buchanan could be legally executed on Monday, although the condemned man's counsel claim that he cannot be. The prison officials do not believe Governor Morton will grant Mrs. Buchanan's request for another hearing.

Dr. Buchanan is much annoyed over the announcement that he is to be made the subject of a play soon to be produced in New York. He has instructed his lawyers, if possible, to prevent the production of the play for the sake of his wife and child. Mrs. Buchanan is also very indignant over the matter.

THE DISCOVERY SAVED HIS LIFE.
G. Cailloutte, druggist, Beaversville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with la grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at Max Wirth's drug store.

Mr. James Perdue, and old soldier, residing at Monroe, Mich., was severely afflicted with rheumatism, but received prompt relief from pain by using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. He says: "At times my back would ache so badly that I could hardly raise up. If I had not gotten relief I would not be here to write these few lines. Chamberlain's Pain Balm has done me a great deal of good and I feel very thankful for it." For sale by all druggists.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—Whereas default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage executed and delivered by Charles A. Peterson (unmarried), mortgagor, to Neilson T. Parker and Frederick W. Parker, mortgagees, dated July 1, 1891, and recorded in the register of deeds' office for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on August 31st, 1891, at 3:40 o'clock p. m., in Book fifty-four (54) of mortgages, on page thirty-nine (39); such default consisting in the non-payment of the semi-annual installment of interest upon the debt secured by said mortgage, which became due on January 1, 1895, amounting to the sum of forty dollars, and which default has continued for more than thirty days, and still continues, by reason whereof the said mortgagees have elected to exercise the option to them given in said mortgage by declaring, and they do hereby declare, the whole principal sum secured by said mortgage, with all accrued interest thereon, and twenty-one dollars insurance premiums heretofore paid by them in accordance with the provisions of said mortgage, to be now due and payable;

And whereas there is therefore claimed to be due, and there is actually due, upon said mortgage debt at the date of this notice the sum of one thousand ninety-nine and 53-100 ($1099.53) dollars, principal, interest, exchange and insurance premiums paid;

And whereas said mortgage contains a power of sale in due form, which has become operative by reason of the default above mentioned, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof;

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described therein, viz.: All those tracts or parcels of land lying and being in St. Louis County, Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: All of lot numbered seven (7), in block numbered thirteen (13), of the West End Addition to Duluth, according to the recorded plat thereof on file of record in the office of the register of deeds for said county; which premises will be sold by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the twenty-seventh (27th) day of July, 1895, at ten (10) o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt, interest, insurance and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and seventy-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption, as provided by law.

Dated June 12th, A. D. 1895.

THE CREW

Junior Four Which Will Row This Year Has Been Picked.

Calhoun is Stroke and Barnes, McPhail and Ballou the Others.

They Sleep at the Club House and Are Training Vigorously.

The candidates for position in the Duluth Boat club crews have been working hard for weeks, and indeed for months, for the gymnasium work of the winter is no small part of the training of an oarsman. The crews have been gradually shaping themselves, until the junior four and double crews have been definitely settled upon within the week.

The junior four will consist of Julius Barnes, bow; Sydney McPhail, 2; H. D. Ballou, 3; Guy Calhoun, stroke. The junior double will be rowed by Frank Thompson and Dr. King. These selections met with the unanimous approval of the club members and officers, and from the work that the men composing the crews have done and the promise they show of better work to come, they are confidently expected to do credit to their club and city.

The members of the four are sleeping at the club, and are under a vigorous discipline, which will bring about the best results. Every morning at 6 they are up and in their shells, and twelve miles a day is about the amount that is accomplished. This will be increased later. A cedar shell has been fixed up, and another crew will be picked to work with the juniors.

Delicious cake and daintiest pastry are fair hand maidens that attend upon the use of Dr. Price's baking powder.

UNDER THE WRECK.

Accident Resulting in the Death of a Brakeman.

George E. Gardner, a brakeman on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, was killed about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the overturning of a box car. Two cars of the freight train on which Gardner was suddenly jumped the track a short distance from Mountain Iron. The brakeman was pinned beneath the wreck and died three-quarters of an hour after being released. The remains arrived in Duluth late last night in a special train and will be taken to St. Paul for interment. A companion of the dead man escaped with but a few bruises. The cause of the accident is unknown. The train was running at a very moderate rate of speed.

Cyclists Will Parade.

The Duluth Cycle club at a meeting held last night decided to celebrate July 4 with a parade and races, to which wheelmen from Minneapolis and Duluth are to be invited. The parade is to start from the federal building at 10:30, and the races will be at the Driving Park in the afternoon.

The entries for the races, which are under the auspices of the Limited Cycle club, will close July 2. The racing committee is C. C. Evans, H. E. Harris and F. B. Taylor. An order for 100 pairs of white duck trousers has been placed ,and with a red sweater they will constitute the club's uniform.

A WHIST EVENING.

The Duluth Whist club invites all lovers of the game to be present tonight at its rooms in the Mesaba block to participate in a game of straight duplicate whist. The rolls of the club are open to all who desire to join.

Mothers will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy especially valuable for croup and whooping cough. It will give prompt relief and is safe and pleasant. We have sold it for several years and it has never failed to give the most perfect satisfaction. G. W. Richards, Duquesne, Pa. Sold by all druggists.

Over Thirty Years Without Sickness.

Mr. H. WETTSTEIN, a well-known, enterprising citizen of Byron, Ill., writes: "Before I paid much attention to regulating the bowels, I hardly knew a well day; but since I learned the evil results of constipation, and the efficacy of Pills, I have not had one day's sickness for over thirty years — not one attack that did not readily yield to this remedy. My wife had been, previous to our marriage, an invalid for years. She had a prejudice against cathartics, but as soon as she began to use Ayer's Pills her health was restored."

AYER'S

WILL BE CELEBRATED.

Pavilion Comes to the Rescue for the Fourth.

The management of the Pavilion has again come forth and displayed its liberality. When the council refused an appropriation for the Fourth of July celebration the citizens who had been agitating the idea of an observance of the day almost gave it up but now the Pavilion has come forth and declared that Duluth shall have a regular old-fashioned celebration. At the request of a committee of citizens it has been resolved to do this and the decision having been made the Pavilion will not do things by halves but will give a tip-top, bang-up celebration and the eagle will scream to its heart's content.

To begin with the declaration of independence will be read and speeches made. The names of the speakers will be announced later. During the afternoon there will be games and music, the program of which will be announced later.

The entire Pavilion will be turned over to the public and admission will be free of charge.

In the evening there will be the greatest display of fire works ever seen in Duluth. To purchase these the Pavilion has donated $500. Taken all in all it will be a celebration second to none that Duluth has ever seen.

Dr. Price's baking powder is always desirous of entering your home, sure that trial will make it a life-long tenant.

LEMEN BROTHERS.

Their Great Circus Will Show Here on Monday.

Lemen Bros.' enormous tented titan, as the show bills call it, will be here on Monday next. Most everybody enjoys a visit to the circus, especially when one of the character and general interest that Lemen Bros.' world's best shows possess. It is said that from entrance to exit it is a source of wonder and delight. Rajah, the big elephant, is the great attraction this year. The Kansas City Times said of this great beast:

"The features of the show this season will be Rajah, the big elephant, and Tom, the boxing kangaroo. Rajah has been in this country one year and is gradually becoming civilized and accustomed to the ways of the American circus. The circus posters this summer say that Rajah is "a veritable moving mountain whose stately tread makes the earth tremble,' and the writer of the circus literature has not stretched his elastic imagination much in making this statement either. Rajah is without doubt the largest elephant in captivity anywhere. He is two inches taller than the late lamented Jumbo was in life and weighs 3000 pounds more. The reporter didn't take the agent's statement for this, but measured the big brute himself and can therefore speak as one having authority. Rajah's keeper, Frank Fisher, stays by his side day and night and the two are as much in love with each other as a newly-married couple. Frank is an old-time elephant trainer and is loaded to the muzzle with interesting stories of the habits and intelligence of the 'big uns.' He has been with the Lemen show about a year and has been connected with all the big shows at different times."

THE POINT OF THE PISTOL

Is an effectual persuader, and there are many persons so unmindful of the symptoms of oncoming disease that it would almost take that deadly argument to induce them to adopt precautionary measures. The best of these is a recourse to that fine botanic restorer, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It vanquishes malaria, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, failing digestion, biliousness and irregularity of the bowels, and completely fortifies the system against their further inroads. Its ingredients are drawn from nature's storehouse, consequently it is free from the objections attaching to many absolutely or semi-mineral remedies. For the delicate, infirm, convalescent and elderly it is peculiarly beneficial. It well merits continuous and systematic use. Take it at bedtime to induce sleep and between meals to stimulate appetite and digestion. The medical fraternity concur in indorsing it.

"I have been cured of nervousness and sleeplessness by Hood's Sarsaparilla." Mrs. Jules Coulombe, Culver, Minn.

STILL GROWING.

Wilburs Drew an Even Larger Audience Last Night.

The Wilburs sang the very pretty opera "Dorothy" last night, and it is unnecessary to state that the performance was an entire success and that every seat in the house was taken and that many preferred to stand rather than miss the performance.

The entire company appeared to the best advantage last night. Miss Hattie Richardson sang the title solo, and her sweet and flexible voice was at its best. She made a most charming presentation of the part. Miss Mortimer was Lydia Hawthorne. She did not have much singing to do, most of that being left to Miss Richardson, but her portrayal of the bashful Lydia was very amusing.

Miss Yorke made a very sweet and charming Phyllis, and Conly sang the part of Geoffrey Wilder pleasingly. Clark made a dashing Harry Sherwood, and the music allotted to him was executed with his usual skill. Kohnle, as always, was very funny. The chorus was prettily costumed and its drills and dances were well done. The living pictures were again a popular feature of the entertainment.

Yesterday afternoon an immense crowd attended the matinee when "The Merry War" was put on. This afternoon "The Bohemian Girl" was sung, tonight the "Grand Duchess" will be given and tomorrow night "Falka" will be sung.

AT THE PAVILION.

This Week's Attractions Continue to Draw Great Crowds.

Twenty young ladies sat on the stage last night at the Pavilion and discoursed sweet strains of music to an exceedingly appreciative audience. The Clara Schuman orchestra damsels are to be congratulated, individually and collectively, on their success as an attraction.

Then the Takazawa Japs are as good as a three-ringed circus. The little brown men from the land of the chrysanthemum are remarkably expert in their original acrobatic acts.

Edith Celine Ford is still delighting everybody by her readings, and last but not least, Diana. The alluring goddess is the bright particular star of the evening in her dances which abound in novel and interesting electrical effects.

Dr. Price's cream baking powder wants your patronage. Unexcelled qualities of strength and purity. A trial is convincing.

The Parlor Musicale.

The fifth parlor musicale for the benefit of the cathedral pipe organ fund was given last evening at the residence of M. S. Burrows, 1632 East First street. The attendance was good, the parlors being well filled. The program was an excellent one and was well rendered. Miss Theresa Lynn gave two piano numbers, Raff's "Caprice" and Wallace's "Witches Dance." Miss Donavan sang "For You" and "Thine Eyes So Blue and Tender" and received much applause. Gilbert's "Lullaby" was sung very sweetly by Miss Dodge. Miss Lautenschlager's vocal solo "Stolen Glances" was very prettily sung. Franz Schultz sang "A Little While," by Lohr, and Miss Mae Kennedy "Love's Old Sweet Song," both being received with applause. Miss McDonald and Mr. Schultz sang a fine duet, "Angel Spirit," by Hoffman, and Miss McDonald, Mr. Schultz and Miss Donavan a trio, "Life Has No Power," by Donisetti.

THE MINISTERIAL JAUNT.

The Duluth Ministerial association at its June meeting decided to take a fishing excursion for July instead of having the usual program. Rev. T. M. Findley, chairman of the committee on arrangements, announces the following program: The excursion will start from Dibbell's livery barn, corner of Sixteenth avenue west and Superior street, Monday, July 1, at 9 a. m. The destination will be Cloquet river, the return to be made Tuesday evening. Carriage tents and the bulkier provisions will cost about $1.50 apiece, and will be at the barn. Members will provide their own luxuries in the line of eatables, fishing tackle, blankets, mosquito antidotes and a jackknife with which to cut brush for their own beds and clean fish. All members wishing to go must notify T. M. Findley, 1505 West Superior street, before noon Saturday of their intentions.

LOWE-DUFFIES MARRIAGE.

Miss Grace Lowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erastus P. Lowe, and Edward J. Duffies were married last evening at the home of the bride's parents, 1715 West Second street. Rev. E. S. Pilling, of Minneapolis, performed the ceremony. Relatives and a few friends were present and witnessed the happy affair. Mr. and Mrs. Duffies left on the night train for a visit in Wisconsin.

The bride has been a teacher in the Lincoln school, and has a wide circle of friends. Mr. Duffies is one of the city engineer's assistants.

CAMPBELL-DALE.

Miss Anna Campbell and George M. Dale were married last evening at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. E. L. Fisher, 1104 West Third street. It was a quiet wedding and Mr. and Mrs. Dale left afterward for a bridal trip, which will continue to July 1. Mr. Dale is a lieutenant in the Duluth fire department, with which he has been connected four years.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

UPHAM-FAGG.

Happy Wedding of Two Prominent Young Society People.

The event in which the interest of all Duluth society has been centered for several weeks was consummated last evening in the marriage of Miss Fanny Pauline Upham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Upham, and T. J. C. Fagg, Jr., at the First Presbyterian church. It was a beautiful wedding not merely in the costuming and decorations but in the simplicity and impressiveness of the solemn and sacred ceremony by which too young lives were joined in holy bonds of matrimony.

Never did church present a more beautiful appearance than did the First Presbyterian last evening. It was a coleur de rose and green wedding and this permitted an elaborate display of beautiful flowers, ferns and plants. The space back of the pulpit from the floor to the organ gallery was one solid bank of evergreens, ferns and palms with roses entwined. All around the church there were great banks of green and roses and potted plants and palms of great beauty and variety were exhibited in all parts of the church.

One very pretty idea was carried out. At the end of the aisle down which the bridal party passed was an arch of green and roses from which was suspended the letter "U." Over the other aisle up which the party passed after the ceremony was a similar arch within which was the letter "F." Two white satin pillows trimmed with pink ribbons and smilax were placed upon the spot where the bride and groom knelt when the marriage blessing was pronounced.

Long before the hour fixed for the ceremony the church began to fill, and when 8 o'clock came there was a very stylish audience present. While the people were being seated Arthur F. Drake, who assisted R. B. Doane at the organ, played Batiste's march in E flat, Verdi's "Ave Marie" and the march from "Rienzi," by Wagner. Mr. Doane and Mr. Drake played together Mendelssohn's "Priest's March" and Halevy's romance, "Le Eclair."

Precisely at 8 o'clock the strains of the wedding march from Wagner's "Lohengrin" floated through the church and the bridal party moved down the west aisle. The ushers, Dean Burke, W. C. Farrington, C. W. Culver, A. W. Hartman, D. C. Buntin and W. R. Peyton, came first. The bridesmaids were Miss Markell, Miss Sharpe, Miss DeCoster, of St. Paul, Miss O'Keefe and Miss Martha Peyton. They were attired in mousseline de soie over pink satin and carried pink roses. Miss Maren Miller was maid of honor and wore mousseline de soie over yellow silk and carried yellow roses.

The bride, leaning upon her father's arm, was of course the central figure. She wore a beautiful bridal gown of ivory satin with exquisite pearl trimming and orange blossoms and bridal veil. She carried white bridal roses.

At the hymenal altar the groom and best man, James A. Pollock, of Salt Lake City, met the party, and taking the bride's hand from her father, led her before Dr. Cleland, pastor of the church. While the ceremony was being performed Mr. Doane played very softly the ring song and "Dreams" from Wagner's "Lohengrin."

The ceremony was over in a few moments, and as Dr. Cleland implored the blessing of heaven upon the happy union he closed with Parthenia's beautiful words:

"Two souls with but a single thought,
Two hearts that beat as one."

Then the strains of Mendelssohn's magnificent march burst forth and the bride and groom radiant and happy led the bridal party down the east aisle. In the party as they walked out was Maj. and Mrs. Upham, Judge and Mrs. Fagg, father and mother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Fagg and Mrs. Bright, the latter a sister of the groom. Mrs. Upham wore a handsome gown of brocaded green silk, with chiffon waist and diamond ornaments.

The reception at the home of the bride followed. The bridal party received in the parlors and several hundred people passed through and congratulated the bridal couple. The rooms were beautifully and profusely decorated. Pink roses, smilax and maiden hair ferns prevailed. In the dining room the mantels were banked in green and roses. The table was a perfect gem. In the center was the wedding cake, with a wealth of ferns and pink and white roses. Satin ribbons with immense bows also adorned the table.

In the rooms upstairs the wedding presents were displayed and were very elaborate. The groom's present to the bride was a diamond crescent. From her father she received a check. Mr. and Mrs. Van Dusen and Mr. and Mrs. Harrington, of the company whose Duluth manager Mr. Fagg is, gave a magnificent set of silver ware. From the employes in the Van Dusen-Harrington company office there was a large punch bowl and bon bon dishes of cut glass. The ushers gave cut glass and the best man a solid set. A beautiful placque from Miss Martha Peyton was quite conspicuous. The presents were very numerous and made a handsome display.

Mr. and Mrs. Fagg kept their intentions as to the bridal trip very quiet and very few knew where they were going. About 11:30 o'clock they drove away, presumably to go to their home on East Superior street, but in fact took the Nautilus and will cruise along the lake shore for a week.

Among the guests from outside were: Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Van Dusen, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Harrington, Miss Laura Harrington, of Minneapolis; Judge and Mrs. T. J. C. Fagg, of Missouri; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Fagg, of Mankato; Mrs. Bright, of St. Louis, and the best man, James A. Pollock, of Salt Lake City.

Intelligent housewives will have the best. That's why they all use Dr Price's baking powder.

TIRED OF POPULISTS.

Senator Wolcott's Brother Talks of Western Politics.

New York, June 27.—Henry Wolcott, of Colorado, a brother of Senator Wolcott, and one of the heaviest mine operators in the West, is in the city. Speaking of the feeling in Colorado and the West generally, upon the silver question, he said: "The people of Colorado and nearly every state west of the Mississippi have the same idea that their best interests will be effected by the free coinage of silver. I do not think there is any probability of a third party with a free silver platform entering the field next year. The people of the West have had too severe a lesson taught them by Populistic theories to go branching off on the third party ideas."

"Party lines, however, are light in the West. The people, irrespective of party, are going to vote for the candidate who they believe will be best for their interests. The general feeling in the West is in the interest of the Republican party. If the convention nominates a man, no matter what his position on the money question may have been, who the people believe will sign a bill which passes congress in favor of silver, they will vote with the Republican party. If the Republicans do not do this, they will not be supported in the West."

WEATHER BUREAU.

Civilian Administration Cheaper Than the Military.

Washington, June 27.—The expenditures of four years of civilian administration of the weather bureau are estimated at $3,398,090. The appropriations for the same period have been $3,632,953. These facts are pointed out in an official statement detailing the growth of the bureau. The expenditures for the present fiscal year will aggregate $835,000 against a total appropriation of $878,359. The estimated surplus for the bureau, remaining in the treasury, will be $43,359.

The average annual expense of the service for ten years under the military organization was $924,661; and under four years of civil organization, $849,523. The official statement says: "While the military administration had generally to apply for a deficiency on each year's disbursements, the civilian administration had an average surplus of about $58,700 each year. That this annual surplus is less in the years of the civilian organization is due to the fact that the service was then undergoing a rapid growth. In the two following years, attention was devoted rather to consolidation than to further growth."

BRAIN-WORKERS SHOULD USE HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE.

Dr. C. H. Goodman, St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have used it for several years, with especially good results in nervous prostration, the result of mental efforts; also in sleepless condition of brain-workers."

Now is the time to provide yourself and family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a safeguard against an attack of bowel complaint during the summer months. It costs but 25 cents and is almost sure to be needed before the summer is over. This remedy never fails, even in the most severe cases, and is in fact the only preparation that can always be depended upon. When reduced with water it is pleasant to take. For sale by all druggists.

CHEERED CLEVELAND.

Emperor William Banquetted on the Cruiser New York.

Kiel, June 27.—The dinner given by Admiral Kirkland and the officers of the United States cruiser New York to the emperor was a very successful affair. In addition to his majesty Prince Henry of Prussia, Admirals Vozn, Knorr, Koester, Valois, Senden, Pluedmann and Capts. Evans, Sumner, Shepadd and O'Neil were present. Capt. Evans had previously been authorized to name the fastest racing boat of the New York, the Victoria Louise, after the daughter of the emperor and empress of Germany, the Princess Victoria Louise, who was born Sept. 12, 1892.

The arrival of Emperor William and his party in board on the New York was the signal for great cheering for the princess and the emperor. Admiral Kirkland toasted his majesty and in so doing thanked him for the reception accorded to the United States war ships at Kiel.

In reply the emperor requested the admiral to convey his thanks to President Cleveland for sending the United States squadron to take part in the celebrations in honor of the opening of the canal, and expressed himself as being highly gratified at the fact that the Americans were pleased with their visit. The emperor concluded his remarks with calling for cheers for President Cleveland.

A REMARKABLE CURE.

A CASE OF PILES OF EIGHTEEN YEARS STANDING.

Cured by the Pyramid Pile Cure.

There are plenty of pile cures which give relief and sometimes cure a mild case of piles, but there is only one which can be depended upon with certainty to cure obstinate, long-standing cases, and that is the Pyramid Pile Cure.

Endorsements and testimonials are received daily from men and women whose integrity and reliability are above question, and in this connection a letter received from the Rev. James H. Wesbrook, of Bowne, Mich., may be of interest to pile sufferers who have sought in vain for a cure. He says:

I have used the Pyramid Pile Cure and I know that it is all that is claimed for it. I had been troubled with piles more or less for about eighteen years, and I had tried other remedies, but the piles grew worse until about ten months ago I used the Pyramid Pile Cure. It gave almost instant relief, and I have been free from piles ever since. Rev. James H. Wesbrook.

The remedy seems to act equally well in every form of piles, blind, bleeding, protruding or itching. It stops all pain almost immediately, allays irritation and removes constipation, and anyone who has suffered the annoyance and pain of a rectal trouble will appreciate the excellent results which invariably follow the first application of the Pyramid.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is prepared by the Pyramid Drug company, of Albion, Mich., and for sale by druggists everywhere.

Two sizes, 50 cents and $1. Sold by all druggists.

ST. ANTHONY'S SCHOOL.

A large audience was present at Turner hall last night to hear the entertainment given by the pupils of St. Anthony De Padua school. The participants in the various parts, which were mostly in German, all did their work excellently. The little sketches entitled "Wundershoen" and "Minnie Burton's Secret" were especially well received. Miss Katie Fiebiger recited the "Martyrdom of St. Agnes" with good effect. Miss Anna Mueller also recited and a quartet of young ladies sang selections in a pleasing manner. Miss Jennie Mergener, a little tot, sang "Homeless and Alone Tonight." She was attired in the dress of a waif and was assisted by the chorus. Closing remarks were made by Rev. Father Kosmerl.

A TEST

Land Office Case Which Involves Several Others, Has Been Decided.

John Quaderer, Mayor of Barron, Wis., Has His Proof Rejected.

Commissioner Lamoreaux Finds His Settlement Was Mere Pretence.

Commissioner Lamoreaux, of the general land office, has rendered a decision in the case of Edgar T. Rollins vs. John Quaderer, involving the sw¼ of section 26-66-19. Rollins is the timber and stone claimant and Quaderer the pre-emption claimant. The case is an important because it is a test one and a number of others involving exactly the same circumstances are pending., Rollins gets the land.
Quaderer was the boss of a logging camp at Barron, Wis., and took up a number of men from there into the Duluth district and located them. Several contests have already been heard and it was shown in these that some of the men continued as residents of Barron, voting there and keeping their families there. Quaderer himself was an office holder there.
Rollins filed a timber and stone declaration on Aug. 2, 1893, and Quaderer a pre-emption declaratory statement on June 15, 1893. Final proofs was made and on Feb. 27, 1895, the register and receiver found for the timber and stone claimant. An appeal was taken. The commissioner says that Quaderer's testimony shows that he lived in Barron county, Wis., for thirty-five years. In June, 1889, he went on land in 66-19 for the purpose of making an Indian allotment for himself, wife and nine children. The commissioner thinks his improvements are really worth much less than he claims and "that the clearing was done only for the purpose of making a colorable claim."
The testimony also shows that he spent little time on the land, that in 1888 he was an alderman in Barron, was mayor in 1890 and ran for sheriff of Barron county in 1892. At the time of making the alleged settlement he claimed to own only ninety acres of land in Barron county but admits that in 1894 he deeded for $1 consideration 605 acres to Knapp, Stout & Co. He never took his wife, children, cattle or farming implements on the land and the commissioner says: "I am convinced that the settlement was a mere pretence." His proof is therefore rejected and Rollins is given permission to complete his claim, the land being proved valuable for timber.

Hattie Was Released.

Hattie Darwin, who was taken from a house on the point ten days ago at the request of her father was released from the county jail today after serving a ten-days' sentence for being an inmate of a disorderly house. A letter was received today by Chief Armstrong from the superintendent of the Wisconsin industrial school saying the institution did not desire to reclaim her. The girl is under age in Wisconsin but legally of age in Minnesota. Hattie denies that her father is a wealthy Wisconsin merchant and says that she gave him money every time he visited her ostensibly to advise her.

THE MIDSUMMER SOCIAL.

One of the finest entertainments given this season was the midsummer social at the Y. M. C. A. by the Good Templars of Duluth Lodge No. 37, Wednesday evening. The entertainment was free and the large audience was enthusiastic over the program. The special feature was a recitation by Miss Julia Frances Mason, of the Chicago school of oratory, who is visiting in the city, and it is possible may remain some time. In her work she is especially forcible, precise and attractive. The tableaux, solos, music, banjo solo and talk by Rev. Merritt, of Oneota, were excellent as was also the Indian club swinging.

CURE FOR HEADACHE.

As a remedy for all forms of headache Electric Bitters has proved to be the very best. It effects a permanent cure and the most dreaded habitual sick headaches yield to its influence. We urge all who are afflicted to procure a bottle, and give this remedy a fair trial. In cases of habitual constipation Electric Bitters cures by giving the needed tone to the bowels, and few cases long resist the use of this medicine. Try it once. "Well, I declare," she exclaimed. "How delightfully unconventional. Charmed, I'm sure."

MARINE MATTERS.

No Demand for Tonnage and Charters Are Rare.

At present the marine situation is much as it has been for some weeks past. That is, there is no demand for tonnage and a charter is a rare thing indeed. New elements have entered, however, which give hope of a change in the condition of things before many days have passed, and it is quite probable that from July on business will be decidedly lively.
For wheat to Buffalo to load in July 2⅝ cents has been offered, an advance of ⅛ cent from the present rate, but vessel men are not at all anxious to make charters at that rate. Owing to the strong feeling in ore and the probability of an advance over 85 cents in the ore rate, they expect to get better than 2⅝ cents, and a higher rate will have to be paid in order to induce wild tonnage out of the ore trade into wheat.

LUMBER GOING TO MUSKEGON.

The sale of 1,000,000 feet of lumber made by the Merrill & Ring Lumber company to W. G. Watson & Co., of Muskegon, is the first ever sold here to go to that market, says the Northern Lumberman. Watson & Co. run a yard there and handle about 25,000,000 feet a year, their trade lies largely with the East, Muskegon enjoying the same freight rates by rail that are given to Saginaw. They have purchased at Saginaw before, and also at Baraga and some other Lake Superior points, but have got into the Duluth market for the first time. It is altogether likely that they will be frequent buyers here in the future, and will probably take other cargoes this year.

SWINDLING CASE.

Ed Sawyer of Superior Arrested on that Charge.

Ed. Sawyer, of West Superior, is under arrest at the central station, charged with swindling Frank Hanke out of $39 in Peterson's saloon at West Superior yesterday noon.
Hanke, it is alleged, was approached by Sawyer and James Lynch with a dice game proposition and it took but a short time for him to part with $39 of his hard earned wealth. Then he made a protest and attempted to arrest the men who, however, succeeded in escaping. Lynch left for North Dakota in the afternoon.
Hanke came to Duluth this morning to try and find Sawyer and discovered his man at the Union depot about 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The two men grappled after Sawyer had offered $15 to let the matter drop.
Both were brought in by Officer McKenzie. Hanke was released on arrival at the station. When captured Sawyer had on his person several sets of loaded dice, a big roll of counterfeit money and a number of other articles used by gamblers not on the square. Chief Armstrong says Sawyer is a shoe string gambler who operated in the two cities and the police have had him under surveillance for a considerable time.

Sandstone Booming.

F. L. Dennie, mayor of Sandstone, was in the city today accompanied by his wife. Mr. Dennie is in the employ of the Great Northern road, and previous to that he was private secretary to Senator Hansborough, of North Dakota. He is an enthusiastic Sandstoner and says there is not a place in the West that is booming so greatly. The Great Northern road has 600 men at work there on yards, and a big 30-stall round-house is going in. Taken altogether there are 1200 or 1500 men at work around there. The quarries are employing 600 or 800 and have the contract for the stone work for the new dam at Minneapolis. Verily, says he, Sandstone is the most progressive of all villages.

Blanchard--Howard.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock Miss Edna Blanchard and Julius D. Howard were married at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. David Buchanan, 311 Second avenue west. Rev. Dr. Ryan, of St. Paul's Episcopal church, performed the ceremony. The wedding was a very quiet one and only a few friends were present. No cards or invitations were issued. Mr. and Mrs. Howard left this afternoon for the East and will spend a month at Narragansett Pier.

CLOSES ON TUESDAY.

The ladies of Duluth regret that Mrs. T. B. Wheelock's course of cooking lessons at the First M. E. church closes next Tuesday. On Friday, June 28, from 3 to 5 o'clock, the lesson will be devoted to fancy side dishes, chicken salad, etc. The last lesson on Tuesday contains a variety of breakfast and tea breads; gems, corn bread, huckleberry ginger bread, peach short cake, almond cream cake, waffles, tea biscuits and Welch rarebit. Last Tuesday's lesson on various salads was particularly fine. It is to be hoped that Mrs. Wheelock will conclude to return in September, as many of the ladies are urging her to do so.

A QUEER AMUSEMENT.

Boston Herald: In Cambridge the other day a small girl was seen picking bits of paper out of a barrel of household refuse that was waiting in the street to be removed by the city department, and when asked what she could be doing gave a rather startling explanation. She said she was hunting up torn letters for her sister, who was sick. "She amuses herself," explained the innocent child, "pasting the pieces together and reading 'em!" If this sort of pastime becomes popular with invalids it behooves people to burn their correspondence instead of merely tearing it to pieces and casting them into the dust bin. For what is fun for some daughter of Eve on a sick couch might prove disastrous to the writers of the missives should evil disposed persons take to this singular occupation.

YALE WON

Harvard and Yale Crews Have Their Annual Contest Today.

Bad Weather Ushered in the Daybreak Along the Course.

Yale a Favorite of the Betters but Harvard Was Hopeful.

New London, Conn., June 28.—Yale won, crossing the line eight lengths ahead of Harvard.

Gales Ferry, Conn., June 28.—Shut out from sunlight, filled with drifting fog and a clinging mist, this place, in the morning of the day fixed for Yale's annual contest with 'varsity of Harvard, seems shut off from all connection with the outside world. Even the telegraph, the only connecting link between Gales Ferry and Mountville, cannot be found, and the dripping telegraph wires look as if there was no electricity in them. The robins, which usually are so plentiful in the cherry trees, are absent, and the only cound which comes in from the outside world is the occasional puffing of some tug or locomotive away out in the mist. At 8:30 there is but slight appearance of changes. The rain has ceased, but there is every appearance that the let-up is but temporary.

Every brook is this morning pouring volumes of muddy water into the Thames. Instead of the familiar dark blue surface, the river has taken on a yellow color. There is but little wind, and its early effect on the mist was not noticeable. At the quarters of the rival crews there is not the slightest change in the daily routine, excepting the the absence of hard work, that has been the feature of past days. There will be no more rowing of moment until the race. Instead the men will be given a thorough coaching and practice in starting. It seems as if nothing can disturb Bob Cook's happy air or Capt. Armstrong's smile. These men seem not a whit bothered about the weather. Coach Cook this morning reported his men in good condition, and he and they had all the confidence of the most enthusiastic followers of the Blue in a Yale victory. Then, too, the freshet promises a possible equal of the record of 2:10, and from the standpoint of an oarsman never was a day begun with better promise.

Over at Red Top the illness of Hollister has thrown a shadow over the place, but not one can be found who is not filled with enthusiasm for Harvard. Capt. Bullard was wearing a confident air this morning, and said his crew would enter the race with every expectation of rendering good accounts of themselves. The breakfast today was the same as usual, an orange, oatmeal, hominy, two raw eggs, steaks and chops and bread, with cold water.

The eighteenth consecutive annual boat race between crews of Yale and Harvard universities over the Thames course, which takes place this afternoon, is to be the last race under the ten-year agreement to row over this course, and may be the last for some time to come. If so, the hotel keepers and liverymen of New London may take some of the blame for the result to themselves. The spectators here today are not so numerous as in past years, and the interest is less keen.

Yale is the favorite with betters. A brother of Yale's stroke of last year (Johnson) is said to have here a pool of $15,000, which is to be put up on Yale if possible at 3 to 1. A Columbia college man is offering $200 to $75 on Yale, though he says he would give $100 to see Harvard win.

The steam yacht Dora, belonging to Mr. Ford, of Boston, has arrived here for the use of G. H. Rives, of Oxford, who will be referee of the race. In the harbor is a crowd of small sail craft and not a few steam and sail yachts. The race is scheduled to start at 5 p. m.

RUSSIAN BEAR.

Japan is Not at All Afraid of Russia.

New York, June 28.—"I really don't think war between Japan and Russia is imminent," said Mr. Hashiguchi, the Japanese consul general at New York, in an interview. "However," continued Mr. Hashiguchi, "Japan will not be bullied. If Russia attempts to interfere with the affairs in Corea, Japan will insist upon her rights.

"We are just beginning to recover from a rather exhausting war and are in no hurry to get into another quarrel, but I wish to say to you, emphatically, that Japan is not afraid of Russia. I will go so far as to assure you that there are Japanese—and they are not carried away by enthusiasm, who would not be astonished to see a Japanese army in St. Petersburg."

WASHINGTON WHEAT CROP.

Tacoma, June 28.—Local grain dealers say that Chicago grain men are mistaken in talking of but half a wheat crop in Washington, as they are doing, according to recent press dispatches. Reports received here from all sections of the wheat district state that present prospects are for a full yield. Grain men say that the state yield will probably be up to the average though the acreage in some districts is 20 per cent less than last year. The wheat got an excellent start while the ground was wet and the grain men claim that nothing can hurt it now, unless there are hot winds late in July when wheat is in the milk.

THE ROAD'S INDEBTEDNESS.

Pittsburg, June 28.—The master's report in the equity case of William G. Mendenhall against the Western New York & Pennsylvania Railroad company has been filed and approved in the United States court. The suit involves the reorganization of defendant company. The report shows the total indebtedness of the railroad company secured by bonds and mortgages is $25,861,361.

WHITEMAN'S SENTENCE.

It Will Not Be Known Until July 26.

San Francisco, June 28.—The sentence of A. J. Whiteman, formerly of Duluth, for forgery has been postponed to July 26.

In reporting the conclusion of Whiteman's trial the San Francisco Call said: Alonzo J. Whiteman, who was brought out here from New York to answer a charge of forgery, was found guilty by a jury in Judge Wallace's court yesterday. The specific charge upon which he had been tried was for forging a check for $500 upon the Importers' and Traders' Bank of New York. Whiteman took the stand in his own defense during the day. He said he had been "plunging" at the race-track out here and falling behind in his finances he sent on to Frank Dixon, who was then in Chicago, asking for money. Dixon, he says, sent him the check in question and after J. D. Maxwell had indorsed it it was cashed at the Neveda bank. Whiteman said that Dixon told him he had not enough money in the bank to cover the check, but he would protect it when it was sent East. When the check was sent East it was refused payment and the Nevada bank recovered from Maxwell the endorser. The letters which Whiteman wrote, and in which he almost admits his guilt, are considered to be mainly responsible for his conviction.

SEIZED A YACHT.

Spanish Authorities at Cuba Imprison Two Americans.

New Orleans, June 28.—A cable dispatch from Havana states that the yacht Nepenthe has been seized by the Spanish authorities and that her owners, George Agar and Bishop Dudley, have been imprisoned. Both of these gentlemen are prominent in social and business circles, being members of the cotton and sugar exchanges. The Nepenthe left here a few weeks ago on a cruise along the Florida coast and then sailed across to Cuba.

It is said that the yacht was overhauled by a Spanish gun boat and towed into Havana. It is supposed that the yacht was suspected of carrying a filibustering expedition. There are several others in the party, besides the two owners, but it is not known whether they were all arrested. The affair has created much excitement here, and Secretary Olney has been informed of the occurrence.

SAY IT'S HARRISON.

Gov. Matthews, of Indiana, Says He is the Man.

New York, June 28.—The Hon. Claude Matthews, Democratic governor of Indiana, is at the Fifth Avenue hotel, on his way, with his family, for a short tour on the coast. Of Indiana he said: "We do not have a state election until next year. Unmistakably there is a strong silver sentiment in the southern counties of Indiana among the Democrats, but the state committee will not, I imagine, regard any request for a state convention to listen to the silver men.

"The Democrats of Indiana are going slow but sure. The state has been burdened by a Republican legislature whose acts have been very severely criticized by the people. Of course I am not in the confidence of ex-President Harrison and the Republicans of the state, but Democrats and Republicans both profess to believe that Gen. Harrison will be the candidate of his party for president next year."

MARIE BURROUGHS.

Why She Asks the Court for a Divorce.

San Francisco, June 28.—The testimony of Marie Burroughs, the actress, in her suit for divorce from her husband, Louis Massen, has been submitted to Judge Trout. While playing in California, she applied for the divorce and attempted to keep secret the proceedings. At the time it was commenced, Massen was leading man in his wife's company and stopped at the same hotel. She alleged infidelity and in her testimony said she learned years ago that her husband was unfaithful.

Two years later her suspicion was confirmed by the finding of certain letters addressed to her husband. Although she lived at the same hotel she says she never condoned his offense and always occupied separate apartments. He was a good actor and for that reason she kept him in her company.

THE SWAMP LANDS.

Probably a Year Before More Lands are Patened.

Washington, June 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Commissioner Lamoreux was asked today as to the prospect of the swamp lands being patented to the state of Minnesota. He stated that not an acre would be patented until after Swamp Land Agent Farrell, of the department, who is now in Minnesota, has made his report. Approval of the state's selections was suspended by Secretary Lamar pending an investigation before, owing to lack of appropriations. The money is now available but it is limited in amount, consequently the investigation cannot progress very rapidly. It is probable that at least a year may elapse before another list is approved.

MINNIE WAS SENSITIVE.

Chicago, June 28.—Minnie Lynch, the 19-year-old-daughter of a wealthy saloon keeper, committed suicide today because she had failed to pass the final examination at the town of Lake high school. The girl declared that her school mates and teacher were prejudiced against her because her father was a saloon keeper, and that she could not expect fair treatment either at school or after she had left it.

DROWNED IN SNAKE RIVER.

Glens Ferry, Idaho, June 28.—Frank Howell, a young unmarried man of Rushville, Neb., was drowned in Snake river here yesterday while swimming his horse across. He was with a party from Iowa and his two brothers, traveling with teams to locate in Oregon. His father is an invalid and is with his mother at the soldier's home, Grand Island, Neb.

CRUSHED

Five Gallant Minneapolis Firemen Killed at a Fire Last Night.

At Least One More and Probably Others May Die of Injuries.

Many Firemen and Citizens Injured---Loss $100,000 ---Fully Insured.

Minneapolis, June 28.—Last night's fire in the wholesale crockery establishment of McDonald Brothers, on First avenue south, near Third street, was the most disastrous in loss of firemen's lives in the history of the Minneapolis fire department. Five brave fellows lie mangled and lifeless at the morgue, and six of their comrades are writhing in agony at various hospitals. Of these six, one at least seems doomed to die, while in another case the issue is in doubt. The great five story brick building, with its enormous stock of crockery, is in utter ruin, and the blackened walls, broken windows, and drenched floors of the adjoining buildings bear mute evidence to the victory won by the department against great odds in confining the flames to the place of their origin. The list of the killed is as follows:

Frank Kuhlin, lieutenant Hose No. 6, unmarried.

Walter Richardson, Hose No. 6, leaves a wife and one child.

Joseph W. Hoy, Hook and Ladder No. 2, unmarried.

John Horner, Hook and Ladder No. 3.

Christian Sande, Hook and Ladder No. 3, leaves a wife and five children.

The seriously injured are: John Gray, Hook and Ladder No. 3, broken knee cap and other injuries; Ernest D. Caldwell, captain of Engine No. 6, back badly strained, and internal injuries, may die; Henry Gau, Engine No. 1, back and kidneys badly injured, will die; Frank Egan, hose man, Engine No. 1, bruised; W. H. McDonald, lieutenant, badly crushed; Ed Thieland, captain of Hook and Ladder No. 2, badly bruised about the head and body.

Besides the firemen who were injured were the following private citizens: Theodore Veidt, of Anoka, Minn., cut by falling glass; William Brietenstein, Minneapolis, cut by falling glass; Paul Johnson, northeast Minneapolis, cut by falling glass.

The heavy brick wall which wrought this injury fell almost without warning. The flames had been kept well within the building by iron shutters, until the interior was a blazing furnace. The newly dug cellar of a proposed building permitted access on one side and this edge of vantage was occupied by a score of firemen, who were playing a dozen streams into the building. Suddenly the roof fell, the side wall wavered for an instant and then toppled over on the heads of the devoted firemen beneath.

The multitude that stood watching were breathless and silent. The vast cloud of smoke and dust that arose from the debris choked out the flames momentarily and there was no sound save the stentorian breathing of the engines. Then the police and willing helpers rushed forward and pulled the mangled forms of the dead and living from under the hot bricks. The dead were so mangled that it was sometime before all could be identified.

The loss is $40,000 on the building and $60,090 n the stock, and is total. The insurance is ample to cover this.

YERKES OBSERVATORY.

Wisconsin Star Gazer Has the Biggest Lens Ever Made.

Boston, June 28.—The largest and probably the most powerful lens ever constructed has just received the finishing touches in the establishment of A. G. Clark & Sons, of Cambridge. The lens is intended for the observatory on the shores of Lake Geneva, Wis., which is to be known as the Yerkes observatory.

This lens is 42½ inches on the surface diameter and weighs 500 pounds. The exposed surface will be 40 inches, the other 3 inches being taken up by the casings. This makes it 4 inches larger than the largest, which has heretofore been known.

NEW ARMAMENT.

Ordnance Department Busy Equipping the Army.

Washingto, June 28.—The ordnance department is making good progress in the work of construction of the new small bore rifles at the Springfield armory. The entire infantry arm of the service has already been supplied with the new weapon. The work of making the carbine for the use of the cavalry is well under way. It is fully expected that the entire United States army will be equipped with them before next winter.

Then the ordnance department will turn its attention to the supply for the militia of the different states. The militia must pay for their own weapons out of the appropriations allotted to the respective states from the general fund set apart annually for military equipment and as most of them have already exhausted their quota for this year, they will be obliged to wait until congress makes further provision before ordering the new weapons.

GUATEMALAN RAILROADS.

Washington, June 28.—Guatemala's purpose to build a system of railroads at government expense is being looked into by the bureau of American republics here, with a view to giving American capitalists an opportunity to participate in the investment. It has already attracted the attention of British investors, and the British foreign office has given notice that specifications for the roads are in store at the government buildings in London.

BLANCHE HAS COMPROMISED.

Colorado Springs, Col., June 28.—The troubles of Capt. Blanche Cox, of the Salvation Army, have been compromised. Her people will be allowed to conduct their services at certain designated places, and all charges against Capt. Cox will be dropped.

WATER TROUBLES.

Indignant Denverites Threaten to Hang Their Aldermen.

Chicago, June 28.—A special from Denver, Col., says: The fight for an independent water service or a reduction of the prices exacted for the present service, which was made an issue in the spring election, culminated last evening in the passage of an ordinance submitted by an alderman charged to be in the pay of the Union Water company. For eight hours the aldermen sat in the council chamber in front of an indignant multitude of citizens, who threatened them with lynching if they carried out the plan contemplated in the passage of the ordinance. A force of fifty policemen in uniform and a score of city detectives in citizen's clothes were in the room and they were expected to interpose between the mob and the aldermen if it came to the worst.

A rope was shown by the crowd and its use was called for, when Alderman Emery changed his vote from the side of the tax payers to that of the water company. There was a rush of citizens towards the rail that separated the crowd from the alderman, but one of the citizens in the meeting jumped on a chair and begged the crowd to remain cool and allow the proceedings to go on in an orderly fashion.

Upon assurances that there would be another session before anything definite was determained the rebellious element began to melt away and the council was permitted to go ahead with the transaction of routine business. Just before adjourning, however, the council passed the ordinance.

GUARDED THE ALDERMEN.

Denver, June 28.—Almost the entire police force of Denver was employed last night in guarding the houses of the eoght aldermen who feared violence from their constituents. A bill for an ordinance, granting a reduction of only 15 per cent on the schedule of water rates now in force, passed the aldermen by a vote of 8 to 6 last night, and this aroused the anger of the people who attended the council meeting in force. The measure which caused so much indignation has a clause which makes the rates thus fixed, a burden on the people for fifteen years, besides it is claimed that the reduction of 15 per cent is not one-half what the people are entitled to under the company's contract, which calls for a reduction this year to the average of rates charged in Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati. Although feeling runs very high and much harsh talk is heard, no overt acts against the aldermen have yet been committed.

TELEGRAPHIC TICKS.

Mrs. James J. Corbett is at Fargo, N. D., where she is registered as Mrs. Thomas Boate. She is there to gain the divorce from her pugilistic husband.

A tornado created havoc at the summer resort of Put-in-Bay, Lake Erie, near Cleveland. The town hall was blown down, houses unroofed, wires were hopelessly mixed, etc. It caused great consternation among summer boarders and campers.

All the alleged lynchers of Defaulter Scott, the dead treasurer of Holt county, Neb., have been acquitted.

John S. Johnson, the bicycler, at Bethlehem, Pa., yesterday, made a half mile in 1:03⅗, beating all records.

At the big tennis tournament in Newton, Mass., Hovey and Hobart easily defeated Pim and Mahoney in three sets. Pim, who is the ex-champion, said the play of the Americans would beat anything in the world.

A wild and woolly mob in La Crosse, assembled to denounce the police for killing a man. The funny part of the thing is that no man has been killed by the police or anyone else lately, and the police are much mystified.

Ernest Holmes, a 10-year-old son of the deputy adjutant general of Winnipeg, was drowned yesterday while bathing.

Capt. Gen. Martinez de Campos, while still denying that the Cuban insurrection is of any proportions has directly cabled to Spain for large reinforcements of Spanish troops.

Officers of all the labor organizations in New Orleans have been indicted in the United States court for interfering with interstate commerce during the levee strikes and troubles last winter.

Michael McDonough, the wife murderer, was hanged at Columbus, Ohio, yesterday. He was 60 years old. The rope literally beheaded the body and the scene was a sickening one.

Governor Hastings, of Pennsylvania, has approved the religious garb bill which prohibits teachers in public schools from wearing any distinguishing religious garb or insignia of any religious order.

John L. Sullivan had a big benefit at Madison Square garden in New York last night, the place being packed. A deputy sheriff with an attachment in behalf of a printing company, tried to get the receipts on an old bill against Sullivan, but there was a bill of sale dated June 25, for $5300 to Parson Davies, which, although a subterfuge, allowed Sullivan to get his money.

MORE NEBRASKA TROUBLES.

Pender, Neb., June 28.—Indian Agent Beck today notified settlers that they must come before him and make new leases before July 15, or lose their farms and crops. It is not likely that they will yield peaceful possession without an order from the courts.

SILVER

Ex-Minister White, of Russia, Speaks About the White Metal.

Favors Unlimited Coinage Only on International Agreement.

Says it Would Be Folly for America to Undertake it Alone.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 28.—Andrew D. White, ex-minister to Russia, has returned to his old home here. In an interview he said he knew nothing about politics on this side now. Since leaving Russia he has traveled through Germany and as far south as Sicily, and he had therefore missed many American papers.

In regard to the silver question Mr. White said: "My opinion as to the silver question is, it seems to me, and I think the vast majority of thinking men who know anything about business affairs, that while it would be a good thing if we could get the nations of the world to make an agreement which would result in a larger use of silver, and while many of the leading men in foreign nations, among them Mr. Balfour, who has just been made the head of the new ministry in British house of commons, are entirely in sympathy with us in this respect, unless we have international arrangement of that kind it would be folly for us to undertake unlimited coinage of silver.

"In fact at this moment our country is really the richest in the world. It has every element of prosperity. The Russians who came back from the Chicago exposition, many of whom I saw, were full of wonder at the enterprise and progress of the country. They never tire of talking about it. Nothing has ever been seen like the progress of this nation since the world began, and yet here we are waiting, dallying and hanging on with capital afraid to come out, and labor insufficiently employed, simply because of the uncertainty about the circulating medium. If that were removed and if confidence were restored, I believe that all the other questions in the way of prosperity would be adjusted speedily, and we should enter on a new career such as we ourselves never dreamed of."

OCEAN TO OCEAN.

Americans Will Soon Know How Wide We Are.

Washington, June 28.—Superintendent Duffield, of the coast and geological survey, today said that he was very hopeful that the present year would see the completion of the work of triangulating the continent from ocean to ocean, which has been under way for some time past. The party left for the Rocky mountains early in the month. The work will be to definitely establish distances.

"When it is done," said Gen. Duffield, "we shall know how far it is from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean."

The party which is engaged in determining the exact boundary line between the United States and British territory in the Northwest is also expected to be able to report material progress at the close of the season. The levelling party has already, during the present season, carried its work from Richmond to Washington, and in July will push the line through Kansas.

VERY HOT STUFF

California Wine in Which Murder Seems to Lurk.

San Francisco, June 28.—A peculiar coincidence in connection with numerous tragedies which have taken place in this vicinity for several months past is the fact that they were all brought about after the drinking of a certain wine manufactured at Cajon. Less than a year ago Thomas Guriet drank some of this wine and killed Jesse Taylor, for which he was convicted and sentenced to serve ten or 15 years in jail. A little later Joseph Colmot committed suicide after having imbibed this wine too freely.

A few weeks ago the community at Cajon was startled with another tragedy. A. N. Rayburn had served some of the wine to his friends at dinner and it was followed by a murder.

The latest crime following the drinking of this wine was committed at Hesperia, when J. E. Douglas shot and killed W. E. Neal in a most cold blooded manner. This chain of coincidences, so full of tragedy, has led to the suggestion that something uncanny must be lurking in the wine.

KENTUCKY BOURBONS.

Remarkable Democratic Convention is Finally Adjourned.

Louisville, Ky., June 28.—The most memorable Democratic convention ever held in Kentucky closed after three days of almost continuous session last night at 7 o'clock, when Chairman A. S. Berry, of the Sixth congressional district, declared it adjourned sine die. Following is the full ticket as nominated.

For governor, P. Watt Hardin; for lieutenant governor, R. T. Tyler; for treasurer, R. C. Ford; for auditor, L. C. Norman; for register of land office, G. B. Swango; for attorney general, W. J. Kendrick; for secretary of state, public instruction, E. P. Thompson; for Henry S. Hale; for superintendent of commissioner of agriculture, I. D. Nale.

STEAMER CHEHALIS LOST.

Port Townsend, Wash., June 28.—The steamer Chilcat from Juneau brings news of the disappearance of the steamer Chehalis. Early last week she quietly sailed from Juneau headed south. But inquiries at the ports on the way down failed to bring to light any news of the vessel. The steamer went north recently to engage in jobbing work and had not been very successful. Much anxiety exists concerning her whereabouts.

The Only Remedy in the World that Refunds Purchase Price if it Fails to Cure the Tobacco Habit in 4 to 10 Days is

Narcoti-Cure

It Cures While You Continue the Use of Tobacco.

The greatest discovery of the age!

A certain, pleasant, permanent cure.

A lifetime's suffering ended for $5.00.

Why smoke and spit your life away? Why suffer from dyspepsia, heartburn and drains on your vital forces?

Stop using tobacco, but stop the right way! Drive the nicotine from your system by the use of this wonderful remedy!

Narcoti-Cure is warranted to remove all desire for tobacco in every form, including Cigar, Cigarette and Pipe smoking, Chewing and snuff taking.

Use all the tobacco you want while under treatment, and in from four to ten days your "hankering" and "craving" will disappear—the weed won't taste good.

Then throw away tobacco forever.

Narcoti-Cure is entirely vegetable and free from injurious ingredients. It never fails to give tone and new vigor to the weakest constitution.

Remember Narcoti-Cure doesn't deprive you of tobacco while effecting a cure; doesn't ask you to buy several bottles to be entitled to a guarantee; doesn't require a month's treatment; and, finally, doesn't enable you to stop togacco only to find yourself a slave to the habit of tablet chewing.

With Narcoti-Cure, when you are through with tobacco you are through with the remedy. One bottle cures.

Send for book of prominent testimonies like the following:

Huntington, Mass., March 18, 1895. The Narcoti Chemical Co., Springfield, Mass.

Gentlemen:—I have used tobacco for over twenty-five years, chewing and smoking every day from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m., stopping only for meals.

On Monday, February 4, I called at your office in Springfield and bought a bottle of the Cure, which I used as directed, and on the tenth day the desire for tobacco had left me and it has not returned. I did not lose a meal while taking the Cure. My appetite has improved and I consider Narcoti-Cure a grand thing.

Very respectfully,
CHAS. I. LINCOLN.

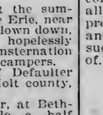

Mr Frank H. Morton, of Chicopee Falls, Mass., late inspector of public buildings for Massachusetts, says:

I used tobacco for twenty-five years and was a confirmed smoker. In just eight days' treatment with Narcoti-Cure I was through with tobacco; in fact the desire for tobacco vanished like a dream.

Very respectfully,
FRANK H. MORTON.

If your druggist is unable to give full particulars about Narcoti-Cure, send to us for Book of Particulars free, or send $5.00 for bottle by mail.

EXTENSION OF Corporate Existence

At a regular meeting of the stockholders of the French River Mining Company, an incorporated company, duly organized under and according to the provisions of the act of the legislature of the state of Minnesota, entitled "An act to authorize the formation of corporations for mining, smelting or manufacturing iron, copper, silver or other ores or minerals," approved Feby. 24, 1890, held at the office of said The French River Mining Company, on Tuesday, August 1st, A. D. 1893, pursuant to the order of the board of directors of said company, made the 5th day of July, A. D. 1893, notice of which meeting had been duly given by the secretary to each and every stockholder appearing as such on the books of the company, the following preamble and resolution was unanimously passed, voted for and adopted, to-wit:

Whereas, by the original articles of incorporation of The French River Mining Company, organized under the provisions of the act of the legislature of the state of Minnesota, entitled:

"An act to authorize the formation of corporations for mining, smelting or manufacturing iron, copper, silver or other ores or minerals," approved Feby. 24th, 1890, dated the 3rd day of August, 1893, it was provided that the term of said corporation was for the term of thirty years from said date; and whereas the directors of said company deem it desirable that the same shall be renewed in conformity to the laws of Minnesota; therefore resolved, that the term of said corporation shall be and is hereby extended and renewed for the period of thirty years from the 3rd day of August, A. D. 1893, under and by virtue of the provisions of Chapter 155 of the legislature of the state of Minnesota, entitled, "An act to provide for the extension of the terms of corporations" approved March 7, 1885, and that the president and secretary be ordered, and they are hereby directed, to do all acts and things necessary to be done to carry this order into effect.

There are 1422 shares of the stock of this company issued, and said resolution received an affirmative vote of 963 shares and of 24 persons, being more than two-thirds (2-3) vote of all its stock and of all its members, shareholders or stockholders.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—

Default has been made in the payment of the sum of four hundred seventy-nine and 13-100 dollars which amount is claimed to be due and is due, owing and unpaid at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage containing a power of sale duly made and delivered by Emily H. Willcuts, mortgagor, to Andrew Lindgren, mortgagee, bearing date the 12th day of December, 1890, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for St. Louis county, Minnesota, on the 17th day of December, 1890, at 3 o'clock p. m., in Book 41 of mortgages, on page 351, which mortgage and mortgage debt were duly assigned by said Andrew Lindgren to T. O. Hall by written instrument bearing date May 19th, 1890, and duly recorded in the office of said register of deeds on the 2nd day of June, 1890, at 4 o'clock p. m., in Book 32 of mortgages, on page 263, which mortgage and the debt thereby secured were duly assigned by said T. O. Hall to O. P. Stearns by written instrument dated June 9th, 1890, and recorded in the office of said register of deeds on June 10th, 1890, at 4 o'clock p. m., in Book 32 of mortgage records on page 269 which mortgage and mortgage debt were duly assigned by said O. P. Stearns to the undersigned Charles W. Day, by written instrument, bearing date the 28th day of May, 1895, and duly recorded in the office of said register of deeds on the 3d day of June, 1895, at 2:40 o'clock p. m., in Book 107 of mortgages on page 269.

And whereas said default is a default in one of the conditions of said mortgage and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described and situate in St. Louis County Minnesota, to-wit: The southeast quarter of the northeast quarter (se¼ of ne¼) of section number twenty-three (23), in township number fifty (50) north of range fifteen (15) west of the fourth P. M., which premises with the hereditaments and appurtenances, will be sold by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, at the front door of the court house of said county, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on Saturday, the 20th day of July, 1895, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at public auction to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt and interest together with fifty dollars attorneys' fee, stipulated in said mortgage to be paid in case of foreclosure and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from date of sale as by law provided.

Dated June 7th, 1895.

EXTENSION OF Corporate Existence

At a regular meeting of the stockholders of The North Shore Mining Company, an incorporated company, duly organized under and according to the provisions of the act of the legislature of the state of Minnesota, entitled "An act to authorize the formation of corporations for mining, smelting or manufacturing iron, copper, silver or other ores or minerals," approved Feby. 24, 1890, held at the office of the said The North Shore Mining Company on Tuesday, August 1st, A. D. 1893, pursuant to the order of the board of directors of said company, made the 5th day of July, A. D. 1893, notice of which meeting had been duly given by the secretary to each and every stockholder appearing as such on the books of the company, the following preamble and resolution was unanimously passed, voted for and adopted by said stockholders' meeting, to-wit:

Whereas, by the original articles of incorporation of The North Shore Mining Company, organized under the provisions of the act of the legislature of the state of Minnesota, entitled:

"An act to authorize the formation of corporations for mining, smelting or manufacturing iron, copper, silver or other ores or minerals," approved Feby. 24th, 1890, dated the 3rd day of August, 1893, it was provided that the term of said corporation was for the term of thirty years from said date; and whereas the directors of said company deem it desirable that the same shall be renewed in conformity to the laws of Minnesota; therefore resolved, that the term of said corporation shall be and is hereby extended and renewed for the further period of thirty years from the 3rd day of August, A. D. 1893, under and by virtue of the provisions of Chapter 155 of the legislature of the state of Minnesota, entitled, "An act to provide for the extension of the terms of corporations" approved March 7, 1885, and that the president and secretary be ordered, and they are hereby directed, to do all acts and things necessary to be done to carry this order into effect.

There are 1412 shares of stock of this company issued, and said resolution received an affirmative vote of 973 shares and of 24 persons, being more than two-thirds (2-3) vote of all its stock and of all its members, shareholders or stockholders.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—

Whereas default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by John M. Caplis and Anna Caplis, his wife, mortgagors, to the Penn Land and Loan Company, (a corporation) mortgagee, bearing date the twenty-eighth day of April, 1894, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the fifth day of May, 1894, at four o'clock p. m., in Book 119 of mortgages on page 165.

Such default consisting in the non-payment of the semiannual installments of interest upon the debt secured by said mortgage which installments became due on the 28th day of October, 1894, and on the 28th day of April, 1895, respectively, by reason whereof the said mortgagee has elected to exercise the option to it given in said mortgage, and has declared, and does hereby declare, the whole principal sum secured by said mortgage with all accrued interest thereon to be now due and payable; and whereas there is therefore claimed to be due, and is due upon said mortgage debt at the date of this notice the sum of five hundred forty-seven and 20-100 (547 20-100) dollars and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, to-wit: lots one (1) to six (6) inclusive, in block fifteen (15), in Kimberley and Stryker's Addition to Duluth, Second Division, according to the recorded plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the said register of deeds, said premises being situated in the said county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on Monday, the 12th day of August, 1895, at ten o'clock a. m., of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorneys' fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from date of sale, as provided by law.

West Duluth Presbyterians Elected Two Last Night To Fill Vacancies.

The Church Finances Were Discussed and Other Matters Considered.

Ball Game Between the Grays and West Duluth on Sunday.

At the congregational meeting held by the Presbyterian Church society last evening Van R. Brown and Mr. Wright were elected trustees to fill the vacancies caused by the resignations of N. M. Little and J. A. Connery, both gentlemen having left West Duluth.

After the selection of trustees some time was taken up with a discussion of the finances of the church. The society is building an addition to the building, which will add to its convenience and seating capacity. This addition was made necessary by the large Sunday school in connection with the church, which demands larger and more convenient quarters.

SUNDAY BALL GAME.

Manager Simonds has secured a ball game for the West Duluth grounds on Sunday next. The contest will be between the Grays and the West Duluths. The two nines played a game several weeks ago which resulted in a score of 6 to 4 in favor of the West Duluths. It is the best game that has yet been played at the head of the lakes this season, and it is safe to wager that an interesting exhibit of ball playing will be made next Sunday.

DECLINED

Wheat Weak and Lower Today Owing to a Fall in Stocks.

Grangers Took a Tumble in New York Which Affected Wheat.

Cables Were Also Easier and Outside Buying Orders Were Small.

Wheat was weaker and lower today, although the Duluth market was somewhat stronger than other markets, notably Chicago and St. Louis. A heavy break in grangers on the New York stock exchange was the main cause of the depression. The cables were also easier and the continued lack of buying outside the regular operators contributed to the weakness. The frosts and rains were ignored and had no influence at all on the market. September, which is now the active future, opened unchanged at 71½c and advanced to 71¾c but eased off and ruled fairly steady around 71¾c until after 10 o'clock. Then the decline set in as a result of the fall in grainger stocks and September dropped to 70⅝c before noon, reacting to 70½c. After that hour it continued weak and sold down to 70⅜c, with one sale of 100,000 bushels at 70c. The trading all day was heavy. July started unchanged at 73⅜c and sold down to 72¼c. The mills were paying ⅜c over July for round lots of No. 1 hard to arrive. The close was 1c lower than yesterday for cash, ⅜c lower for July and wheat to arrive and ⅝c lower for September.

A Chicago dispatch said: "The feature of frost damage to spring wheat should not, of course, of itself, be a reason for lower prices. There were other reasons for weakness, however, which were pushed into view and made to count for more than usual from the fact that there was a great deal more July wheat held by parties who had no use for it and no money to pay for it if delivered. Liquidation of July was a prominent feature of the day's business and its effect, besides weakening the market generally, was to make that month relatively heavier than September. The latter getting to a premium of 2¼ per cent per bus. The other reasons were: The cablegrams brought lower quotations, Liverpool was ¼d to ½d lower, Paris 2 to 5 centimes lower, Antwerp 2½ centimes lower and Berlin from 2¼ to 2⅜ marks lower, the latter being the equivalent of 2⅝ cents per bus. Exports from the Atlantic seaboard consisted of 350 bus of wheat and 15,000 barrels of flour. St. Louis said 10,000 bus of their day's receipts were from the new crop. The market here could not be held up by bad threshing returns, which were numerous." The closing quotations at Duluth were as follows:

No. 1 hard, cash, 72¼c; June, 73¼c; July, 73⅛c. No. 1 northern, cash, 72c; June, 72⅝c; July, 72⅝c; September, 70⅝c. No. 2 northern, cash, 68¼c. No. 3, 64½c. Rejected, 62¼c. To arrive, No. 1 hard, 73⅜c; No. 1 northern, 72¾c. Rye, 50c. No. 2 oats, 28½c; No. 3 oats, 28c. Barley, 44c. Flax, cash, $1.17½; September, $1.17. Car inspection—Wheat 86; oats, 4. Receipts—Wheat, 43,826 bus; oats, 1421 bus.

Ribs, June, $6.30; July, $6.32½; September, $6.52. Cash, wheat, 69½c; corn, 46c; oats, 25¾c; pork, $12.22½; lard, $6.57½; short ribs, $6.30. Whisky on the basis of $1.21 for high wines. Rye, cash, 60c. Barley, cash, 52c. Flax, cash, $1.25; September, $1.21½; October, $1.22. Timothy, cash, $5.90.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Minneapolis, June 28.—Market weak, close, June, 70½c; July, 70½c; September, 73¼c.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 107 Chamber of Commerce and 307 Board of Trade.

The weather map showed frost in but two places in the Northwest with a minimum temperature of 36 degrees indicating no harm done and the market opened weak accordingly. Shortly afterward there came in numerous reports of frost and at several places it is said that they were heavy, which frightened the crowd and the market rallied ½c but soon sold off to opening prices. Finally the pressure to sell July wheat became very urgent, evidently from distressed longs, and the price went to a discount of 2¼c below September. It is evident that this liquidation of July had been the main element of weakness, but the decline was helped by weak continental cables and bearish reports from St. Louis as to expected arrivals of new wheat. Whether the market takes another tumble tomorrow will probably depend on the amount of July wheat yet to be liquidated.

Corn and oats still tending downward. Country offerings are increasing and there are few with sufficient courage to stand long of it. Provisions easier on moderate realizing sales and light demand.

The stock market was a bad one for the trusts; at one time Sugar showed a decline of 6 points and gas 3 from yesterday's prices. The grangers ought to be bought on this decline.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—Whereas default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by John M. Caplis and Anna Caplis, his wife, mortgagors, to the Penn Land and Loan Company, (a corporation) mortgagee, bearing date the twenty-eighth day of April, 1894, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the fifth day of May, 1894, at four o'clock p. m., in Book 119 of mortgages on page 161.

Such default consisting in the non-payment of the semiannual installments of interest upon the debt secured by said mortgage which installments became due on the 28th day of October, 1894, and on the 28th day of April, 1895, respectively, by reason whereof the said mortgagee has elected to exercise the option to it given in said mortgage, and has declared, and does hereby declare, the whole principal sum secured by said mortgage with all accrued interest thereon to be now due and payable; and whereas there is therefore claimed to be due, and is due upon said mortgage debt at the date of this notice the sum of four hundred thirty-seven and 76-100 (437 76-100) dollars; and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, to-wit: lots one (1) to six (6) inclusive, in block two (2), in Kimberley and Stryker's Addition to Duluth, Second Division, according to the recorded plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the said register of deeds, said premises being situated in the said county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on Monday, the 12th day of August, 1895, at ten o'clock a. m., of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorneys' fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from date of sale, as provided by law.

THE BOOM IN IRON.

The great movement that is taking place in the iron and steel trade is deserving of special notice. It is as true today as it ever was that iron is the barometer of trade. When the iron trade is depressed you will find business in all other lines in a similar condition, and when there is a revival in iron it is followed by an upward movement in all the other branches of industry. Therefore every person has an interest in the advance that is now occurring in iron and steel. According to the Iron Trade Review of this week, the advance is gaining momentum every week, and while there is no concealment of the fear that things may be moving too rapidly for the health of the trade, nobody seems to be seriously trying to hold the market down. With their product engaged from sixty days to six months ahead, and inquiries and orders steadily growing, the mill and steel works are swinging along towards a condition that now lacks only a few of the chief elements of a boom. They are busier, meantime, in turning down orders that cannot be filled than in figuring about the success of the demand or trying to determine how long the present rate will keep up.

That the boom has come to stay requires no better proof than the recent developments. Steel rail makers have decided to make a gradual increase of price all along the line. Cut nail and wire makers have reached an understanding that prices are to be advanced. The price of pig iron is being steadily advanced and manufactured products are also advanced, while the wages of the men employed in these industries have been increased. Thus all branches of the iron and steel trade are feeling the effects of the revival. We must not forget the ore producers, in whose prosperity Duluth has a particular interest. Higher prices for the manufactured products mean better prices for ore. The heavy sales of ore already made at enhanced values and the contracts offered to the Minnesota Iron company for 1,000,000 tons of high grade Bessemer ore speak volumes for the improvement that has taken place in the ore trade.

The importance of the boom in iron is manifold, and it can hardly be estimated, as far as the benefit to railroads is concerned. First, the raw material has to be hauled to different centers, which represents a large tonnage. Then comes the haul of steel to manufacturing concerns, and, finally, the haul of manufactured products of iron and steel, which represent a large proportion of the high class freight. This makes three hauls for iron and its products, yielding to many railroads a profit second only to that derived from coal. But the benefit does not end here. Higher wages and plenty of work increases the floating supply of money among the laboring class, which is a liberal spender, and the butcher, baker, grocer and merchants of every description in turn are benefited by the improvement in the iron and steel industry.

STATISTICS ABOUT LONDON.

The report of the registrar presents some interesting figures about the city of London. They give an idea of the vastness of the great metropolis of Great Britain, of the diversity of its population, and of the steady increase that is taking place in the number of people who reside within its limits. The report is for the last calendar year. The estimated population in the middle of the year was 4,349,166. The area is 121 square miles, equal to a square of eleven miles to the side, within which there were no less than 1792 miles of roads made or sanctioned at the end of last year. On an average fifty-eight persons live on each acre of ground within the boundaries, or about 37,250 on each square mile. In different parts of the metropolis the density of the population shows remarkable contrasts. The parishes with the lowest density are Lewisham, Hampstead, Wadsworth, and Woolwich, all with less than thirty persons per acre. The most densely populated parishes are Holborn, with 175 persons to an acre; St. Savior's, Southwark, with 181; St. George's-in-the-East, with 163; Shoreditch, with 191, and Whitechapel, with 196.

The marriages in London during 1894 numbered 36,902, the proportion of persons married being 17 per 1000 of the population, a further decline from the rates recorded in recent years. The births registered were 130,553, equal to a proportion of 30.1 per 1000 of the estimated population, this being the lowest ever recorded in London. The natural increase of the population during last year, or the excess of births over deaths, amounted to 53,514, and considerably exceeded the estimated increase of population during the year, which was 42,967. The deaths registered numbered 77,039, being in the proportion of 17.8 per 1000 persons living. This rate was considerably below that in any year on record, the nearest approach being 18.1 in 1889. During the four preceding years, owing principally to the outbreaks of influenza, the London death rate did not fall below 20.7 per 1000.

GEN. HARDIN'S POSITION.

We are told that Gen. Hardin, the Democratic candidate for governor of Kentucky, is attempting the impossible, because the platform adopted by the convention which nominated him endorses the Cleveland-Carlisle financial policy, while he himself is an avowed silver man. It is asserted that he cannot ride two horses at the same time and must turn his back on his former position or repudiate the nominating convention.

This is the view which some politicians will undoubtedly take, but is it the correct view? Why should a gubernatorial candidate be called upon to affirm his position on the silver question or on the tariff question or upon any other peculiarly national issue? The governor of a state has no vote in congress or anywhere else, except like every other citizen at the polls, upon the tariff question or the silver question. It makes not the slightest difference whether the governor of Kentucky is in favor of the single gold standard or supports bimetallism. What is of greater importance to the people of Kentucky is to elect as governor a man who will give them a good business administration, who will look after the interests of the state and protect the state treasury from the raids of the legislators who are inclined to be extravagant and prodigal in the expenditure of the state's money.

There is no reason why Gen. Hardin should refer to the monetary question during the campaign. There can be no issue upon it, because both the Republican and the Democratic conventions adopted platforms that mean practically the same thing. Then why should Gen. Hardin discuss something upon which both parties are agreed? His nomination by a convention that contained a majority opposed to his financial views was a great personal triumph. It was striking testimony to his wonderful popularity. It showed that many of the delegates appreciated the fact that the views of the governor on the silver question cut no figure any way.

About the only thing which the difference between the platform and the views of the head of the ticket teaches is the absurdity of a state convention, called to nominate candidates for state offices, adopting a platform in relation to what are strictly national issues.

The London Economist recently published the statements of 147 British steamship companies, from which it appears that of the number 36 paid no dividends last year, 36 less than 5 per cent, while none paid more than 7 per cent. The National line running to New York paid 1½ per cent on its common stock in 1890, and nothing since. It paid 8 per cent on its preferred stock in 1890 and 1891, and nothing since. The Cunard line paid 4 per cent in 1890, 3 per cent in 1891, 2 per cent in 1892 and 1893, and nothing last year.

In referring to the story that he intended to leave Louisville and move to Chicago, Henry Watterson said to a reporter of the latter city: "I have no more idea of moving to Chicago or of becoming identified in any way with a Chicago paper than I have of jumping into the lake." That ought to settle it, says the Kansas City Star, for everybody knows that no Kentuckian would ever think of jumping into a lake of fresh water.

South Australia has adopted a law allowing women, when prevented by ill-health or by distance from going to the polls, to send in their votes by mail. The clause which permits this was appended to an equal suffrage bill in the hope of killing it, but neither this nor another amendment making women eligible to the provincial parliament, could prevent the passage of the bill. It is a very dangerous experiment, however, as the possibilities of fraudulent voting by mail are very great.

And now the people with supersensitive nerves will be registering kicks against the celebration of the Fourth in the usual manner. They will want the boys prevented from setting off firecrackers and will object to all noisy demonstrations. But their kicks should be disregarded. If they do not like these things, let them take to the woods on the Fourth. Let young America make all the noise he wants to on the glorious Fourth.

A politician complains that with a Republican house, a Democratic president and a senate in which the balance of power belongs to the Populists, the work of the next congress will be greatly hampered. But this is not all, says the Chicago Record. No one knows yet what is to be the political complexion of the sugar trust lobby.

Governor Matthews, of Indiana, who aspires to the presidency, may probably get some support for the manner in which he suppressed the gambling at Roby race track. It demonstrated that he has a backbone as well as a correct conception of the character of the gang that had control of the track.

Some men never can look upon the sunny side of any question. Here is a New Yorker who declares that the big exodus to Europe does not indicate that money is plentiful so much as it does that tradesmen, caterers, modistes, milliners, florists, etc., are still waiting for payments on their bills.

It is said Senator Blackburn can call 20,000 people in Kentucky by name, and after the recent convention at Louisville he will probably add a few ornamentations to some of their names when he thinks about them.

The cable dispatches report that since his resignation of the premiership Lord Rosebery has been quite "jovial." This is to be expected in the case of a man who has had such a heavy load removed from his shoulders.

Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage is on another lecture tour and his subject is "The Bright Side of Things." As he gets $500 for each lecture, he can afford to be an optimist.

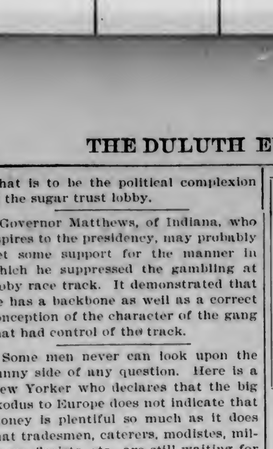

The cause of the very full reports of the Kiel canal celebration has been explained. The kaiser provided each newspaper reporter with fifty bottles of champagne.

The women of Cincinnati have taken hold of the street-cleaning problem and they will probably solve it. The women are the greatest sufferers from dirty streets.

Just as a reminder, it may be remarked that The Saturday Herald tomorrow will be the greatest newspaper published at the head of the lakes this week.

WITH A DULL THUD.

Anoka Union: Merriam's ambition got a fearful fall at Cleveland.

RESENTS SUCH TACTICS.

Anoka Herald (Rep.): The attitude of the big dailies has done much to convert fairminded people to the idea that bimetallism is not such a fallacy after all. They have so persistently abused and ridiculed the advocates of currency reform and palpably misrepresented affairs in their zeal to defend the gold standard that many have grown suspicious that a systematic attempt was being made to bamboozle them and create a prejudice against silverites some of whom, at least, must be honest and patriotic men. The average American is independent if he is anything and he naturally resents the tactics pursued by agitators of the Cleveland stripe.

WHY NOT?

Moorhead News (Rep.): Newspapers speak of this and that public man as being on the right side of the money question because he is in favor of "sound" money. As if to say none but those who are against silver are right. Why is it not possible that those believing in the free coinage of gold and silver which existed for eighty-one years of the life of this country are not as likely to be on the right side as the other fellows?

For Saturday's Shopping

Saturdays are always busy days with us. So many useful little things to be supplied for Sunday's wear, those small articles that are generally put off from day to day, during the week's trading and left to accumulate for Saturday's shopping when all may be bought more conveniently without interfering with the more particular or heavier purchases of the week.

COLORED JONAHS.

A Whale for Every Negro Who Attempts to Leave.

Baltimore, June 28.—At a political gathering of colored people last evening Rev. W. C. Gerns made an address in which he said: "I would say to my white brethren that when the negro asks for equal rights he does not mean to come into your parlors or eat at your tables. He does not mean to go into your fine drug stores and ask for a glass of soda. But we want to have the assurance that if we want a glass of soda we can get it. If I have the ability to keep your books I want to have the assurance of my privilege to contest for that position as a man, not as a negro. We want to assert our talents with the proudest American citizens.

"Some want us to go to Africa, or to colonize on an island. The soil of America was made sacred by the blood of your fathers and our fathers and we are going to stay here. If we attempted to colonize elsewhere and could all be loaded on a ship, I believe a storm would overtake us, that the negroes would be found Jonahs, and we would we cast overboard. But we would not be lost. There would be a whale for every colored man and when the morning dawned the $00,000 of bright eyed faces turned toward heaven would be landed on American shores a mighty shout go up of "home again!"

SAN FRANCISCO FIRE.

The Pacific Metropolis Has a $2,000,000 Blaze.

San Francisco, June 28.—Last night at 6 o'clock the fire department was summoned by a call to Fourth and Brannan streets, to what proved to be the most destructive fire here for years. Wright, Carrick & Williams' box factory was a blazing pile and in a few minutes the Fifth Street Furniture company's big building was enveloped in flames. The entire department was summoned but a high wind drove the flames onward despite the best efforts of the firemen and soon the whole block between Fourth, Fifth, Brannan and Bryant streets was blazing.

The fire spread rapidly in several directions until it seemed as if the whole district down to the water front must fall a prey, but at 9:30 the wind suddenly shifted carrying the flames back over the already burned section and allowing the firemen to gain a mastery.

One death is reported. A Miss Gilroy, while attempting to save some of her belongings, was covered with burning oil and burned to death. A number of people have received injuries from falling walls and flying timbers. The people in the fire district were terror stricken. Most of them are of the poorer classes and made great efforts to save their small belongings. Express wagons and drays were at a premium. Probably 100,000 people were gathered at the fire and the police were powerless to keep them away. The fire was not so hot, however, that the crowd got near enough to be in serious danger.

The loss is roughly estimated at $2,000,000 with the amount of insurance not known. Over 100 dwellings were destroyed, besides the number of wood working concerns which employed those who lived near the fire.

INTERNATIONAL ATHLETICS.

London, June 28.—The Standard in an editorial this morning on the reply of Harvard to the challenge of Oxford-Cambridge athletic committee, says: "The reason given by the American undergraduates for declining the match are creditable to their modesty. Interesting as the proposed meeting would have been, we are not altogether sorry that the scheme has collapsed. It might have been necessary to defray the expenses of some of our champions and thus convert into a business matter what ought to be merely pleasure."

THE LIMIT

Secretary Smith Refuses to Allow Extension of Time for Payments.

Claimant Likened to an Impecunious Bidder at an Auction Sale.

Register and Receiver Find Differently in a Homestead Entry Case.

Extensions of time on payments of timber and stone filings don't go according to a decision just rendered by Secretary Hoke Smith. His decision in the case of John M. McDonald ex parte, involving the e½ of ne¼ and e½ of se¼ of section 13-59-17 was received today. McDonald filed a statement of his desire to purchase the land under the timber and stone act on March 29, 1893. He was to offer proof on Jan. 29, 1894, but on that date applied for an extension of time for payment. This application was transmitted to the general land office and rejected and an appeal to the secretary was taken. The ground alleged was that the times are hard and McDonald had no money. Secretary Smith calls attention to the rules laid down against granting extensions beyond the ninety days allowed by law and says:

"In defiance of said regulations McDonald procured in the first instance indulgence for ten months within which to make proof and payment. Your office decision states and shows by the records of your office that said indulgence was granted without regard to the exigencies of business at the local land office. A person who applies to purchase timber land and files his sworn statement, without knowing that he has the money to consummate the purchase, does not act in good faith. He is like an impecunious bidder at an auction sale. The government will not withhold from disposition valuable timber lands for an indefinite length of time or for any time after the day fixed for proof and payment, in order to give fortune an opportunity to smile upon the would-be purchaser or promote a possible speculation. Your office decision is hereby affirmed. McDonald's application will be cancelled."

A decision by the local officers has been rendered in the case of James Cattanach against Gust Johnson, involving lots 2, 4, 5, 6 and 7, section 21-64-14. Register Taylor and Receiver Ryan reach different conclusions. Both entered under the homestead law. Receiver Ryan finds for Cattanach, it being proven to his satisfaction that the settlement made by this claimant was prior to the other, and that he has complied with the letter and spirit of the law. Register Taylor decides in favor of Johnson. He does not believe Cattanach has made a bona fide settlement, and thinks he has continued his residence in Duluth, being employed at Heller & Loeb's part of the time as a bartender.

A decision has also been given by the local officers in the case of Elvira Swenson, timber and stone claimant, against John Paulzin, homestead claimant, involving lot 10 in section 12, lots 1 and 2 and the ne¼ of the ne¼ of section 13-61-14. The cancellation of the homestead entry is recommended, on the ground that Paulzin has not made a bona fide settlement, and that the land is more valuable for timber and stone than for agricultural purposes.

LEMEN BROTHERS.

Their Great Circus Will Show Here on Monday Next.

The circus event of the season will occur on Monday next, when little Edna, the child rider, will entertain the ladies and children both afternoon and night. This little lady, who is but 9 years of age, actually rides and drives four Kentucky thoroughbred horses, one of the most difficult and daring acts ever done in a circus ring. That there is a treat in store for the lovers of nature in the great animal display and the very exciting sports of the arena by many of the leading lights of the circus profession there is no doubt.

The career of Lemen Bros.' show from 1880 to the present time has been one of continuous success. And the proprietors deserve it. They have always given the public the worth of their money. In these days of humbug it is really refreshing to be able to speak in terms of praise of an amusement enterprise. This year the managers promise a new surprise in the shape of the largest elephant on earth. It is Rajah, and today stands two inches taller than Jumbo. It is the largest creature that breathes the breath of life. This will be indeed a great curiosity. The whole show is said to be exceptionally good.

The fact that human intelligence is not essential to success in pugilism is demonstrated by the performances of Tom, the trained kangaroo. Tom stands six feet high, and, planted solidly upon his two long hind legs, with the adjunct of a powerful tail, is able to stand up before human boxers and deal honest blows that would do severe damage to his antagonist but for the fact that the fists of both are covered with padded gloves. Tom will be exhibited here.

THE WILBURS.

"The Grand Duchess" Drew Another Big House.

"The Grand Duchess" drew another crowded house for the Wilburs last night, and the crowd was reinforced for the living pictures which followed. The opera is a trifle more serious and a little more complicated of plot than most comic operas, which is not saying much, and its melody is somewhat dull, though Conley and Miss Mortimer had a pretty duo in the second act.

Miss Mortimer's part was suited to her, and she carried it out to perfection. She did not have any great amount of pretty songs to do, but as the Grand Duchess she had more acting than in some other parts, and she did it well. Miss Bolton's part, Wanda, required little besides a pretty and "cute" appearance, and she made that satisfactorily. Claude Amsden made a satisfactory General Bourn, and Conley sang and acted well as Fritz.

Kohnle's part was not full of opportunities for him, but he made some and succeeded in keeping up his reputation. Emmett Drew was good as Prince Paul and J. C. Harvey was satisfactorily ridiculous as Nepomue. Miss Yorke made her usual pretty appearance in all that she had to do. The chorus did the grand march in the last act better than anything it has done yet.

"Falka" will be sung tonight, "Dorothy" tomorrow afternoon, and "La Mascotte" tomorrow night.

THE GROWING CROWD.

Great Success of This Week's Pavilion Attractions.

And still the people continue to crowd the Pavilion. Last night the number of people was larger than any night during the week. The Takazawa Japs with their wonderful acrobatic and juggling performance received the usual hearty rounds of applause and everyone drank in deep draughts of delicious music from the Clara Schuman orchestra. The young ladies themselves are worth going miles to see, even if they were not skillful musicians.

Edith Cline Ford's readings are thoroughly appreciated and the listener can readily understand the hold Miss Ford has obtained upon Duluth amusement-lovers. Diana is a symphony in color and her novel dances are the feature of the evening.

COL. HADLEY CLOSES.

His Final Meeting Last Evening at the Bethel.

A large number of veterans and sons of veterans were among the audience at the farewell meeting led by Col. Hadley last night at the Bethel. Col. Hadley, in addition to being vice president of the Christian Men's Temperance union, is superintendent of the G. A. R. mission, of New York, and he sang war songs and talked very entertainingly to the old soldiers.

He recited a number of incidents in connection with his work, and told how the Christian Men's Temperance union came to be started. John S. Huyler originated the union for the purpose of distinguishing those who believe in temperance from a Christian standpoint. Branch unions are established all over the country, and a congress of those interested in the work will be held in New York next winter.

Several new members were added to the local union at the close of the meeting. Col. and Mrs. Hadley will sail for Cleveland on the North Land this evening.

BECAME A SHIPPER.

The Great Adams Mine Started Shipping Yesterday.

The Adams mine at Eveleth became a shipper yesterday. From 100 to 125 car loads of ore, which means from 2000 to 2500 tons, will be shipped daily. About 150 men are at work on this property and when shipping begins vigorously not less than 200 to 300 will get employment. The steam shovel contingent have a whole year's work ahead. Next week they will start into another cut.

The Eveleth Star says: The Adams mine, under the excellent management of Superintendent J. H. Hearding, shows the result of much labor and the appropriation of a great deal of money. Several hundred yards of surface are now cleaned off down to what appears to be an excellent quality of high grade Bessemer. The shaft is 125 ft deep and 16 ft 4 in by 6 ft 9 in, with two skip roads. At the bottom of the shaft is a drift 155 feet long which is connected with a raise that goes clear to the surface and is about 10 ft in diameter. This property will be mined by what is known as the milling process. Everything in the new engine house is new and complete, and on Tuesday a fire was for the first time placed under the boilers.

CONFERENCE CLOSED.

German Methodists Adjourned Their Meeting Today.

The German Methodist conference came to an end today. Last evening's services were devoted to the Epworth league, and there were a number of speakers. Professor Nuelson, of Warrenton, Mo., was one of those who delivered addresses. The choir was present and sang.

A number of papers were read and discussed yesterday, among them the following: "Church Government: The Advisability of Removing the Time Limit of Five Years for Pastors," Rev. G. Raihle, of Brownton, Minn.; "Organization of Districts of the Northern German Conference," Rev. W. F. Fritze, of Minneapolis; "Church Discipline, Its Uses and Exercise," Rev. W. H. Koenig; "Proof of the Inspiration of the Bible," Rev. F. Brunkan; "The Most Urgent Needs of the German Methodists," Rev. F. J. Wiegand; "The Sunday School," Rev. C. Schoenhelder; "The Character of Jonas," Rev. J. G. Steffer.

The visitors were entertained last evening at the home of the pastor, Rev. J. F. Steiner.

This morning the reading and discussion of papers was continued and the conference was closed. Brownton is the next place of meeting.

Rev. Mr. Schnitker, of Minneapolis, will remain here and conduct the quarterly meeting services on Sunday.

THE ROUNDER.

A recent number of the New York World contained a cartoon representing a Chinaman fishing, his cue hanging down close to the water behind the log on which he was squatting, with the head of a large fish appearing above the water in close proximity to the cue, it was entitled: "Waiting for a Bite." The next cartoon represented the feet and legs of the Chinaman just disappearing beneath the water and the inscription briefly stated "and got it."

A Herald man who stops at the Clifton where the Japs are staying, showed the cartoons to the children of the Mikado while they were seated at dinner. Not being versed on Jap etiquette he gave the paper to the nearest of the Japs who gave it a stoical glance and then passed it along to the oldest and leader of the party. That individual took it, looked at it with a face as expressionless as a block of stone, then handed it to the next in rank, throwing his head back and remarking, "ha, ha!" The next one did the same and followed with precisely the same intonation of "ha, ha!" and so on through the entire party, until the paper was returned by the youngest Jap to the owner. Then again, like a piece of clockwork, eight Jap heads were thrown backward and in union came "ha, ha, ha!" and the entire Japanese contingent indulged in chat about the picture, from which the reporter was barred by the statute of limitations.

Following is an extract from a prospectus of a Western mining country sent out by an enthusiastic Duluth prospector. Such a glowing account cannot fail to bring a rush of settlers: "The climate is mild in winter; it is never more than 50 degrees below zero. There are heavy snow falls, especially in the mountains, but it melts by the beginning of April, and does not interfere with mining in the winter if the operations are under ground."

About a week ago a certain member of the city hall coterie of officials told a new goat story. It went so well and established his reputation as a yarnist so thoroughly that now he is kept busy all the time.

This is the story: There were once two honest Hibernian gentlemen who dwelt in two shacks near the railroad track in the early days of Duluth. The distance between their cabins was so great, however, that the ladies in the families grew lonesome and ill tempered. Mr. O'Rafferty inquired of O'Shaughnessy one day if he knew where a good companion for Mrs. O'Rafferty could be obtained. "Buy a goat," said Mike. No sooner said than done and the bearded animal was purchased and given the range of the O'Rafferty domicile.

It was an old goat with cerulean whiskers and an abnormally developed appetite. It ate everything. Tin cans, boiler iron and newspapers all went into that insatiable maw. The animal was a good deal of company for the housewife. Pat stood it all right as long as the goat ate only household utensils, although he grumbled frequently and threatened to slaughter the beast.

At last a momentous event happened. The goat ate Pat's new red flannel drawers and absolutely refused to disgorge. Then Pat was mad. He determined on instant retribution and tried to think of a good means of death. Pat was a humane man and did not like to shed blood. A bright idea struck him. It was to tie the goat to the railroad track and let the train smash him to smithereens.

The train came along at sixty miles an hour and the goat lay on the track with a malignant gleam in his expressive eye. Then he smiled and winked at Pat, who stared in astonishment. There was no earthly aid for the goat. His days were numbered, the train was drawing nearer.

At this point in the story some one always asks "was the goat killed."

Then the story teller says, "No. When Pat opened his eyes which had been closed in silent prayer he found the train stopped within a few feet of the victim. The goat had coughed up the red flannel drawers and flagged the train."

When Deputy Sheriff Dash went home the other day one of his boys asked him why policemen rode free on the street cars. He explained it the best he could, but the boy was not satisfied with the answer. "Well, what is it, then?" asked Dash.

"Why, you can't get a nickel out of a copper, can you?" replied the boy.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

SEVERED THE BONDS.

A Complaining Wife Relieved of A Reckless Husband.

Judge Willis yesterday granted a decree of divorce to Estella M. Haskell from her husband Henri P. Haskell, on the ground of infidelity, says the St. Paul Globe. The defendant used to be a real estate man at St. Paul and later on was right-of-way agent for a railroad company at Duluth. While there, according to the story of the wife, he became infatuated with an inmate of a disreputable house, took her out and sent her down East to become educated. Mrs. Haskell said the defendant is now East himself. The court gave the plaintiff all the property, which consists of some two or three lots.

TURKISH DELAY.

Powers Are Getting Impatient With the Government.

Constantinople, June 28.—The representatives of the powers are continuing their efforts to induce the Turkish government to give an explicit reply to the note of the powers, outlining the reforms demanded for Armenia and the foreign envoys are indignant at the delay. The Turkish minister for foreign affairs claims to be unable to furnish the envoys with information as to which points in the plans of the powers the Turkish government is desirous of further discussing, and it is thought their course will cause the powers to address another note to the Turkish government in which they will request a reply in a fixed time to the demands already made.

The Turkish government has received news of the defeat of two insurgent bands in Macedonia. Steps have been taken by the porte to suppress all attempts at revolt, but it is thought that the rebellion will spread to all parts of Macedonia and eventually cause action upon the part of the powers.

A SUSPICIOUS DEATH.

Milwaukee, June 28.—The coroner is investigating the death of a 7-year-old girl, the daughter of Mrs. Martha Ader. The girl died unattended by a physician and in a way suggesting poison. Her life was insured for $150. Mrs. Ader, who is now Mrs. A. M. Hopp, has had three husbands since December. The first husband died last January, and a few weeks later a 5-year-old child died. Both were insured in the same company. The widow shortly after married Edward Gray, who proved to be addicted to drink. She soon got a divorce and a short time ago married William Hopp.

Duluth Going After the Educational Convention in a Vigorous Manner.

Special Meeting of the Chamber Called to Guarantee the Expenses.

Some Other Matters Expected to Be Brought Before the Meeting.

Duluth is after the next National Educational association in dead earnest and is going to leave no stone unturned in the endeavor to secure it. The committee is working vigorously and has strong hopes of success. A special meeting of the chamber of commerce was called for this afternoon at 4 o'clock to consider some matters in connection with the convention. There are some expenses to be guaranteed, which may amount to $500, and possibly more, and the committee does not wish to do this on its own responsibility. The amount will undoubtedly be raised and the pledging of the sum will be more of a formality than anything else. The expenses which the city is expected to pay have nothing to do with the entertainment of visitors, but are the preparations and distributions of circulars, furnishing of a secretary's office and some other matters. The Duluth people are preparing to present their invitation and claims in an unmistakable manner.

Some other matters were expected to come up at the chamber meeting. E. V. Smalley was to appear before the chamber and ask that a large delegation be sent from Duluth to the deep waterways convention at Cleveland. He is working earnestly in the interest of this convention and expects it to be a great success.

Postmaster Helenski wants to see a mail route established on the night train on the Eastern Minnesota road, and it is expected that this would be presented to the chamber. The chamber will, without doubt, give this favorable action.

There was some talk today of bringing the matter of the deficit in the register of deeds office, which was brought to public attention by The Herald on Wednesday, before the convention. The statement of the condition of affairs was received with no little surprise and some vigorous comments on the manner in which the office is conducted have been made. There is a disposition to stir things up and cause some rattling.

Remember the Rathbone Sisters' excursion to Fond du Lac next Saturday.

TWO WOMEN HURT.

Thrown From a Carriage and Received Severe Bruises.

Mrs. James Kenny, of West Duluth, and a Mrs. Kirby were thrown from a buggy by a runaway about 11:30 o'clock this morning, and narrowly escaped serious injury. The ladies were driving on Tenth street in a buggy, and when near Seventh avenue east, the horse became frightened and started to run. Mrs. Kenny, who held the reins, was unable to control the animal, which made a sharp turn down Seventh avenue, going at high speed. Both ladies were thrown from the rig and received severe bruises and a general shaking up. They were removed in the ambulance to Mrs. Kilchli's residence, 430 Fifth avenue east, where they were attended by Dr. Murray. Mrs. Kirby and Mrs. Kilchli are sisters.

Consented to Go.

Ed Sawyer, the West Superior shoe string gambler arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer McKenzie, pleaded not guilty to vagrancy this morning in the municipal court. His trial was set for 2 p. m., but Chief Lutton took him back to West Superior to answer to a charge of robbing William Hanke of $39 Wednesday afternoon. Sawyer consented to go without waiting for extradition papers.

Had no License.

Ed Kenny appeared before Judge Edson this morning charged with selling liquor on Park Point without a license. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for 10 a. m. June 29. He was released on $100 bail. Kenny had a shack near the Park Point pavilion, and has been selling what he claims were temperance drinks to the frequenters of the dancing pavilion.

She Alleges Desertion.

Annie A. Webb has begun divorce proceedings against Charles P. Webb, whom she married in Lincolnshire, England, in 1887. In her complaint she alleges that Webb deserted her in 1893, and that he has been absent since. She asks for divorce and the care of their three children. The parties are 26 and 32 years of age respectively. A. N. McGindley is plaintiff's attorney.

The First National bank has sued J. W. Dilley et al., for $3172.91 on a note. McCordic & Crosby are plaintiff's attorneys.

PULLED HIM OUT.

Young Harry Dinham Saved Another Boy's Life.

Frank Chambers, the 7-year-old son of R. G. Chambers, was rescued from drowning about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the bravery and presence of mind of the 10-year-old son of County Commissioner Dinham. The boys were playing among the old burned warehouse docks on Lake avenue when young Chambers espied an empty scow lying near the dock and the youngsters immediately clambered on board. After amusing themselves for some time running up and down the scow, the lads commenced to jump back and forth from the dock to the scow.

Suddenly Harry Dinham's attention was attracted by a scream from his little companion, who had missed his footing and fallen into the water. Without waiting to call for help the boy sprang on the dock and waited for Frank to rise to the surface. When the child came up gasping and struggling vainly, Harry seized him in a firm grip and drew him safely on to the dock.

A number of passers by, who saw the rescue, say that undoubtedly the boy's life was saved by young Dinham. County Commissioner Dinham, who lives at 1828 London road, is very proud of his son's achievement. R. G. Chambers, the father of the boy who so narrowly escaped drowning, resides on London road, near Sixteenth avenue.

BALTIMORE PRIZE FIGHT.
North Baltimore, Ohio, June 28.—Yank Keeney and Gus Russelin fought here last night for the heavyweight championship of Northern Ohio and $500. The battle lasted sixteen rounds and was a clean contest. In the sixteenth round Russelin was floored twice and was too weak to go on with the fight, although he made a game effort to do so. The referee decided to stop the bout and awarded Keeney the victory.

SEVEN PERSONS KILLED.
Holtenau, June 28.—Seven persons were killed and several wounded today by the explosion of a boiler in a steam launch belonging to the German war ship Kurfuerst Friedrich Wilhelm. The United States and other war ships here have their flags at half mast as a result of the accident.

ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE.
Chicago, June 28.—Governor Altgeld may have to resort to other measures than his plan of continuously reconvening the legislature if he persists in attempting to secure the enactment of laws on arbitration, Pullman rates, etc. Both houses today, after considerable tumult but little or no business, voted to adjourn until July 9. The Democrats voted against the step, but were overwhelmed by the Republicans. An attempt to cut off the pay of members during the lengthy recess was defeated.

A REGULAR THING NOW.
Klamath Falls, Ore., June 28.—The fifth robbery within the past three months of Klamath Falls stages was committed last night in the vicinity of Topsy grade, where the other hold-ups occurred. This time both the north and south bound stages, which pass each other there, were held up by a lone highwayman. He rifled the mail pouch taking only registered matter. H. V. Gates, the only passenger, was relieved of $2 in cash.

"BAD TOM" SMITH.

A Rope Ends the Bloody Murderer's Career.

Lexington, Ky., June 28.—"Bad Tom" Smith broke down completely just before noon and confessed to the murder of Dr. Rader, for which he was convicted. He asked for time to make peace with God for his crime, for which he felt he had not been forgiven, and the execution was postponed until afternoon, the exact hour not being fixed.

Smith went to the scaffold at 1:30 and the drop fell at 1:45 p. m. He confessed on the scaffold to the murder of Rader and five others, and said he was the leader of the French faction in every murder.

NAVY WILL ASSIST.
Washington, June 28.—The United States navy will assist in a small way the fourth of July celebration at San Francisco. The Philadelphia has received orders to remain at San Francisco until after the fourth and the Olympia, now ordered on a practice cruise, will return to participate.

ENGLISH HORSE RACES.
London, June 28.—This was the second and last day of the Sandown Park first summer meeting. The Clarence and Avondale stakes, 3000 sovereigns, was won by R. A. Ward's, Romade Divine; Lady Stamford's Kirk Connell, second, and Major Joyce's' Linhope third. There were eleven starters.

RECEIVER APPOINTED.
Columbus, O., June 28.—On application of a dissatisfied stockholder, the Columbus, Sandusky & Hocking road was thrown into the hands of a receiver last night; J. H. Stewart, of Sandusky, being appointed. The officers knew nothing of the application until this morning. Senator Brice denies all knowledge of the application. The road has suffered ever since the panic.

PURIFY KANSAS POLITICS.
Kansas City, Mo., June 28.—The civic federation of Kansas City, whose purpose it is to purify local politics, has been organized by the election of a strong list of officers.

MAY APPOINT AN INDIAN.
Washington, June 28.—Among the appointments which are likely to be made soon, are those of United States attorney and assistant attorney for the central judicial district in the Indian territory. Among the endorsements of applicants for the position are several in favor of A. Tell, a nearly full blood Indian, for assistant attorney. Mr. Tell is a graduate of Columbia University in both the legal and academic departments, and is said to be a young man of high character and good legal ability. If it appears, after further inquiry, that Mr. Tell would fill the position acceptably, it is likely that he will receive the appointment.

BIG DREDGING CONTRACT.
Tacoma, June 28.—A $5,000,000 dredging contract between the Seattle South Canal and the Lake Washington Waterway company and the Bowers Dredging company has been signed by C. H. Prescott, president of the dredging and vice president of the Northern Pacific railroad. The Seattle company has already signed. It is the largest dredging contract ever awarded to one firm in this country, calling for the excavation of 30,000,000 cubic yards of earth, of which 9,000,000 yards are to be dredged from the waterways through the Seattle tide lands and 26,000,000 taken out of the 3-mile canal connecting Lake Washington and Puget sound.

ROOT'S LATEST TROUBLE.
Chicago, June 28.—The suit of J. W. Dixon to compel H. A. Root, the New York lawyer, to render an accounting in his management of the estate of the former's brother, H. A. Dixon, was decided today in favor of the Dixons. The Dixon brothers were sons of Senator Dixon. The attorney was given charge of Henry Dixon's estate under a trust agreement. The decision today not only ordered an accounting, but set aside the trust agreement. H. A. Root is prominently known as one of the claimants of the famous Davis will case in Montana.

OLD LAWYER DEAD.
Milwaukee, June 28.—Henry C. Runkel, one of the veteran lawyers of Milwaukee, died last night. He was 61 years of age.

BEAUTIFUL.

Neckwear Almost Given Away.

Probably one of the most successful neckwear sales that Duluth has seen for years is going on at M. S. Burrows & Co.'s today and will continue all day tomorrow. All day long a veritable jam lined up the furnishing goods counters picking their pick of the rarest, richest and most exclusive lot of neckwear that has ever been placed on sale at such a very low price—50 cents. Giving a choice of ties that sell in a regular way for $1.50, $1.25 and $1. It was quite evident from the pile of boxes and the vast quantity of neck dressing in sight that the furnishing goods department was over-loaded, and it was really necessary to make a big sacrifice to move it.

SIMS IN TROUBLE.

Croker's Jockey Liable to be Arrested for Cruelty.

London, June 28.—If certain reports turn out to be correct, and there seems to be no good reason for doubting them, Richard Croker's colored jockey, W. C. Sims, is liable to find himself in hottest kind of water. Sims has been amusing himself considerably at Newmarket, and on Monday, June 17, he wagered he would drive a trotter from Newmarket to Cambridge and return within an hour, a total distance of about twenty-six miles. Sims started in a sulky with a companion and made Cambridge in quick time, but when coming into Newmarket on the return trip, the horse dropped dead and it is probable that Sims will be arrested and punished as a result of an investigation into the affair, which the officers of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals began.

A special officer of the society was despatched to Newmarket this afternoon with instructions to thoroughly investigate the story of Sims' drive to Cambridge, and if the story of cruelty to the trotter is proven, a warrant for the jockey's arrest will be issued. The officer has also been instructed to find the companion of Sims in his drive, who is said to be Mr. Croker himself, and if this is so there will be likely serious trouble for Mr. Croker as well as Sims.

Mr. Croker was not in London today, but the reporter who was sent to interview him on the subject was informed that the story was substantially true, except that there was no cruelty to the horse. It is added that the horse was one of the last to arrive from Litchfield and its death is attributed to lack of condition, and not to over driving upon the part of Sims in the race against time from Newmarket to Cambridge and back.

MOODY WILL LEAD.

Northfield, Mass., June 28.—Despite the heavy rains of the past twenty-four hours quite a large delegation has arrived to attend the World's students' conference, conducted by Evangelist D. L. Moody. The meetings will formally begin this evening. Besides Mr. Moody, Rev. Dr. T. L. Cuyler, Rev. A. A. Hall, Robert E. Speer and Professor W. W. White will be among the speakers. The conference will end Sunday, July 7.

CREATES NEW NOBLES.

Buda Pest, June 28.—In order to insure the adoption of the remaining political ecclesiastical bills, Emperor Francis Joseph as king of Hungary has sanctioned the proposal of Baron Banffy, the Hungarian premier, for the immediate creation of several Liberal peers.

THEIR PERMITS REVOKED.

Topeka, Kan., June 28.—The state superintendent of insurance has issued an order revoking the permits to do business in Kansas of the Bankers Life association, of Des Moines, the Massachusetts Benefit association, of Boston, the Packers alliance, of Los Angeles, and the Northwestern Masonic Aid association, of Chicago. This action was taken because the companies named declined to give a $50,000 bond and make a deposit of 10 per cent of all assessments.

EDITORS' OUTING.

Atlanta, Ga., June 28.—The Georgia State Press association met here this afternoon with the president, H. H. Cabannis, present. Tomorrow they leave via the Southern railroad for Washington, New York and Canada.

The largest variety of silver belt buckles is to be found at Klein's jewelry store, 331 West Superior street.

SUNRISE

Epworth Leagues Greets the Daybreak With a Unique Meeting.

God's Praises Sung From Lookout Mountain Top By Thousands.

Unusual Surroundings Greatly Enthuse the Vast Crowd Gathered.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 28.—The second day's session of the Epworth league conference was opened this morning with a sunrise prayer meeting on the bluff of Lookout mountain. When the sun first made its appearance from behind the mountains in the distance, there were congregated on the bluff and mountain side fully 2500 delegates. The exercises were led by Rev. George R. Stewart.

Following the exercises a wonderful experience meeting was held in which delegates from nearly every state in the Union participated. During the experience meeting, several of the delegates became so impressed with their vocalization that they shouted. It is estimated that there are fully 12,000 leaguers in the city.

In spite of the vast crowd now here Chattanooga was so well prepared for the coming and entertainment of the visitors that not one-fifth of her entertaining capacity had been exhausted. The residents report that they are not crowded in the least. This fact will be of interest in view of the approaching date for the park dedication.

The topic for today was "Methodism, Its Life and Mode of Expression." The conference assembled at 9:30 o'clock this morning, Judge Estes, of Memphis, presiding. The morning topics were taken up in ten-minute speeches by delegates. "Life in the Church—Intellectual Duties" was the first subject, by Rev. W. E. Ray, of Berwyn, Ill., who afterwards delivered an address along this line. Under the head of "Educational Opportunities" Rev. S. O. Royal, of Cincinnati; Rev. J. E. Bowen, of Atlanta, Ga., and Rev. R. J. Cook, of Athens, Tenn., spoke.

The Rev. Mr. Bowen is a colored preacher, and his appearance on the platform was the occasion of a wild demonstration. He started out with the proposition that thirty years ago it would not have been thought possible for a man of his color to stand before such an audience and discuss the system of education. He said he was not concerned in his ancestry or where he came from, but was concerned in where he is going. The address produced a tremendous sensation. "Social Duties" was the topic assigned Miss Clara Grant, of Winona, the lady whose appearance created applause by her suggestions for higher class attainments in the churches.

Other topics of the morning were: "Visiting," Rev. John A. Nelson, Texas; "Official Duties, Church Officers, Our Duties to Them," Rev. William L. Nels, Texas; "Epworth League Duties to the Church," Rev. Ray, Boston; "Financial Stewardship, the Privilege of Giving," Rev. J. L. Elwell, of Boone, Iowa; "The Duty of Giving," H. E. Jackson, A.B., Mexia, Texas; "Proper Objects of Benevolence," Rev. Frank Silas, St. Joseph, Mo., and Rev. W. H. W. Rees, Cincinnati.

The program for this afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, is as follows, the presiding officer being Rev. Mr. Burns, of Toronto, Canada: "Devotions," "Philanthropy," "The Lost in Our Cities," "Secular Help," "Brotherhood," "Spiritual Ministry," "Municipal Government;" address, "Christian Nationship," Rev. J. T. Berry, of Chicago, presides tonight.

An address was to be delivered by Bishop Thoburn, of India, but owing to his inability to be present he will be represented by Rev. Homer C. Stuntz, of Natal, India. The program for tonight is as follows: "Gospel in Russian Neighborhoods," "Helps," "Hindrances," and "Disciplining the Nations."

WHISKY REORGANIZATION.

Unexpected Move Made By the Committee Today.

Chicago, June 28.—The reorganization committee of the whisky trust made a wholly unexpected move today by applying for an Illinois charter for the new corporation which is to take over and operate the seventeen active plants of the old Distilling and Cattle Feeding company. Application to incorporate was sent to Springfield today. The name of the new company is to be the American Distilleries company. The capital stock is fixed at $35,000,000, of which $7,000,000 shall be preferred and the rest common. Chicago is to be the local and principal office. The life of the corporation is to be ninety-nine years.

It has been expected that the new corporation, which is to carry on the distilling business, would be formed under the laws of New Jersey or of West Virginia, which are more liberal than those of Illinois. Mr. Mayer, attorney for the reorganization committee, has, however, given an opinion that the new company can operate under the Illinois law and with an Illinois charter. He points out that the supreme court in its recent decision rendered judgment of ouster against the Distilling and Cattle Feeding company because, first, it was a successor to the old trust, the form of organization merely having been changed, while the old officers and directors continued the old business under a new name; and second, because it had acquired seventy distilleries that it did not need in carrying out the business named in its charter, its acquisition of these extra distilleries and their dismantlement showing that the company was trying to control the market.

The lawyers say the new company will be free from both these objections. It will buy and operate only seventeen distilleries which are necessary to the legitimate carrying out of its business purpose. The order of sale has been ready for some time.

MARINE NOTES.

In the United States district court at Chicago yesterday the steamer City of Naples was found not to be at fault for sinking the schooner City of Sheboygan at the mouth of Chicago harbor in the great storm of April 19, 1893. The court held that the accident was an unavoidable one, and that if anyone was at fault it lay with the schooner in taking a position directly in the lee of the steamer in such a storm.

A Cleveland dispatch says: There is no change, and no likelihood of a change, in any of the freight rates. Cargoes of all kinds excepting Lake Superior coal are fairly plentiful.

The steamer Osceola has been laid up at Port Huron until freights improve.

The steam yacht Sentinel, bought in New York by L. C. Wachsmuth, of Chicago, this spring, passed through the Welland canal on the way to her new home on Lake Michigan.

VOLUNTARY WAGE INCREASE.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 28.—The Cleveland Steel company today posted a notice notifying their employes that owing to increased business and better prices for product, on and after July 1 the present tonnage rates on the plate mill furnaces would be advanced 10 per cent. Common laborers also receive an advance in wages. Fifteen hundred men will be benefited.

AGREED ON A RATE.

Youngstown, June 28.—At 10:30 this morning the conference between the coke manufacturers and the Amalgamated association conference committee came to an end. It was finally agreed that the scale adopted at the recent Cleveland convention should be accepted.

STEALING

Is What Several Big Lumbermen Are Charged With by Uncle Sam.

And They Will Have to Pay $467,474.34, and Interest.

Government Has Been Looking it Up for Two and a Half Years.

St. Paul, June 28.—The United States, in an action brought today in the circuit court by Special Counsel John E. Stryker, alleges that a number of the most prominent lumbermen of Minnesota have, without any warrant, been devastating the northern part of the state, denuding the territory of its timber, and that they must pay the full market value of the lumber to the amount of $467,474.34, and interest.

The defendants are: The Pine River Logging and Improvement company; Joel B. Bassett and William L. Bassett, co-partners as J. B. Bassett & Co.; John C. Pillsbury and Charles A. Smith, co-partners as C. A. Smith & Co.

The technical offense is conversion, and the charge is that they unlawfully entered on the territory within the Mississippi and Winnebegoshish reservations and systematically cut the timber and converted the same to their own uses.

The timber has been worked into lumber of the value given. The government has been working up the case for two and one-half years.

THE BRITISH CABINET.

List of the Ministry as Finally Completed.

London, June 28.—The marquis of Salisbury has completed the work of forming a new cabinet. The new ministry is as follows: Premier and secretary of state for foreign affairs, the marquis of Salisbury; president of the council, the duke of Devonshire; lord high chancellor, Baron Halsbury; lord privy seal, Viscount Cross; chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach; secretary of state for home affairs, the Rt. Hon. Sir Matthew White Ridley; first lord of the treasury, the Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour; secretary of state for the colonies, the Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain; secretary of state for war, the marquis of Lansdowne; first lord of the admiralty, the Rt. Hon. George J. Goschen; secretary of state for India, Lord George Hamilton; president of the board of trade, the Rt. Hon. C. T. Ritchie; president of the local government board, the Rt. Hon. Henry Chaplin; lord lieutenant of Ireland, Earl Cadogan; lord chancellor of Ireland, Baron Ashbourne; secretary for Scotland, Baron Balfour of Burleigh; chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, the Rt. Hon. Sir Henry James.

The other appointments are as follows: Financial secretary of the treasury, Robert William Hanbury; under secretary for foreign affairs, the Rt. Hon. George N. Curson.

AN INDIAN'S CARRIAGE.

An amusing story is told in connection with the recent opening of the Nez Perces Indian reservation, says the San Francisco Call. When the Indians of the reservation had received their money from the government they went to the neighboring towns to spend it. Their visit was, of course, anticipated, and all possible schemes were on foot to relieve Uncle Sam's wards of their cash as specially as possible. The Indians were on the buy, too, and money was no object when anything they saw took their fancy. The redskins took a notion to buy carts, wagons, buggies, etc., and in a short time every available vehicle in the little town of Farmington was in their possession.

There was one old Indian who failed to make a purchase, however, and after all the buggies were gone a desire to possess some sort of conveyance started him on a diligent search. After visiting all the places where vehicles were sold without success he finally learned of a conveyance which, from the description, completely overshadowed anything in point of elegance ever sold before, and the possession of which would render all the other Indians wild with envy. He sought out the owner, who proved to be the town undertaker, and opened negotiations for the purchase of the vehicle. The undertaker soon found the Indian wanted to obtain his hearse. The thought staggered him for a moment, but having an eye to business, and noting the anxiety of Mr. Redskin, the hearse was sold for a good round sum.

The Indian hitched two horses to the sombre vehicle, and putting his squaw and pappooses on the inside, trotted off for home, the proudest copperface that ever strung a bow. The other Indians, hearing of his coming, had lined up along the road to watch him pass. Perched on his high seat, he drove haughtily by them, while the little pappooses peered through the glass sides and clapped their hands rapturously.

The agent remonstrated with the Indian, but all to no purpose. He retained the hearse, and in his frequent visits to the surrounding towns, driving in his somewhat gloom-inspiring conveyance, is no longer an object of curiosity.

ICE IN RUSSIA.

Next to the United States comes Russia in the consumption of ice. Throughout the summer ices are sold in the streets of almost every Russian town; the demand in the shops is enormous, and tea, as well as wine and beer, are usually consumed half frozen. In St. Petersburg alone there are over 10,000 icehouses, where the winter's harvest is stored.

JUST THE QUESTION.

"Are you not attached to your husband?"
Asked the judge in a kindly way.
And she who sought a divorce replied:
"That's for your honor to say."
—Detroit Tribune.

ALARMED.

Philadelphia Times: "Darling," said the soulful young man, "sometimes when I fall to thinking of what a wondrous joy there is in possessing your love, I feel that the gods may be led to wreak some injury on me in sheer envy."

"See here, young man," remarked the practical girl, "if you think I am a hoodoo the best thing you can do is to quit me while there is yet time."

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—

Whereas default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by John M. Caplis and Anna Caplis, his wife, mortgagors, to the Penn Land and Loan Company, (a corporation) mortgagee, bearing date the twenty-eighth day of April, 1894, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, on the fifth day of May, 1894, at four o'clock p. m., in Book 119 of mortgages, on page 163.

Such default consisting in the non-payment of the semiannual installments of interest upon the debt secured by said mortgage which installments became due on the 28th day of October, 1894, and on the 28th day of April, 1895, respectively, by reason whereof the said mortgagee has elected to exercise the option to it given in said mortgage, and has declared, and does hereby declare, the whole principal sum secured by said mortgage with all accrued interest thereon to be now due and payable; and whereas there is therefore claimed to be due, and is due upon said mortgage debt at the date of this notice the sum of four hundred ninety-two and 48-100 (492 48-100) dollars; and no action or proceeding, at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now therefore notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, to-wit: lots one (1) to six (6) inclusive, in block eleven (11), in Kimberley and Stryker's Addition to Duluth, Second Division, according to the recorded plat thereof on file and of record in the office of the said register of deeds, said premises being situated in the said county of St. Louis and state of Minnesota; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, at the front door of the court house in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on Monday, the 12th day of August, 1895, at ten o'clock a. m., of that day, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorneys' fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from date of sale, as provided by law.

Dated June 28th, 1895.

VALKYRIE

New English Yacht Races With the Britannia and Ailsa.

The Valkyrie Was Becalmed and the Britannia Won the Race.

But Wind Was Not Steady Enough to Make Good Test.

Rothsay, Scotland, June 29.—The Clyde fortnight of yacht racing opened today with the regatta of the Royal Northern Yacht club. The weather was dull and warm and a light southern breeze was blowing. Enormous crowds of people assembled at an early hour in order to witness the first race of Valkyrie III, Lord Dunraven's syndicate yacht, which is looked upon as almost certain to cross the ocean and race for the America's cup. Excursion steamers brought thousands of visitors from Glasgow and all parts of Scotland, all anxious to see how the new Valkyrie would show up in a race against the Ailsa and Britannia. The racing program for today comprises eleven contests, but the interest centers in the race for the big yachts, those exceeding forty rating, and for the ten to twenty raters.

The course for the big yachts today is a total distance of fifty miles. The first prize is £75 and the second £50. The course for the ten to twenty raters is 31 miles long, and for those not exceeding a ten rating it is 26 miles. For the yachts above twenty rating and not exceeding forty the course is 38 miles. Valkyrie III is rated at 135 and gives the Ailsa, which is estimated to rate 160, two minutes and 59 seconds. Britannia rated 153, gets an allowance of four minutes two seconds. Niagara competes against the twenty raters Satanita and Dakotah, whose topmast has been lengthened in order to bring her up to eleven rating. The latter gets twelve minutes fifty-three seconds allowance from Niagara over the 31-mile course.

When the gun was fired at 10:30 a.m. the Ailsa was pointing direct for the line and went over first. The Valkyrie was well handled and before half a mile course had been covered, she took the lead with Britannia close behind her and Ailsa a long distance astern. The yachts, however, were merely drifting. The yachts competing in the twenty-rater class were started at 11:15 a.m. in a shower of rain. The Valkyrie, just as she was entering Largest bay got rather near the shore, lost the wind and became completely becalmed. The Ailsa and Britannia, standing more out in the channel, got a little breeze and gradually drew up and passed the Valkyrie. But the Ailsa did not succeed in passing the mark boat ahead of the Valkyrie, as she got too far to leeward. Valkyrie, still standing in, got the breeze and rounded the mark boat before Ailsa and Britannia, which two yachts were virtually becalmed.

The Valkyrie kept on with the assistance of a fair wind, left the others far behind, and at 2 p.m. was nearly five miles ahead and making for the Skelmorlie mark boat, which she passed at 3:21, the Ailsa and Britannia being a mile astern. The flukey character of the racing today does not afford an opportunity for a fair test of the ability of the cup challenger.

Howard Gould, on board the Niagara, just before she started today, said that although the last few races in which his yacht had competed were only walk-overs, yet he anticipated good sport during the racing on the Clyde. He added that he had come here especially to meet Lord Lonsdale's new twenty-rater, Eucharis, which will race for the first time on Monday. She is reported to be a great improvement on other English twenty-raters and it will be a feather in Herreshoffs' cap if the Niagara proves herself to be a better boat than the Eucharis. Continuing, Mr. Gould said: "I am convinced that the Niagara has shown herself quite equal to, if not better than the Audrey, which has hitherto been the best yacht in her class. In a good breeze the Herreshoffs cutter is far away ahead of her opponent, while in light airs which have been chiefly of a flukey character, the luck has been pretty evenly divided."

Mr. Gould, however, is not entirely satisfied with the sails which Niagara carries and he has ordered a new suit. The main sail will be ribbed in the usual way instead of crosswise. Mr. Gould applied to the Ratzeys to make the new suit of sails for Niagara, but the patriotism of the famous English sail-makers compelled them to refuse Mr. Gould's proposition, and consequently the sails are now being made by a firm near Liverpool. The head sails of the Niagara will be made of silk.

The Valkyrie maintained her lead easily on the second round. The breeze was fresher and the new yacht showed good speed. As this dispatch is sent the result of the race seems to be without doubt a victory for Velkyrie III.

The race for the twenty raters was stopped at the end of the first round, and the Niagara was declared the winner. The following were the times at the end of the first round: Niagara, 4:27:38; Satanita, 4:33:35; Dakotah, 4:35:22.

Later—The Valkyrie was becalmed and the Britannia caught up. The Valkyrie crossed line first, but the Britannia won on time allowance.

THE DEFENDER LAUNCHED.

Bristol, June 29.—The launching of the yacht Defender this afternoon was not the brilliant success which has been so confidently predicted. After leaving the ways the Defender stuck fast in a combination of mud and timber on the shores of Bristol harbor.

Capt. Herschoff says the Defender is the best yacht his firm has built. He refused, however, to give the dimensions of the boat or any facts regarding her sail area, but the following figures are from a reliable source:

Length on the water line, 8 feet 10 inches. Length over all, 123 feet. Draught, 19; beam, 45 feet. The main mast and boom are 102 feet in length. The mast is 35 inches in circumference at the heel and 18 inches at the step. The top mast is 57 feet long, the gaff 63 feet 10 inches and the bowsprit 44 feet. The spinnaker pole is 72 feet in length and the club topsail pole 15 feet. The work on the sails on the Defender is progressing steadily and the riggers, who are to put everything in order, are here to complete the fitting out of the boat. It is expected that the yacht will be in commission in less than two weeks.

A FISHERMAN'S FIND.

Richmond, Ky., June 29.—Jesse Howard, while fishing in the Kentucky river near here, found the dead body of a white woman in the river. Marks on the body indicate murder. She is not known.

KILLED BY HIS FATHER.

Brazil, Ind., June 29.—Charles West died today from the effects of a blow on the head inflicted by his father while the two were engaged in a quarrel. Lafayette West, the father, has gone insane, and declares he will commit suicide.

BEHEADED NINE MEN.

Vienna, June 29.—A dispatch reached here from Dubnitzia, a town in Bulgaria, situated about twenty-two miles south of Sofia, saying that nine workmen who were returning home were beheaded by bashi bazouks and left by the roadside.

TREASURY GOLD RESERVE.

Washington, June 29.—Today's statement of the treasury shows: Available cash balances, $193,826,692; gold reserve, $107,532,240.

HUXLEY

Great English Biologist and Naturalist Dies in London Today.

Loss to the Entire Scientific World Which Mourns Him.

Brief Sketch of a Life Full of Work and Honors.

London, June 29.—Professor Thomas Henry Huxley died this afternoon at 3:45.

Thomas Henry Huxley was born at Ealing, Middlesex, England, May 4, 1825, commencing his education there and afterwards studying in the medical school of Charing Cross hospital. In 1846 he entered the medical service of the royal navy and in 1847 was appointed assistant surgeon of H. M. S. Rattlesnake, which was commissioned for service in Australia. Huxley devoted himself to the study of marine animals collected during his service, making them the subjects of numerous scientific papers.

In 1850 he was elected a fellow of the Royal society, and in 1854 was appointed professor of natural history and palaeontology in the Royal school of mines which office he held until retirement from public service. In 1856 he, in company with Dr. Tyndall, made a tour of the glaciers of the Alps.

He was a member of nearly every prominent academy and scientific society in the world and took a great interest in all educational matters. He was also a strong defender of Professor Darwin's views on nearly all subjects.

HIS LIFE ENDED.

Gen. Green Clay Smith Dies in Washington.

Washington, June 29.—Gen. Green Clay Smith, once a Prohibition candidate for president, a war veteran, and in recent years a well-known Baptist pastor of Washington, died at his home in Northeast Washington at 12:56 p. m. o'clock this afternoon. For several months he had been in poor health, and over a fortnight ago a malignant carbuncle began to develop on the neck. It rapidly increased and, despite the efforts of his physicians, blood poisoning set in and the condition of the distinguished patient became alarming.

His condition had been very critical during the week, but there was a noticeable gain yesterday, which gave rise to hopes of his recovery. A collapse occurred, however, shortly before noon today, and the patient began sinking, and the end soon came. All of the immediate members of the family were at the bedside.

RECEIVER IS INTERESTED.

Bucyrus, O., June 29.—Mr. Zerost, one of the chief promoters of the Columbus, Sandusky & Hocking railway, has filed a motion to have the receiver, James H. Stewart, who was appointed on Thursday evening, removed on the grounds that he is an interested party, that his bond of $25,000 is insufficient, that the bondsmen are not worth $25,000, and for other reasons. Judge Smalley set the case for hearing Friday, July 5, at 10 a.m.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Different Cities Want the Next International Meeting.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 29.—One more day and the great league conference will have been finished. Some of the leaguers will remain in the city for a while, others will take advantage of the cheap excursion rates to other points, but a majority will return to their homes. The next international conference will not have to go begging for a place in which to meet. The Toronto people will, of course, expect the big convention, but they will hardly have a walk over.

The Pacific coast has sent a strong delegation in the interest of Seattle, Wash. They come with an invitation from the city council in their pockets, willing to guarantee a round-trip ticket west of the Missouri river for $40, and convention expenses to the amount of $30,000. The committee is headed by E. L. Baline, a prominent young lawyer and distinguished Epworth league worker of Washington. His efforts are ably seconded by J. H. Mendenhall, of Spokane, and the Rev. Dr. Few, of Tacoma. The Rev. Archer H. Briggs, of San Antonio, Cal., representing San Francisco, is also an advocate of Seattle as the place where the next convention is to be held. This will give an unparalleled opportunity of taking the great body of leaguers to the coast.

The Seattle committee has already interviewed the committee on resolutions and are talking to everybody who will listen to them, trying to create sentiment in favor of the great sound city.

TORE HIS CASH.

And Then John Chambers Drowned Himself.

Chicago, June 29.—The police today are searching for the body of John Chambers, who is supposed to have thrown himself into the lake at Twenty-sixth street last night, after having torn over $3000 in bills into bits and scattered them along the shore. Small pieces of one, two and five hundred dollar bills were found blowing about the beach today and later a pine board was discovered upon which was written: "John Chambers, 4021 Cottage Grove—$3300." The man is supposed to have lost his mind and after destroying his savings drowned himself.

GOULD DENIES IT.

Trenton, N. J., June 29.—George J. Gould through his counsel has filed an answer to the suit brought against him in the supreme court by Zella Nicolaus Rhuman to recover $40,000, the amount of a check which she says Mr. Gould took from her. The answer declares the defendant "not guilty of the said supposed grievances or any part of them." The answer is sworn to by the attorney who sets out that Mr. Gould is out of the country. He says Mr. Gould will be on hand when the case is ready for trial.

FATHER LEYDEN MOBBED.

Minneapolis, June 29.—A Winnipeg, Man., special says: Father Leyden, an ex-Catholic monk of Boston, narrowly escaped mobbing when he lectured at Fort William and Rat Portage, Ont. He was stoned and at the latter place defended himself from the mob with a chair. The authorities gave him safe conduct out of the town.

VICTORY

Launch Today of the Largest Steamship on the Great Lakes.

Is a Duplicate of the Zenith City Which is Now Being Built.

An Attempt to Advance Ore Rates to Ninety Cents Foiled.

Chicago, June 29.—The Victory, the largest steamship on the great lakes, was launched in the Calumet river from the Chicago shipyards at 3:30 this afternoon. The bottle of wine with which the ship was christened was broken by Miss Bertha Belden. The Victory is owned by the International Transit company, and will be in service in the iron trade between Lake Superior and Erie, with occasional trips to South Chicago. She has a 380 foot keel, is 400 feet over all, 48-foot beam, 28 feet depth of hold and 1600 horse power. The cost of the boat was $225,000. A sister ship, the Zenith City, an exact duplicate of the Victory, is being built for a syndicate formed by A. B. Wolvin, of Duluth, and which includes such well known vessel owners as David and Frank L. Vance, of Milwaukee, J. R. Irwin, of Painesville, Ohio, F. N. La Salle, of Duluth, G. E. Tener, of Pittsburg, and John Green, of Buffalo. This is the boat that is to be fitted with Babcock & Wilcox tubulous boilers, while the duplicate steamer is to have two Scotch boilers, 14 by 13 feet, allowed 170 pounds steam pressure.

The Victory's load from Lake Superior on present draft, 14½ feet, will be full 4000 gross tons, and it is expected that with a 20-foot channel a year or more hence this will be increased in net tons to about 6000. A feature of the Zenith City and the Victory is the big expanse of unbroken deck that they will present. Quarters for the crews as well as the dining room, steward's apartments, etc., are located below deck. There are no houses on deck excepting the Texas and pilot house forward. A turtle-back covering for quarters forward extends only to the rail and the same is true of the boiler house aft. Each boat has eleven hatches, two located forward between the turtle-back and the pilot house. Machinery for both the Zenith City and the Victory will be the same as that now in the steamer Kearsarge, and it will all be built by the Cleveland Ship Building company. The engines will be triple expansion, having cylinders 23, 38 and 62 inches by 40 inches stroke.

ADVANCE ALMOST SECURED.

Cleveland, June 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Vessel owners had one shipper on the point of paying 90 cents on a cargo of ore from Duluth late yesterday afternoon, but several big shippers came to his rescue, with a few boats placed at the old rates, and the vesselmen were unable to force the advance of 5 cents.

NO CHANGE IN FREIGHTS.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lake line managers yesterday decided at a meeting not to make any changes in eastbound freight rates from Chicago, Milwaukee and Duluth.

LONDON

Dissolution of Parliament Throws a Dullness Over Society.

Political Preparations Are Being Carried on With Vigor.

Operatic and Dramatic Talk ---Theaters Generally Are Very Dull.

London, June 29.—(Special London Cable Letter, Copyrighted...1895, by the Associated Press.)—The dissolution of parliament, which, as the marquis of Salisbury intimated in the house of lords, will likely occur July 8, will be the death knell of the season here, and in a fortnight there will be a general exodus to the country. While the court functions already arranged will be held, the dates fixed on for many big private parties have been cancelled and the West End shopkeepers are suffering in consequence from the result of the feeling of depression which has fallen upon the social world. The theaters and other places of amusement are also feeling the effect of the clouds which are settling over society, and the attendance at even the most attractive houses has already decreased to a notable degree.

On all sides the agents of both parties are actively preparing for the fray. The rust is being rubbed off the time worn suits of political armor and all the old weapons of a British electoral campaign are being burnished up to the highest point of brightness. Quiet canvassing is already going on in some quarters, and the Primrose league is marshaling its forces. The army of Tories is eager for the battle, the result of which is looked upon as certain to be a victory for Conservatism.

The campaign will begin in deadly earnest next week, when Lord Rosebery will open the first battery of big guns for the Liberals in his speech at the Royal Albert hall, South Kensington, and the same day Sir William Vernon Harcourt, ex-chancellor of the exchequer, will pour hot shot into the Tory ranks in an address which is to deliver at Derby, the seat which he has represented in parliament since 1880. Following the booming of these pieces of political artillery, will be heard a fierce reply from the batteries of some of the leaders of the Conservative Unionist parties, including the marquis of Salisbury, the Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour and the Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, now dubbed "Judas" by the Irish Nationalists, and then firing will be taken up along the lines of both the Liberal Conservative forces, and the engagement will become general. Every man on each side who can be expected to win a vote by a speech will be called upon to do so, and a hot exchange of recriminations will fill the air until the polling clears away the smoke of battle.

Vanity Fair says it is understood that the queen is greatly pleased at the change of government, and she hoped that a very solid and able minister would be selected to control the admiralty department as first lord of the admiralty. Her majesty has recently been devoting much attention to the British navy and to the relative strength of the navies of the world. Cuttings from various newspapers commenting upon the subject are collected and these, with the opinions of experts, are read to the queen, who listens most attentively and has notes made for future references.

Nazrulla Khan, the Afghan visitor, who has attracted much attention in the press and elsewhere, has taken great interest in the change of ministry, and is said to have been quite sorry that the earl of Kimberly, ex-secretary of state for foreign affairs, has lost his portfolio. This solicitude upon the part of Nazrulla for the earl is due to the fact that the latter has been untiring in his efforts to make the prince's visit a pleasant one, and has so far succeeded in smoothing over the little unpleasantnesses which have so frequently cropped up since the ameer's son landed on these shores. For this there is no doubt that the earl or his agents deserve great credit, for a more difficult person to please than Nazrulla Khan never set foot on British soil.

There has been much comment in society at the announcement in the papers that the duke of Fife, son-in-law of the prince of Wales, "honored Lord and Lady Londonderry with his company at dinner," the same terms as used when royalty honors the aristocracy with its presence at some entertainment. The duke of Fife, it should be added, has never been popular, and the Londonderrys occupied a far higher position in society than he does, in spite of the fact that he married the Princess Louise of Wales.

The Bimetallic league is naturally pleased that the marquis of Salisbury is again premier, and its members are preparing for some active work at the approaching general election. They are also greatly pleased at the weighty character of the signatures which they obtained to the recent memorial, showing that bimetallism had representative supporters among the bankers, including eight directors of the Bank of England, in addition to a number of prominent members of the industrial classes and labor organizations. The league is convinced that the bankers and bimetallic memorial was inspired by Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the former chancellor of the exchequer, being forced to support the bimetallic resolution in the house of commons, for he saw the possibility of having to appoint delegates to a conference. The league explains the absence of Mr. Balfour's signature by saying that he and Henry Chaplin thought it discourteous to sign a memorial addressed to the leader of the house of commons when they were leading his opponents.

Commenting on the downfall of Lord Rosebery, Truth expresses the opinion that the ex-premier would have made an admirable master of the horse, and that his epitaph should be "Here lies Archibald Philip Primrose, fifth earl of Rosebery, once prime minister of England. He lost twenty seats and won two derbys." It is learned upon good authority that there is some foundation for the rumor that the prince of Wales may slip over to New York on Sept. 1, in order to witness the races for the America's cup, if all is quiet here.

The only novelty in opera production during the past week has been "Cavaleria Rusticana," with Mme. Bellincioni in her original part. Adelina Patti only appeared twice during the week, and upon both occasions it was in "Don Giovanni" to crowded houses. A cheap edition of "Trilby" has made its appearance on the book stands here, but it is not meeting with a large sale. The new farcical play at the Vaudeville theater, "The Strange Adventures of Miss Brown," has been well received. This is the only novelty in theatricals of the week.

At the theaters the past week has been a dull one, and the managers are more or less panic-stricken at the prospect of the general election. The principal event was the reappearance of Daly's company, and they have drawn large houses. Mme. Duse's season at the Savoy theater began with a success, "Magda," on Thursday. The house was packed, and among the audience were Ellen Terry, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Olga Nethersole and Elizabeth Robbins.

THANKED BY CONGRESS.

Foreign Representatives Who Boomed Chicago Exposition.

Washington, June 29.—The state department has completed a list of fifty-eight names of representatives of foreign governments who under an act of congress were voted thanks for their participation in and assistance given toward making the World's Columbian exposition a success. The national acknowledgements were engraved by the bureau of engraving and printing and express in fitting terms the appreciation of the United States to each gentleman named for services rendered here in behalf of his government. The men selected were commissioners from the respective governments to the World's Columbian exposition and are as follows:

AT RIO JANIERO.

Order for Docking the Newark Causes Complaint.

Washington, June 29.—An order has been issued to Admiral Norton in command of the South Atlantic station to have his flagship the Newark, now at Montevideo, docked at Rio Janeiro, there being no dock at Montevideo large enough to admit the Newark. This is a great disappointment to the relatives and friends of those who are aboard the Newark as it was expected that she would be ordered north when she needed docking, and especially as the terms of many of her men are about to expire. When she was last docked she was sent across the Atlantic to Cape Town, Africa. The docks at Rio Janeiro were not used because of the prevalence of yellow fever at that time and contagion was feared.

It is claimed by those who are trying to have the Newark sent home that yellow fever still exists and danger is apprehended. The Charleston was at Rio during the recent rebellion in Brazil and she was sent across the Atlantic to be docked. Then it was said the docks were in the line of bombardment by the rebel fleet and if the Charleston had been docked it might have been asserted by the revolutionists that such action was for the purpose of getting a United States ship in their line of fire and thus given an excuse for attacking them.

EXCURSIONISTS ATTACKED.

Chicago, June 29.—An exciting battle, witnessed by at least 100 persons, took place on the north government pier last evening between four excursionists and six toughs. As a result Ed Barnett is at the county hospital battered and slashed almost beyond recognition, and all of the others who participated in the fight are more or less injured. Barnett may die. Knives, clubs and stones were used in the fight. It is believed that the roughs attacked the excursionists for the purpose of robbery.

JAPS ARE EXCITED.

Portland, Ore., June 29.—A special from Seattle, Wash., says: The Japanese residents of this city are greatly excited over the attitude which Russia has assumed toward their country and expect a war with the czar's empire within two months. Macamara, a prominent merchant, thinks the result will be an easy victory for the mikado's army and navy. He says thousands of prisoners—deadly foes of Russia—could be released from Siberian prisons and would assist Japan in the war.

PROTEST

Great Britain Will Demur to the Recent Venezuela Concession.

It Did so in 1884 When the First Grant Was Made.

Persons Taking Possession of Land to be Treated as Trespassers.

Washington, June 29.—It is expected by officials that Great Britain will protest against the concession Venezuela has made to an American company, and will warn the Americans against taking possession of the territory, part of which is claimed by Great Britain. Under similar circumstances the British protested against the same concession, when it was first granted to Americans in 1884, and the warnings at that time were so determined that the latter did not push their concession, which has remained dormant until now. Venezuela again grants it, and the Americans start to assume possession of the territory.

The warning given by Great Britain when the last concession was given to Americans, covering the same lands, was as follows:

"Colonial Office, London, Oct. 21, 1886. —Whereas the boundary between her majesty's colony of British Guinea and the republic of Venezuela is in dispute, and whereas it has come to her knowledge of her majesty's government that grants of land within the territory claimed by her majesty's government have been made or purported to have been made in the name of the government of Venezuela, notice is hereby given that no title to land or to any right in, or over, or affecting such land within the territory claimed by her majesty's government, purporting to be derived from or through the government of Venezuela, or any officer or person authorized by that government, will be admitted or recognized by her majesty's government, and any person taking possession of or exercising any right over any such lands, under color of any such title or pretended title, will be liable to be treated as a trespasser."

This warning was the culmination of a controversy following the grant. There was much contention, but the Americans at last abandoned their plans and the concession has remained in abeyance ever since. Now that it is revived, the purpose of Great Britain to protest is believed to be clearly outlined by the action taken several years ago. It is not doubted that the British authorities will renew the warnings.

CHANGES ON MOUNT RANIER.

Seattle, Wash., June 29.—Assistant Weather Observer E. C. Hobbs has recently been making some examinations of the summit of Mount Ranier with a small telescope and has discovered a large dark crevice through the center of Columbia's crest which can be plainly seen with the naked eye. A large snow slide has recently occurred at the base of Liberty gap on the north side and on the west side there appears to be several new crevices of various sizes. Mr. Hobbs has also noted the mountain steaming and smoking in the same manner as last winter.

CHOP DOLLARS.

America Will Coin Them for Use in Japan.

Tacoma, June 29.—Representative Doolittle left today for Washington, D. C., to spend the summer there, transacting important business for the state. As a result of his recent oriental trip, he will work to secure the enactment this winter of measures providing for the coinage of "chop" business in the Orient—in Japan and China especially. He says: "Great Britain has long been coining these dollars, placing the Japanese 'chop' or characters representing the silver piece on one side. This currency has been of great service to British merchants transacting business in China and Japan, and hence to the British nation at large.

"Our trade dollars," he says, "might have served the same purpose, but lacking the Japanese 'chop' or character, indicating value, the Chinese and Japanese did not understand them and would not use them. The measure, I think, congress will enact, will provide for the coinage of these dollars with the eagle on one side and the Japanese 'chop' on the other. The piece will be irredeemable in gold and will contain about the same amount of silver as the American dollar. It will purchase in Japan about double the amount a gold dollar will in this country."

NEWS FROM CUBA.

Gen. Campos Much Worried Over Insurgent Successes.

New York, June 29.—The Ward line steamer Santiago arrived from Cuban ports today. She brings fifty-eight passengers from St. Jago. Among these are several residents of St. Jago, who were compelled to flee for safety, owing to the disturbed condition of affairs in that vicinity. The news of the landing of reinforcements for the insurgents was confirmed by the Santiago's passengers, who stated that the expedition from Florida succeeded in making safe landing on June 21.

Gen. Campos is also reported as being in a very bad position, and greatly worried over the lack of success of the regular troops over the insurgents. It was reported also that Cienfuegos was almost entirely surrounded by the insurgents. Spanish war vessels patrol the Cuban coast on the south side night and day.

SURELY DEAD.

Cuban Patriots Eulogize Their Chief Jose Marti.

Tampa, Fla., June 29.—Official news of Marti's death having arrived, the Cubans here adopted resolutions eulogizing him as follows:

"First, that the Cuerpos de Consejo of this city, in the name of their friends and fellow-associates resident here, do publicly express their most sincere condolence for the premature end of the illustrious chief of our present movement.

"Second, that together with the aforesaid, Sunday, June 30, be dedicated as the day of mourning by the Cubans and their friends of Tampa, in memory of Jose Marti, asking them to place in the front of their house some appropriate token of so great a patriotic commemoration.

"Third, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to Senor Benjamin Jose de Guerra, treasurer of the Cuban revolutionary party, at present acting chief of our party, so that they may personally deliver them to the widow of Senor Jose Marti, Senora Carmen Zayas Basan, in proof of our sincere sympathy with her deep affliction, and our eternal reverence of the memory of her unfortunate husband.

"Fourth and last, at the same time that we offer fervent prayers for the peace of such a noble liberator, the society of Tampa, in her deep sorrow of such an irreparable loss, professes her irrevocable adhesion to the cause of the independence of Cuba, following the path that has been sprinkled with such generous blood, the legendary patron, the soldier of duty, the immortal martyr, Jose Marti."

JUNGFRAU

Over Mighty Glaciers Fully 14,000 Feet Into the Atmosphere.

A Wonderful Triumph of Skill and Progress Just Commenced.

Ask any Alpine clubman which is the hardest, the most difficult and the most hazardous mountain to ascend, and he will tell you the Jung Frau. Some may say the Matterhorn, perhaps, because the speaker climbed it. There are many men who have risked their lives to get to the top of the Matterhorn and a large number have attempted the task of climbing to the top of the Jung Frau, but mighty few can truthfully say they succeeded. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst ascended the Matterhorn, and likes to tell about it, but it is not on record that he ever climbed the Jung Frau, says the Sioux City Tribune.

Yet on June 5 the herculean task of building an electrical road through across and over the Alps to this most dangerous mountain was commenced. It is difficult to give any idea of the thousand and one difficulties which obstruct the way of such a project. It will rank with the greatest of engineering feats in the history of the world. The Suez canal, the Nicaragua canal, the Brooklyn bridge are mere playthings to this great undertaking. It will be the most marvelous in its boldness and grandeur, and as a world-wonder will be second to nothing within the circumference of the earth. Man has never conquered nature to such a degree as will be the case here.

STARS IN THE CLOUDS.

Just imagine a railroad which starts in the clouds a mile and a quarter above the sea level, going through great mountains, skirting along narrow ledges, crossing precipices thousands of feet deep, skimming the peak of a snow-clad forest, plunging through the mountain and looking down upon great banks of clouds, and all the time going up higher and higher, until the Jung Frau has been reached, 14,000 feet above the level of the sea, or almost three miles straight up in the air. The top of a 300-foot building seems extraordinarily high to most people, but looking down upon the world from a height of 14,000 feet is almost too great for human realization.

According to the plans prepared, the railroad will begin at Station Scheidegg, which is 6500 feet above the sea level. It will run, rising gradually, to the Elger glacier, at the foot of the famous Elger wall, and here will begin the tunnel, which will extend, moving in a southerly direction, to the Grindl wood. This tunnel, bored through a solid mountain, will be 8000 feet in length, or something more than a mile and a half.

After leaving Monch the course of the road is downward for a short distance for the purpose of gaining the most accessible point for the final ascension to the Jung Frau. At the Griggi glacier will be another station, and from there the road will run to the Berne side of the mountain, bringing it to a height of 12,000 feet above the sea level. Then it will move upward and upward in a semi-circle to make the ascent perpendicular to the Jung Frau, from which can be had the most beautiful view of any of the great mountains of Switzerland.

ELEVATOR ON THE JUNG FRAU.

To take the passengers to the very peak of the Jung Frau an elevator will be constructed, running to an additional height of 200 feet. On the peak will be erected a steel and iron pavilion capable of entertaining 500 people at one time.

The motive power of the road will be electricity, and the cars used will be something on the order of the present trolly, but much larger and stronger and especially constructed to withstand the rigor of mountain work and the climatic severities of such great altitudes. The cars will move slowly, taking two hours for the trip of a trifle less than eight miles. This is done to give the passengers abundant opportunity to drink in the wonderful beauties of the journey and for the additional reason of lessening the chances of the trip proving injurious to the health of tourists. A sudden change into the rarified atmosphere of such a stupendous height as the Jung Frau might prove dangerous to any one afflicted with heart or lung trouble, and the slow journey will give the human system, it is thought, abundant time to adapt itself to the climatic change and make the trip a perfectly safe one for the average tourist.

It is curious to note that when the project of building the road to the Jung Frau was first made it met with most violent opposition, not because of its engineering difficulties, but by reason of sanitary obstacles. Professor Reynard, of Paris and Professor Kronecker, of Berne, were consulted on the question, and after mature deliberation agreed that healthy people could safely undergo a gradual ascent to the Jung Frau. Persons not accustomed to mountain climates it was agreed should not remain at the top more than two or three hours.

The concession provides that a corps of physicians small always be on hand at the starting point, Station Scheidegg, to examine doubtful passengers to see if they have heart or lung trouble, and if so, to prevent them from making the journey.

It has also been agreed that the workmen employed on the construction of the road shall be acclimated at the various heights under the guidance of physicians to prevent any injurious effects.

WILL BE A FAMOUS TUNNEL.

The length of the entire road is to be 1213 kilometers, or about seven and society of Tampa, in her deep sorrow five-eighths miles, of which five miles will be tunnel. The work of cutting tunnels of such length in mountains above the clouds, will be a great task in itself, and these tunnels will in extent compare favorably with any in the world. The famous Gothard tunnel is something more than eight miles in length, but the difficulties of building it were nothing in comparison to those to be overcome in the June Frau road.

The tunnels will be lighted by electricity and abundantly ventilated. The wild glacier stream of the Lauter Brunner valley will be utilized to supply the power for the dynamo. It is estimated that the road will cost $1,600,000, not a great sum when the intricate magnitude of the work is considered.

It has long been the pet dream of great engineers to build a railroad up to the Jung Frau, and many propositions with that end in view were submitted to the Swiss government. In 1890, the famous engineer, S. Simon, worked out a plan, but upon minute examination it was not deemed practicable. Many other propositions met with the same fate from other sources. It was not until Guyer-Zeller came into the field with a plan that he had spent years upon in completing, that the consent of the government was secured. Guyer-Zeller had, with much labor and risk, gone over the entire route, measuring distances and allowing for dynamic forces and working out the plan which should make the heretofore inaccessible Jung Frau as handy to the tourist as Coney Island is to the New Yorker and not a whit more dangerous.

INVITATION EXTENDED.

Educational Association Formally Asked to Meet Here.

There was a bare quorum present at the meeting of the chamber of commerce yesterday, called to consider matters relating to extending an invitation to the National Educational association to hold the 1896 annual meeting in Duluth.

Superintendent Denfeld made a short address and the president and secretary were authorized to join the council board of trade, Jobbers' union, Federated Trades assembly and board of education in signing a sweeping invitation. In it the advantages of Duluth as a convention city were highly extolled and the same railroad rates given for Chicago and Denver were guaranteed. The convention will be in session from July 5 to 12, and will bring probably 8000 people to Duluth.

It was decided to send delegates to the Cleveland deep waterways convention and a committee consisting of Messrs. Spalding, Johnson and Batcheller was chosen to visit E. V. Smalley at the St. Louis hotel, who was here in the interest of the waterways project.

The application of Nugent & Brown for membership was referred to the membership committee and the meeting adjourned.

RAILWAYS WILL HELP IT.

Atlanta, Ga., June 29.—Information reached exposition headquarters today that the Central Railroad of Georgia, the Georgia railroad and the Atlanta & West Point railroad, with an aggregate of about 2200 miles of track, covering almost the entire state of Georgia, except the northern portion covered by the Southern railway, together with portions of Alabama will join in the erection of a handsome building for a display of the resources of their respective territories at the Cotton States and International exposition.

O. R. T. SNUBBED.

Tyler, Tex., June 29.—The following circular has been issued from the general office of the Cotton Belt railroad, addressed to the telegraphers and others concerned:

"In consequence of the interference with the discipline of the road on the part of the operators, the agreement with the Order of Railway Telegraphers on the system, dated St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 31, 1892 is hereby cancelled, effective June 20."

YARDMASTERS ADJOURN.

Denver, June 29.—After final adjournment today, the delegates to the National Yardmasters' convention went on an excursion to Manitou. A new constitution was adopted, dropping the insurance feature o fthe old organization. The next convention will be at Chicago the fourth Wednesday in June, 1896.

COMMISSIONS ADJUSTED.

St. Louis, June 29.—At a conference of the general passenger agents of the Southern and Western lines held in this city, there was discussed and adjusted the matter of commissions on business passing to and from Southern territory. At gateways and crossings of the Mississippi river and south of the river to and from the West and Southwest, the Southern lines proper claim that they do not pay commissions but their connections do, and an adjustment was necessary.

CROPS NOT INJURED.

La Prairie, Minn., June 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The frost Tuesday night at this point did but little damage except to those crops in the low ground. A very large acreage has been put in and as a rule looks well.

BRICK RATES ADVANCE.

Chicago, June 29.—The price of brick has been advanced 20 per cent through the action of the Illinois Building Material company, which is in absolute control of the Chicago market. The advance affects only common building brick manufactured in and adjacent to the city.

SIX MINERS KILLED.

Zacatecas, Mex., June 29.—A premature explosion in a blast that was being made in a mine near Coutelane, resulted in the killing of six miners. The men were crowded about the spot where the explosion occurred, and the bodies of those killed were terribly mangled.

HAS NOT BEEN MURDERED.

Paris, June 29.—There is no truth in the report that the Duc d'Aumale, uncle of the late count of Paris has been murdered. He is enjoying his usual health at Chantilly.

SENTENCE COMMUTED.

Washington, June 29.—The president has commuted to four months the sentence of John J. Cameron, sentenced to nine months, April 2, 1895, for introducing liquor into Indian territory.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED
By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

Health All Gone
Unequal to Family Duties--No Appetite
Hood's Sarsaparilla Gave Strength and Courage to Work.

Mrs. John Hase
Oran, N. Y.

"I was in such condition I could not walk even about the house to attend to household duties and care for my children and family. I did not have the strength of a child. I was treated by several physicians, who pronounced my trouble Scrofula and Female Weakness. I could eat only a slice of bread and drink a cup of tea, three times a day. Sometimes I could stand a soft boiled egg for dinner. I became reduced to skin and bones; at last they had to draw me about the house seated in a rocking chair. I was in a terrible state when my husband, having noticed advertisements of Hood's Sarsaparilla, urged upon me to give it trial. After taking one bottle I received sufficient benefit to know that I had at last found the right medicine. I have now taken several bottles and am able to Attend My Housework. In fact, I am on my feet about all day, and can go up stairs easily. I cannot say enough in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla."

DENVER MINT WORK.

Denver, June 29.—The value of all the bullion treated at the Denver mint during the fiscal year ending today was $5,614,642, a gain of $2,374,061 over the previous year.

Now is the time to provide yourself and family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a safeguard against an attack of bowel complaint during the summer months. It costs but 25 cents and is almost sure to be needed before the summer is over. This remedy never fails, even in the most severe cases, and is in fact the only preparation that can always be depended upon. When reduced with water it is pleasant to take. For sale by all druggists.

BRIGHT

Good Prospects for Fourth of July Celebration at West Duluth.

Another Meeting Held Yesterday and Working Committees Named.

Small Fire Called Out the Department This Morning---Other News.

Pursuant to call, a meeting was held at Phillips hotel yesterday afternoon to further consider the celebration of the Fourth in West Duluth. Reports were received from the various committees appointed at the preceding meeting. They were all favorable to the success of the celebration. The temporary organization effected on Wednesday was made permanent. The committee on solicitation was very successful in its efforts to raise funds and was continued for further work.

A committee on arrangements, consisting of J. S. Brown, C. F. Thorpe, J. O. Hancock, M. Gavagan and L. A. Barnes, was appointed and given supervision over all affairs connected with the celebration.

The committee on arrangements held a meeting this morning, selected various sub-committees and let contracts for building a platform, music, etc. H. P. Smith was made treasurer of the organization.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

Rental property. C. W. Hoyt.

Insure your property with G. E. Hall.

The fire department was called out about 4 o'clock this morning to a small blaze in the attic of John Swanstrom's residence at Hazelwood. The fire was of short duration and was extinguished by the use of buckets before the department arrived.

W. S. Bailey, of the Duluth brass works, went to St. Paul today to remain over the Fourth.

M. Jacoby went to St. Paul yesterday on business.

F. B. Atwood, of Ashland, is in the city on business.

J. J. McGuinness is stopping at the Phillips.

A number of West Duluth people went on the excursion to Fond du Lac with the Rathbone sisters this morning.

Mrs. C. A. Boardman and brother, of Traverse City, Mich., are visiting their mother, Mrs. McClaney.

A young lad named Robinson was hurt yesterday by running into another boy while playing on the ball grounds.

THE REPORT ISSUED.

The annual report of the secretary of the Duluth board of trade has just been issued. It contains about 160 pages and has complete statistics of the grain trade in Duluth. It is a carefully prepared work and reflects credit on Secretary Frank E. Wyman.

DENVER WATER TROUBLES.

Denver, June 29.—A large crowd of citizens assembled at the city hall today in anticipation of action being taken by the board of supervisors on the ordinance fixing the water rates, which had passed the board of aldermen, but the matter goes over to next week. The fact that a majority violated the pledge given by them to reduce water charges in accordance with the contract with the water company has given rise to much gossip about the means that may have been used to influence their action, but so far no evidence of bribery has been discovered.

IN SUMMER

cooling drinks are necessary. They are the universal antidote for excessive warmth. Nothing is so popular with the fair sex in Duluth as our soda served in all the various flavors and with cream for only a nickel a glass. To have their attentions well received, young men should treat their sweethearts coolly, by inviting them to enjoy our soda, which is really the coolest and most delightful summer drink in Duluth, wholesome, healthful and invigorating. Soda heads the list of summer beverages, and the foaming stream from our fountain heads the list of all sodas.

WOMEN WHO SUFFER pain each month, can find relief and cure in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It regulates and restores the monthly function, braces up the exhausted, run-down, overworked and delicate; allays and banishes all Nervous Weakness, Spasms, Hysteria, Fits, Chorea, or St. Vitus's Dance; cures Weaknesses, Bearing Down Sensations, Backache, Catarrhal Inflammation, Ulceration and kindred maladies.

For those about to become mothers, it is a priceless boon, for it lessens the pain and perils of childbirth, shortens "labor" and the period of confinement, and promotes the secretion of an abundance of nourishment for the child.

THOMAS THIRLWELL, of Robertsdale, Pa., says: "I cannot sufficiently express to you my gratitude for the benefit your 'Favorite Prescription' has conferred upon my daughter.

Of late she has suffered no pain whatever. It is simply marvelous."

ABUNDANT RAINS.

Clarinda, Iowa, June 29.—It has been raining here steadily for forty-eight hours. Over three inches have fallen. This is the longest rain ever known here.

Wellington, Kan., June 29.—A steady downpour of rain, measuring nearly four inches, has fallen in the last two days. It came just in time to do corn the most good.

Hennessey, Okla., June 29.—A constant downpour of rain last night and yesterday flooded everything, and creeks are rising rapidly. Corn will be greatly benefited.

Trinidad, Colo., June 29.—This vicinity was visited yesterday afternoon by the most severe thunder storm in years. Rain and hail fell in great quantity, filling the streams and flooding the low lands. The large arroya that crosses Minnesota street and runs under two business blocks, was bank full and had a current like a mill race. It knocked the supports from under the buildings that are built over it and flooded some houses. Lightning struck a house about ten miles from here, seriously injuring a Mrs. Youngblood.

DR. ANDRUS' BOOKS.

St. Paul, June 29.—Executive Agent Fullerton, of the fish and game commission, this morning received a letter from Dr. Andrus, the ex-warden, stating that he had forwarded his books to Chairman Timberlake, of the commission, and saying that he had not received any letters containing the previous demands. The books will be investigated by the commission at their next meeting the second week in August. This morning a warrant was sworn for the arrest of Platt, the Minneapolis commission man, on the charge of shipping fish outside of the state.

HIGHER

After a Weak Spell Early, Wheat Took an Upward Turn.

The Poor Quality of New Wheat Coming in Scared Shorts.

Argentine Shipments This Week Double What They Were Last Week.

Wheat opened firm and some stronger today, but cables were weaker and under liberal offerings wheat eased off. September opened ¼c up at 70½c but sold down to 69⅞c by 10 o'clock. The chief items of the market news referred to the week's shipments and those told in favor of the bears. From both coasts of this country, Bradstreet's report gave the shipments of wheat and flour at 1,946,000 bus against 2,857,000 bus the week before. The Argentine shipments for the week were 960,000 bus, which is about double what was sent out the previous week and so large as to upset all confidence in the revious reports of exhausted stocks in that country. The day's receipts at Chicago were nominally ten cars, but that included five carloads transferred from irregular elevators. Minneapolis and Duluth received 227 cars compared with 267 on the corresponding day of last year.

After 10 o'clock the tendency was upward and September rose steadily to 71⅝c near the close. The news concerning the winter wheat threshings reproduced what had previously been remarked about the unsatisfactory yield and the miserable quality. The spring wheat is still doing well. The feeling of danger to those on the short side with the new wheat, which is coming to market not much better than the tailings of previous years, was the uppermost thoughts in the minds of the crowd at Chicago as the session was nearing its end and caused the price to advance. July, which opened here at 72¾c and declined ½c, sold up to 73¾c. The mills were paying 1c over July for round lots of No. 1 hard to arrive, and the close was 1c higher than yesterday for cash, 1¼c higher for July and 1½c higher for September. Following were the closing prices:

No. 1 hard, cash, 73¾c; June, 74¼c; July, 74⅝c. No. 1 northern, cash, 73c; June, 73⅝c; July, 73⅞c; September, 71½c. No. 2 northern, cash, 69¼c. No. 3, 65¼c. Rejected 63¼c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 74⅝c; No. 1 northern, 74¾c. Rye, 50c. No. 2 oats, 28c; No. 3 oats, 27½c. Barley, 41c. Flax, cash, $1.44; September, $1.17.

Car inspection—Wheat, 137; oats, 4. Receipts—Wheat, 70,012 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 17,853 bus. Wheat stocks here will show a decrease of about 240,000 bus this week.

NEW YORK BANKS.

New York, June 29.—The weekly bank statement shows the following changes:

Reserve, decrease	$2,318,325
Loans, increase	516,300
Specie, decrease	643,900
Legal tenders, decrease	2,680,800
Deposits, decrease	4,022,700
Circulation, decrease	45,500

The banks now hold $34,425,925 in excess of the requirements of the 25 per cent rule.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Minneapolis, June 29.—Close: June, closed 71⅝c; July, closed 71⅝c; September, 69½@⅝c. On track, No. 1 hard, 73c; No. 1 northern, 72¼c; No. 2 northern, 72¼c.

GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, room 10 Chamber of Commerce and 207 Board of Trade.

Shorts in wheat were pretty sure to cover today. There had been weak markets for three days, a decline of 3½c since Wednesday, and there was every reason why shorts should wish to take profits. Their buying caused a sharp rally in spite of the continued liquidation and relative weakness of July. Argentine exports for the week are reported at 960,000 bus against 458,000 bus last week, when it was supposed that supplies were about exhausted. That country with Russia and India, which is shipping more than twice as fast as a year ago, are keeping foreign markets well supplied and making business very dull for American exporters. Our exports fell off 1,000,000 bus compared with the previous week. Bradstreet's estimates the crop at 425,000,000 bus and believes that the exportable surplus will be from 100,000,000 to 125,000,000 bus. The Pacific coast is exporting as fast as vessels can be had and this is cutting off the Atlantic demand.

Corn and oats were heavy early but rallied towards the close on covering by shorts. Provisions steadier but no improvement in the volume of business.

The stock market was irregular. The trust stocks were weak on continued liquidation. Do not be afraid to buy the granger stocks on the soft spots.

RICHARD CROKER.

Coming to America on a Combined Errand.

London, June 29.—Richard Croker has engaged passage for America for Sept. 14. This will take him home in time for the New York Democratic state convention. Mr. Croker will remain in New York until after the election in November. His family do not accompany him on this visit to America, which is one of business and politics combined.

Mr. Croker called at the office of the Royal society for the prevention of cruelty to animals today and had an interview with the secretary of the society regarding the allegation that he and his jockey, Simms, had cruelly driven a horse to death. Mr. Croker stated the facts as set forth in his letter to Henry Labouchere, and also read to the secretary the paragraph in Jerome K. Jerome's paper. The secretary said that he was unable at this time to take any positive action in the case as the society of Newmarket who had been ordered to investigate the charges had not yet reported; but he had no doubt that when the report was made it would exonerate Jockey Simms. The secretary added that in his opinion Simms certainly had a good cause for action against T. P. O'Connor's son and Jerome K. Jerome.

Mr. Croker is much elated over his recent purchase of horses. "I have," he said, "just purchased the mare Democracy, five years old, which is with foal by St. Simon, one of the best sires in England. I have also bought a filly out of Democracy by Minting."

ROASTED BY SWIFT.

Chicago's Mayor Roundly Condemns Health Officer.

Chicago, June 29.—Mayor Swift issued a sensational statement condemning Dr. Arthur Reynolds, ex-city health commissoner for the latter's management of the small pox epidemic of last winter. The mayor charges the doctor with gross neglect of duty, asserts that he alone was responsible for the spread of the disease and declares that to him are directly chargeable the 159 deaths which occurred in the pest house during the winter.

The mayor says that the pest house was kept in frightful condition; that the attendants were careless or inefficient and that no deaths need have occurred had the health department been properly managed. The statement has caused a sensation in political and medical circles, as Dr. Reynolds is one of the most prominent physicians of the city.

INDICATION OF EARTHQUAKE.

An Island in Lake Superior Had Mighty Shocks.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., June 29.—Assistant Engineer G. B. Balch, of the United States lake survey, who returned this week from up Lake Superior, reports finding appearances of an earthquake on Batchewanna island, Lake Superior. The disturbances occurred on the south side of the island, and the affected strip is from 200 to 300 feet wide and 1200 feet long, and extends for several feet under Lake Superior.

The crack and upheaval, with trees torn up and roots freshly broken to pieces, show the effect of mighty shocks. Batchewanna island is an uninhabited island near the north shore of Lake Superior, sixty miles west of this place.

FIREMEN DOING WELL.

Minneapolis, June 29.—The injured firemen at St. Barnabas hospital are doing as well as can be expected and are all in the best of spirits. They spent the night comfortably and this morning as the doctors visited them, they began to talk cheerfully, and several of them told stories, while the others joked with their physicians. Gau may recover.

IRON HALL DIVIDEND.

Indianapolis, June 29.— Supreme Judge Berkimer will declare this afternoon an additional 5 per cent Iron Hall dividend. This will mean a distribution of about $250,000 among the Iron Hall holders, and will with the 30 per cent dividend now being paid, bring the funds in the hands of Receiver Falley down to about $150,000.

CHICAGO INVESTIGATION.

Chicago, June 29.—The grand jury today began the investigation of the stuffing of city pay rolls by officials of the last city administration. Thirteen men were indicted at today's session, all of whom were sub-foremen and timekeepers in the water extension department. It is charged that the city was robbed of large sums of money by fraudulent pay rolls, and further indictments are expected.

CORNER STONE LAID.

London, June 29.—Cardinal Vaughan today, in the presence of 8000 people, laid the foundation stone of a Roman Catholic cathedral at Westminster. Among those present were the ambassadors of the Roman Catholic countries, the Catholic bishops, the Catholic nobility of England and Archbishop Stoner, who represented the pope. Cardinal Gibbons telegraphed his regret at the fact that he could not arrive in time, although it was the dearest wish of his heart to be present. The spectacle was unique in ecclesiastical splendor.

THE ABORTIONISTS' TRIAL.

Detroit, Mich., June 29.—This afternoon Prosecuting Attorney Frazier completed the closing argument in the case against Dr. D. J. Seaman. Seaman is charged with the death of Emily Hall, the English girl who was sent to a Detroit lying-in hospital by the Rev. Jonathan Hall, the English clergyman. The case will go to the jury this afternoon. Attorney Warren, for the defense, this morning sought to discredit the testimony of the female inmates of the hospital, and to show that Miss Hall died naturally before the child's birth.

MRS. SPRINGER INDICTED.

Chicago, June 29.—Mrs. Springer, the wife of Millionaire Warren Springer, was indicted today for an alleged attempt to bribe a juror in a damage suit in which her husband was interested. Mrs. Springer was indicted once before on the same charge and today's action is supposed to have been taken to cover a technicality in the case.

HIGH-WATER MARK.

THE WEATHER.

U. S. Agricultural Department, Weather Bureau, Duluth, Minn., June 29.—An extensive area of high pressure has moved southeast and now covers all districts except the Northwest. Showery conditions continue in the Southwest and the Central Mississippi valley, and the cloudiness has increased in the Lower Ohio valley. Elsewhere the weather has been fair, except light showers in the region from Manitoba southeast to Lake Superior.

The temperature has risen slightly in the Dakotas and Northwest Minnesota, and fallen slightly in Lower Michigan and Indiana.

Duluth temperature at 7 a. m. today, 52; maximum yesterday, 65; minimum yesterday, 46.

Local forecast for Duluth and vicinity today and Sunday: Showers; slight changes in temperature; variable winds, becoming fresh northeast.

JAMES KENEALY,
Local Forecast Official.

Chicago, June 29.—Forecast until 8 a. m. tomorrow: Wisconsin: Fair and slightly warmer tonight and Sunday; southeast winds. Iowa, Minnesota: Fair and slightly warmer tonight and Sunday; southerly winds.

Depth of water over mitre sill in St. Mary's ship canal 14 feet 2 inches and the forecast is that it will remain stationary during the next twenty-four hours. Upper lakes: Generally fair weather except occasional showers, variable winds, becoming fresh southerly Sunday, for the next thirty-six hours.

Except in the extreme Eastern states, the temperature is below the normal generally throughout the entire country, the general marked departure prevailing over the Upper Mississippi valley, where it amounts to from 15 to 20 degrees.

A QUERY ANSWERED.

The St. Cloud Journal-Press says: "Several days ago the Journal-Press asked The Duluth Herald, which is the organ of the free silverites at the head of the lakes, to explain how the parity of gold and silver could be maintained if the United States alone adopted free and unlimited coinage, 16 to 1, and suggested that it could seek the aid of every one of its sympathizers in the Zenith City in preparing its answer. It is probably busy seeking information, as it has not yet ventured a reply."

The Herald regrets that it did not see the first request of the Journal-Press for information upon this subject, or it would have made an earlier reply, it being always pleased to instruct those who are anxious to be enlightened upon what may be properly regarded as the greatest question now before the American people. However, The Herald must take exception to the statement that it "is the organ of the free silverites at the head of the lakes." The Herald is not the organ of the free silverites here or elsewhere. It has advocated the cause of bimetallism and will continue to do so, because it is convinced that it is the true monetary policy which this country should again adopt. The Herald prefers that bimetallism should be restored by an international agreement. This is the plan which it would like to see carried out. But if an international agreement cannot be secured, if none of the other leading nations will unite with this country in remonetizing silver and restoring it to its true place as standard money, some other plan must be adopted. The present state of things cannot be continued. This is admitted by every thinking man. If an international agreement cannot be secured, why should not the United States boldly deal with the problem and restore silver to its constitutional place—to the place provided for it by the men who founded the republic?

The 412½-grain silver dollar is the dollar provided for us by the congress of 1792. It remained the standard dollar—the 100-cent dollar of the constitution—until the act of 1873, without the knowledge or consent of the people, struck out of existence one-half of the money of redemption of the country. Up to 1873 this country had free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and there was no difficulty about maintaining silver on a parity with gold. Why should there be any difficulty now? Is this country less powerful than it was then? Has its strength declined, has its wealth decreased, has its credit become less? The ratio between silver and gold from 1689 down to 1873 never varied from about 15½ to 1, and there is no probability that it would have ever varied if the nations had not tinkered with the laws. When the price of silver is fixed at $1.29 per ounce by the law of congress admitting silver bullion to free coinage into dollars of the present standard, why should there be any more fluctuation in the price of silver than there is now in the price of gold, which is fixed by the law of England at $18.92 per ounce of legal standard?

The experience of the past shows that our silver money can be maintained upon a parity with gold, and what we have done in former years we can do again. To deny this is unpatriotic on the part of people who live in a country which has accumulated within a century $130,000,000,000 of substantial wealth, more than the combined wealth of England and Germany, and which has a national debt less than one-fifth the debts of those two countries combined. Should this country open its mints to the free coinage of both gold and silver, the foreign trade of Great Britain would be seriously injured. This is admitted by even Englishmen themselves. It is only a few weeks since the London Financial News, one of the most influential financial journals in the English metropolis made the statement that England might as well recognize the fact that if this country entered upon free silver coinage it would within one year strip Great Britain of its markets in the Orient and South America. This would undoubtedly be true also of all the other European countries.

The supply of gold and silver is limited. If there is offered a demand unlimited as compared with the supply, the bullion price of gold and silver cannot be fixed but at the mint price. Now, if a man could take silver to the mint and convert it to coin at $1.29 an ounce, would he sell his silver bullion at less than $1.29? Thus the bullion value will not be less than the coinage value of the metal. France maintained the parity of gold and silver at 15½ to 1 for seventy years, and as a result our silver dollar was worth 3 cents more as bullion than as dollars. France is not as large as the United States. If France could do it then, why cannot we do it now? As previously stated, there was free silver coinage in this country previous to 1873, and the parity was maintained with slight variations. Under the bimetallism which then prevailed the people of the United States enjoyed the largest measure of prosperity. In 1873 the American silver dollar was worth $1.03 in gold of the standard weight and fineness, while today it is worth, as a commodity, but little more than half that figure. Everyone knows the reason. It is the direct result of demonetizing silver and of degrading it still further by coining it freely without remonetizing it. Upon what ground can it be contended that to remonetize silver would not restore it to the position that it occupied in 1873 and again place it upon a parity with gold? We can judge the future only by the past, and therefore we may conclude with confidence that the monetary system that stood the test of experience in this country from 1792 to 1873 would, if again put in operation, prove as satisfactory as it did during those eighty-one years of prosperity.

But while entertaining these views as to the ability of this country to maintain the parity of silver and gold, if compelled to resort to free coinage independently, The Herald does not believe that we will be called upon to adopt this policy. The prospects of an international agreement on bimetallism have grown much brighter since the fall of the Rosebery ministry in England. The new cabinet contains several men who are prominent as bimetallists, Mr. Balfour, who is now first lord of the treasury, being regarded as one of the boldest and most uncompromising advocates of bimetallism on the other side of the Atlantic. It is true that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, who succeeds Sir William Harcourt as chancellor of the exchequer, is not known to be a bimetallist, but in view of the attitude of Lord Salisbury, Mr. Balfour and others on this question, the government will be disposed to respect the resolution passed by the house of commons several weeks ago in favor of England taking part in a monetary conference and to appoint delegates who will not oppose an agreement for the rehabilitation of silver as standard money. In view of these facts, we can for the present postpone consideration of the advisability of the United States entering independently upon the free coinage of gold and silver, but at the same time the importance of the remonetization of silver by some method must be steadily kept in view.

TO CELEBRATE THE FOURTH.

It is now definitely settled that Duluth is going to celebrate the glorious Fouth in fitting style. The celebration which had been planned by the management of the Pavilion, when it seemed probable that the day was to pass by without due observance, has now been turned over to a citizen's committee, and elaborate preparations are being made for a program of the most attractive character. Sub-committes are actively at work attending to the details, and it is confidently anticipated that the Fourth will be celebrated in Duluth this year on a grander scale than ever before.

As soon as the arrangements are completed, the full program for the day will be presented by The Herald, but in the meantime we can assure the people living in the surrounding towns and villages that if they want a good time and a chance to give vent to their patriotic feelings on the Fourth, they should come to Duluth on that day. They will find here much to amuse as well as to instruct them, and they will find, when they are ready to depart, that they have passed a very profitable day. Arrangements will be made for excursion trains, and special rates from all the neighboring towns, and it is expected that 5000 or 6000 visitors will come to the city.

In addition to the interesting exercises at the Pavilion, and the great display of fireworks in the evening, there will be numerous other attractions. Then the American youth will have his own peculiar exercises, in which the fire cracker will play a prominent part. This is the way that his patriotic instinct will assert itself, and it is all right. Nervous people may kick a little, but they should be ready to put up with a little annoyance in the view of the many blessings which they enjoy under this great and free government. But while we have speeches and music and fireworks and all that, we must not forget to let Old Glory float in the breeze from every available point. The citizen who cannot throw Old Glory to the breeze, either from a roof-top or through a front window, must be poor indeed. It is a symbol to salute it is respect of the sentiment symbolized. Then let us unfurl Old Glory on the Fourth, burn powder, beat drums and listen to patriotic addresses and the Declaration of Independence. It is the greatest anniversary in the political history of nations, and every American citizen should celebrate it with patriotic enthusiasm.

THE TREND OF TRADE.

The advance in iron and steel forms the central feature of the reports of the commercial agencies this week. Bradstreet's declares that the dominating business conditions of the week are the continuation of the large demand for and further increases in prices for iron and steel, which have surprised even the trade. The same agency expresses the belief that the surplus of wheat available for export during the next twelve months will be only 100,000,000 bushels, which is less than in any year since 1890, and, with a short crop abroad, it can hardly fail to bring a higher range of prices. Dun & Co.'s review says that business is better, although the crop outlook affecting prospects beyond the near future is a little less distinct. There is more ground for doubt about winter wheat and cotton than a week ago, and threshing receipts are comparatively low, though the prospects for spring wheat are exceedingly good. The price, ¼ cent lower for the week, is beyond mistake too low if the latest impressions of injury to winter wheat are correct.

The importance of the boom in iron and the probably early advance in wheat prices, so far as its effect upon Duluth is concerned, can hardly be over-estimated. The boom in iron means a greater demand for the ore mined upon the Vermilion and Mesaba ranges and the consequent employment of more miners, whose wages will be spent with the merchants in the range towns, who get their supplies from Duluth. Higher prices for wheat will spread prosperity among the farmers of the Northwest—in all the great territory that is tributary to Duluth—and will create a better market for the Duluth jobbers. With an advance in both iron and wheat Duluth must be immensely the gainer.

Another pointer as to the improvement of business conditions in the Northwest, as well as in the country at large, is shown in the recent report of the comptroller of the currency regarding the new national banks organized or applied for in the six months ending April 30, 1895. The number of new banks organized, which ran as high as 307 in 1890, fell to a minimum during the panic, and many applications for charters made in the spring of 1893 were withdrawn or abandoned. During the last six months fourteen banks were organized, and the new applications now pending number thirty-one. Out of these forty-five new banks three are from the Northwest, while out of a total proposed capitalization of $3,610,000 the three Northwest banks have $200,000. The percentage of banks which fails to the Northwest is nine, while the proposed capitalization represents 6 per cent of the total. When it is considered that the Northwest is supposed to have suffered the most severely from the hard times, and that the improvement has reached the Eastern states long before it was felt here, this showing is quite gratifying.

Further signs of the returning prosperity are found in the advances in wages which are being made in nearly every section. The Herald has contained reports of many large concerns which have increased the wages of their employes during the past two months, the Minnesota Iron company being the leader in the iron ore industry in this respect. Recently the Illinois Steel company raised the wages of many of its men, and now the E. P. Allis company, of Milwaukee, gives notice of a 10 per cent increase in wages on July 1. In 1893, during the darkest days of the general depression in trade of every kind throughout the country, when the Allis shops, like all other large concerns in the country, found business dwindling and prices so depressed that the orders they did receive for work were at the very lowest possible figure, it was found necessary to reduce the wages of employes or lay off hundreds of men. The cut in wages was finally decided upon as the best way out of a bad situation, and this was done, while nearly every other big concern in the country like the Allis establishment reduced wages 15, 20 and even 30 per cent. At that time the Allis company stated that whenever the times warranted the wages would be restored. The advance of 10 per cent now made restores the wages paid prior to 1893, and is the result of the increase in the volume of business and the brighter prospects.

The agitation against the smoke nuisance continues to spread. A crusade against it is now being carried on in Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Boston, St. Paul and many other cities, and the movement has reached Philadelphia. The Philadelphia Press concludes an article on the subject with the following sensible advice: "The only way this nuisance of smoke production can be permanently abated is by a crusade against it, earnestly and persistently pressed in season and out of season. Spasmodic efforts will never cure the evil. The practical and easily applied inventions to prevent the production of smoke in use in Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis can be applied here also, but they never will be until the matter is taken energetically in hand. The way to abate the smoke nuisance is to abate it, and those who are injured should see that it is abated. And the city, as one of the worst smoke producers, should be taken in hand first." When will the people of Duluth also become aroused upon this subject?

A lecturer recently announced that he would deliver an address on universal suffrage at Columbia, S. C. On his arrival in town he was waited upon by a delegation of best citizens, otherwise "mob," who extended to him a cordial invitation to leave town prior to the hour for his lecture. They advanced the opinion that such an address as he proposed to deliver would "agitate the negroes," and their regard for the negroes was so great that they could not stand seeing them unduly excited, even if they had to use tar and feathers as a preventive. Having a due regard for the nervous organization of the negroes, and incidentally for his own safety, he did not deliver the lecture.

An Englishman, who carefully observed the men and ships gathered at the great naval show at Kiel, has published his conclusions, leaving Great Britain out of the list because his nationality might prejudice his criticisms on the British fleet. He thinks the French sailors neat and smart but the ships hideous. The Americans had the best disciplined crews and their ships were the most easily handled. The New York was the best ship of her class at Kiel. In the order of excellence, taking ships and crews, the fleets stood, Germany, France, America, Austria, Russia, Italy, Sweden, Holland, Denmark, Roumania, Portugal and lastly Spain.

Referring to the nomination of Gen. Hardin for governor by the Kentucky Democrats, the Milwaukee Sentinel says: "The leader chosen has just been canvassing the state in advocacy of the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. He will make a fine appearance as the defender of an anti-free coinage platform." The Sentinel is talking recklessly. There is nothing in the platform of the Kentucky Democrats against free coinage—not a single word. The gold standard men made a great bluff at Louisville. While they claimed they were in the majority they did not secure the passage of a resolution in favor of the gold standard or against bimetallism.

Justice Brown, of the United States supreme court, has been telling the Yale graduates some very sound and far-reaching truths. Here is one of them, for instance: "There was probably never a flimsier excuse for a great riot than the sympathetic strike of last summer, but back of it were substantial grievances. If wealth will not respect the rules of common honesty in the use of its power, it will have no reason to expect moderation or discretion on the part of those who resist its encroachments."

A breach of promise suit at Galveston, Texas, has resulted in a prominent Republican being assessed $10,000 for trifling with the affections of a Democratic maiden. It is a righteous verdict, when one considers the young lady's disappointment at being unable to get into the Republican camp.

Chauncey Depew denies the story that he is about to marry a young and beautiful orphan who is worth $8,000,000. Not because he would not, if he had the chance, he says, but at present he observes no indications that such an opportunity is about to present itself.

Pittsburg is making a strong bid for the Republican national convention. Pittsburg is a very fine city, but the Northwest is the place for the convention. Why not hold it in St. Paul or Minneapolis?

If war takes place between Russia and Japan, the Russian bear may find that he has tackled a mighty dufficult job. Japan has shown that she can fight.

Duluth will again try to capture the annual meeting of the National Educational association. If the railroads act decently, we will probably get it.

Governor-elect H. Clay Evans, of Tennessee, is visiting Duluth, and the people of Duluth are glad to welcome such a distinguished visitor.

Platforms, says the Chicago Mail, are mostly glittering generalities, anyhow, and a strong candidate will always settle their meaning.

Edward W. Bok's criticisms of the daily newspapers, published in the Ladies' Home Journal, indicate that he is a perfect lady.

Now let every person join in the movement to have a first class celebration of the Fourth in Duluth.

FORGOT HE HAD MOVED.

St. Cloud Times: F. E. Searle, of Duluth, was in St. Cloud today. At the meeting of the convention in Minneapolis, where the improvement of the upper Mississippi was agitated, Mr. Searle was named as the member of the committee on permanent organization from St. Cloud. Mr. Searle when asked about the meeting was very much surprised and said that he had not been present. He said that the gentleman who had placed his name on the committee had evidently forgotten that he had removed to Duluth. The St. Cloud business men should pull themselves together and see that they are properly represented in this matter. No doubt Mr. Searle could well represent St. Cloud, but it would look decidedly better for St. Cloud enterprise if it had a St. Cloud man on the committee.

FOOLISH TWADDLE.

Wright County Times (Rep.): The Minneapolis Tribune is indulging in some foolish twaddle in suggesting that Congressman Towne get out of the Republican party. It is a little too late in the day to commence driving thinking men with a whip and lash as in pro slavery times, and especially in the Republican party. A person has but to go back a few years to read in the columns of the Tribune sentiments which it now declares are sufficient to expel those holding them from the ranks of the Republican party. But who is to do the expelling act? Certainly not the Tribune, is it the chairman of the national Republican committee? Then all the goldites would go. It is evident that the wise young men of the Tribune don't know as much concerning the Republican party—and its history as "young Mr. Towne." Our congressman has two years with which to make an official record, and on the tariff and financial issues we do not hesitate to predict that he will be found in full accord with his party and for the best interests of the American people, notwithstanding the flippant criticisms of the metropolitan press and their weaker imitators of the country press.

"Yes," replied the editor, "but I meant the first time I had any money."

Pittsburg Chronicle: "Well, old man, this is the first time I've seen you since your marriage. Allow me to congratulate you!" "Thanks, my dear fellow, thanks!" "Have you and your wife decided who is to be the speaker of the house?" "Well, no. We usually occupy the chair together."

Puck: Chief of police—The murder was committed on Sixth avenue twenty-four hours ago. Now, what have you found out?
Central office sleuth (toying with the directory)—There is such a street.

A JOKE ON WAGGENER.

Kansas City Journal: Bailey P. Waggener, the newly elected mayor of Atchison, recently played a mean Irish trick on himself. Returning home late one night, he found a cow grazing on his lawn. It made him very mad, so he telephoned for a policeman and helped drive the animal to the pound. "It is some satisfaction," said Mr. Waggener, "to know that the owner of this — cow will have to put up a dollar to get her out." The next morning Mr. Waggener found out that he had arrested his own cow, and now the whole town is making merry with him.

Sheffield (Eng.) Week: Bouncing lawyer—Then you are prepared to swear that the parties came to high words.
Coster witness—Nay, I didna say that. I should say they was particularly low words.

ON THE SAND.

Little hands are building famous houses on the beach,
Palaces that rear their towers above old ocean's reach,
Castles of the kingdom only innocence may share
Before the briny waves of truth have rudely entered there.

Little hands have built a wall against the creeping sea,
Built it strong and high and long, defying destiny,
But, oh! the sea, the cruel sea, creeps underneath the wall
Around the towers of glistening power and overturns them all.

Our castle rested on the sands, sweetheart, long, long ago;
Its splendor shamed more earthly shells with a celestial glow;
The massive wall of faith we reared, invincible and true,
Shut out the ocean's restless force with courage fair to view.

Its gardens were the richest ones the world had ever seen,
And over all a purple sky smiled more and more serene,
Until we drowsed contentedly one blissful fatal day,
And woke to find the waves had swept our fortunes all away.

As splendid as Castilian ones, and now they build again—

SOCIETY

Marriages Were Decidedly the Leading Social Events of This Week.

Upham-Fagg, Sloan-Collins and Blanchard-Howard Among the Wedded.

Mr. Speyers Gives a Luncheon Today---Other Affairs of Interest.

The wedding of Miss Fanny Pauline Upham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Upham, and T. J. C. Fagg, Jr., at the First Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening was the society event of this week. The church was filled with the friends of the bride and groom and with the elaborate decorations presented a beautiful appearance. It was a coleur de rose and green wedding.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Cleland, pastor of the church, and R. B. Doane, assisted by Arthur F. Drake, presided at the organ. The "Lohengrin" march was played as the party entered, the ring song and "Dreams," from "Lohengrin," during the ceremony, and Mendelssohn's march as the party retired.

The bride was attended by Miss Maren Miller, as maid of honor, and Misses O'Keefe, Gertrude Markell, Sharp, De Coster, of St. Paul, and Martha Peyton were bridesmaids. James A. Pollock, of Salt Lake City, was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. W. C. Farrington, D. C. Buntin, C. W. Culver, W. R. Peyton, A. W. Hartman and Dean Burke.

The bride wore a magnificent bridal gown of ivory satin, with pearl trimmings, bridal veil and orange blossoms, and carried white bridal roses. The bridesmaids wore mousseline de soie over pink satin and carried pink roses. Miss Maren Miller was gowned in mousseline de soie over yellow silk and carried yellow roses.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents on East Fourth street followed. The bridal party received and a large number of guests were present. The house was beautifully and profusely decorated in the bridal colors. The presents were numerous and elaborate.

Among the guests from outside were: Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Van Dusen, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Harrington, Miss Laura Harrington, of Minneapolis; Judge and Mrs. T. J. C. Fagg, of Missouri; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Fagg, of Mankato; Mrs. Bright, of St. Louis, and the best man, James A. Pollock, of Salt Lake City.

For the bridal trip Mr. and Mrs. Fagg took the Nautilus for a week's cruise on Lake Superior. Upon their return they will reside on East Superior street.

On Monday at high noon Miss N. Gertrude Sloan and Dr. Homer Collins were married at the First Presbyterian church. The ceremony was a quiet and simple one and no invitations had been issued, but the church was well filled. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank Sneed, of Minneapolis, assisted by Rev. Dr. Cleland, pastor of the church.

The church was beautifully decorated in green. R. B. Doane presided at the organ and was assisted by Arthur F. Drake. The bride was attended by Miss Maren Miller and Miss Magoffin. All were very charmingly gowned. Miss Miller's was organdie over white silk with lace and pink ribbons and Miss Magoffin's green silk and organdie with satin and lace trimmings. They carried pink roses. The bride walked alone. She was attired in a bridal gown of white satin with point lace and carried white bridal roses.

The "Lohengrin" wedding march was played as the bridal party entered, and during the ceremony "The Angels Serenade." At the conclusion the wedding march from Mendelssohn was played as the party left the church.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison. Dr. and Mrs. Collins left on the North West for a bridal trip. They will go down to Montreal, thence to Lake Champlain, to the Hudson and then down to New York.

Albert W. Speyers is entertaining his brother, Professor Clarence W. Speyers, of Rutger college, near New York, and bride, at his home, 1231 East Third street. They arrived yesterday from Kansas City, where they were married on Wednesday. This afternoon Mr. Speyers gave a luncheon at the Kitchi Gammi club in honor of his guests. Among those present were: Professor and Mrs. Speyers, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Alexander, Jr., Mrs. Turle, Miss Dickinson, Miss Anna Dickinson, Miss Barber, A. W. Taussig, O. C. Hartman and W. B. Chaffen.

A marriage was performed on Thursday afternoon which was a surprise to the friends of the contracting parties, none of them having been informed either by card or invitation that the day was at hand. The young people who were joined for life were Miss Edna Blanchard and Julius D. Howard. The ceremony was performed at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. David Buchanan, of 311 Second avenue west, by Rev. Dr. Ryan, rector of St Paul's Episcopal church. Only relatives were in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Howard left in the evening for the East, where they will spend a month or more at Narragansett Pier.

On Thursday evening Miss Foote and Miss Coppernall entertained a company of young people at their home on East Superior street in honor of their friend, Miss Leigh Allison, of St. Paul. Progressive euchre was played, the prizes being won by Miss Poirier, Miss Hubbard, Mr. Patterson and Mr. Harris. Mrs. Snapp and Miss Foote sang, and after the serving of refreshments there was dancing. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Snapp, Misses Peyton, Hubbard, Taylor, Josephine Peyton, Poirier, Harter, Martha Peyton, Stearns, Palmer, Stella Stearns, and Messrs. Stearns, Sullivan, Dr. Barlow, Harris, Macdonald, W. R. Peyton, Ingalls, Patterson, Cowes, Leslie, Andrews, Gearhart and O'Kavanagh.

On Thursday afternoon Miss Belle Simonds gave an afternoon reception at her home on West Second street for a number of her young lady friends. Among those present were: Misses Julia Chapin, Elizabeth Spencer, Clara Bull, Jerome, Virginia LaVaque, Mollie Bradley, McDonald, Frances Edwards, Ella Fitzgerald, Florence Ames, Clara Ames and Bernice Crowley.

On Tuesday evening the Upham-Fagg bridal party was entertained at dinner by Miss Maren Miller. The guests were: Misses Upham, Gertrude Markell, Sharp O'Keefe, Martha Peyton and DeCoster, of St. Paul, and Messrs. Fagg, Pollock, of Salt Lake City; Farrington, Culver, W. R. Peyton, A. W. Hartman, Buntin and Dean Burke.

On Monday evening T. J. C. Fagg, Jr., gave his farewell bachelor's dinner at the Kitchi Gammi club. It was a very happy affair. Those present besides the host were: Messrs. C. W. Culver, A. W. Hartman, W. C. Farrington, W. R. Peyton, D. C. Buntin, Dean Burke, E. B. Fagg, Judge T. J. C. Fagg and Maj. Upham.

Mr. and Mrs. Schuyler Colfax, of South Bend, Ind., arrived in the city yesterday from Stillwater. They were married there on Thursday, the bride being Miss Catherine Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Nelson, and one of the most prominent young society people of that city. She has a number of friends in Duluth. The groom is the only son of the late ex-Vice President Schuyler Colfax, and is president of the Colfax Manufacturing company, of South Bend, Ind. The bride was presented by the groom's mother with a necklace of pearls which had been in her possession since her wedding day, when she received it from her husband, the late ex-vice president. Mr. and Mrs. Colfax will spend about two weeks on the lakes.

The pupils of Mark C. Baker gave one of the most pleasant musicals of the season in the First Methodist church last night, and the lecture room was crowded by an audience that testified its appreciation by warm applause. The selections of the pupils were pleasing and they were rendered in a manner that reflected credit both to them and to their tutor.

The program consisted of thirteen numbers, beginning with a selection by the women of Gounod choir. The prominent features of the entertainment were three versions of "Thou Art Like Unto a Flower," by Schumann, Chadwick and Rubinstein, sung by H. G. Cable, D. G. Black and F. M. Stephenson, and the work of Henry O. Leavitt, a promising pupil of Mr. Baker's.

Two very interesting musicales will be given at the Congregational church July 10 and 16, by Mrs. William Hunter Brown, a prominent New York pianist, who is visiting friends in the city and who has been induced to appear while here in two recitals. Mrs. Brown is a pupil of W. C. Sherwood, Xaver Schwarwenka and the great Raphael Joseffy. She has for a number of years been prominent in musical circles in New York and vicinity, appearing in a large number of fashionable musicales. Those Duluth people who have been so fortunate as to hear her, pronounce her one of the most brilliant pianists that ever visited Duluth, possessing a great technique, breadth of style, great feeling and a touch of unsurpassed beauty. Her program includes all the standard piano numbers by Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Lizst, Brahm, Greig, Schumann, Chopin and others. One particularly interesting number which she has promised to play is the Wagner-Lizst arrangement from "Tristan and Isolde."

She will be assisted by a number of Duluth's local artists, among them the always popular Miss McKenzie, who will sing the aria from Verdi's "Traviata" at the first recital. The concerts will be given under auspices of Duluth Union of Christian Endeavor.

ENDED SUDDENLY.

Parnell and Fobare started in to have a 15-round glove contest at the Parlor theater last night. In the fifth round Fobare's right found Parnell's nose in a surprisingly sudden manner, causing quite a severe concussion. Parnell went to the floor and remained there long enough for the referee to count him out, so the fight was given to Fobare.

The U. S. Government Tests Show the Absolute Superiority of Royal Baking Powder.

(Data from the latest Official U. S. Government Report on Baking Powders, Department of Agriculture, Bulletin 13, page 599.)

ROYAL is placed first of the cream of tartar powders; actual strength, 160.6 cubic inches of leavening gas per ounce of powder.

Every other powder tested exhibited a much lower strength than the Royal, the average being 33 per cent. less.

Every other powder likewise showed the presence of alum or sulphuric acid.

The claim that this report shows any other powder of superior strength or purity has been denounced as a falsehood by the Government officers who made the tests.

THE CINCINNATI MINE.

It Will Also be a Shipper This Season.

Another Biwabik mine will enter the shipping list this season, says the Mesaba Range. Capt. Harry Roberts came over from McKinley and at once began preparations for opening up the Cincinnati. He informed the Range that he has taken the contract to place the ore on cars and that he expects to have at least a hundred men at work within two weeks. A corporation, to be known as the Minnesota Ore company, has been organized for the purpose of handling this property. It has no connection whatever with the Minnesota Iron company, notwithstanding the similarity in names. The members of the company will probably be known in time.

One of the first things necessary is a bridge across the east cut of the Biwabik mine, so that cars can be backed in to No. 10 shaft. Most of the ore will be hoisted from this shaft in future. This news will be received with considerable satisfaction by the people of Biwabik. The Cincinnati being an underground mine there is a chance that a large number of men will be employed the year round, and it is expected that the opening of this mine will have a tendency to draw a better class of miners to the community.

A contract of considerable importance to Biwabik will soon be let by the Biwabik Bessemer company. It is proposed to unite the east and west cuts of the mine during the coming fall and winter, and Superintendent Shilling recently invited proposals for doing the work. This will necessitate the removal of 300,000 yards of earth. It is understood that Nils Elisburg, Winston Bros. & Dear and the Drake & Stratton company have made or will make bids on the job. Evidently the present strong demand for iron and the outlook for a considerable advance in the price of ore next year has encouraged the Bessemer company to undertake the work at once.

ASKS HIS DISCHARGE.

An Assignee Who is Without an Estate.

In special term of district court this morning William Butler asked the court to release him from his duties as assignee of J. B. Connors. He complained that soon after his appointment the Duluth Shoe company came along and levied on the entire estate, selling it at auction to satisfy the company's claim.

He has demanded his charge of the company and of the sheriff, but his demands have been productive of "nil." As they did not leave him even enough to prosecute a suit for the recovery of the estate, he fails to see the object of continuing as assignee, so he asked the court to release him. Judge Moer signed an order for the creditors to show cause July 27 why he should not be discharged.

Before Judge Lewis a motion for a new trial was made by the plaintiff in the case of John S. Hadley, who was hurt on the incline in February, 1893, against the Duluth Street railway. The point involved is whether the road at that time was a common carrier, the defense claiming that it was not because it did not take fares and the plaintiff contending that that made no difference. The motion was taken under advisement.

A demurrer was sustained in the case of August G. Grochau against the Church of St. Anthony of Padua on the ground that the causes of action were not properly joined in the complaint. The plaintiff was given twenty days in which to serve an amended complaint.

In the matter of the assignment of F. E. Butts & Co. the assignee's final report was allowed and he was discharged.

In the matter of the assignment of W. S. Albertson the hearing of the assignee's final account was set for July 27.

Special terms will be held July 6, 27 and August 17, after which the regular weekly terms will be held. The terms of July 13, 20 and August 3 and 10 will be omitted.

FOURTH OF JULY.

Citizens Committee is Arranging for a Celebration.

A citizens' committee has taken up the work of having a Fourth of July celebration, and the Pavilion has relinquished the task of arranging it, but will provide the funds. A preliminary meeting was held at the office of E. C. Gridley this morning and committees were appointed and initiatory steps taken. Mr. Gridley has consented to act as chairman. The following is the general committee: Col. William Colville, Mayor Ray T. Lewis, B. F. Howard, Judge Page Morris, Rev. C. H. Patton, Hon. J. D. Ensign, Hon. C. P. Stearns, T. W. Hugo, C. F. Johnson, W. Buchanan, George Spencer, Ward Ames, I. E. West, N. A. Gearhart, E. B. Paxton, V. S. Wilkinson, Herbert Warren, James T. Hale, John Panton, C. M. Hill, Col. A. A. Harris, Maj. W. B. Welles, W. E. Richardson, C. A. Long, C. P. Craig, J. L. Greatsinger, D. M. Philbin, C. M. Vance, W. C. Farrington, George C. Smith, T. M. Clarke, F. W. Wilsey, William Orr, A. C. Weiss, Emil Schmied, A. E. Chantler, R. C. Mitchell, A. B. Lange, Mrs. E. M. Bangs, S. C. Murphy, M. Wasenberg, T. W. Lonegren, Joseph Grahamer, Jacob Laux, T. F. X. Beaudet and O. N. Lundberg.

From these the following executive committee has been selected: E. C. Gridley, W. Buchanan, John Panton, C. A. Long, W. E. Richardson, H. Warren, A. C. Weiss, Hon. Ray T. Lewis, Judge Page Morris and C. H. Patton.

Sub-committees have been provided for and chairmen appointed, they to name the other members. They are as follows: Transportation, W. Buchanan, chairman; music, C. P. Craig, chairman; program, speakers, etc., Page Morris, chairman; fireworks, Ward Ames, chairman; decorations, W. B. Welles; advertising, H. Warren, C. A. Long and A. C. Weiss.

The use of the Pavilion has been tendered to the committee and also the services of the City band and orchestra. In addition to this $1000 worth of fireworks will be furnished to the committee. These will be sent off from the hill near the Pavilion. The transportation committee hopes to get a half-fare rate from the railroads and trains on the Iron Range and Missabe & Northern railroads to take the people from the ranges home.

Chairman Gridley has called a meeting of the general committeee for Monday morning at 10 o'clock at his office in The Herald building, and desires that everyone be on hand.

Big Mining Options.

The Chicago and Minnesota Ore company has secured options for the purchase of iron lands in 58-17, the property known as the Cincinnati mine, for $300,000. The options are three in number and they run until Nov. 10, 1895. They also contain the privilege of a 30-year lease at a royalty of 20 cents on a minimum output of 75,000 tons.

The options are as follows: From F. E. Searle, a 16-30 interest, $106,667; from Jacob R. Myers, of Galveston, Texas, a 7-30 interest, $46,666.50; from F. W. Paine, a 7-30 interest, $46,666.50.

RIGHT-OF-WAY QUARREL.

The city and the St. Paul & Duluth railroad are having a quarrel over the possession of Tenth avenue west. The board of public works built a sidewalk over the tracks at about Tenth avenue west. The road tore it up and ordered the contractors off, claiming it owned the property. The city claims to own the street and will assert its rights and bring the road to time.

LAST EVENING'S BLAZE.

At 10:20 o'clock last night fire broke out in the attic at Miss Ann Wilson's boarding house at 207 West Second street, supposedly from the upsetting of a lamp in the attic. The fire was promptly put out. The damage will not be very great.

H. CLAY EVANS HERE.

H. Clay Evans, the Republican leader in Tennessee, arrived in Duluth last evening from Chattanooga and left on the Eastern Minnesota train this noon for St. Paul. Mr. Evans was accompanied by the Misses N. and A. Evans and registered at the Spalding.

Willie Aronson's Parents Begin Habeas Corpus Proceedings.

They Claim He Was Not Fairly Tried Before Judge Edson.

The Father Claims He Was Refused Admission to the Jail.

A few days ago William Aronson was arrested for stealing some small articles of jewelry from Miss M. A. Walsh, and was ordered to the reform school by Judge Edson. This morning a writ of habeus corpus brought young Aronson before Judge Lewis upon the application of J. M. McClintock, the attorney employed by the boy's parents.

The application for the writ was made yesterday, and the writ was ordered by Judge Lewis returnable this morning. The application was based upon the following charges: "That the said Willie Aronson, an infant of the age between 8 and 9 years, was tried by W. D. Edson, judge of the municipal court, on the charge of petit larceny; that he was tried by the court without a jury, as was his right and privilege; that said defendant did not waive his right to trial by jury; that the defendant was not represented by counsel and being an infant of tender years was not informed of his rights and privileges in the premises; that the defendant's parents were not present at the trial and were not informed that defendant was to be tried."

The records show that young Aronson was arrested on the morning of June 25, and tried in the afternoon. There was no jury or counsel, and the boy was found guilty. The witnesses for the state were Miss Walsh, Robert Benson and Thomas Hayden, and Annie Aronson, a sister of the boy, was examined by the city attorney for the defense. She works at O-at-ka beach, and the first intimation of the trial the parents claim to have had was when she came home after the trial and told them of it.

It is also claimed that the father of the boy called at the jail to see him and was refused admittance. Judge Lewis took the matter under advisement this morning, stating that he would make his decision this afternoon.

Kinney Was Fined.

In the municipal court this morning, before Judge Edson, Harry Hendrickson was given ten days for drunkenness, and Ole Lindberg, for his second offense, was given his choice between $20 or thirty days. Frank Erickson and Thomas Flinerty, who had been caught sleeping in freight cars, were given suspended sentences. Edward Kinney for illegal liquor selling on Park Point, got $50 and costs. Charles Johnson and Bill Mihalsky, for obstructing Martin street, were dismissed on removing the nuisance.

Frank R. Leslie and Charles J. McBride received a bran new sail boat today. It is a sloop-rigged boat, twenty-six feet over all, and eight feet beam. The hull was built at Minnetonka by Dyer and she was finished at White Bear lake by Ramaley. She will be called "Stranger," and her owners say that she will show her heels to anything now in the harbor.

Dr. Carver Coming.

Three members of the Central Gun club returned from the Brainerd Gun club's tournament this morning. They captured the following prizes in the averages: Wojeck, a gold headed cane; Bonehill, a fine meerschaum pipe, and Shell, a gent's easy chair. They also won cash prizes in nearly all the events. The boys met Dr. Carver and he assured them that he would surely be on hand in Duluth on July 4 and 5.

MUST PAY TAXES.

Decision of Interest to Minnesota Building Societies.

St. Paul, June 29.—In response to a leter of inquiry from State Auditor Dunn, Attorney General Childs today gave out an opinion that the property of National Building and Loan associations, including the shares of stock, should be assessed for taxation, as provided by the law of last winter. The associations are endeavoring to escape the taxation by claiming the law is invalid, and the final decision on this question makes a big difference to the state and to the counties in which these national associations are doing business.

In Minneapolis it is said the Nationals own not less than $1,000,000 worth of property, which is not now taxed, but would be under ordinary conditions. In St. Paul there is not so much of it, but more than there should be. There is a question as to the validity of the law and the matter will be tested in the courts. It is necessary that the assessments in Mineapolis be made today, as it is the day upon which they close. The attorney general also holds that the property of the Norwegian Young Men's Christian association in Minneapolis is liable for taxes.

COAL SELLING LOW.

Coal is now retailing lower than ever before at this time of the year. It is bringing only $5.50 a ton for all the ordinary sizes. The dealers are handling all of it strictly on a cash basis, and claim this is the only way the business can be done satisfactorily.

THE ALHAMBRAS.

This Vaudeville Company at the Lyceum Next Saturday.

The big Alhambra Vaudeville company will appear at the Lyceum Saturday, July 6. This is the same company that just closed a highly successful six-weeks' engagement at the Metropolitan Opera house, the most fashionable theater in St. Paul. In the organization are such talented vaudeville artists as Bernard Dyllyn, the descriptive baritone singer; Pete Baker, the well-known German comedian; the O'Brien sisters, skirt dancers; May Walsh, the character singer and comedienne; Princess Glorlana, the juggler; Hugh Emmet, the eminent ventriloquist; Hanley, Logan and Hanley, the comedy sketch artists; Joe Hardman, the singing comedian; Miles and Ireland, the Irish dancers; Musical Morgan and Professor Beeb. This is one of the most expensive attractions ever booked for this city and the audience should completely fill the house. The entertainment will be a revelation to the theater-goers of this city, as it is a positive novelty of the highest quality.

The vaudeville form of entertainment has become so popular with the best people in New York and other Eastern cities, that some of the most fashionable theaters have been given over entirely to that class of shows during the past two or three seasons. In the high class vaudeville show, such as is presented by the Alhambras, there is nothing in the least offensive, but every act is as refined as it is clever and enjoyable. During the six weeks' run of the Alahambras at the Metropolitan in St. Paul they were patronized by the elite of the city, and the theater was packed to the doors at nearly every performance.

THE PAVILION THEATER.

Fine Attractions Secured For Fourth of July Week.

The Japs made their final appearance at the Pavilion last evening after a very successful engagement of a week. Diana, the chameleon dancer, who has been all the rage this week, has been re-engaged for another seven days, an announcement which will be heard with great pleasure. The popularity she has attained this week surpasses anything known at the Pavilion.

Several new attractions are also engaged for next week. The three Racket brothers will give musical novelties. They get music out of almost anything. Spence, a lightning cartoonist, will astonish everyone with his wonderful pictures. Miss Braham, a ballad singer, will delight the musical people. The O'Brien sisters will also be here and will do some fine dancing and juggling.

EXPERTS ON IRON ORE.

Their Coming Visit to the Mesaba Iron Range.

A Washington dispatch says: John Birkinbine, of Philadelphia, who is the recognized iron authority of the United States, having charge of the government of most of the publications concerning that great industry, will leave in a week for the Lake Superior iron region. He will go first to the Mesaba range, where he will thoroughly examine the conditions of the ore bodies for the United States geological survey. He will be accompanied by Charles Kirchoff, editor of the Iron Age, the leading organ of the iron industry in the United States, and himself a noted iron specialist, and David Williams, of New York, who is the publisher and proprietor of the Iron Age.

From the Mesaba country the party will proceed to Michigan and visit the Gogebic, Marquette and Menominee iron regions, passing in all about one month in the Lake Superior country. This trip will be of great importance in determining the exact facts concerning the Mesaba iron development. These gentlemen are recognized as, by all odds, the best informed scientific iron experts in the country.

Mr. Birkinbine will prepare an exhaustive report upon his trip for official publication by the government, and Mr. Kirchoff will write letters to the Iron Age concerning it.

MUSICIANS TOOK A RIDE.

Seventeen of the young ladies comprising the Clara Schuman orchestra, rode out to Lester Park this morning on the tally-ho. The party, which was chaperoned by Manager Alexander, left the Tremont about 9:30 and returned at noon. The engagement of the orchestra closes tonight, and after the performance the young ladies will leave for Chicago.

THE HENRIETTA.

A polar bear at the equator or an ostrich in Alaska would not be much more out of place or attract more attention than a stern-wheel steamboat on Lake Superior, says the Sault Ste. Marie News. Nevertheless, a stern-wheeler, better known to lake people as a mud toboggan, drifted into the Sault canal, a few days ago, bound from Oshkosh to Duluth. "Henrietta from Kaukauna" was on her stern, and further back than that was a big "pusher-along" wheel, 14 feet in diameter and 16 feet long. On the sides of the Henrietta, once in big letters, but now paled by a coat of white wash or skimmilk, was the legend "Line Boat Green Bay, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac." Now Oshkosh and Fond du Lac are generally associated with Pickford or Port Dunlap lake ports. This is all wrong. They are on Lake Winnebago, which is a shallow inland body of water, 35 miles long and 12 miles wide.

The Henrietta draws 3 feet and has upper works like a bowery tenement house. She is 140 feet long over all and 26 feet beam, and can make ten miles an hour in real water, while in thin mud or on a heavy bed she can go faster than a cow walks. When she was first built sixteen years ago she developed a speed of 15 miles an hour, 'tis said, but her steam allowance has been cut down to 100 pounds. She has had a license for 300 passengers, and once she carried 700 people from Oshkosh to Fond du Lac and back, on an excursion. In fact, the Henrietta was the floating palace of Lake Winnebago and the crack craft of the Fox and Wolf rivers.

She was purchased recently by B. B. Inman, of Duluth, and will ply in Duluth and Superior harbors and up the St. Louis river to Fond du Lac, eighteen miles from the mouth, where the falls are encountered. Captain Josh Marlee who once hailed from Bay City, was in charge of the Henrietta. She was a sight to behold in these waters, and hundreds flocked to see her, while the stories of old Mississippi days and races wherein hams were used as fuel came to hand as natural as life. No such craft was ever before locked through the "Soo" canal.

THE BANNER OF LIGHT.

Editor of a Great Paper Cured by Paine's Celery Comoound.

The Banner of Light is, as every one knows, one of the most successful denominational publications issued in this country.

In its 77th volume it is at once conservative and bright, discussing not only modern spiritualism, but frequently lending its influence fearlessly in matters of public importance outside its principal field.

John W. Day, who is the editor and one of the proprietors, writes in the Banner of Light as follows to the proprietors of Paine's celery compound:

"I owe you a debt of gratitude in placing on the market such a nerve-easing and soothing remedy as Paine's celery compound. It was brought to my notice by a friend who had himself been greatly relieved by its use, as I have also been.

"I have frequently taken occasion to commend Paine's celery compound to others, and I do not know an instance wherein, if faithfully tried, it has not worked a benefit. Yours truly,

"John W. Day."

Mr. Day's portrait is given above. He is a member of the Masonic, Odd Fellows, Grand Army and other fraternal organizations, and is highly esteemed by his brethren and others in the social walks of life.

His gratitude for the good that this greatest of remedies has done him is in no sense remarkable. Thousands who have been made well by Paine's celery compound have sent their unsolicited testimonials to the proprietors of the remedy or direct to medical journals or newspapers telling for the benefit of others the results that have followed the use of the remedy that is food for the nerves and brain, that enriches the blood, that makes the weak strong, and is the one never-failing specific prescribed by physicians and recommended by all who have ever faithfully used it, for insomnia, nervous debility, neuralgia, rheumatism, indigestion and the many ills that come from deranged, worn-out nerves and impure blood.

ORDER

It is Heaven's First Law and no Harmony Without It.

The Great Harp of Humanity Has Got Out of Tune.

The Ballot or the Bullet Must Eventually Settle the Question.

"Order is heaven's first law." Without order there cannot be harmony. Nature is a harmonious whole. The planets in their courses are subject to the great law of order, or the universe could not exist in its present state of harmonious activity, for it is all subject to the law of action. Activity means life, and universal life permeates every atom in its composition, and as life implies activity every atom composing a planet is in a state of activity and every planet as a unit is in a state of activity, making the universe an active whole; therefore without order in its motions, dire disaster would be the inevitable result, collisions amongst the planets would necessarily occur and chaos would reign. God holds His universe in order, but to us His children, whom He has endowed with a portion of His spirit, having a portion of His power within us, He has given this small planet which we call the earth in which to develop our latent power, and grow into what it is possible for us to become through that God-given power, and while we grow, the earth is ours to use, the hidden mysteries of nature are ours to find out, and the great natural powers therein, ours to bring into subjection to ourselves, turning them into obedient servants to be used for our benefit, whilst we are expected to keep that over which we have been given control, equally adjusted and evenly balanced so that harmonious condition may ensue.

Now let us pause and take a bird's-eye-view of our work. Upon some of it methinks God can smile and declare "it is good," but over the rest the pitying angels must weep. We see man subduing the powers of nature, Animal and vegetable life are brought into subjection to him, but himself he cannot subdue. He can control the savage beasts of the jungle, but his own fierce passions he cannot restrain. He can take a fortified city, but he cannot hold his own baser desires in check, and so we see on every hand discord and inharmony, things are not equally adjusted and revolution and anarchy will inevitably result. God holds the balance of power, and if we do not speedily harmonize existing conditions, He will visit us in wrath and the nation's sins will come down upon her own head with dire result bringing confusion and calamity upon us. Gold has become the god of the nation, and to procure it, men on every hand are selling their birthright. All that belongs to God is ours and we are willing to sell it for a miserable mess of pottage. Oh! Men of infinite possibilities, why will you chase after a shadow when you might have the substance? Lift up your eyes and see what God holds in store for you, open the windows of your souls toward Jerusalem, unfold your spiritual nature, no longer grovel in the mire with the swine, but climb the mountain heights and gaze around you while you drink in great draughts of the pure life-giving air that dwells in its higher altitude, and when you have seen the vision that will there unfold before your wondering, worshiping gaze, life will mean more to you than it now does, you will see that you are not creatures of a day, but that you always did and always will exist, that you are immortal and that this is not all there is of life, and you will come down to your proper level as a citizen of the world, humbled in your own estimation of yourself as an important personage amongst men, but infinitely exalted in the knowledge of your power as a spirit to live forever in higher and better conditions. For not only is this world yours, but likewise the infinite universe is yours to explore, and as you have risen from lower conditions to the plane of elevation which you now enjoy, so may you yet rise to still higher and brighter.

If mankind would but learn their true relationship to each other and to God, unselfishness would be the rule instead of the exception as it now is; when we learn that we cannot push another man down without dragging ourselves after him, and cannot lift another up without giving ourselves also an uplift, then will we see how intimately are we connected with each other and altruism will be the governing principle of the race, whilst conditions such as now harass and depress us cannot exist.

The God-power inherent in man has enabled him to do much toward the bettering of his conditions, and when men will cultivate that power along higher lines than for their own selfish interest, humanity will receive a mighty uplift. Things have progressed wonderfully since the days of our rude forefathers who lived in mud huts and covered themselves with the undressed skins of animals. Man is a creator, and is but exercising his God-given power as a part of the great Creator when he creates articles of use and beauty for himself, and he has all the way along been developing that innate power until today we see him harnessing the great forces of nature and utilizing them for his own comfort and benefit. He tills the soil and grows grains and vegetables for his use, he uses the limitless resources of nature to provide clothes for himself, and is always finding out something new in animal or plant life or out in the great economy of nature from which to provide new articles of use. Instead of the rude torch or tallow dip of a few centuries back, today we harness the lightning to do our bidding, making it carry us where we wish to go and also light us on our way. We send messages across the sea on its swift wings, and through its kindly and powerful medium, we talk our natural tones to friends many miles distant. We put bands upon steam and compel it to carry us around the globe, traveling upon land or water with equal ease. We dig into the bowels of the earth, and bring from its vast storehouse gold and silver and iron and copper which we manufacture and put to many and varied uses for our convenience and comfort, finding in this great underground repository, coal to fill the powerful engines which drive the ponderous machinery in our vase manufactories, with kerosene for lighting and heating purposes. We have created gigantic printing presses and the news of the world flashed with lightning swiftness across continents is transcribed and disseminated amongst the people almost as soon as it occurs. We have invented wonderfully powerful telescopes through which we can study the appearance and movements of planets many millions of miles distant from our earth, and many other wonders have we accomplished; truly we have grown marvelously in power, especially within the last century, and upon all of this God surely smiles well pleased. But we are not equally balanced, we are out of harmony individually and as a whole; we have cultivated the intellectual at the expense of the spiritual, the head at the expense of the heart, and so we have become cruelly cold and selfish, and note the condition.

Misery turns her dumb appealing eyes to us in every direction; wretchedness and want confront us on all sides; ragged children, care-worn women and desperate men are everywhere to be found; things are not equally balanced, they are unevenly adjusted. 'Order is the law of heaven," and heaven means a condition of perfect harmony, and we are out of harmony. The great harp of humanity has got out of tune; some strings are drawn taut whilst others are lax. We see a multi-millionaire dressed in rich garments, riding in his splendidly equipped carriage behind a pair of high stepping steeds, and, looking after him with hunger in his eyes, an honest man, the noblest work of God, who has not got a penny with which to buy a roll to break his fast. He has waited all day and been turned from every door with a gruff "no men wanted here." He is ashamed to beg, and if he did he would be imprisoned. He cannot find work, and must return to the poor shelter he calls home, to tell his weary overburdened wife and hungry crying children that he has no bread for them, and can find no work. Can you wonder that his body is found next morning floating in the river, from which it finds its way to the potter's field?

An elegantly-dressed woman in a beautiful home spends $1000 on a party given for the favorite lap dogs of her wealthy lady friends, while a block away a despairing mother lays down her sewing, for which she receives 20 cents a day, to close the dead eyes which stare with such a look of hopeless entreaty in them, of the helpless baby who was so dear to that mother-heart, but, alas, she could not give it food enough to keep the spirit within its frail tenement. And even now she has no time to weep, she must pick up again the garment on which she is at work, to keep life in her other children. In an elegantly-appointed home we see the pampered children of fortune playing with Parisian dolls which each cost a small fortune, while the children of poverty, notwithstanding the fact of their tender years, are compelled to work all day from early morn till late at night in large factories whose stifling air means death to their bodies and whose moral atmosphere means blight to their souls.

Things are not evenly balanced, the harp is out of tune, and where is God? Will his longsuffering poor call upon him forever in vain? I tell you if we do not harmonize conditions God will call us to account, and awful will be the result. Our nation has once already reaped the awful consequences of oppressing the weak, and she is again following in her old footsteps, and vengeance swift and terrible will surely overtake her if she turns not while there is yet time. The ballot or the bullet must eventually settle the question, and God alone knows if the ballot has yet time. When the men who rule the nation put the ballot into the hands of those individuals only who are competent by education to use, irrespective of color or sex, then and then only can we affirm that the voice of the people is the voice of God. Today intelligent women are not allowed to vote because of the fact that they are women, and intelligent negroes are not allowed to vote because their skin is black, but a dude without brains, a rough, illiterate boor who can neither read nor write, and a drunken, lying blasphemer are all accorded the privileges of the ballot, and then we shout "Vox Populi, Vox Dei!" and groan under the conditions we have imposed upon ourselves.

Can we wonder that things are as they are, that the poor are downtrodden and oppressed, when mammon is the nation's god; that wealth rules with iron hand, while poverty cringes like a whipped slave. But I tell you the tears and groans of God's oppressed children are crying to heaven for vengeance, while a just God is listening, and retributive justice will be meted out. So let nation beware. The horrible carnage of war, the groans of the wounded and dying, and the sobbing of the widow and orphans have already been heard within our borders, and if the vital question is not settled, by peaceable measures, and order and harmony restored, the rattle of musketry, the clash of arms and the hoarse din of battle with all its attendant horrors will again resound in our loved land, and the nation will lose many of her fairest sons.

ABOUT MERMAIDS.

All the world over there are legends about mermaids. The Chinese tell stories not unlike others about the seawoman of their southern seas. Mankind is taught on the most excellent evidence that a mermaid was captured at Bangor on the shores of the Belfast Lough, in the sixth century, while another caught at Edam, in 1406, was carried to Haarlem and kept there for many years.

WOMAN'S WORK.

Pack! pack! pack!
Into trunks so large and stout,
And pack! pack! pack!
To keep the wrinkles out,
But oh, the man of the house!
Oh, where, oh, where is he!
He just "makes tracks," for he never packs,
And he simply laughs in glee!

SPORTING

Junior Four of the Duluth Boat Club Has Been Selected.

Barnes, McPhail, Ballou and Calhoun Are the Lucky Young Men.

They Sleep at the Boat House and Are in Hard Training.

The Duluth Boat club's junior four and double crews have been chosen, and the choice is a happy one in all respects. The crews are made up of excellent material, and the members are not only in excellent form now, but they give promise from their work of something out of the ordinary after they have been rowing together a sufficient length of time.

The junior four is composed as follows: Julius Barnes, bow; Sydney McPhail, 2; H. D. Ballou, 3; Guy Calhoun, stroke. The junior double will be rowed by Dr. King and Frank Thompson. It has been a matter of several weeks to make a final decision on the crews, although a month ago it was known that the above would be somewhere near the personnel of the junior four.

The choice, now that is made, is agreed by all to be an excellent one. Each of the crews shows the result of the careful training he has undergone during the winter and spring, and while several of them have not rowed until this season they are all good men and give promise of excellent work.

The junior four is rowing an average of twelve miles a day now and this will be increased within a short time. The members are sleeping at the boat club, and every man is up and in the shell by 6 o'clock in the morning. Formerly, when the men slept at home, it was difficult to get all around on time. They are making good time now and they have yet five weeks of hard work before them in which to make still better time.

Trainer Mahoney is fixing up the cedar shell, and another crew will be picked to row against the juniors in their practice rows. King and Thompson are also doing good work, and the chances are very favorable in both crews if they continue as faithful to their work in the next five weeks as they have been heretofore.

"Shell" represented Duluth at the Minneapolis Gun club tournament this week and did it well, securing money prizes in seventeen events out of the twenty he entered. His average was 253 out of a possible 300. While there he engaged Dr. Carver, the well known marksman, to give an exhibition both days of the tournament at Spirit Lake next Thursday and Friday. Preparations are nearly completed for the tournament, and it is certain to be a huge success.

This afternoon Brainerd and Duluth are crossing bats on the diamond at Thirtieth avenue west and Superior street, trying conclusions again after a winter's rest. Last season there were a number of decidedly warm games between them, and it was not decided when the season closed which was the better team.

Brainerd has a rattling amateur club and barring Duluth, it is probably the best in the state, so the games will be decidedly the best this season so far. Today is ladies' day, and ladies are admitted free. The game will be called at 3:30 tomorrow afternoon.

The Duluth club will line up as follows: Connors, catcher; Morris, pitcher; Fitch, short stop; Lackie, first base; Girard, second base; Springer, third base; Neff, right field; Nelson, center field; Baimer, left field.

Sam Atkinson has been appointed manager of the Duluth club. He is an old base ball man, and will be able to smooth out the wrinkles satisfactorily.

Next week, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the St. Paul Pickets will play.

Thursday afternoon the High School nine was defeated by the Duluth club by a score of 19 to 9.

The Trades assembly will fit up the grounds at Fond du Lac for field day sports on Labor day.

ABOUT HOTEL BILLS.

"How much shall I make out your bill for?" inquired the country hotel clerk, as the guest was leaving, says the New York Herald.

"Make it out for what I owe," replied the man, a little surprised.

"The bill is $6," continued the clerk with an ingratiating smile, "but I'd just as soon make it out for $9 or $10. It's all the same to us."

"Perhaps it is," the puzzled guest exclaimed, "but it isn't to me. Why should I pay $9 or $10 when my bill is $6?"

"Aren't you a drummer?" the clerk suddenly demanded.

"Certainly not." There was a pause, and then the guest suddenly demanded: "What's all this business about fake bills, anyway?"

"We always make out bills 'to suit' for drummers," explained the clerk, "so's they can come out even on their expense accounts. A traveling man who pays up $6 can get a receipt for $10 if he likes, and when he settles with his employers he shows them the receipted bill and pockets the difference. I thought you were a drummer."

"No, I'm not," replied the guest, "but I know a good many drummers. In fact, I employ about a hundred, and I notice that when they come to this town they always stop at this hotel, I observe, also, that it's a $2 joint and that I'm always charged $3.50. Never mind, though, I'll lay for the next man who stops here."

And as he went out the clerk looked as if he thought he had put his foot right in it and the foot was held there.

FOUND THE MISSING WORD.

Louisville Courier Journal: A hotel clerk told this story: Three men from the country came into the hotel and registered for lodging, and a few minutes later two of them went out to see the town. "I will stay here," said the third, "and look at things," and he took a seat near the door.

At 10 o'clock, a half hour later, the man who was left went up to the clerk. "I want to remain," said he.

"All right, sir," answered the clerk. The man stood and looked at the clerk and finally went back to his chair near the door.

He sat still another hour and returned to the desk. "If you please, I'll remain," he said.

"That's all right, sir," was the response. "We hope you'll be with us some time." The man hesitated and went back to his chair.

It was away after midnight when he went up to the clerk for the third time. "I think I'll remain, sir," he said.

"We have no objections," answered the man behind the desk.

The guest did not go back to his chair, however, but stood still. Shortly afterward another guest came up and asked the clerk for his key, "and I'll retire—"

"Retire! Retire! That's the word I've been trying to think of for three hours. For heaven's sake let me retire," interrupted the man who had so desired to remain, and he was at last happy.

BEAUTIFUL SHOULDERS.

The English woman shines out more resplendently in ball dress than at any other time, says an American writer abroad. She usually has fine shoulders and neck, and one is frequently amazed to see at dinner or dance some young girl who three hours before had looked actually dowdy and common-place in her street attire. There is nothing dowdy now. The queen-like head and neck, the strong, graceful shoulders and well-rounded bust, all glistening pink and white, make her seem a different woman, and fit in every way to inspire those poets from Herrick to Dobson who have delighted to sing the praises of the English maiden. If the English woman always looked as well as they do in evening dress, I fancy the American girls would not have found conquests so easy in English society.

CHURCHES

Special Musical Service at Congregational Church Tomorrow Night.

Choir Will Render a Fine Program of Anthems and Solos.

Asbury Methodist Church Will Celebrate its Sixth Anniversary.

Letters have been sent to all the people of Pilgrim Congregational church urging their attendance Sunday morning, when Rev. C. H. Patton will preach upon "Christian Statesmanship," and when the annual offering will be made for the Congregational Home Missionary society. In the evening the Pilgrim choir will give the second in the series of their special musical serfices. The first service of this kind was given last month and will be remembered pleasantly by all of the large audience which attended. The music for the service next Sunday evening will be even more attractive and there will be more of it. The choir, under the leadership of Mr. Drake, will render two responses and two anthems. The soloist will be Miss McKenzie, who will sing the "Ave Maria" from "Cavalleria Rusticana." Two hymns will be sung by the congregation, the latter suggesting the theme of the sermon, "The Spiritual Influence of the Twilight." The closing anthem will enforce the truth of the sermon, and the service will close by Stainer's famous "Sevenfold Amen," sung by the choir while the heads of the people are still bowed after the benediction. Printed programs will be provided. The full musical order is appended:

Prelude—"Offertoire in C,".. ....Tours
Response—"Hear My Prayer, O Lord" ....A. G. Drake
Response—"For His Mercy Endureth Forever."
Hymn—"Come, Let Us Join Our Cheerful Songs."
Anthem—"I Will Magnify Thee,".. ....Mosenthal
Solo—"Ave Maria" from "Cavalleria Rusticana" ....Mascagni
Miss McKenzie.
Offertoire—"Communion in G,"..... ....Batiste
Hymn—"Tarry With Me, O My Saviour."
Anthem—"The Mellow Eve is Gliding,".. ....Holden
Sevenfold Amen..... ....Stainer
Postlude—"March in E Flat,"..Batiste

Rev. W. W. Dawley will preach in the First Baptist church tomorrow morning on "Provoking One Another," and in the evening "Lot's Wife."

Rev. Dr. Clelland will preach at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. and 8 p.m. The choir, consisting of R. B. Doane, organist; Mrs. J. L. Snapp, soprano; Miss Fanny Calverly, alto; George Arbury, tenor, and Mark Lewis, basso, will render the following program:

COURAGEOUS OLD CHIEF.

He Assisted in Saving an Indian Baby's Life.

The lights from the hospital windows shone out a cheery welcome to the doctor returning from his round of visits to the sick of the reservation. Professional life at an Indian reservation in Northwestern Minnesota in winter is about as near an Arctic experience as one would care to encounter.

Cold is no name for it; the mercury is frozen for weeks at a time, and that means a temperature of 39 degrees below zero. The spirit thermometer alone is able to indicate the intense cold, and that often falls as low as 57 degrees below. "Bridal veils" and "sundogs" are common enough in those northern latitudes, and the intense cold is exhausting to the staunchest constitution.

It was with thoughts of the warm fireside and a good supper that the doctor entered the hospital, only to find that an urgent call to attend a sick mother and sicker child way off six miles over the trackless prairie awaited him.

Word had been sent that Maria, a Christian Indian mother, was very ill in her cabin nursing her little infant, who was supposed to be dying. Immediate medical attendance must be afforded, but how, on such a night as this, could one hope to find her lonely cabin?

Ordering a good supper for his horse and himself partaking of a hasty meal, the doctor tried to devise some plan by which he could reach the sick. Where could a guide be found? Scarcely was supper ended, when an Indian chief came in to make a visit and have a friendly smoke. He was a splendid representative of an Indian; tall, broad shouldered, enduring and fearless. He was the chosen war chief of the tribe, and a devoted friend and frequent hunting companion of the doctor's.

"Well, Mee-shee-kee-gee-shig, are you ready to take a long ride across the prairie this bitter night to help save an Indian mother and her baby?"

"Geget," responded the chief, and his looks showed the willing courage and determination of the man.

The horse and cutter were soon ready, and out into the dreary night and trackless prairie went forth the doctor and the chief on their errand of mercy.

Six miles, discouraging progress, upset, floundering in snow drifts, chilled and almost thwarted in their object, they finally reached a collection of Indian cabins, so dark and deserted in appearance as not to seem as if any human being could be living there. They groped their way through a pack of snarling hounds, into Maria's little home. They called her by name, but so faint the answer one could scarcely recognize the human voice. The few hours which had elapsed since her visit to the hospital and her journey home had made her much worse, but with a mother's unselfishness she thought only of her little one.

Restoratives were quickly prepared and a bright fire burning in the stove. The poor little Indian baby seemed far too ill to make the trip to the hospital. How could it be done? There was no clothing there suitable for a night like this. The doctor speedily solved the problem. Taking off his great buffalo overcoat, he made the Indian mother put it on as best she could, and wrapping the infant as securely as possible in shawls and blankets, he placed the little patient in her mother's arms.

Over and around them they wrapped an immense buffalo robe, and carefully lifted them into the sleigh.

Mee-shee-kee-gee-shig led the horse, the doctor followed with arms extended, holding the mother and infant in the sleigh over the dreary journey. And such a journey! Floundering in the deep snow, struggling to protect his precious charge; all that saved him from the fatal results of such severe exposure was the activity of his efforts for their protection.

Faintly at last gleamed the hospital lights again over the great sheet of snow, and warm was the welcome to the weary travelers.

Fires burned brightly; hearts beat warmly; all that could be done was done to counteract the effects of the dreadful cold.

"Good night," said Mee-shee-kee-gee-shig." "Many thanks," said the doctor as he watched his friend walk off in the direction of his own cabin.

JUNE IN GEORGIA.

The weather's warm and dozy—
The winter days have fled;
The peach is looking rosy,
And the melon's heart is red.

The mocking birds are panting,
But the weather's sure to win;
For the melon's fat and juicy,
And the Peach
Comes
In

So, shout your hallelujah
When the burning days begin;
For the melon's growing heavy,
And the Peach
Comes
In

When you pull a Georgia melon you must know where you are at,
An' look out how your knife is going in!
Put one-half on this side o' you, the other half on that,
An' then you get between 'em an' begin!

Oh, they're mighty, mighty fillin' with their flamin' hearts o' red,
Like the reddest o' the roses in the South;
When cotton's down to nothin', take the place o' meat and bread—
Make the white man an' the nigger smack his mouth!

THE FEVER

A New Sort of Plague Which Has Recently Made Its Appearance.

Manifests Itself in an Uncontrollable Desire to Attend the Pavilion.

Terrible Condition of a Husband and Wife in Its Clutches.

They came into the counting room in an apologetic way as though their lives were in danger. Both were well dressed, but the man had a hunted, subdued look in his eyes which betokened breakers in the sea of connubial bliss. Gripping him firmly under the collar, she trotted him up in front of the cashier's desk and shook him until his silk tie fell off.

"We want to put in an advertisement, or rather I do," she said, correcting herself; "here it is."

The cashier took the crumpled bit of paper and read as follows: "Wanted, some good cure for Pavilion fever. Will pay well. Address Mrs. Gideon Cumback."

"That's a very peculiar advertisement, madam," said the clerk, who was beginning to doubt the sanity of his visitors.

Here Mrs. Cumback broke into tears and sobbed violently. "Its my husband," she moaned. We're trying to cure him."

Then the clerk began to grow interested and by dint of much questioning elicited the following strange story, which rivals in its peculiarity "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes."

Gideon Cumback was a prosperous merchant, with a store located on Superior street. He was making money and rapidly accumulating enough to enable him to take a trip abroad for European trip. On the day the Pavilion opened he ascended the Heights to see the show and has not missed a performance since. It was an evil day for Mr. Cumback when he first tasted the ice cream and listened to the entrancing music of the orchestra. He went home fully resolved that he had enjoyed himself sufficiently to last him a week. The next night saw him in his accustomed seat gazing blandly upon the people in the parquette and fanning himself with a program. And so it went for three weeks. The Pavilion habit kept growing on him and in the language of the song "he couldn't stay away."

He made efforts to cure himself. He would walk out for the air in the evening firmly resolved to beware of the Incline, but his feet invariably refused to obey his will, and landed him at the foot of the slope. Once he climbed out at a station half way up, but after he made the descent he returned.

Then Mrs. Cumback began to complain of being left alone during the evenings and remonstrated with her spouse about going so often. "Once or twice a week is sufficient, my dear," she said. Cumback circumvented this obstacle to his enjoyment by taking his wife with him. The same infatuation seized her, and the twain never missed a performance for two weeks.

Cumback's business began to fall off. He began to abate in his usual shrewdness at bargaining and wore a preoccupied air all the time. Gradually his customers left his store and at the rare intervals when one would drift in and inquire the price of an article, Cumback would gaze vacantly into space and hum a Pavilion air. Then, of course, the customer would use cuss-words and leave.

At home things assumed a blighted appearance. The children went about unwashed and unkempt and the house would have made a careful housewife shudder. This was all because Mrs. Cumback went to the matinees as well as the seven evening performances weekly. The neighbors expostulated and cared for the children in the meanwhile. Finally the minister came around and succeeded in inducing the worthy couple to sign a pledge promising to attend no more than three evening performances and a matinee weekly. Mr. Cumback wavered in his resolution and broke his promises.

His wife determined on using stringent measures with him and the evening following his lapse from grace she gently led him to a bedroom, locked the door and put the key in her pocket. Mr. Cumback raved in agony for a time and then remembering a feat he had seen performed by the Arabian juggler, he raised the window and descended the water spout.

That evening Mrs. Cumback began to think she might as well go and see the performance. Once more and for the last time. Her going would not be a bad example for her husband for he was under lock and key. So she went. Seated in a box surveying the bonnets of her neighbors she chanced to glance across the auditorium. What was her horror and amazement to see Mr. Cumback apparently in a delirium of bliss drinking in the music. She was at his side in an instant and together the pair descended the hill. Not a word was spoken, although both occasionally threw a sly glance backwards. They realized they must sacrifice duty to inclination. The advertisement was the result of their deliberations on the subject, after the physicians had failed to cure.

The cashier assured the anxious couple that they were not alone in their affection and that all music and amusement lovers were irrisistibly drawn up the Incline. Then advising them to limit their visits to four a week, he tore up the ad and the disconsolate couple went out hand in hand into the night afr.

LABOR

Interesting Session of the Federated Trades Assembly Last Night.

Reports on the State of Trade by the Various Unions.

President McCallum and Nearly all the Old Officials Re-Elected.

There was a large attendance at the meeting of the Federated Trades assembly at Carpenters' hall last night. The nomination and election of officers were among the business of the evening and this fact brought the delegates out in full force. President McCallum and nearly all the former officials were unanimously re-elected.

Shortly after the meeting was called to order J. W. Nichols made his appearance wearing a happy smile and a large boutonniere and ushered in seven young West Duluth ladies, Misses Alice Shannon, Gertrude Curo, Sadie Carey, Maud Coughlin, Anna Loubister, Meta Krakenberger and Etta Carey, who were to have sung at the State Federation of Labor convention Sunday but had been prevented by the inclement weather. The organ in the hall was brought into play and the girls sang a number of very pleasing selections and received a rising vote of thanks.

Then the convention proceeded to business and the reports of the unions were received. The bakers reported trade far from rushing although the men were all at work. The butchers are in clover with everyone busy. For the carpenters it was said that a good many are out this week that were at work last week. This is caused by the work being completed. President McCallum said for the cigarmakers that conditions remain unchanged except possibly for the worse. Trade for the electrical workers is not very good, although the prospects are bright.

Here a tall delegate from the longshoremen arose to report and brought down the house by his remarks. He said business was very good and the only cloud on the union's happiness was the "vampires," or non-union men, who came from other cities to work here. The local union will be enlarged to meet the demands of the work.

The stone cutting business is at a standstill. The announcement that the coopers were all working was greeted with cheers. The street car employes are all at work and the difference between one man and the company, which was reported at the last meeting, has been amicably arranged. The typos reported business dragging along in the customary way and the tailors are all busy. Only one of the theatrical stage mechanics is not employed. The West Superior Trades assembly delegate said trade across the bay is very dull. The musicians have all they can do and there are good prospects of plenty of work on the Fourth. The clerks union is slowly but surely achieving success.

At the last meeting of the steamfitters several members who had dropped out were readmitted and all are busy at present. The painters and decorators union is growing rapidly, although work is exceedingly dull. Things could not be better for the plumbers and none of the iron and steel workers are idle. Although trade is quiet all the wood workers except one are employed, and the lathers have nothing to complain of.

The committee on the formation of a Federal Labor union reported and was continued, and the committee to assist the cigarmakers was also continued. Then the committee on organization reported. Delegate Baker had been doing some missionary work among the carpenters, which met with good results and the union would receive a good number of new members in the near future.

The committee to assist the steamfitters reported they had adjusted all existing differences and were discharged. The committee to assist grocers made no report and were discharged as was the committee which had in charge the mass meeting last Saturday night.

The committee to assist the marble polishers of St. Louis reported waiting on the men employed on a local building where, it was claimed, marble quarried by non-union men was being used. All the men claimed to be union men. It was decided to prevent the St. Louis firm furnishing the marble from receiving any more orders from Duluth and the committee was continued for that purpose.

After some discussion a delay of a week was decided upon to consider the placing of a boycott on the Svenska Tribunen. Then E. R. Cobb read the minutes of the last chamber of commerce meeting, while the delegates listened attentively. The president and secretary were authorized to sign the invitation to be extended by local bodies to hold the next convention of the National Educational association in this city. Then, at the request of the locked-out Brewers and Maltsters union No. 81 at La Crosse, it was decided to avoid La Crosse beer until the troubles were settled.

A letter from Eugene V. Debs headed, Office of the President, A. R. U., Woodstock, Ill.," was read by Secretary Lounsberry and received with applause. It was in reply to the telegram of sympathy sent by the convention of the S. F. of L. last Sunday and warmly thanked the convention for its sympathy. It was decided to raise funds to assist the Building Trades council of Chicago to prosecute two indicted non-union men who had shot and killed two of the organized men without just cause. The delegates were ordered to report back to their unions on the matter. Messrs. Cobb, Haire and McCallum were appointed a committee to assist the plumbers in adjusting some differences with the McMillan establishment. It was decided to join the Engineers association of St. Paul in petitioning for the removal of State Boiler Inspector Sutton and Factory Inspector Jones. Then President McCallum, Vice President Haire and Recording Secretary Lounsberry were re-elected for six months. L. A. Warnecke was elected financial secretary over Delegate Stevick, and Fred Schoening was chosen treasurer. The old board of trustees was re-elected with Delegate Stevick in Warnecke's place. Mrs. Aitkin was made statistician. The meeting then adjourned.

The electrical workers held their regular meeting Thursday evening at Electrical Workers hall in the Banning block. The election of officers brought out an unusually large attendance. A communication from the Brotherhood of Electrical Mechanics of Chicago relative to the good of the order was considered. The committee having in charge the conduct of the boycott against the Warfield Electrical company, reported that good progress is being made. Labor Day night has been selected for the date of the dance to be given by the union. The election of officers resulted as follows: E. J. Meagher, president; W. R. Cook, vice president; Clifford Higgins, recording secretary; L. A. Warnecke, financial secretary, and R. R. Lee, treasurer. Delegates chosen to represent the union at the Federated Trades assembly were: L. V. Runkel, L. A. Warnecke and W. R. Cook.

MR. SOVEREIGN TALKS.

A Kansas City dispatch says: J. R. Sovereign, grand master of the Knights of Labor, is quartered at the Blossom house. He delivered an address at the Tabernacle in Kansas City, Kan., and another at Turner hall, corner of Twelfth and Oak streets.

Mr. Sovereign looks well and declares himself healthy, hopeful and happy. He has just come from Scranton, Kan., and tells a sorrowful story of the suffering among the miners of that region. The lengthened period of idleness has brought thousands of them to hunger and hundreds of them are actually starving. Assistance is being rendered, but there is still urgent demand for help, and that speedily.

The grand master reports the order, which is his pride, in a more prosperous condition than it has ever known. "The depression of the last two years," he said, "had serious effect. Wherever there was idleness there was lack of interest and a suspension of the lodge. But hope has revived, and with it the interest of the members of the order. Old assemblies are being strengthened, and new ones rapidly forming all over the country."

Mr. Sovereign is opposed to strikes on principle. On that subject he says: "Strikes never do any permanent good. I do not expect that this country will ever witness another strike; that is, a strike of such magnitude as to cause national gossip. The world of labor knows of a more effective plan. Good wholesome laws we must have and a thorough change in social methods. Labor must be elevated; there must be a feeling of greater respect between employer and employe; a radical lesson in sociology. Then labor and capital will be in nearer touch and the result will be beneficial. Oh, yes, we are educating the people up to this idea; its consummation is not far away."

Since he left his home in Des Moines, Iowa, five months ago, he has had but five idle days. In that time he has closely observed the public feeling on topics of importance. Upon the silver question he said:

"Of course, I am in favor of the free coinage of silver, but I do not think it a panacea, a cure for all our ills, but it will help toward better days. What we need is a judicious expansion of currency—money enough to encourage manufactures and provide proper pay for labor. The nation should provide a means of support for every man without demanding excessive exertion in gaining it. The goldbugs of the East have organized and are working. They have declared that it shall be an issue in the national campaign; but the result will be a decisive victory for silver."

WORKERS IN METAL.

For some time the tendency of national and international unions of workers in allied trades to form confederations for mutual advantage has been very strong in the American labor movement. At the present time unions owing allegiance to most of the international metal workers' unions are voting upon a proposition for such a federation among the workers in metal. If the scheme goes through, the resulting federation will be very strong, numerically. Financially it will be one of the most powerful organizations in the country. It will include the iron molders, the pattern makers, the metal polishers, the brass workers, the machinery molders, the steel and iron workers, the ship builders, the boiler makers, the tin and sheet iron workers, the coremakers and a number of other kindred organizations. Every one of the trades indicated is well organized, the members of each being among the best paid workmen in the country. Through co-operation such as would be possible only by reason of federation would add greatly to their strength.

A CO-OPERATIVE PLAN.

F. J. Boyle, of St. Paul, second vice president of the International Typographical union, was at Philadelphia during last week attending the convention of the International Printing Pressmen's union in the interest of an amalgamation of the two bodies, the Typographical union having submitted a plan of absorption. The proposition was rejected by the pressmen, but a sort of co-operative plan was adopted by which in case of trouble the unions will work harmoniously. It provides that whenever the typos want to inaugurate a strike they call the bookbinders and pressmen out, provided the local unions give their consent; but the expenses of the strike must be borne by the union inaugurating it. The same rule applies to all three unions. The pressmen elected the following officers: President, T. F. Galokowski, St. Louis; first vice president, Jesse Johnson, Nashville; second, J. A. Richer, Minneapolis; third, J. A. Patton, Toronto; secretary and treasurer, James Gelson, Brooklyn. The next meeting will be held in Chicago.

LABOR GOSSIP.

The machinery molders of Cleveland after a short strike succeeded in obtaining a uniform wage scale. The minimum rate is $2.50 a day.

Information from Newcastle, England, is to the effect that the British miners are going over to socialism by wholesale.

The leather trust and the boot and shoe trust, imitating the Standard Oil trust, the beef and other combines, have decided to raise prices. But another factor is looking for a part of the spoil. The four national organizations of shoeworkers recently formed a labor trust and are strengthening the same by energetic organization, and in August the capitalistic trust will be waited upon by the labor trust and asked to disgorge. If the request is not granted there will be music in the air.

In an agreement for the arbitration of strikes recently adopted in England each side is to make a deposit of money, which shall be forfeited on failure to keep the agreement. The arrangement seems an effective means of making the terms of arbitration binding.

The factories of Indiana furnish employment to 124,349 persons, the output being $236,825,082.

There are 50,000 women and children in New York city working from ten to sixteen hours a day. In the far East and West side stores women and children are often employed until 9 or 10 o'clock at night, until after midnight on Saturday and occasionally half a day on Sunday. There are 20,000 children under 16 employed frequently sixteen hours a day. The average wages of cash girls are $1.50 a week, and they are fined for absence, tardiness and mistakes. As a rule, merchants do not allow the wages of saleswomen to exceed 1 per cent of their sales.

According to Bradstreet's about 75,000 workers received increased wages during April, two-thirds of whom received the same without striking.

Pittsburg, Kan., boasts of a growing labor church, where true Christianity is preached by Rev. Dr. Morrison, who will deliver a series of sermons on "Christ the Socialist."

A statement has been prepared at the bureau of immigration which shows the number of immigrants which arrived in the United States for the nine months to have been as follows: 1893, 259,460; 1894, 218,648; 1895, 140,980.

An experiment was tried at Louisville, Ky., on Sunday, that may have a far-reaching effect upon two trades at least. It was satisfactorily demonstrated that dispatches could be taken from the wire and either the service of the telegrapher or machine operator could be dispensed with. This will be the next labor-saving step in the printing business, and will mean the almost complete revolutionizing of newspaper offices. Printers will be no longer needed in any capacity.

A novel suit will soon be begun in New York. A wealthy printing boss in that city was threatened with boycott and took union men into his office under protest. He has now entered the courts to ask that the labor unions be restrained from compelling him to employ the men. The case will be watched with interest.

Cincinnati is going to have a mammoth Labor day celebration this year, all of the quarreling organizations of previous years having declared in favor of joining hands. Local unions in large numbers are affiliating with central bodies.

Michigan is rich in manufacture, employing 163,941 men and sending out every year $277,896,706 worth of goods.

In 1880 the value of the cotton mill product in this country was $192,000,000; in 1890 it had increased to $268,000,000.

In manufacturing operations the average life of soap boilers is highest, and that of grindstone makers the lowest.

Connecticut has 149,939 hands in its factories, making every year goods valued at $248,336,364.

Kentucky's factories employ 65,579 hands, and send out annually a product valued at $126,719,857.

The average life of a locomotive is said to be about fifteen years and the earning capacity $300,000.

St. Louis annually makes up and sells $223,000,000 worth of goods.

AMBITIOUS WOMEN

MAKE HEROES OF MEN.

She Will Brave Anything for the Man She Loves.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

When an ambitious woman loves a man she will spur him to heroic efforts.

She will dare with him the rigors of the frozen North, and encourage him in daring dangers almost unsurmountable.

Women are by nature ambitious according to their physical and mental strength. Hope and ambition come with perfect health, but vanish before sickness and despair.

American women are, unfortunately, particularly subject to those painful female diseases that are the cause of so much hopelessness and misery.

Could all women realize the undeniable fact that they suffer unnecessarily, how much brighter life would be!

Lydia E. Pinkham devoted her life to the study of female diseases and their cause; and she discovered in the Vegetable Compound an absolute remedy. It succeeds in removing the cause of the trouble.

Women who rely more upon their own natural common-sense, rather than on the theories of their physicians, write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and are soon restored to health.

Here is a living example: "Four months ago I was unable to stand on my feet. I had falling of the womb, kidney trouble, and inflammation of the bladder; the backache and bearing-down pains were dreadful.

My physician could give me no relief. A friend said, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Well, I did. Oh, if every suffering woman would do the same, they would be cured, cured absolutely and entirely, as I am!" MRS. WM. M. MOREY, 20 Seymour St., Pittsfield, Mass.

SEWAGE

Waters of the Great Lakes Polluted by the Sewage Discharge.

Much of Disease Directly Attributable to This Very Source.

Ocean Waters, in a Lesser Degree, Are Also Affected by It.

The progress of sanitary engineering has perhaps in no single respect run more directly counter to the original popular notions in regard to sewage disposal than in the matter of the discharge of sewage and garbage into either tide water or the waters of the great lakes, says the Engineering Record. In the early days of the discussion of the sewage question in general it was thought that any system by which sewers could be emptied into either of those classes of waters was, if not perfection, at least so near it that the difference was practically nothing. Tide water, especially along the sea shore, was generally considered to be the ideal receptacle for cities and towns, the large body of water affected being so great that the degree of dilution was deemed sufficient to render the effects of contamination practically nil; and essentially the same assumption was employed to justify the use of the waters of the great lakes for the same purpose by the cities located along their shores.

As the effects of these pollutions came to be more closely observed it was found, as might readily have been anticipated, that the degree of dilution was not by any means so great as the body of water involved might seem to indicate. Indeed it is a fact that waters of different characteristics do not very readily mingle unless they are in comparatively rapid motion over a rough bed, and where there is almost or quite no motion at all the process of dilution goes on at an extremely slow rate. The limit of demarkation between the waters of a large river like the Mississippi and those of a tributary of a quite different character like the Missouri is well known, and in cases like the comparatively still waters of the great lakes and the sea along at least many portions of our Atlantic coast the retention of its own character by the discharged sewage for a long distance from the shore is specially marked.

These observations gain their importance from the consideration that they bear upon the sanitary condition of probably not less than eight or ten millions of people in this country. The city of Chicago has already recognized their bearing upon its health and material welfare, and is at the present time spending a number of million dollars for the purpose of protecting its water supply by carrying its sewage away from Lake Michigan and into the Mississippi valley, and is doing nothing more than the simple law of self-preservation requires. As is well known, the locations of the intakes of its water supply, although two to four miles from shore, are not beyond points reached by its sewage in at least a close approach to its normal condition.

In the same manner the city of Cleveland, Ohio, has its intake nearly a mile and a quarter from the shore, while it discharges its sewage into the Cuyahoga river, which itself empties into the lake, and a proposition has recently been made for the extension of its sewer system with outlets on the lake shore. It is clear, however, that the sewage as it is now discharged passes out even beyond the intake of the waterworks in a not very diluted condition, and the state board of health of Ohio has very properly disapproved any further practice of the same kind. It is officially stated that about 3 per cent of the aggregate deaths in the city of Cleveland during several years past have been due to typhoid attributable to the poisoning of the water supply by the sewage, and that much "typhoid fever and other intestinal diseases" can be certainly ascribed to the same source. Similar conditions exist at other though smaller cities along the shores of the great lakes and call for immediate and careful consideration by their health authorities.

Although the sanitary effects of sewage discharge into the tidal waters of the sea are of a less serious character, since sources of water supply are not involved, those effects may not be free from consequences of much danger. Aside from the disagreeable and sometimes dangerous conditions produced by the shoreward movements of the solid portions of the sewage and garbage discharged or dumped into the sea and its subsequent putrid state along the beach, it is not by any means impossible that certain forms of sea food may be infected by disease germs projected into the water over the feeding grounds of the fish or over oyster beds. Indeed these latter effects have been alleged at points on the shores of the states of Connecticut and New Jersey.

Although contamination of disease germs may not positively have been established in those cases, such results are quite possible; indeed they might be expected with regard to shell fish in places where large discharges of sewage and garbage are made. The whole history of the progress of sanitary engineering and of sanitary science in these special directions indicates that when disease germs are once produced the persistent character of many of them leads to the most insidious and extensive contagion in many cases. These and other similar considerations already have established the fact that the time is not far distant, if indeed it is not already at hand, when no city or town should be permitted to discharge any untreated sewage or garbage into any stream or body of water whatever.

The various efficient methods now developed bring within the financial reach of every prosperous community means for rendering practically innocuous its refuse matter, and the experiences of the lake cities and other communities both inland and seaboard in this and other countries show with all the conclusiveness of the constant presence of fatal diseases which are perfectly preventable that they should be obliged to use them.

A FAMILIAR GUEST.

Some of the Frequent Visitors in Country Walks.

Solitude! Where under trees and sky shall you find it? The more solitary the recluse and the more confirmed and grounded his seclusion, the wider and more familiar becomes the circle of his social environment, until at length, like a very dryad of old, the birds build and sing in his branches and the "wee wild beasties" nest in his pockets. If he fails to be aware of the fact, more's the pity. His desolation is within, not without, in spite of, not because of, his surroundings, says William Hamilton Gibson in Harper's Magazine.

Here in my country studio, not a hermitage, 'tis true, but secluded among trees, some distance isolated from my own home and out of sight of any other, what company! What occasional "tumultuous privacy" is mine! I have frequently been obliged tos tep out upon the porch and request a modulation of hilarity and a more courteous respect for my hospitality. But this is evidently entirely a matter of point of view, and judging from the effects of my protests at such times, my assumed superior air of condescension is apparently construed as a huge joke. If the resultant rejoinder of wild volapuk and expressive pantomime has any significance, it is plain that my exact status is that of a squatter on contested territory.

There are those snickering squirrels, for instance! At this moment two of them are having a rollicking game of tag on the shingled roof—a pandemonium of scrambling, scratching, squealing and growling—ever and anon clambering down at the eaves to the top of a blind and peeping in at the window to see how I like it.

A woodchuck is perambulating my porch—he was a moment ago—presumably in renewed quest of that favorite pabulum more delicate than rowen clover, the splintered cribbings from the legs of a certain pine bench, which, up to date, he has lowered about three inches—a process in which he has considered average rather than symmetry, or the comfort of the too trusting visitor who happens to be unaware of his carpentry.

The drone of bees and the carol of birds are naturally an incessant accompaniment to my toil, at least in these spring and summer months. The tall straight flue of the chimney, like the deep diapason of an organ, is softly murmurous with the flurry of the swifts in their afternoon or vesper flight. There is a robin's nest close by one window, a vireo's nest on a forked dogwood within touch of the porch, and continual reminders of similar snuggeries of indigo-bird, chat and oriole within close limits, to say nothing of an ants' nest not far off, whose proximity is soon manifest as you sit in the grass—and immediately get up again.

Fancy a wild fox for a daily entertainment! For several days in succession last year I spent a half hour observing his frisky gambols on the hillside across the dingle below my porch, as he jumped apparently for mice in the sloping rowen field. How quickly he responded to my slightest interruption, of voice or footfall, running to the cover of the alders!

The little red-headed chippy, the most familiar and sociable of our birds, of course pays me his frequent visit, hopping in at the door and picking up I don't know what upon the floor. A barn swallow occasionally darts in through the open window and out again at the door, as though for very sport, only a few days since skimming beneath my nose, while its wings fairly tipped the pen with which I was writing. The chipmonk has long made himself at home, and his scratching footsteps on my door-sill, or even in my closet, is a not uncommon episode. Now and then through the door I hear a soft pat-pat on the hardwood floor, at intervals of a few seconds, and realize that my pet toad that has voluntarily taken up its abode in an old bowl on the closet floor, is taking his afternoon outing, and with his always seemingly inconsistent tongue is picking up his casual flies at three inches sight around the baseboard.

A mouse, I see, has heaped a neat little pile of seeds upon the top of the wainscot near by—cherry pits, polygonum and ragweed seeds, and others, including some small oak-galls, which I find have been abstracted from a box of specimens which I had stored in the closet for safe keeping. I wonder if it is the same little fellow that built its nest in an old shoe in the same closet last year, and, among other mischief, removed the white grub in a similar lot of specimen galls which I also missed, and subsequently found in the shoe and scattered on the closet floor?

ACTORS IN ENGLAND.

Speaking of Sir Henry Irving, says the New York Herald, it is interesting to recall that under Queen Elizabeth a statute was enacted, reading that all common players, all jugglers, tinkers, peddlers and petty chapmen should be taken, adjudged and deemed rogues, vagabonds and sturdy beggars, and should be stripped naked and be whipped until his or her body be bloudye, and sent streghte way to the parish where he was borne. Nor was an actor freed from the danger of being publicly whipped until the reign of George IV.

METHEGLIN.

Queer Effect of a Popular Pennsylvania Drink.

In certain farming districts of Pennsylvania where the German element still predominates, metheglin, a favorite drink of the ancient Greeks, is employed for medical or convivial purposes. It is made from honeycomb, and its effects are different to those of any other tipple. At any rate that is the verdict of those who try metheglin for the first time.

A well-known dry goods drummer of Chicago was recently caught in a rainstorm some miles out of Philadelphia, and was wet to the skin when he applied for shelter at a farmhouse. Noticing his plight the good wife brought him a glass of cordial, says the Chicago Times-Herald.

"Drink this," said she; "it will prevent you catching cold."

"What is it?" asked the drummer, sniffing suspiciously at the amber colored liquor.

"It's metheglin," answered his hostess.

"Metheglin!"

"Yes; we make it from honeycomb, and it's the best preventive of colds in the world."

The drummer drank it slowly, and was rewarded by a subtle, lively glow spreading gently and delightfully through his frame. After the rain ceased and he was about to depart another small glass of metheglin was tendered and drank without a protest. Fifteen minutes afterward he came running back to the house waving his hands wildly about his head.

"What's the matter?" cried the farmer's wife.

"The bees, the bees," shouted the drummer, excitedly, "I'll be stung to death."

The woman smiled as she explained.

"Oh! that's only the metheglin. It buzzes about your ears just like a swarm of bees. It will wear off in a little while."

The drummer swears, however, that the buzzing kept up for several hours and that it was impossible for him to resist the impulse to brush the imaginary swarm from about his ears.

"Metheglin is a mighty pleasant drink," says he, "but it should be the exclusive tipple of politicians who are accustomed to bees buzzing in their bonnets."

BLASTING WITH LIME.

What Gen. Newton Learned From a Welshman.

Apropos of the late Gen. Newton's death, says the New York Herald, is a little story he told twenty years ago, when his work at Hell Gate made him a much-talked-of man.

"I was in the quarry country of Indiana," said he, "where they take out great blocks of oolytic limestone without the use of a pound of powder. I had heard of the process and I took a team at Greensburg and drove down to the quarries to see. The superintendent was a Welshman of unpromising appearance. He was certainly an uneducated man, so far as colleges went, but he knew his business.

"I asked him how he managed to blast such huge blocks of the rock and how much dynamite was required to a ton. He said he did not use dynamite or any other explosive. He simply used unslaked lime. It astonished me, but before he took me to the quarry he set up a piece of pine board an inch thick against a wall of rock, brought out a revolver and fired at the board.

"The bullet passed through, flattened against the stone and fell to the ground. Then he set up the board again, threw the flattened bullet against the board with astonishing skill, striking it each time in the same place, and after the fifth cast the board was split from top to bottom.

"'I didn't use as much force when I threw as when I shot, did I?' he said. 'But the board would never split along the grain by shooting at it. I could tear that board into pieces shooting, but if I want to break it in long sections on the grain I don't want to use such a sudden force.

"'That's how I blast with lime.'

"And then he took me to the quarry. They had drilled a series of holes in the places he had marked, his judgment and trained intelligence telling him where the dividing lines should run. Then they tamped these holes full of unslaked lime, poured water on it, keyed them shut and waited. In twelve hours the mass of rock he wanted would begin with groans and cracklings to separate. In sixteen hours it would be free, and the force of the lime would be spent.

"'If I used powder or dynamite,' said he, 'I would rip out such a mass as that in fifteen minutes, but it would be chipped and cracked into a hundred pieces. Or, more likely, in a large blast, the powder would simply tear out a way along the least resistance, shelling out a lot of sprawls and leave my big rock as solid as ever.'

"I thanked my Welshman," said Gen. Newton, "and told him he was much of a philosopher."

A Philadelphia Man's Explorations in Pamir, Central Asia.

Dr. W. L. Abbott's Late and Valuable Gifts to National Museum.

Strange Animals and Birds From a Country Almost Unknown.

Among the treasures just forwarded to the National museum from the wonderful region of the Pamir, in Central Asia, are the skins of 228 birds and more than 100 mammals. More than one-half of these are species new to science. The collection includes twelve specimens of the great mountain sheep with huge horns, known as the ovis poli. It is found only in that district of sky-kissing altitudes which is called the "roof of the world." Many of the animals referred to were killed at an elevation of nearly three miles above the sea. These included three "pikas," which are rabbits of a queer sort, living in rocky places near the summits, beyond the line of vegetation, says Rene Bache in the Boston Transcript.

Dr. W. L. Abbott, the collector of these novelties, may fairly be called the Gordon-Cumming of America. Though only about 34 years of age, he has already established a reputation as a mighty hunter. The scion of a rich Philadelphia family, he can afford to gratify the rather costly whim of traveling in remote parts of the world. He is a seeker of adventures, his ambition being to go where nobody has gone and to see what nobody has seen. The tiger of India has fallen before his rifle, and he has slain single-handed the lion and elephant of the Dark Continent. The closest squeak he ever had for his life was in combat with a gnu. This species of buffalo, which parts his hair in the middle and has enormous horns, is not afraid of a lion and nearly got away with Abbott.

The Pamir, Dr. Abbott's latest hunting ground, is an immense plateau uplifted in the midst of the loftiest mountain in the world. From it radiate the ranges of Hindoo-koosh, Karakoram and the Himalayas. It is the great watershed of Asia, from which rivers run to all points of the compass. To the east of it is Thibet, to the south India, to the west Turkestan, and to the north the country of the Tartars. Sheltered from the north winds by lofty hills and having a southern exposure, it is a bit of the subtropics surrounded by cold regions. Here is situated the famous vale of Cashmere, which is the garden spot of the earth.

The Pamir is difficult of access not merely on account of its remoteness and great altitude. Strangers are forbidden to enter the country, and only now and then travellers have visited it in disguise. But money, which will make almost any road passable, helped Abbott. He reached the headwaters of the Indus, and from the town of Ladak he crossed the Karakoram range into Eastern Turkestan. In the course of his journey he paused at Kashgar and Yarkand. Many ethnological specimens collected by him connect in an interesting manner with those gathered in Thibet and presented to the National museum by W. Woodville Rockhill, at present third assistant secretary of state. These include prayer wheels, charms for warding off evil spirits, hideous wooden masks worn by the priests in religious plays, queer household utensils, rugs of goats' hair, and camels' hair, and native costumes.

Dr. Abbott is a skillful trapper and a born taxidermist. Exhibited in a series of glass cases at the National museum is a procession 100 feet long of various species of antelopes collected by him in Africa. The British museum offered him a high price for them, but he preferred to give them to his own government. In like manner he has contributed many other specimens, comprising skins, skulls and skeletons. These always arrive in beautiful condition, having traveled perhaps 10,000 miles or more. Some of them have come all the way from the interior of Africa, shipped by canoes down the rivers and carried around cataracts on the backs of black natives. The birds are invariably in perfect plumage and all ready for stuffing and mounting. To each specimen a neat descriptive label is attached.

Among the most interesting of the birds collected by Dr. Abbott was a new species of eagle owl. This is the biggest kind of owl known, its wings having a spread of five feet. Another remarkable feathered creature was a hitherto unknown relative of the familiar oyster-catcher, with a bill like that of an ibis. The everyday oyster-catcher lives near the seashore and eats oysters and clams, which it pecks from the shells at low tide when the mollusks are off their guard with opened valves. Of course, this particular bird, living at an altitude between two and three miles above the sea, has no experience of clams and oysters. It is very rare, and the specimen described is the only one that has ever reached the United States. Dr. Abbott got two specimens of sand grouse, which have peculiar pads on their feet for running over the hot desert sands of Turkestan and Thibet. His collection includes ravens, jackdaws, rooks and magpies—several of them new species. Also he secured half a dozen new species of rosy finches and ground-nut-crackers. The latter occur only on the high barren lands of Central Asia, near the summits of the mountains; they are rapid runners and make their nests in the holes of the pikas.

Among the skins forwarded to the National museum were those of twelve hedgehogs and four hares, several of them representing new species. There was also quite a number of field mice and shrews of odd knds killed at great elevations. The mammals of all sorts were shot and trapped; the birds were killed with small charges of small shot. Hunters for scientific purposes nowadays carry with them little traps of an extremely simple, yet effective, pattern. They may be folded up into such small compass that one can carry two or three dozen of them in a pocket. Each of them is a mere jaw of wires with springs; it is set and baited in a moment, instantly capturing any animal not of considerable size that meddles with it. Such traps are serviceable for taking nocturnal creatures and others that live underground like shrews and moles. As a rule, mammals are harder to collect than birds, because they hide themselves more quickly.

Abbott is unapproached by any other explorer in respect to the skill with which he prepares his specimens. Not only are the skins of birds and beasts perfect, but every skeleton is complete to the smallest bone, and admirably packed. The skins are poisoned with arsenic to preserve them. To each skeleton or skin is attached a label stating the sex of the animal, the color of the eyes, feet and bill, the date of killing, and the locality and altitude. To these points are added a few general remarks about the creature and its habits. Whereas the typical Nimrod is a pot-hunter or worse, often killing merely for the sake of slaughter, the adventure-seeker from Philadelphia shoots and traps for science. Incidentally, he gathers objects of ethnological interest. Among the specimens of this character recently sent by him to the National museum are stones on which hieroglyphics representing prayers and charms are cut. Such stones are built into walls or thrown in heaps on the roadsides or near monasteries in the Pamir. They are pious offerings of the faithful.

The traveler in the Pamir might easily imagine himself in Thibet. The religion chiefly recognized is Buddhism, and there are numerous monasteries which with priests who have great influence and absorb most of the wealth of the country. Their main business is to keep evil spirits out of the land, which, but for their efforts, would be overrun by such diabolical agents. For the purpose of frightening them away, they employ such grewsome apparatus as drums made of human skulls with human skins for drumheads; also trumpets of human thigh bones hollowed out, to which are attached whiplashes of human skin. They beat the drums, blow the trumpets and crack the whips to exorcise the devils. Their rosaries are commonly composed of disks of bone cut from human skulls. Silver bells and thunderbolts wrought in metal are additional weapons employed against the demons. The images of gods have many arms, and clothes are made for them, the notion being that it is not respectable for a divinity to go naked.

The people of the Pamir are nomads, traveling about with their flocks and herds. They practise polyandry. The country being poor, this is a very desirable system from the economical point of view. It is a common thing for a woman to be the wife of several brothers. All of her children, however, are considered to be the offspring of the eldest brother. The property is kept together, the method being an application of the co-operative idea. In many cases each brother will have a wife of his own, but the children of all of the wives are regarded as belonging to the eldest brother. A governing restriction is that brothers must not marry sisters. One advantage of the system is that there is always at least one man at home to take care of the wife. Polyandry, though objectionable from the occidental point of view, certainly has its advantages.

Under such conditions of partial civilization the old folks may stay at home, while those in charge of the flocks and herds come back at intervals. They gather together at great fairs and festivals, coming from all points of the compass. The business of the nomad is to seek food for his animals; he is a prospector for grass, going where he can get the most meat for the least effort. He is the most independent of mortals. Nomadic people are always fighters. In case of war they can drive their beasts into safe places, being thus enabled to venture into conflict without much danger of losing their means of subsistence. Agricultural tribes are always payers of tribute, because they cannot hide away their grain, which anybody strong enough is at liberty to come and take. This proposition has been verified through all history.

All over the world the arable plains and valleys yield crops and afford sustenance for human beings. On the lower slopes of the mountains are the rich grazing grounds for cattle and other ruminant animals. Higher up on the hills live the carnivorous creatures, which prey upon the ruminants. Such is the arrangement by nature. If you will cast your eye upon a map of Asia you will find that the backbone of that continent is the Altai range, which runs from northeast to southwest. On the lower slopes of this range appear to have originated and developed—passing from northeast to southwest—the reindeer, the camel, the horse, the ass, the sheep, the goat and yak. Man at the beginning hunted those animals. Later on he found that it was much easier to herd and breed them, so that they might be found whenever they were wanted, instead of going to find and kill them. Thus the first step in the progress of civilization was accomplished; from a hunter man was graduated into the condition of a herder, driving his beasts about in search of pasture. If the whites had not come to America, our Indians in all probability would have domesticated the buffalo eventually, gathering them in herds and caring for them just as the llama was domesticated in South America before the time of Columbus.

In this condition are the people of the Pamir. They have wonderful horses and are said to be the best riders in the world—better even than the Arabs. They own no suzerain, recognizing only tribal government. But the great plateau on which they pasture their herds and flocks must be absorbed before long by the European powers which are rivals for its possession. England and Russia are stealing it bit after bit. Through it passes the main highways of Asia. It has an inestimable strategic value. If Russia gets the Pamir, England's hope of maintaining her overland route to her Indian possessions is gone.

Polygamy as practised in the Pamir by men who can afford the luxury of extra wives. Horse-racing is a favorite amusement. Tea is the beverage of the country par excellence. It is prepared in a very peculiar fashion, being powdered in a wooden mortar and boiled in a copper pot over a fire of dried manure. Then it is strained through a straw basket into a little wooden churn, a lump of butter and some salt being added. The mixture, after being churned, is poured into little wooden bowls, sometimes lined with silver, for drinking.

It has long been considered a mystery how camels originated in America. Their fossil remains are found in the United States in such quantities as to indicate that these animals must have been very numerous on this continent thousands of years ago. Professor Otis T. Mason, the famous anthropologist of the National museum, suggests that possibly their early progenitors may have walked across from Asia, inasmuch as the shallow Bering sea was at one time dry land. That was in the tertiary epoch, before any human being existed on the earth, as is deemed probable. The "roof of the world," by the way, is peopled in the imagination of the natives with several very remarkable species of animals and plants. One of them is a plant that flies. It has the shape of a dog, is of the color of tortoise-shell, and is very tame. An elephant is afraid of it; therefore it is the king of beasts. It lives on the peaks of the Himalayas. Another peculiar creature is the "snow maggot," which resembles a silkworm in appearance; it is good to eat, but to eat too much of it causes nose-bleed.

MULVANEY

An Irishman in San Francisco Who Says He Inspired Kipling.

William McManus Is the Name of the Author's Famous Character.

He Was One of the Black Tyrones and a Peculiar Person.

And now only a genius that is greater than Kipling's is needed to enable whoever may care to undertake the task to write more fascinating and more truthful yarns of barrack room life in her majesty's East Indian service than did even the biographer of the world-famed Private Mulvaney, says the San Francisco Call.

For, truth to tell, Private Mulvaney himself is at hand, ready to tell whosoever has the ear for them the self-same tales he told to Kipling, and Kipling to the world; ready to tell even more than Kipling has told. His real name is William McManus. He lives down on Nebraska street and has been a resident of San Francisco for more years than his biographer has been famous by picturing to the world the adventures of Privates Muvaney, Ortheris and Learoyd, of the "Black Tyrones."

In fact there was no such regiment as the Tyrones in the East Indian service, but the Eighty-sixth regiment was the Royal County Downs, and is easily identified as the one of which Kipling writes in his masterful tale. And the selection of the name Black Tyrones only thinly veils the real identity of Private Mulvaney's regiment to those who know, for Tyrone is a county adjacent to County Down, and the only county regiment from that part of Ireland in the East Indian service and the only regiment in the service that gloried in a Private Mulvaney.

William McManus started for San Francisco a few months after the "Reincarnation of Krishna Mulvaney" actually occurred at Delhi. He has lived here ever since and is well known to the few East Indian veterans on the coast. On one 14th of July he was a prominent figure in the procession of the McMahon guards, being the only man in line who had served full time in India and won three most valued medals. These medals he wore in the march past the guards, and together with his "papers" they formed his sole fortune when he landed here from the good ship Aphrodite of Liverpool, on which he worked his passage from Rangoon.

Rudyard Kipling has generously bestowed upon the hero of the "Incarnation of Krishna Mulvaney" a considerable quantity of rupees and a massive gold chain that the priest in the temple gave him as hush money for deserting his palanquin without exposing his identity as a mere human being—and one not very sober at that. The fortune and some other favors that Kipling has given the narrative make it a good book story, but the facts of the case are about as interesting, and nearly the same as Kipling relates with these few exceptions: That Mulvaney was at that time no longer in the service; that he had saved a good deal of money from his work as a driver, with which he went off on a tear as a relief from his hard work under water; that the palanquin he rode to the temple in was not the one he obtained from Dearsley to prevent him swindling the natives on it any further—that, as Kipling says elsewhere, is quite another story—and that he came back from the temple and his drunken ride in the palanquin penniless instead of rich and glad enough to escape with a whole skin from the wrath of the priests and the possible judgment of the real Krishna.

Yes, it was William McManus who rode in that palanquin; it was William McManus who gave Kipling the sound advice not to "name places, for a man is thracked by a place," which Kipling carefully followed in his tales; it was William McManus who courted Dinah Shadd—but he did not marry her; it was he of whom Kipling wrote in "Private Learoyd's Story": "Mulvaney—grizzled, tender and very wise Ulysses, sweltering on the earth-work of a Central India line—judge if I have forgotten old days in the Trap."

"Them was the days I was bossin' a gang of native track-layers on the government railroad," says William McManus. "Well, I remember Kipling in those days—a plucky, inquisitive little fellow in the civil service, who I first met at Cawnpore, where he passed his bottle around, among us privates, and then got us to tell him all the yarns of the barrack room. He had a little stubby black moustache and wore spectacles. He stopped at my bungalow on the railroad all one day and drank out of my bottle and helped me out on a square meal. And I was mighty glad of the chance to be civil to him."

"My friend, Private Mulvaney, was one of the sentries (at the Inexpressibles' ball) because he was the tallest man in the regiment," Kipling has written. That is William McManus—and not only the tallest, but the straightest, the best chested, the biggest fisted, the neatest and trimmest and the kindest-hearted man in the regiment, as his biographer has variously and veraciously characterized him.

"How in the world did you come to know these things?" Kipling once asked of Private Mulvaney in one of the tales of "Soldiers Three." And it was William McManus who answered: "Bekase I'm turned durin' the Quane's pleasure to a lump av wood, lookin' out straight fornist me, wid a—a—candle ab brum in my hand for you to pick your cards out av."

And you need not read Kipling to know that William McManus, the original Private Mulvaney, was every inch a soldier. Today he is older than he was, and none the better off for the oft repeated sprees like the one that gave Kipling the inspiration for the reincarnation story. But he is as straight and as slick as ever he was, though his occupation is that of a laborer.

Kipling came upon Mulvaney (McManus) when he was "doing pack-drill" for being "dirty on parade." This astonished Kipling, who says: "I nearly fell into the fort ditch with astonishment and wrath, for Mulvaney is the smartest man that ever mounted guard, and would as soon think of turning out uncleanly as of dispensing with his trousers."

And those who have read the tale know it was the "dirty little pig-scraper," Mullins, who did the thing for pure meanness, as Ortheris said. But Mullins was not Mullins any more than Terrance Mulvaney was not William McManus. Mullins' name was Adams, the first captain under whom McManus served. It was Adams who halted at the battle of Gwaliah and feared to go. It was Adams who was court-martialed and—but that is getting ahead of the tale, and you who read Kipling ought to be told some of the facts of Private Mulvaney's career that Kipling has not yet set down and probably never will, for now he is writing jungle stories and ballads.

Private Mulvaney—that is to say, William McManus—was born in the Grecian archipelago, on the island of Cephalonia, in 1839. Both his father and mother were Irish born and reared, and his father was a private in the Thirtieth regiment of the line, that was then stationed at Cephalonia along with the army of occupation, when the transfer of the Ionian group was made from Greece to Great Britain. Two years and a half later, when the army was returning to England, the elder McManus died at sea and was buried off the island of Malta. He had not been in the service long enough for his widow to be entitled to a pension, but the company made up a purse for her and she got back to Ireland. They were very poor in Ireland, and William must needs work as soon as his years would permit. In this way his education was totally neglected, and it is not strictly true, as Kipling says, that "Mulvaney wrote me an invitation on a tool-indent form to visit him" when he became a "ker-nel" on the government railway line in India, for truth to tell, neither then nor thereafter could this barrack-room hero either read or write.

When William was 18 years old his mother married again, and it was then that he took up the sword of his father and entered her majesty's service. He enlisted at the royal barracks in Dublin as volunteer for the Crimea. But the peace of Odessa was signed Nov. 14 of that year, and his draft was sent to the schools of instruction at Curragh of Kildare and Aldershot.

"I was consigned finally to the Eighty-sixth Royal County Downs, the very same regiment that Mr. Kipling calls the Black Tyrones. There were the Eighty-third County Dublin volunteers, the Eighty-seventh Royal Irish fusillers, the Eighty-eighth Connaught rangers along with us, and these made up the Irish brigades in the eighties that went to India.

"Eighty-six had been in India since 1843, and this draft in which I found myself was to augment the depleted ranks of that regiment. On Jan. 20, 1857, we embarked on the transport Nile at Liverpool for Bombay. There were 150 of us, all told, under Capt. Adams. I'll tell you more about him presently. We landed at Bombay on June 30 and were consigned to Coal Harbor barracks. When we were there two days the alarm of assembly sounded early in the morning, and we were told to prepare for marching at once. It was 4 o'clock in the morning and we were not armed; and no one seemed to know what was up. Off we went to Dungeree Green, a mile down the road, where we found a lot of native mutineers of the Twenty-first Bombay Native infantry guarded by the Second Bombay European infantry. It was only the left wing of the Twenty-first that had mutinied, and it was them under guard. Their right wing was in Aden, at the mouth of the Suez canal, at the time, and both wings had been acting as marines for the East India company.

"Well, we were drawn up in line and before we knew what was up the sentence of the court-martial was read both in English and Hindustani. They had been tried for high treason and insubordination, and the verdict was guilty.

"All at once a battetry of six guns was drawn up in front of our lines. The gunners were in shirt sleeves and wore helmets. Then was called for volunteers—for volunteers to stand up in front of the guns and be blown to death without being tied. We were all raw recruits. We thought it was horrible. There were nearly 200 of the natives, and all but thirty of them came forth at the call of their names.

"They knelt down and prayed to Allah Mohammed and then went up and embraced the guns, hurling defiance back at the British. No shot was used, only a blank cartridge and an extra heavy wad. Oh, what a bloody scene that was. The air rained with blood and bits of flesh, and it fell to us like so much hail or snow. The gunners were all bloody, like pig butchers, and had to change their swabs every little while, for the blood and slime or human flesh upon them. Six at a time were dispatched in this way. At the fearful sight many of the recruits and younger officers fainted. The thirty who did not volunteer were strapped to the guns.

"Our regiment was finally sent home to England. Now, it's a rule, you know, that if you volunteer to remain on in service at such a time a two-years' credit is given you, which shortens the service to nineteen years. I decided to marry her; it was he of whom Kipling wrote in "Private Learoyd's Story": "Mulvaney—grizzled, tender and very wise Ulysses, sweltering on the earth-work of a Central India line—judge if I have forgotten old days in the Trap."

"Them was the days I was bossin' a gang of native track-layers on the government railroad," says William McManus. Then was called for volunteers—for volunteers to stand up in front of the guns and be blown to death without being tied. We were all raw recruits. We thought it was horrible. There were nearly 200 of the natives, and all but thirty of them came forth at the call of their names.

"They knelt down and prayed to Allah Mohammed and then went up and embraced the guns, hurling defiance back at the British. No shot was used, only a blank cartridge and an extra heavy wad. Oh, what a bloody scene that was. The air rained with blood and bits of flesh, and it fell to us like so much hail or snow. The gunners were all bloody, like pig butchers, and had to change their swabs every little while, for the blood and slime or human flesh upon them. Six at a time were dispatched in this way. At the fearful sight many of the recruits and younger officers fainted. The thirty who did not volunteer were strapped to the guns.

"Our regiment was finally sent home to England. Now, it's a rule, you know, that if you volunteer to remain on in service at such a time a two-years' credit is given you, which shortens the service to nineteen years. I decided to stay in India. Col. Stewart advised me not to do this. He said good reports had been sent to the home office about me, and that it would be better for me to go. But I stayed on—and if I hadn't I probably would never have met Kipling, and then I wouldn't have got written up as Private Mulvaney, would I? But I could have stood that well enough. The reason I didn't go home was that I had no education, and knew that I couldn't possibly be promoted out of the ranks for that reason.

"Where did I first meet Kipling? That was at the well of Cawnpore. This was the place of the massacre, you know. Five of us were sitting around the well one afternoon when a civilian rode up and dismounted. He had field glasses and carried a satchel. He wasn't cleanly shaven, I remember that. Charley Hood was with me and Jack Crothy and Bill Gun, and I don't remember the others.

"'Were any of you in Blood's battery?' Kipling said, as he came over and took a seat. Of course we didn't know who he was. I never found out his name till I was just going to leave India, though I saw a good deal of him after that time.

"Bill Gun said he was in Blood's battery.

"Then Kipling out with his bottle and asked if we had any objection to tasting his bottle. Oh, we had no objections, and the bottle was soon empty. Then Kipling went off and got another bottle. We soldiers couldn't buy it—regulation's strict. Then he sat down and had a long talk with Bill Gun and all of us. Bill had been in the first relief of Lucknow and was hemmed in there by the natives. He told Kipling all about that, all about how the natives started in to undermine the residence, and then how Outram undermined their mine. He told him about digging a big pit, where the women and children were placed for safety, and how it was the women down in the pit who first heard the pipes playing, and called out to the soldiers that the 'Campbells were coming.' Then he told him about the Nana Sahib's doings and all of those things.

"He used to come into the canteens at night and hear all the stories that were going. He was always sociable, but never had much to say himself."

"Mulvaney knew a contractor on one of the new Central India lines and wrote to him for some sort of work," says Kipling in the "Big Drunk Deaf." The contractor said that if Mulvaney could pay the passage he could give him command of a gang of coolies for old-times' sake."

And this is partly true, only McManus did not have to pay his passage, for when he was mustered out he was given a pass to any part of India on the government roads that he cared to visit. And it was not McManus who wrote to the contractor, but his commander, Col. Stewart, and the colonel gave him a letter to the contractor, which read: "He is simple but trustworthy." And McManus brought that letter with him to America. When Kipling came to visit McManus on the railway the latter said to him, in the language of Private Mulvaney:

"I'm a civilian now. Cud you tell me that I was iver a martial man? Don't answer, sor, if you're strainin' betune a compliment an' a lie."

"It was that time," says McManus, "that Kipling had brandy and tiffin in my bungalow. He came down the track on a hand-car pushed by two natives, along with Mr. Curling, the assistant engineer. The first thing he said to me was:

"'I've seen you before, haven't I?'

"'Yes, sir; at Cawnpore,' I said, and then he remembered me and stayed and had a long talk.

"Well, then I went a diving. It was big pay, but bad work. It was scraping vessels and the like of that. I saved up a good bit and then went down to Delhi on that tear. Yes, I rode in a palanquin and had lots of fun while it lasted. When it was over I was broke again. But while I was diving I met Kipling often. He used to go to the canteens to talk to the old soldiers. Once he asked me if I didn't want a better job than I had, but I was satisfied then and told him I was.

"When I left diving I got a pass to Penang and was in charge there of the waterfalls at Prince Edward's island in the straits of Malacca, between India and China. I met Kipling there again. This time he told me his name and said he was going to Hong Kong, and that if ever I wanted a friend to send to him in care of Capt. Newball, the master attendant of the navy at Hong Kong. Then, after Kipling went to China, I got a pass to Rangoon. That's where I shipped on the Aphrodite for San Francisco."

"There was Mulvaney," says the biographer, "the father of the craft, who had served with various regiments from Bermuda to Halifax, old in war, scarred, reckless, resourceful, and in his pious hours an unequaled soldier." And you have only to know William McManus to know how true is this description.

THE POINT OF THE PISTOL

Is an effectual persuader, and there are many persons so unmindful of the symptoms of oncoming disease that it would almost take that deadly argument to induce them to adopt precautionary measures. The best of these is a recourse to that fine botanic restorer, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It vanquishes malaria, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, failing digestion, biliousness and irregularity of the bowels, and completely fortifies the system against their further inroads. Its ingredients are drawn from nature's storehouse, consequently it is free from the objections attaching to many absolutely or semi-mineral remedies. For the delicate, infirm, convalescent and elderly it is peculiarly beneficial. It well merits continuous and systematic use. Take it at bedtime to induce sleep and between meals to stimulate appetite and digestion. The medical fraternity concur in indorsing it.

CHEAP RATES TO DENVER.

The convention of the National Education association will be held this year, July 5 to 12, at Denver, Colo. A very low rate, not more than about $27.90 for return from St. Paul and Minneapolis will be made by the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad, with correspondingly low rates from other points. An elegant vestibuled train with all modern appointments will run through on very fast time. No change of cars. Magnificent service.

Narcoti-Cure

CURES THE TOBACCO HABIT IN 4 TO 10 DAYS OR MONEY REFUNDED.

Use All the Tobacco You Want Till Your "Craving" is Gone.

NARCOTI-CURE is the only remedy in the world that acts directly on the nerves and drives the nicotine from the system in from four to ten days. It leaves the patient in better health than before taking, and is warranted free from any injurious ingredients.

NARCOTI-CURE is popular because it allows the patient to use all the tobacco he wants while under treatment, or until the "craving" and "hankering" are gone. It is then no sacrifice to throw away tobacco forever.

NARCOTI-CURE is sold at the uniform price of $5.00 a bottle, and one bottle cures.

Money refunded if a cure is not effected when taken according to the directions.

Gentlemen—Replying to yours of the 1st, would say that I have used tobacco for 46 years, and of late have consumed a 10-cent plug a day, besides smoking considerably. I commenced to use tobacco when I was only 11 years old, and have never been able to give up the habit until I took NARCOTI-CURE, although I have tried other so-called remedies without effect. After using your remedy four days all "hankering" for chewing disappeared, and in four days more smoking became unpleasant. I have no further desire for the weed, and experience no bad effects whatever. I am gaining in flesh and feel better than I have for a long time. To all who wish to be free from the tobacco habit I would say use NARCOTI-CURE.

Yours truly, W. N. WAITE.

THEATERS

Hoyt's Farce "A Black Sheep" at the Lyceum Next Week.

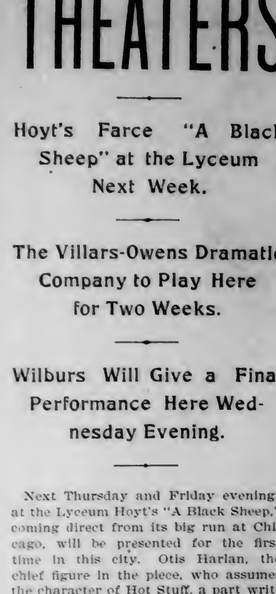

The Villars-Owens Dramatic Company to Play Here for Two Weeks.

Wilburs Will Give a Final Performance Here Wednesday Evening.

Next Thursday and Friday evenings at the Lyceum Hoyt's "A Black Sheep," coming direct from its big run at Chicago, will be presented for the first time in this city. Otis Harlan, the chief figure in the piece, who assumes the character of Hot Stuff, a part written especially for him, is surrounded by some of the best people of the Hoyt forces. The story of "A Black Sheep" may be outlined as follows:

An old maid named Mudd leaves her fortune to her scapegrace nephew living in Tombstone, Ariz., on condition that the nephew will return to New York and marry his cousin in 365 days, he to make a European trip in the meantime. There is another cousin in love with the female cousin before mentioned, who is to get the money if the conditions are not carried out faithfully. He also stands a chance of getting the girl. The tough nephew refuses to go to New York, and the citizens of Tombstone persuade him, by threatening lynching, unless he does. The tough man goes to New York and meets the girl and she and the other cousin put up a job on him. The girl is to make believe that she will marry him, and hold him off for a year; nobody but the villain cousin thinks that this is leap year, and the extra day may spoil the tough nephew's chances if the girl can hold off for what ordinarily would be a year, but what, taking the 29th of February into consideration, would be 366 days. They discover the scheme at the last minute and the tough nephew marries a queen of burlesque, with whom he became acquainted when the Queen's company stranded at Tombstone.

Mr. Hoyt is the cartoonist of the stage. Sometimes he draws with a delicate, satiric touch caricatures of well known types, but in this instance he works in broad and exaggerated black and white after the fashion of "Zim" rather than Du Maurier. In "A Black Sheep" he depicts the downfall of a young man, through the sudden inheritance of a fortune, from the proud position of the toughest man in Tombstone, Ariz., to that of a New York Anglomaniac who marries a burlesque actress. The author disclaims any particular purpose in writing this skit, but Playwright Hoyt is known as a business playwright. He writes farce comedies to please the masses and draw money to the box office. In this respect he is truly successful, for notwithstanding the extreme heat in Chicago during the engagement of "A Black Sheep" for over 100 performances the receipts are said to have been the largest in the history of the Grand opera house.

VILLARS-OWEN'S COMPANY.

The Villars-Owen Comedy company will begin a two weeks' run at the Lyceum on Monday, July 8, playing at popular prices and presenting a repertoire of popular dramas. The company is composed of capable people who have played with many of the strong attractions of the country. The Regent quartet is one of the great features.

The following are among the members of the company: Jessie Villars, late of Strand theater, London; William Owen, late of Munsin's "Faust" company; J. W. McConnell, seven years with W. A. Brady's chief attractions; J. Leonard Weber, late of Palmer Cox's "Brownies" company; Nellie Lawrence, late of Niblo theater, New York; Harry Kunan, late of Frohman's "Charity Ball" company; Arthur Villars, late of Frank Sanger company; William Mollitar, late of Forepaugh Stock company; Frank Fay, late of Forepaugh Stock company.

The Oshkosh Times said of this company on June 11:

"The Villars-Owen company opened at the Grand last evening to a crowded house. "Taken by Storm," a strong melodrama, was presented in a manner that would have been highly creditable to a one-night stand company. The Regent quartet was a splendid feature. This evening a farce comedy, "The Senons Family," will be put on and the quartet will present its famous specialty, "the life boat scene." The company is beyond doubt the strongest that ever played to repertoire prices in this city. In fact they are giving regular $1 shows for 25 cents. People never before have had an opportunity of getting such first class theatricals for so little money."

THE WILBURS.

The Wilburs seem to have kept the best of their operas until the last, for while all are good, the scale of merit keeps going upward all through the engagement. "Falka" last night was another success. All the prominent principals of the company were in the cast and individually they did well. Mr. Conly appeared to advantage in the light comedy role of Tancred, and Miss Mortimer as Falka and Arthur was charming as usual. The Wilbur audiences have not been growing during the engagement of two weeks; they commenced with the utmost capacity of the theater and they have kept it up ever since and last night it was the same old story. The pictures were very well received as they always are. This afternoon "Dorothy" is being played, and tonight the "Mascotte" will be repeated with the pictures at both entertainments.

Tomorrow night the Wilburs will play "Fra Diavolo." On Monday and Tuesday they will play at Superior and on Wednesday evening will give a final performance here. On that evening they will present the living pictures first, giving thirty of them.

PEOPLE OF THE STAGE.

Sarah Bernhardt who is Coming to America Again.

The most wonderful of women is Sarah Bernhardt. A writer who recently visited her in Paris says:

"Bernhardt's greatest triumph is unique. She has triumphed over time! She may be 50, she may be 55, yet she looks 30, and that not only on the stage, when she has all the accessories of arranged lights and hidden paints to gloss the ravages of time, but in her own reception room at midday, with the light of the sun shining brightly in and with the visitor so close to her that powder and rouge could ill deceive him. There is in her wonderful mobile face not a wrinkle. Her hands are as smooth and as soft as any young miss could wish her own to be. It is only in her wrists—those remorseless clocks of the human frame—that the tale of her years is told. And she wears long laces about them, which conceal them, except when her gestures, free and graceful as the flying of a bird, disturb their folds and reveal the little tracks upon her flesh. Her voice has not in it one of the cracked high notes which one expects in a woman who has passed the meridian of life, but is as full of the round, full wonderful tones, the rich, penetrating mesmerizing cadences which have charmed audiences and intimates from the day when she first swept the public to her feet with her performance of Zarnette in Coppee's "Passant." When I told her how America admired her laughter came out rippling and musical—it was the laughter of a young girl, not that of an old woman. When she leaned forward and told me how she admires America, the pretty words were spoken in the voice of a maiden. And if she is acting, I could not dream of it until after I had left her.

"'If you were to name the very greatest part that has ever been written for presentation on the stage, what would you answer?' I asked, after she had told all our merits as a nation, and refused to acknowledge that we have any faults worth mentioning. She hesitated for a long time. Finally she said reflectively:

"'For men, unquestionably the greatest part is Hamlet. I am anxious to hear what Alexander Salvini, who is to play it in America soon, will do with it. For women the greatest part is that of Lady Macbeth. If you turn to comedy, the greatest part is in "As You Like It."'

"'And the greatest single emotional situation?' I persisted.

"'Oh, there are so many! So many!' she exclaimed. 'There is the last act in "Camille!" There is the third act in "La Tosca!" There is the scene in Sudermann's "Foyer Paternal!" But from them all I shall select the great scene in "Olivia" as the very, very greatest."

Vesta Tilley is Mrs. Walter de Frece and has been for five years. Mr. de Frece is his wife's business manager and writes many of her songs. In a newspaper interview in Chicago, the other day, the little actress said:

"I don't believe much in the new woman. I think women should be womanly and sweet, and the bloomers are dreadful. I would not think of appearing in them on the street—although in my profession I always wear boys' clothes. And the bicycle is awful. I would never ride one. At home only a few of our women ride, and then it is so different. They keep in their own grounds—which is another matter. I have seen some pretty suits—in fact, some very pretty suits—with skirts to the ankle, gaiters and jaunty jackets and hats, but the bloomers I can never admire. It is a fortunate thing that women can take care of themselves so well nowadays and hold their pace in so many professions, but in private life there is nothing so attractive as a womanly woman."

When in costume Miss Tilley wears a masculine ring on her third finger because, says she, "It covers my wedding ring, and I would never take that off."

Miss Tilley's father was a theatrical manager and she has been on the stage since she was 5 years old. She and her husband are a devoted pair. He is the first to know just what will please her best, and in spite of her public life she is a gentle little piece of feminine charm as rare as she is refreshing in these fin de siecle days. No word of scandal has ever touched Miss Tilley's reputation, nor even the suspicion of one. She has quietly gone about her work, achieving remarkable success and minding her own affairs. Mr. Pastor paid this successful little impersonator $600 a week during her New York engagement and Mr. Henderson increased the sum to $625 a week for Chicago. She expects to return to America next May in burlesque.

Lotta was the special guest of honor at the "June social" of the Professional Woman's league in New York Monday. She is described as looking "very charming and dainty and young in a delicate lavender silk. She wore a pretty bonnet, massed with big magenta flowers, perched upon her short, fluffy auburn curls, and had the quick little familiar movements that make her the the same Lotta off the stage that she is upon it."

Mrs. A. M. Palmer, president of the league, made a little speech. She said: "We have had many meetings in this room, but it is a special pleasure to meet here today to honor a guest whose name is synonymous with joy and happiness—Miss Lotta Crabtree. That name marks a career of prosperity and honor, of which we are particularly proud, because its owner is a member of this organization. She represents all that is beautiful as an actress and a woman."

There was tremendous applause, and little Miss Lotta rose to say a few words in reply. "All I have to say, my friends," she remarked, "is that if everybody had the mother I have there would be lots just like me," and there was more enthusiastic applause.

The cables announce that May Yohe, the American chorus girl who ran away to England and became the wife of Lord Francis Hope, is going to make an American tour. "Lady May Yohe" is extremely popular in London, where she is considered a very talented and attractive burlesquer.

The Dramatic News estimates that there will be twenty-five comic opera and extravaganza companies next season and predicts disaster. Besides, where are all the chorus girls to come from—and go to?

DRAMATIC ASPIRANTS.

One-Third of the Number Young Married Women.

"I should say, from experience, that quite one-third of the female dramatic aspirants nowadays are young married women—and some of them not so very young," said one of the best-known dramatic and "variety" agents in this country.

"I should by no means like to say that a love of admiration or excitement is the cause of this, as a rule, though that is palpably often the case; but rather that many of these women, after leaving the comfortable homes of their parents, have begun to feel the pinch of straitened means, and have resolved to help their husbands. Besides, I think that it is that the young married woman feels more emancipated than she did prior to marriage, where very likely she cherished a hopeless passion for the stage. Anyhow, the married aspirant always seems infinitely more confident than does her unmarried sister.

"I am sorry to say that some unscrupulous agents make a good deal of money out of this movement on the part of married women. The latter seldom say that they are married, and the agent of the kind I refer to purposely refrains from asking them any pressing questions. He places them on his books, and when he has reason for supposing that the husband would object, he affects to have got them an engagement at some rather fast theater. In most cases these women have not told their husbands about their negotiations with the agent, and directly the husband learns that an engagement has been concluded, he rushes round to the agent, and generally ends by paying forfeit to the extent of from $10 to $100 lest the engagement should go on or the matter should come out in court. Scores of forfeits are paid yearly in this way."

THE PROPERTY MAN.

Must Be a Hustler in a Large Theater.

The property man in a large theater is a man of infinite resources, of ubiquitous presence and of tireless energy, says the New York Sun. He must be something of an artist, a good deal of an artisan and possess a considerable amount of executive ability. He is probably the hardest worked man about a theater during the setting and rehearsing of a new piece, but after the play has been once satisfactorily launched he takes things more easily. To use his own expression, "he has a graft."

Even then he is still responsible for everything movable on the stage except the actors and the scenery, but the actual work of placing the various articles where they should be at the proper time and taking them off before they get in the way is attended to by his assistants.

During the preliminary work, though, his duties are without end. If the leading woman is required by her lines to carry a handkerchief with a hole in one corner, it is the property man's place to see that the hole is there. If the scene calls for a Hindoo idol or a two-horned rhinoceros, the property man must supply it. Many of the things he makes himself, others he borrows and the more elaborate properties he has to buy.

John G. Gilmartin, property man at the Casino, paused a few minutes the other day in the midst of the work of getting together the "props" for "The Merry World."

He said he was busy, and he looked it. He was surrounded by what looked like a heterogeneous mass of junk, completely filling the property room and overflowing into the passages and byways under the stage.

"This work is nearly over," he said, "and I am glad of it. I never had so many props to get together for a single piece in my life. Something is added to each rehearsal, and everything has been changed more or less since we began. I have everything from a property piano to a handful of dust, and from an elephant to a snake.

"You see," he added, "the author simply calls for things in his manuscript by a little marginal note, and then I have to do my best to get what he wants. For instance, here is an item 'bric-a-brac.' No, there are no directions as to the kind of bric-a-brac, so I have to just get what seems right to me, and then see if it suits the stage manager. If it doesn't I have to try again.

"All the small vases and other ornaments used in a burlesque of this sort are made of paper mache, and I make them myself. If we had real china and pottery, they would be broken often just for the sake of getting a laugh. It's funny, no doubt, but expensive, so we have to look out for it.

"A property man has to go through a long course of training and lots of hard work before he knows all there is to the business. There was Samuel Wallis, of the old Niblo's garden. He has been gone these many years, but he broke in lots of the boys before he died. He was the best in the business. He was a hard man to work for, but he knew it all.

"In his time we used to make the stage else. Those old gothic chairs formerly used in every play that came along were all made by the property man. They were made to last, and they did, until people got tired of them. Now our furniture is often the very finest that is made, and is borrowed, or sometimes bought outright from the dealers.

"There are many little tricks we have to know and, and you would never guess what it is that produces some of the best effects. For instance, Mr. Jefferson wanted more thunder in the "Rip Van Winkle" storm scene once. He said he must have rumbles and crashes and lots of noise, and told me to make it. Well, I thought a while and then went to a horse car stable and bought half a dozen old sheet iron car dashboards. Then I got a lot of cannon balls of various sizes. Five of the dashboards I arranged like a coal chute, with the sixth placed several feet below the lower end. I kept the cannon balls at the upper end of the chute, and let them roll down and fall on the dashboard below.

"You never heard such a racket in your life, but it was first rate thunder. Sometimes one ball would go down alone very slowly, and make a long roll of distant thunder; and then I would let a dozen or more go together and fall with a crash. It was a great effect, and Mr. Jefferson was satisfied.

"Snow is very simple. We buy that at stationary shops all cut ready to use. The sound of the wind is made by rubbing a piece of silk stretched on a frame, and I usually represent the rain with a sieve and a handful of shot.

"The first time real rain was ever used on the stage, I believe, was in a play called 'Lost,' at the Grand Opera house in 1869. The stage was entirely covered with a shallow tank, and perforated pipes were run overhead. Then the water was turned on. That was realism. The actors in that scene wore rubber clothes or they would have taken cold every night.

"There is a little contrivance to represent hoof beats. It is simply a slab of marble and two blocks of wood with horseshoes nailed on them. The operator holds one block in each hand and beats a tattoo on the marbles.

"There are lots of hand properties—the things the actors have to use in each scene. They seem to be in confusion, but they are not. This basket contains everything used in the first scene of the first act; everything for the second is here, and so on.

"This is the 'Mme. Sans Gene' scene in the corner here. You see flatirons, soap, wash boards, soapsuds made of cotton batting and all. And so it goes. Everything must be in its place.

"We keep duplicates of most of the small props for use in case one of them should be lost or stolen. Here are three snakes for the Cleopatra scene, though only one is used at a time.

"After the play gets well going I shall have four men at each side of the stage to attend to everything, and my hardest work will be over. It has been a hustle to get everything together, though. In this one piece there are between $1100 and $1200 worth of hand props; and that is nearly all represented by labor. The things themselves are worth nothing to speak of, and will probably never be used in another play."

SHE BECAME A SINGER.

How Pauline Lucca Taught Herself to Sing.

When Pauline Lucca was only 8 years old a chance exhibition of her gift of song decided that she must become a songstress, says an Eastern paper. The child was a half-pay pupil at a fashionable private school in Vienna, her parents being too poor—though of aristocratic birth—to pay the usual fee. Pauline was not a good scholar, and she was very plain. Poverty, stupidity and plainness separated her from the society of her schoolmates and from the attention of her teachers. Only one person noticed her—Father Jeestrabek, an old priest and the religious instructor of the school. He was destined to speak the word that should make her a singer, and thus give her fame and fortune.

The weekly singing lessons of her schoolmates brought hours of happiness. She was not to open her mouth to sing—singing lessons were extra—though permitted to be present on condition that she carried in and out the books and instruments. But she practiced at home, singing long and loud whenever she was sure not to be heard by her mother. From an autobiographical sketch we condense the story of what followed from those self-taught singing lessons.

On the day of the annual examination she was seated on the last bench, wearing a dress made of a white muslin window curtain. Her mother had been unable to buy a new dress for the occasion. Suddenly her name was called.

She stood up, nervously, failed to answer the questions of the examiner, and sat down crying, while pupils and visitors laughed. Then the examination in singing began, and all the pupils in the class rose to show what they could do.

Pauline also stood up, though the principal, with an angry eye, motioned to her to keep her seat.

Each of the children sang her song as the names were called. All had sat down after receiving more or less encouragement on the part of the teacher, but of little Pauline nobody seemed to take notice.

Dumb, with wet eyes, she looked appealingly at Father Jeestrabek, who said in encouraging tones:

"The little one over there must sing us a song before we go."

"But," said the principal, "she can not sing. Pauline has never had instruction."

"It does not matter in the least; she must give us a song."

Then turning to the girl he asked: "What can you sing?"

A stone fell from Pauline's heart as she heard these words. "I can sing everything the others have sung," she said, proudly and with a freedom from embarrassment that astonished herself.

"Well, sing us 'Wann's Mailafterl Went.'"

"I never sang better than on that afternoon," says Lucca. "When I had finished the first song, and the applause struck my ears, I began another, and did not stop until I saw everybody crowd around my mother, shaking her by the hand and congratulating her on such a jewel of a daughter.

"As I went toward my mother a fat, red-faced gentleman declared before the whole school that I had a phenomenal talent, which must be cultivated at all costs. He was, as I learned afterward, Joseph Erl, at that time a celebrated tenor.

"My fate had now taken a decided turn for the better. Erl sent me to the choir master of the Church of St. Charles, Joseph Rupprecht, who took such care in educating me.

"Under his training I made such rapid progress that four years later, when the celebrated singer Tietjens fell suddenly ill, I was able to take her place, singing the solo part at the offertory without previous study. I had not even heard it before, but sang it entirely by the notes—I a child of 12. This is the true story of how I became a songstress."

HERRING FISHERIES.

An Important Item in Food Supply of the World.

No fish plays a more important part in the food supply of Europe and America than the herring, and it has been important in Europe for something like 1000 years, and perhaps for many centuries longer. French, English, Scotch, Dutch and Scandinavian fishermen have been pursuing the herring for many generations, says the New York Sun. The name of the fish indicates its gregarious character, for the word comes from a root signifying an army. The Welsh name for the fish comes from a Welsh root of like meaning. As a single small herring produces 10,000 eggs and a larger one many more, it is not difficult to understand why the ocean still swarms with these fish after centuries of slaughter.

The seagoing fishermen of all lands are a hardy, courageous and interesting people, though few of them seem so picturesque to English-speaking persons as those of the French coast. It was one of these French fishermen, the father of twenty-one children, who was the grandfather of Audubon, the naturalist. The fisherman's one famous son went forth a boy of 12 from his father's house a few sous in his pocket to return an admiral of France and rich enough to make himself master of a fine estate near his early home. This was the father of our own Audubon, in whom the traits of the French fishermen were continued.

The fishermen of the French Atlantic coast are simple men, pious in their way, and industrious, if not from choice, then from the necessities of an ill-paid trade. Whenever the fishermen enter or leave the little harbor of Brow they salute the church where their wives go to mass, and the church bell answers the salute. The three French ports of Boulogne, Calais and Dunkirk send more than 700 vessels to the herring fisheries, or about one-tenth of the whole number of European vessels engaged in the trade. There are herring to be caught the year round on some part of the European coast, though they differ greatly in size and quality. The Yarmouth herring are perhaps best known in the United States, though small Scotch herring and kippered herring from other parts than Yarmouth are also consumed in this country. Perhaps the most famous in Europe are the little Dutch herring, from 7 to 7½ inches long, and the Scotch herring of Stornoway. Herring of half the length of the little Dutch herring are caught on the banks off Dunkirk.

The law of the fisheries of the North sea was laid down in the treaty of The Hague, and the police of that sea are the navies of the nations along its borders. There never has been any serious conflict over the fisheries, though 150,000 men and 7000 boats take part in the industry. The French government puts its fisheries under the charge of the officers in command of neighboring naval stations, while a corps of scientific men under the bureau de l'agriculture study the habits of food fishes and the methods of fishing.

The Boulogne fishing vessels, called Dundees, came into harbor in good season with 600 or 700 casks of herring in pickle, as the curing is done on board. So important was a now abandoned method of curing herring that the emperor, Charles V, traveling in Holland, visited the tomb of the inventor of that method. The herring fishermen of Boulogne leave home for the opening of their season about the middle of this month. Booted and oilskinned, they hoist sail to the music of their own voices, their women ashore looking on. A cloud of handkerchiefs bid them farewell. When a cable's length beyond the harbor there is silence on board the fleet and the fishermen turn to face the already embrowned dome of Notre Dame of Boulogne and to murmur a prayer to the protectress of seamen, "Saint Mary, intercede for us poor fishermen." The women have meanwhile resumed to make their traditional pilgrimage to the "Jesus flagelle" on the cliff.

THE COMING CIRCUS.

Lemen Brothers' Great Circus on Monday Next.

On Monday next Lemen Bros. are coming, in command of the big show. They have a double circus and hippodrome; the finest horses and greatest performers of Europe and America. A big menagerie of wild beasts; quite a number of wild animals entirely new to America. Then an aquarium of sea monsters in huge tanks. Having traveled all over the world they have accumulated many living phenomena of surpassing interest. Altogether it is unquestionably the very best show in the country. A grand free balloon ascension is given daily. The magnificent spectacular street pageant is highly spoken of. They will no doubt have immense audiences here, judging from the character of the show and the enthusiasm of the anxious public.

Among the recent developments in the world of sports in Australia is the training of the kangaroo to stand up and spar with a human antagonist. An exhibition of this curious kind of combat now takes place regularly daily in the ring with the great Lemen Bros.' shows and is attracting many spectators.

The way in which the natural kangaroo spars in the bush, his birthplace, is peculiar. He places his front paws gently—almost lovingly—upon the shoulders of his antagonist, and then proceeds to disembowl him with a sudden and energetic movement of one of his hind feet.

From this ingenious method of practicing the art of self-defense the kangaroo with Lemen Bros.' shows has been weaned. The clever instructor of this ingenious marsupial has trained it to conduct a contest under the conditions known as marquis of Queensberry rules. It cannot be said that it adheres to these regulations quite as rigidly as the combatants who pummel each other at the National Sporting club are requested to do. On the contrary, it cannot wholly disabuse itself of the idea, favored by the French, though discountenanced by the English, that those who are attacked have as good a right to defend themselves with their feet as with their hands. It affects la savate in preference to the boxe pre-direction which, considering the force with which a kangaroo can kick, might quite conceivably cause an injury to his antagonist. However, no harm has yet been done, and the encounter between human and marsupial is spirited and novel, and admirably illustrates the power of man to bend the brute creation to his will.

Another great feature of the show is Rajah, the big elephant. The Washington Star says of this immense beast:

"Science teaches us that the largest animals that ever existed on the globe inhabited the portions of North America known as the Great North American Desert, which laid between the Mississippi river and the Rocky mountains, the proof of which is verified through Rajah, the big elephant belonging to the Lemen Bros.' show. Rajah having lived a season at winter quarters in Argentine, Kan., grew two inches taller and 1000 pounds heavier in one year, and still growing, which makes him the largest living creature of God and is proof positive that this climate is still the natural home of large animals. Lemen Bros. claim that with proper food animals will grow faster and larger in this climate than in Africa or Asia."

REINDEER

How the Alaskan Herd is Increasing in Every Way.

Animals are Very Easily Domesticated and Love Their Masters.

Some Hitherto Unpublished Facts About a Very Interesting Experiment.

It was a happy moment when a plan suggested itself that would solve the problem of the Eskimo's daily meal, and might prove as profitable to citizens of the United States as the destruction of whales and seals, says our Animal Friends. It was none other than to introduce upon the barren tundra the domesticated reindeer of Lapland, a country which but for the reindeer would be uninhabitable by man. It was thought that it would be necessary to go to Lapland for the deer. In Siberia, only across the strait from Alaska, were Eskimos possessing large herds of reindeer. But it was understood that the superstitious Koriaks would not sell live reindeer, deeming it bad luck; and having hitherto supplied the Alaskan Eskimos with deer skins for clothing, they might also consider it bad policy to part with them. Again, it was asked, would the reindeer bear ship transportation? Would there be sufficient food for them? And would the Eskimo themselves take kindly to the innovation? Finally, even if all these questions were settled satisfactorily, could the native dogs be kept from molesting the deer? Today every question has been answered.

The steamer Bear, after many days of bargaining, and only after the deer men had gone through a curious ceremony of plucking hair from the deer and throwing it to the winds, secured sixteen deer, which were turned loose on one of the Aleutian islands after a successful transportation of a thousand miles in severe gales. The following year these were found by the Bear to be in good condition, with two fawns added to their number. And as food, it was found that in the interior of Alaska there was a great abundance of grass, and especially of the moss which the deer particularly affect.

A Siberian reindeer harness is a simple affair. A strap of seal hide is passed over the shoulders, somewhat after the manner of a horse's breast strap, except instead of having a trace on each side, one end of the strap is passed across the breast between between the animal's legs, and is fastened to a single tug on the righthand side. When two deer thus harnessed are driven side by side, as is the usual custom, it will be seen that one deer is directly in front of the sled, while the other is off to one side. No bit is used. Two straps are passed around the head, one in front and one behind the horns, and are connected by a short strap. To the right-hand side of this headstall a single line is attached, having at the other end a loop which the driver secures about his wrists in such a way that in case of an upset, about all he can do is to hold on to the lines and be dragged until the team is winded. The deer are guided simply by throwing the line to the right or left as desired. The sled is the same as the Eskimo dog sleds. It is eight or ten feet long, a foot and a half wide and a foot high. The runners are of wood shod with whalebone, and there is a railing built around to hold the passenger or baggage in place. Frequently in Siberia the platform of the sled is built upon arched reindeer horn. The whole is tied together, not a nail being used.

Sometimes a team of dogs would attack a deer team, but in that case the driver needed but to run to the deer's heads to give them confidence, when they would turn upon their assailants, striking savagely with their sharp fore hoofs. Sometimes the result of an attack would be a mad chase in which the dog teams were winded after several miles. But certainly the dogs were not so troublesome to the deer as to sheep in the United States, which is the more surprising, as there were upward of 300 prowling, snarling, yelping, hungry wolf dogs near the herd. The gait of the reindeer is smooth, and the animal makes better time than it seems. It thrusts its nose out level with its back, and trots square, overreaching with its long hind legs. It rarely breaks into a gallop, and then chiefly when suddenly alarmed. It can travel as fast as a horse or faster, in spite of its small size, being not larger than a small Jersey heifer.

Milking has been tried at the station, but not with great success, and only after throwing the animal down and sitting on her neck. Even then it was deemed necessary by the Siberians to adopt the natural method, which they did with seemingly great satisfaction. Even in Lapland it is said that the deer when milked is always thrown, the man holding her down while his wife milks. The milk is very rich, like cream, but only about a pint is given at a milking.

The Eskimos have taken extraordinary interest in the new herd. Natives have come 300 or 400 miles expressly to see the deer. It is intended that capable young Eskimos shall serve an apprenticeship of two years and then be put in charge each of a herd of his own and sent to his own village, where he can, in turn, instruct others. But it may be necessary to keep the herd together longer than that, for 400 to 500 deer are needed to support a family. Reindeer require much watching, as they wander long distances for food, unless it is plentiful, and even, like the caribou in Newfoundland, perform regular migrations twice a year. The herd must, therefore, be watched by day and night. A deer in Alaska will haul from fifty to seventy-five pounds besides a man, which is said to be all they should be required to draw. The number of miles they ought to be driven at a stretch is doubtless overestimated, and has not yet been determined under Alaskan conditions. The great advantage deer possess over dogs for traveling is that it is impossible to make a journey with dogs of more than a certain number of hundreds of miles, owing to the impossibility of hauling sufficient food for the team. But a deer feeds wherever it goes. It is only necessary to stop, say four times a day, and tether the animal by a rope; and as it is impossible in winter to drive a stake into that frozen ground, the deer men select a small hummock, which they chop with the hatchet so as to leave a sort of upright head, over which they slip a loop on the end of the sixty-foot tether.

In our reindeer experiment we have reached the end of the beginning, and the practical results have begun already to appear. If the appropriations of congress are continued, the whole of barren Alaska will be stocked, beyond the possibility of doubt, with millions of deer, not only giving employment and support to thousands of natives, but being the future source from which we shall obtain the skins for gloves, etc., and (in view of the extinction of other furs) for carriage and sleigh robes.

But there will be yet another benefit. At present, communication with the outside world is possible but once a year, and in winter not even the native villages can communicate with each other; so that a village or a ship's crew would perish before relief could be sent for. With reindeer, traveling so much faster than dogs, a regular, say a monthly, post route could be maintained with Northern Alaska. The great whaling fleet which winters in the Arctic at the mouth of the Mackenzie river could then communicate with their owners and friends, instead of waiting for a whole year to report either their success or their safety.

In conclusion, it may be worth while to tell how the Siberian punishes his reindeer. He never beats it or strikes it when refractory, but simply throws it to the ground (which he does by bearing his weight upon its back and pulling its legs from under), then gives it a good shaking, as much as to say, "you will, will you?" and then lets it up.

BILLIARD BALLS.

How They are Made and Prepared for Market.

When in the factory the tusks are carefully examined by an expert, to detect any possible flaws or cracks that may exist, for, besides the dangers to the ivory from careless handling while in transit, the original possessor of the ivory is by no means so careful of his tusks as he ought to be, considering their value, and with the utmost disregard of the precious material of which they are composed, uses them for fighting, for uprooting small trees and shrubs, for overturning stones and for grubbing in the ground without any very definite purpose that is apparent to the human observer. Of course, he often splits his tusks, and a very minute crack, hardly discernible to the eye, will seriously impair the value of a long and beautiful piece of ivory. If the crack is extensive the tusk must be devoted to another purpose than that of making billiard balls, but supposing the tusk to be found perfect, it is passed on to another expert, who measures it and marks it at proper distances to be cut into blocks.

It is then sawed into lengths of two and one-half to three inches, according to the size of the balls to be made, and the resulting blocks are passed on into the hands of the turners. Turning lathes of unusual accuracy and delicacy are put to work and the ivory dust begins flying in all directions. Not to be lost, however, Ivory is too precious to be wasted. Every speck of dust is carefully gathered up at the end of each day's work. When a sufficient quantity has been accumulated, it is treated with chemicals and by means of a peculiar cement and the use of a hydraulic press is molded into a compact and apparently homogeneous mass. From this are manufactured many small articles, which present all the appearance of ivory and are in reality such, though not in its original state.

On account of the value of the material, the utmost care is used in the cutting, and the cylindrical shape of the blocks enables an economy that would not be suspected. Everyone has seen ivory martingale rings, but everyone does not know that these come from the two ends of the ivory block that is being turned into shape for a billiard ball. They are cut out with as much care as the ball itself, and afterward rounded and polished with the same scrupulous attention.

The ball itself, after being roughly turned, is laid aside for at least six months to season and harden, for the ivory, when freshly cut, is very soft, or, at least, very much softer than it afterwards becomes, and when the seasoning is properly effected the turning is completed and the polishing at first by a very ingenious machine, is continued with prepared chalk and chamois, then with the leather alone, and finally completed with the bare palms of the operator. The ball is now finished, so far as the mechanical processes of manufacture are concerned, and passed on to the wholesale and retail dealers, but the risk is by no means ended when the work is done, for few materials are so sensitive to atmospheric and temperature changes as ivory, and at almost any moment the ball may become lessened in value by the appearance on its surface of tiny cracks or flaws. If these are superficial they impair only the looks of the ball, but sometimes they extend far into the interior and the ball will then break in two or chip with rough usage.

ROTTEN

A Glimpse Into the Inner Circle of British Aristocracy.

Scarcely a Closet Which Does Not Contain a Family Skeleton.

Not All So Happy as They Seem to the Onlookers.

To see the merry, aristocratic crowd that gathers within the reserved enclosure at Ascot, a society function that this June was celebrated with all its accustomed regal splendor, one would hardly think beneath the exuberance of the surface, concealed perchance by the hypothetical gilded coronet, that many a sad heart beats and that many latent points of anguish, enshrouded with a Nemesis or Frankenstein, even in the giddy hour of the pursuit of pleasure, exist. Aye, 'tis true, with many a devotee of fashion that thoughts of past, present or future threatening troubles absorb the mind, and while an assumed vacuous smile illuminates the face, black care is developing its cancerous growth of conscientious misery, says "The Stable Mouse" in the New York Mercury.

Externally all is gaiety, magnificent toilets, charming equipages, a vast assemblage of fair women and brave men grace the scene with redundancy. Where else can such an endless number of elegantly equipped and splendidly horsed four-in-hands be found gathered together? To add charm to the sunny scene, the dulcet, dreamy music of the Coldstream Guards' band enlivens the air. One has but to watch the vein of enthusiasm that pervades even the prince of Wales' regal stand, after some gold cup, vase or mighty 2-year-old race has just been decided, in which the pick of English equine thoroughbreds have thrown down the gauntlet and competed. A stranger would almost imagine that Ascot was Elysium itself. Permit me, Asmodeus like, to lift the veil, and I fear we shall find two sides to every picture.

It is impossible at times, even with the highest in the land, as a rule the most genial and bonhommie of men, the prince of Wales, to drive away dull thoughts. See for a moment as silent alone he leans against a supporting pillar adjacent to the royal box, a dark cloud momentarily passes over his brow. Perchance he thinks of his departed eldest born Clarence, maybe of York's dubious health, or of his own increasing infirmities—a life of ever-recurring dulcet pleasures is apt to tell its inevitable tale upon a satiated constitution—like a youthful bee he can no longer sip honey from every flower—Lady Mordaunts and Langtrys have vanished from his gaze, Paris is blase, while to add to perturbed thoughts, did not accursed gossip-mongering, parvenu Tranby court put its black seal on baccarat.

Coming up to awaken the prince from his reverie are two gentlemen, somewhat resembling one another in appearance—you might correctly take them for father and son—the elder, the rather fierce-looking, gray-whiskered gentleman, who reaches not three score years and ten, is his royal highness the duke of Cambridge, commander-in-chief of the British army. The younger, though middle-aged, is Col. Fitz-George, the duke's eldest son by his morganatic marriage with Miss Farebrother, a quondam Drury lane burlesque actress, with whom in his salad days—he was then Prince George—the duke fell desperately in love. Mme. Vestus and Miss Farebrother in those now distant days were the Thespian beauties—even as Cissy Fitzgerald now is in New York of the transient hour.

The duke married Miss Farebrother. The queen, however, would never recognize the marriage. Hence the name "Fitz," son of George—Fitz-George, even as we had in former times Fitz-Roy, Fitz-Clarence, et al., but under our good Queen Victoria's rigid regime there has been more legitimacy and less illegitimacy. Poor Miss Farebrother died only a short time ago. She made a faithful wife and devoted mother. After her death the queen recognized Col. Fitz-George and other members of the family; in fact, the colonel is now a frequent visitor at Windsor and a welcome guest. Still, long, long years with a beloved wife under the ban must, say what one may, have caused a dismal skeleton in the Cambridge household.

That peculiar looking man (reader, kindly take me as pro tem. playing the part of Asmodeus) who seems all angles, with as many wrinkles as a ripe Stilton cheese has blue streaks permeating it, and a neck more elongated than possibly any other on the racecourse, is Lord Allington, one of the prince's most fulsome courtiers. Originally he was plain Gerard Sturt, but he, like Sir Perlinay Mac-Sycophant in Macklin's inimitable comedy of "The Man of the World," has "booed" himself into the peerage. Lord Allington has recently married a charming American lady, who is younger than his own daughters. It is a veritable case of May and December to see the ill-assorted pair together. Lord Allington looks like an antiquated stork and she, fair lady, like a dove. Asmodeus asks, Is there not, adverting to the disparity of ages, a skeleton beneath this coronet?

We now come across Lord Durham, who has just completed his term of office as steward of the Jockey club. This by no means attractive looking nobleman some time ago made himself rather conspicuous by a foolish speech at the Gimcrack club at York (a club founded in honor of a celebrated race horse called Gimcrack). Now it is the practice of this club to hold an annual dinner at York. This dinner is usually attended by some prominent member of the Jockey club, such as the Hon. James Louther, who is expected to indulge in a post prandial speech on horse racing and the turf. Lord Durham on one occasion held forth and indulged with questionable taste in a violent attack against Sir George Chetwynd, also a member of the Jockey club.

Sir "Jarge" instituted legal proceedings against Lord Durham. The stewards of the Jockey club by a rule of court heard the case. The stewards were the Hon. James Louther, Prince Soltykoff and the earl of March. After a protracted hearing it ended in a drawn battle, but the revelations that came out compelled Sir George Chetwynd to resign his membership of the Jockey club. Very little public sympathy was elicited in favor of Lord Durham for his Don Quixotic and spiteful conduct.

Lord Durham married a Miss Milner, sister of Lady Gerard. One of the Milner family (they are great in marriages) at 30 married the dowager duchess of Montrose at about 70. Lord Durham's marriage was not a happy one. Report has it his temper is not the most amiable one. His wife as a girl was in love with Lord Burgesh (now Lord Westmoreland), then eldest son of the earl. The Westmorelands were very poor. Lord Westmoreland, a charming type of the fine old English gentleman, unfortunately lost his heritage on the turf. Now Lord Durham (thanks to collieries) was very rich. Leverage — family leverage — was brought to bear on Miss Milner. Against her will she was forced to accept the earl of Durham. This drove her mad. The earl sued for a divorce, but failed. His poor mad wife is still in a lunatic asylum. Asmodeus asks, "Is there not a skeleton in the house of Durham?"

Yon tall gentlemanly semi-military looking man, with light blue dreamy eyes, fair, wearing knickerbockers—probably about 45—is Lord Euston, heir to the dukedom of Grafton. He married a woman of low surroundings named Kate Walsh Smith, but differences arising after a time, urged on by the Grafton family, he sued for a divorce on the grounds that Kate Walsh Smith had a husband living at the time he married her. The suit was a sensational one. Sir Charles Russell, Q. C. (now Lord Russell of Killowen), and Mr. Murphy, Q. C., appeared for Lord Euston; Mr. Ferdenand, Q. C., and Montague Williams for the wife. Kate Welsh, in her marriage to Lord Euston, described herself as a widow. She was 28, Lord Euston was 22. Unfortunately for Kate Welsh, she employed a solicitor named Froggatt, who robbed her of the money Lord Euston settled on her. Froggatt was convicted.

Lord Euston deserted his wife and went to America, where he obtained government employment. He subsequently returned to England and found that when he married Kate Walsh she had a husband living, a certain G. M. Smith. The Smith marriage took place at Glasgow; there was no doubt of it, and by the inquiries of the Grafton family the date was proved to be July 6, 1863. The difficulty was to find G. M. Smith. Kate Walsh, in a county court action, had sworn that her husband had gone down in the steamer London, lost in the Bay of Biscay outward bound for Melbourne, Australia.

The widow of this G. M. Smith proved, however, it was not Kate Walsh's G. M. Smith, but eventually relatives of the original Simon pure were found, who gave conclusive evidence that the proper G. M. Smith—that is, Kate Walsh's G. M. Smith—had another wife, and that her G. M. Smith lived for four years after Kate Walsh went through the ceremony of marriage with Lord Euston. Lord Euston's petition was therefore, under the circumstances, dismissed. Kate Walsh, who is reported to be leading an immoral life in London, remains Lord Euston's wife, and when he becomes duke of Grafton this worthy lady will add further lustre to the English aristocracy by becoming duchess of Grafton.

By a singular coincidence, Lord Euston and his chere amie lived at Jeddington, adjacent to the residence of the writer of this article. Kate Walsh was a handsome blonde, rather inclined to embompoint. She had two conspicuous weaknesses, viz., pug dogs and swearing. Her mother was a laundress in Jeddington village, whilst her father used to fetch and carry on a barrow the clean and dirty linen. As Asmodeus, I again ask, 'tis there not a skeleton in Lord Euston's cupboard?"

Talking to Lady Gerard is her brother, Henry Milner, fair, slight, apparently looding younger than he really is—anyway he is considerably under forty. He is the widower of the recently deceased duchess of Montrose. Except 15000 per annum, which the old lady gave the youngster to marry her, she did not leave him a farthing, nor mention him in her will. The duchess was peculiar in temper. The young man and the old lady quarreled over the management of their race horses. The feud grew to be a bitter one and the old duchess died without forgiving her pervesant benedict. To the duchess of Montrose's honor, be it said, she left a very considerable portion of her immense fortune to London churches and the London poor.

Two anecdotes concerning the late duchess will give a good idea of her character. Her predominent characteristics were love of horse racing, extreme petulance and a spirit of nonforgiveness when once offended. George Fordham, the most celebrated jockey of her period, was riding a mare called Out of Bounds for her grace. She gave strict orders to Georgie to come right away at the bushes. This he was unable to do, as the mare was beaten and failed to answer to his call. The duchess was in a foaming rage, and raked Fordham with a vengance in the weighing room when he returned.

"Didn't I tell you to come away," screamed the old lady in irritable tones. She kept repeating this until Fordham, usually quiet, lost his temper and replied: "If I had come away I should have had to have come away without the mare," adding, "If you don't like my riding there's your jacket and cap, you'd better get some one else to ride for you who'll satisfy you." Fordham never rode again for "The Scarlet Duchess."

On another occasion her grace was greatly "riled" with Capt. Machell, who had persuaded Lord Calthorpe to give the reserved price for Sea Breeze and other yearlings from the Duchess' Sopton stud. They proved a very successful purchase, Sea Breeze winning Oaks and Leger. Of course, the duchess was much annoyed in parting with such equine treasures through the captain's instrumentality. Hearing Capt. Machell was very ill with bilious fever the duchess at her dinner table the same evening remarked out of absolute spite: "Thank God, the captain has a liver at any rate."

Lord Hastings, the owner of the Derby winner, Melton, sold by the English for continental stud purposes, had not long since to undergo his trial for assault on a nursemaid in Regent's park he was convicted, but an appeal to quarter sessions through interest, no doubt, the conviction was quashed. Lord Hastings is one of the prince of Wales' clique. Considering his charming wife, as Asmodeus I ask, "Has not Lord Hastings a skeleton?"

Sir Frederick Johnstone, another of the prince's intimate pals, is partner moreover in racing with Lord Alington—their registered colors are "yellow and chocolate sleeves." The brimstone and treacle combination they are chaffingly called. Lord Alington, I suppose, is the treacle, and Sir Frederick the brimstone. Many curious tales are afloat regarding Sir Frederick Johnstone and his Parisian peculiarities. He is a slim, sallow, clean-shaven, cadaverous-looking baronet with the distinctive characteristic of being a pronounced roue. He figured conspicuously as a co-respondent in the celebrated Lady Mordaunt divorce suit, and though immensely wealthy, is there not a skeleton beneath his golden baronetcy?

The duke of Beaufort at one time was a smart, consistent supporter of racing, always mixing with the creme de la creme at aristocratic society. In the Hastings era, when the duke trained at Danebury and owned such celebrities as anban, Rustic, etc., he was a mighty turfite. Later, under Joe Cannon's charge, the little black Petronel, a son of Musket, did yeoman service for him. The duke has dropped quite into the sere and yellow leaf. He is but the shadow of his former self.

He was once the sprucest of the spruced, the Beau Brummel of his period. He has, however, fearfully aged yet scandal has not let his grace pass through life without its venomous tongue assailing him. Ever fond of the footlights in front, and especially behind, he was looked upon as the actresses' protection. Gallant beyond measure to all, in his declining years shadows must pass before his eyes, memories of pretty Nellie Bromley in her zenith; of Comic Gilchrist, who as a girl-like dancer skipped herself into fame, cannot have evaporated into the obscurity of the duke's forgotten past.

Reader, bear in mind that the butterflies of the upper ten that Asmodeus has referred to are courtiers who form the heir apparent's set. They are not the offshoots of an imaginative and creative brain—each skeleton referred to is a sad reality. One thing is certain, neither coronet or diadem is a panacea for happiness. Misery and vice are not solely concomitants of the poor, but in gilded chambers with the full blaze that lightens up the coming throne, skeletons cast somber shadows on the flower of England's proud nobility.

WOMEN OF NOTE.

The Princess Maud of Wales is a bicyclist, but does not rush into bloomers. She wears a neat and modest costume, with a riding-habit skirt.

The Misses Brice, daughters of Senator Brice, will make a bicycle and kodak tour of the rural districts of France during the coming summer.

Mrs. Scott, the widow of Judge Lucien Scott, of Leavenworth, Kan., manages her own ranch in Texas, where she owns 260,000 acres of land, all fenced in, over which 6000 or 7000 cattle are browsing.

Miss Winnie Davis, who was invited to participate in the charity tableaux at the Fifth Avenue theater, New York, had to decline because of a promise made to her father that she would never appear in tableaux in public.

Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger, the well-known society leader, known in a literary way as "Ellen Gordon," has confined to her home in New York, suffering from a sprained ankle and other injuries received from a bicycle mishap.

Princess Helene of Orleans is said to have given as a reason for not being married in England: "I was born in Twickenham, I was christened in Kingston, I buried my father in Westbridge. is that not enough? Really, one can not have everything happen in England!"

Miss Powderly, the American secretary to Lady Henry Somerset, is not related to the labor agitator. She is a New England woman with a college education, whose talents and abilities are many. She is a linguist, musician, stenographer and typewriter, besides being a very beautiful penman.

Sara Bernhardt drew a large audience to a Paris civil court lately, where she was sued for not paying a horse-dealer's bill. She said that she always destroyed receipts, but that she had paid this one, and being asked if she would swear to it, said "Je le jure," and won her case. Bernhardt expects to pass the summer in an old ruined castle on the Atlantic coast of Brittany, where she hopes to lead the life of a barbarian, with only two servants—a rather luxurious barbarism—and with no more clothes than a peasant woman would need. She comes to America in October.

CURE FOR HEADACHE.

As a remedy for all forms of headache Electric Bitters has proved to be the very best. It effects a permanent cure and the most dreaded habitual sick headaches yield to its influence. We urge all who are afflicted to procure a bottle, and give this remedy a fair trial. In cases of habitual constipation Electric Bitters cures by giving the needed tone to the bowels, and few cases long resist the use of this medicine. Try it once. Large bottles only 50 cents at Max Wirth's drug store.

Painless Dentistry.

The most sensitive teeth may now be filled without pain. By a combination of anaesthetics the worst kind of decayed teeth and old roots may be extracted positively without pain or danger to the patient. Hundreds, yes, thousands in this city can attest to this fact and if you are not aware of it, ask your friends or neighbors. Endorsed by physicians. This anaesthetic is a new and happy combination of gaseous compounds. NOT A DROP OF CHLOROFORM, ETHER OR COCAINE ENTERS INTO ITS COMPOSITION. It is the safest, most harmless and pleasant of all anaesthetics. Dentists who sometimes have patients they cannot control on account of hypersensitive dentine, nervousness or irritability will do no better and owe a duty to them by sending them to me. Physicians treating cases of chronic pyaemia (BLOOD POISONING) originating from deseased teeth, nervous prostration, or weakness peculiar to women, who never get well and on account of which the teeth are often a common factor, can confer no greater benefit than to advise this anaesthetic for the extraction of their teeth, (the entire set without pain or danger and at one sitting.) If your teeth need filling or extracting, be convinced. If you do not find it to your entire satisfaction, no charges will be made. Respectfully,

W. W. Schiffman,

TREASURE

What Petersen Found While Digging a Long Island Cistern.

A Buried Treasure Which Set Many Wild Guesses Afloat.

Petersen Says Nothing But Has Taken to Strong Cigars.

When Petersen, the mason, was digging a cistern in George Wells' back yard at Baiting Hollow, L. I., ten days ago and came across an iron box, the truthful citizens of the Hollow filled it with gold and silver coin. They named a moderate amount at first. Petersen didn't deny it, says the New York Sun.

They kept increasing it until at last it reached the modest sum of $1200, of which $600 was silver, despite the fact that the box was only six inches long, four inches wide, and three and one-half inches deep, outside measurement. It would hold about a pint; $600 in silver would be two and one-half quarts. Petersen in the mean time never lost his head. He got up at 5 o'clock every morning, did the chores, and put in the rest of the day working around. He didn't deny the stories, probably because it isn't his nature to deny anything. As a matter of fact, Petersen seldom talks at all. He possesses that rare quality of never talking at all except when he has something to say, and he hasn't had anything to say about this find.

Petersen is a middle-aged man. He is of Swedish descent, and he has lived in Baiting Hollow a long while. He is tall and lean. Judging from his appearance, and not from his conversation, he doesn't rank above the average citizen of the Hollow for intelligence. Petersen's story from his own lips begins with "m-m." It continues with "m-ms," and concludes the same way, and at its conclusion Petersen walks off puffing vigorously at a strong cigar, his face hidden under a wide-brimmed straw hat.

George Wells, the village postmaster, the village storekeeper, shoemaker, tooth puller, harnessmaker, liquor and cigar dealer, hotel keeper, wall paper supplier, and newspaper correspondent, in whose back yard the treasure was found, says he has obtained a more complete story from Petersen than the above. He is the man who fixes the sum at $1300, despite the dimensions of the box. All there is of the story as he tells it is this: Petersen was digging a cistern and a man named Rudolph was wheeling away the dirt. When Rudolph's back was turned Petersen unearthed a box, which he opened. Rudolph looked at him over his shoulder and saw a handful of glittering coin. Petersen shut the box and slipped it into his pocket. Questions about the size of Petersen's pocket and the weight of the $700 worth of gold and $600 worth of silver are not answered. Lest there should be some doubt about the truth of this story because of these inconsistencies it may be said positively that Petersen found something, and it was at least enough to pay the car fare between Baiting Hollow and Long Island City next time he wants to come to New York. The amount of the find has very little to do with the story any way. The real interest in the find is the bringing to light of the fact that a deep and settled conviction exists in the minds of Baiting Hollowites that the earth about them is just full of treasures, that Capt. Kidd buried his money there, and that some day it will be found and everybody in Baiting Hollow will be rich. Over on the bluff by the sound there is a big rock. It is on a hill and is called Money Rock, because it is supposed that Kidd's money is buried somewhere in the neighborhood. This rock was named in the early days of Uncle Jonah Huls, who owned the first mineral rod in Baiting Hollow, and therefore was looked on as an oracle.

Old Mr. Wells, George Wells' father, who is 88 years old, "an' has chopped 6000 cord o' wood since drawin' blood with an ax, b' gosh," says: "Uncle Jonah he was the tarnelest man 'bout money there ever war in th' Hollow. Why, he used t' tell me that I could bury a quarter in th' sand on th' beach an' not tell him where, an' he'd go three days later an' git it. I never did take much stock in that claim, but that's what he claimed. I war mighty curious those days, but I warn't 25 cents' worth, an' that's what it 'ud 'a cost if I'd a buried it. I remember him an' Jake Benjamin goin' out toward th' rock an' drawin' a circle an' then another circle inside o' that. The rule war that nobody that stepped in th' first circle should leave it, an' all th' dirt that come out o' th' hole must be put inside those two circles; that's what Uncle Jonah said. Well, him an' Jake got inside, an' they dug an' they dug till they war down five feet. Then Jonah he felt the box an' Jake he felt excited and throwed a bit of dirt too far out, an' Uncle Jonah says that moment th' box slipped. He felt it slippin'. It went fourteen feet to the north, an' darn if it didn't stay there. They couldn't git near to it again. That's what Uncle Jonah allus used t' say, but I never took much stock in it.

"I'd say t' him sometimes: 'Well, Uncle Jonah, let's go git it,' an' he'd shout, 'no, sir, no man livin' can git it,' an' I guess they couldn't. Leastwise, nobody ever did. Uncle Jonah had another box o' gold an' silver planted in the center of the meadow, leastwise he allus said so, an' some people dug for it. But who'd believe it? I didn't. Then he located another pot 'twixt Wadin' River an' Sweeny's Landing. He said it war in a hollow and there war 450 pounds o' gold an' silver in it. But I didn't believe such stuff.

"Uncle Jonah war one o' those superstitious creeters, an' he would have staked his cabbage crop on that mineral rod o' his. He kept rampagin' around with the rod, an' one night, over in Skeleton Hollow, he says it begun jumpin' an' tearin' around like mad. Uncle Jonah knew there must be a heap o' gold near there somewhere to make that rod carry on like that. He kinder had a feelin', though, that if there war any gold there it warn't his'n. So he yanked out a leetle prayer book that he always carried in his pocket, an' he prayed that the temptation to take that gold would be taken out o' him. But the more Uncle Jonah prayed the more that mineral rod kept jumpin'. After a while he got mad an' began lookin' for the gold. It didn't take him long to find it, an' he dug it up.

"Uncle Jonah war always a leetle touchy about the amount o' gold he found. However, there war enough to buy the whole o' Riverhead town, and it was all in an old iron kittle. One o' Uncle Jonah's superstitions was that it war bad luck to dig up gold except when the moon is in the last quarter. He went back in about ten days with his mineral rod, but the blamed thing wouldn't work any more, an' Uncle Jonah never got the gold. This is what Uncle Jonah said, but who'd believe such stuff? I wouldn't.

"I should say," said Mr. Wells, "that about once in ten years Baitin' Hollow's had a fit an' th' people'd hunt for gold. Now, there was Calvin Cook, Henry Edwards, Jake Benjamin an' Squire Dan'l Edwards. They hunted around Money Rock, an' they might a' got something, only the devil got after 'em. That's what they say. Henry says he heard the rattlin' o' chains, but who'd believe that? I wouldn't. I always had it in mind that Squire Dan'l Edwards rattled chains himself t' scare Henry. Another time I was in a party. We hunted th' north side o' Lisha Dayton's place an' then out t' Winter Hill. We struck charcoal at two feet, but we couldn't get th' gold."

Mr. Wells went on and related the history of twenty or thirty gold-hunting expeditions, and then branched out on the question of mineral rods. A mineral rod, the kind that was used in Baiting Hollow, at least, is a straight stick three feet long. It is reputed to turn and point to the earth whenever the holder is on a spot under which there is any precious metal. "My brother Lewis had one," said Mr. Wells. "He got $3 for it, and my opinion is it wa'n't worth 3 cents. Now, he an' some others 'ud take that rod out an' it 'ud bend for 'em. But it 'ud never bend for me. I'd hold it tight and she'd never budge. They'd hold it an' it 'ud go over. That was because they were weak, I always thought. Any way, they near broke their backs diggin', an' they never got anything; so I don't think mineral rods are worth 3 cents, though there is people that sets great stock by 'em. I broke one of 'em up once an' it was full o' quicksilver."

It looked last week as though one of the fits that Mr. Wells told about was coming on. Petersen's find was followed by a find by Bernard Ford. Ford was plowing up a field that had never been plowed before. He came across a number of picks and two or three old coins. The bricks had light shining specks through them. They were three inches long, two inches wide and an inch thick. Ford took one to George Wells, who pronounced it silver. A piece of this was exhibited to the Sun reporter. It looked like a piece of slag. Exactly what it is is not yet known, but it certainly contains no metal of any sort. This find nevertheless added to the interest of Petersen's find, and if it hadn't been planting time the "fit" would have undoubtedly come on and the whole district would be dug up now. As it is, the excitement is dying out, and before the crops are all in it's likely that the danger will be past.

The explanation the people who don't have fits give of the finding of an occasional coin is that the British troops landed near there once during the revolution, and all the people buried their money and their silver to keep it out of the hands of the soldiers. Some of the people were killed and what they had buried was never recovered.

THREE FISHERS.

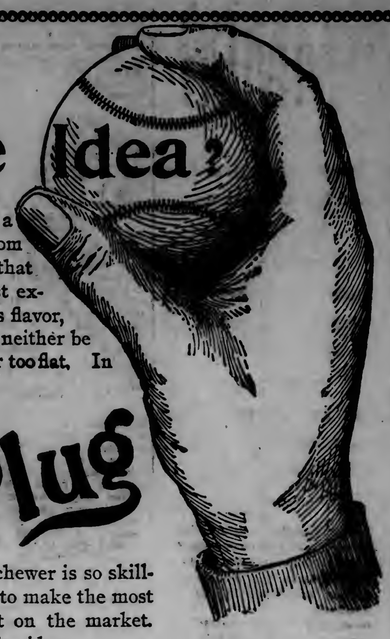

Three fishers went cautiously out the back door,
In the morning gleam, while their mothers slept;
Each thought of his school room deserted once more;
And the pious boys jeered them as downward they crept.
But boys will fish
While mothers are snug;
For fish hooks are plenty,
And worms are a drug,
And the pond is full of gudgeon.

Three mothers rose up in their righteous wrath
As soon as they found that their offsprings were gone;
Each sought for her slipper and followed the path
Where the dear ones had vanished at early dawn;
But boys will "hook,"
And mothers are stern;
And in smiles they went forth,
But in tears they return.
Though the pond is full of gudgeon.

Three urchins lay supperless down in their beds,
And they sighed when their mothers had left them alone;
For their rods had been broken across their heads,
And their fishes been eaten up all but the bone;
For boys will fish,
And mothers must "lick"—
And the fellow that stands it best is a brick,
And is apt to get most of the gudgeon.

Fashion Notes.

Ellen Osborn, a fashion writer of considerable note, and one very popular, because she talks of fashions for short as well as long purses, has the following about summer wardrobes in the Milwaukee Sentinel:

The clever girl who is contriving a summer wardrobe out of a limited number of dollars cannot do better than to look up a bargain sale of lace, ribbons and accordion-plaited chiffon. With these she can make one gown masquerade as a multitude. A crepon skirt, in color a dark green or a navy blue, with silk bodice and sleeves matching the skirt, is a dress which lends itself particularly well to the masquerade idea, but it must be well cut for these airy fairy collarettes and vests are meant for decorative effect, and cannot be fixed to hide a botch in fit or a badly finished gown. The bodice goes best with a blouse front and a plain band of ribbon at the neck. It can be worn thus in all its simplicity in the street, but for a summer evening occasion, behold how easily it can be transformed into a charming affair.

A collar of paler green silk (assuming now that the frock be a green one) can have a wide flaring bow at the back, and from each side of the throat a frill of dead white lace may fall in gradually narrowing folds to the waist. These frills must be mounted on narrow white ribbons, which are drawn under the edge of the box-plait and pinned out of sight. Where the frills are fastened at the neck-band the stitches should be covered by a very full cravat knot of white chiffon.

Another new vest arrangement of lace is wonderfully summery and therefore fetching. Lace-shaped pieces of Venetian points are placed just under the edge of the inevitable plait. Above this are sewn four pieces of lace insertion, stiffly wired so as to stand out like very aggressive wings, two on each side, with rosettes of ribbon between. This is the simplest of decorations—when you know how to arrange it—and it is surprising what a chic effect it gives.

Still a third vest entirely conceals the front of the bodice. It is made of two yards of net-top lace sixteen inches wide. From the heavy part below the net cut two little triangular pieces. Cut the ends of what is left to make them quite straight, hem them and then gather on a yoke lining of pink satin in such a way as to leave the ends longer than the middle. Make the collar of a stiff band of pink satin ribbon, with a bow of many loops and ends. Sew a band of the pink ribbon along the edge of the lace also, but on the under side, so that the collar will show through the meshes as at the yoke.

A pretty collar, and one easily fashioned by the home dressmaker, is cut square just like a boy's sailor collar, and is made of fine linen lawn. All around the edge is a double frill of accordion-plaited India muslin, bordered with very narrow Valenciennes lace. If carried out in pure white this collar has an airy freshness which in dog-days ought to be positively bewitching.

A collar seen at a garden party the other day was at once rich and simple. It was made of a complete circle of ivory-colored satin. A similar circle was cut from the middle for the neck, leaving the collar about two inches wide. It was simply faced with more satin and had no standing collar. Its peculiar charm lay in the odd pieces of rich antique lace which were applied at intervals about its edge. It was not covered solid and the soft lustre of the satin gleamed through all the spaces. A collar just as pretty, if not so delicate, can be made in the same fashion of black satin with cream white lace.

For those who have not yet tired of rosettes at either side of the neck a somewhat new design is shown in the shops. Two yard-long strips of a whole width of chiffon are bordered with lace and then gathered at one end with a heading an inch in depth. This heading is drawn up so tight as to form a rosette and is sewed to the collar just under the ear. This leaves a long scarf hanging down on either side. The scarf ends may be drawn together at the front and crossed and recrossed so that the lace and chiffon fall in delightfully graceful folds and puffs and wrinkles. The longest end should reach to the waist or a little below it. This may be fastened with stick pins and a different arrangement will suggest itself every time the confection is worn.

There are yet scores of stock collars and neck bands. You could wear a fresh one every hour of the day and still have plenty left for tomorrow. One of the newest is shirred, but in a manner somewhat unusual. Instead of going around the gathers go up and down and rosettes appear at the sides. Just in front of each rosette is a fan-shaped piece of chiffon and cut-work embroidery is shirred into the collar itself. The fan-shaped bits are not held up in any way, but are allowed to fall softly. For day time wear such a collar may be all black; for evening a pretty combination is an alternation of dark and light blue, or of white and pale green.

To proceed with the procession of collars, still another is made of lace in three widths. It takes about a yard and a half of each, and the widest should be four inches. The different widths are gathered with one thread for the three on a narrow foundation band. This makes so much fullness that it stands up without being wired, and makes a delicious frame for a round young throat. A twist of ribbon finishes it at the lower edge, and it is hooked in the back under a rather flat bow.

A yoke of black ribbon is something of a novelty as the ribbons cross from shoulder to shoulder, slightly rolled so as to have the appearance of a row of deep tucks. The yoke is square in shape, with a bertha of lace, and at every corner and at intervals around the neck-piece are set little butterfly bows fastened with cut steel buckles.

The woman whose ambitious soul can tolerate nothing but the newest fancy of the hour must have a wreath of flowers to wear about her neck. Violets or forget-me-nots looking wonderfully natural, and mounted on ribbons of the same shade are hooked close about the throat under a large bow of satin ribbon.

For an interesting little diversion, it may be said that full skirts will be fuller than ever this summer, stiff behind and flaring at the bottom. Many are untrimmed, but a few have Spanish ruffles. Silk ruffs are always a pretty finish to a frock, and they say (they are so important in a story about fashions) that the foot looks much smaller when the skirt is finished with a full ruche.

One of the most unique summer models is of pale shrimp pink crepon in a waved design. It is trimmed with a jet and black satin ribbon. The skirt is plain and full, but the bodice has a deep yoke of jet with a blouse of the silk, and the waist is finished with a deep band of jet sewn on a belt of satin ribbon. The large sleeves have plaited cuffs, finished with satin ribbon bands, and the collar is very prettily fashioned of a full band of ribbon with jet knots at either side.

A REDFERN NOVELTY.

Now that the wraps can mostly be dispensed with, silks will become a most important feature of toilette, and Redfern, in consideration thereof, exhibits them in great variety, among others a novelty called the Worth waist. This is of plaid silk in large bars of either bright or subdued colors, and sometimes of genuine Scotch plaids. Its peculiar feature consists in its being made of a breadth of the silk drawn around the body, one selvage being gathered below a yoke. It is then shirred around the waist to wear without a belt, and falls in a full short frill on the hips, the other selvage serving as a finish. The yoke is of plain ecru or cream silk embroidered in open eyeleted pattern, and the sleeves are full balloon puffs of the plaid silk, reaching only just beyond the elbow. Of course it is made over a fitted lining and even then it is becoming only to slight figures, which it helps to round out prettily. In some cases the plaids of these waists are so large that two plaids cover a breadth of silk from selvage to selvage. But there are also some small plaids worn by very young women and by girls in their teens, and these, though rather dark, are of the Scotch combination of colors—one of the Stuart plaid of mixed red, green and yellow being worn not only when driving, but at an afternoon wedding recently by one of the young members of the Vanderbilt family.

With the fancy waists and the ubiquitous shirt waists, belts have come to be almost a necessity and the belt-buckle an indispensable adjunct to every woman's wardrobe. There is always a steady demand for gold waist buckles; the latest models are in heavy coils of dead gold set with polished garnet sapphires, and carbuncles, and with turquoise, and although all women are not fortunate enough to be able to wear gold and jewelled buckles, there are many pretty imitations and some extremely desirable buckles to be had for a reasonable price. In brooches, too, there are novelties on all sides. Knotted coils of gold set with precious stones, oval or circular gold brooches of Renaissance form, and fleurs de lis in gold or enamel are superseding the true lover's knot as a watch pin, the decoration of the latter being of course in keeping. These forms are also reproduced in black steel, always decorated with small diamonds. A cravat bow with a pearl-headed pin stuck through it is a pretty conceit for this purpose and has the advantage of harmonizing with any plain gold watch. The same form in block steel with a diamond head to the pin, is suitable for a watch of this metal. There is quite a furore for this black steel; chain purses made of it are considered extremely chic, less showy than those in chain gold; the exquisite delicacy of their workmanship renders them almost as costly, even when not fringed with pearl drops, as they are to be seen now and again.

SOMETHING IN HANDLES.

The same wild desire for novelty and change is seen in the new designs for umbrella and parasol handles. There have always been a few persons who revelled in the luxury of gold and bejewelled parasols and umbrellas; but until quite lately their number was extremely limited. This season, to judge by the varied assortments of valuable and artistic handles exhibited in the shop windows, they must have increased immensely. These handles may be divided into four varieties—the spherical and olive-shaped knobs, the Louis XVI cane handle and the crutch stick, the latter being more particularly intended for umbrellas and gentlemen's sticks—produced in a great many different substances, and decorated in all sorts of styles. Frosted gold knobs, either plain or ornamented, are voted vieux jeu; those in black steel set with a powdering of diamonds, or with a little diamond flower or other simple design embedded in the metal, are much preferred to them.

Lapis lazuli and blood stone and agate knobs, and many-sided tops, with a gold serpent coiled round the base or resting in a little cup of chaste metal, are one of the fancies of the moment; but the dernier cri is the handle made of jasper, onyx and particularly of clear white rock crystal. They are not only worked in the same way as the other stones just mentioned, but are also decorated in divers ways with gold ornamentations, gold coils and serpents, gold tips for the crutched forms, grooved to imitate the markings of wood. Some of the green jasper and crystal tops for parasol handles assume a different form from the rest, and are wrought in the resemblance of a duck's head, either entirely carved out of the stone or with the head only in jasper or crystal, and the beak in gold; this bec de canne is a great favorite. A less remarkable looking handle, but one equally new, consists of an oval or spherical knob, encased in a network of fine gold. Glass balls cut in facets and spirals are provided for those who require less expensive articles, and quite latterly some novelties in mottled Venetian glass have appeared that are not by any means ordinary looking, although not costing a tenth of the price of those in pietra dura.

AN ASTOR TOILET.

A woman who knows says the beautiful Mrs. John Jacob Astor, since returning from Paris, wears, when driving in the afternoon, a gown of black crepon with raised mohair spots like bubbles, trimmed with an ecru grass-linen collarette and galloon of peacock blue spangles. The linen collar, of an odd shape, consists of six lengthwise side pleats falling low in front and back, square cornered and going straight down beside the sleeves instead of flaring out upon them. Three pleats on each side are turned toward the middle in back and front, but do not meet in front, as they are separated by a broad galloon of the iridescent spangles which descends from a collar band of the same to droop slightly on a belt also of spangles. Mutton-leg sleeves of great width at the top are so long that they cover nearly all of the four buttons of the pearl-colored glace kid gloves, which are bound and widely stitched with black. The godeted skirt—not very stiff nor too flaring—is entirely without trimming. An extremely chic hat worn with this dress is a toque of black fancy straw with the brim turned up close around the crown in turban fashion. Peacock blue velvet, with almost as much green as blue in it, forms one of two high loops on the back, while to give a broad effect are two very full aigrettes of bright green feathers placed on the sides to lean outward toward the top in Virot fashion. A white parasol with white stick and Dresden knob completes her costume.

SUMMER SUNSHADES.

Speaking of Mrs. Astor's parasol brings to mind a number of new and pretty things in sunshades now much in vogue, according to the New York World. Cobwebby lace, cloudy chiffon and silk as opalescent as rainbows are the materials which milady uses this season to shade her face from the sun. Pompadour silks with pale-hued flowers shot across a milky ground are as popular here as for collars and sashes, and the butter-colored lace which riots on all the fashionable gowns is found on fashionable parasols also. The jeweler contributes handles beautiful to see, and altogether the parasol of 1895 is a creation which would cause the women of half a century ago to believe their descendants were on the road to financial ruin.

The linings of the fashionable parasol have two fields of usefulness. They must enhance the beauty of the outer material and they must also prove effective in improving the complexion of the wearer. Moreover the entire scheme of color must harmonize with the colors of the frock with which they are worn.

The sticks are of light woods, mostly bamboos, with crystal, topaz, onyx, lapis lazuli or porcelain balls mounted over a band of silver or gold.

No description can give an accurate impression of the effects produced, but the New York World's description of a few styles now in vogue may suggest the grace and beauty of the summer parasol.

One is a dome of black moire, with the band of shaded flowers or uncut velvet with feathered edge and lined with black. The ribs are gilt; the stick of shaded bamboo, surmounted by a china ball handle with a gilt band. Another, with a dome of black watered silk, is trimmed with a white watered-silk band, sprinkled with pink rosebuds, and has a stick of light-colored bamboo and a white china ball with gilt band. A white watered silk dome, flecked with moss rosebuds, a white stick, crystal ball and white tassel, is exceedingly pretty.

An old-fashioned rosebud silk, with a Japanese stick and cupids on a Dresden ball, is what enthusiasts call a dream.

One with a dome of black moire, a border of white gros grain silk, in which are bunches of violets and moss rosebuds, has the edges of the border stitched with crimson silk ribbon. The stick is of light bamboo, the handle an ebony ball, with gold rim and black tassel.

A plainer one, better adapted to a dowager of severer taste, is all of black silk with the exception of eight bouquets of white roses cut from old lace and applied at intervals around the band. The ribs are covered with white silk; the stick a stained bamboo with an ebony ball handle, black tassel and black rosette surmounts the top.

Another "dream" has a white watered silk dome and is bordered by a band of six black stripes about two inches apart. Scattered through the stripes are tiny moss rosebuds.

An entire dome of changeable lavender silk over which is showered small bunches of violets intermingled with detached violets is a spring-like affair.

A dome of white watered silk with clusters of creamy lace bunched in artistic knots is another charming specimen.

The prices of these fairy like creations are such as would make the eyes of our revered ancestors distend with horror. They vary from $50 to $300, and may be had at even more expensive rates. The crude objects which they used to protect their famous complexions from the sun cost no such fabulous prices. But then they were not such fabulously pretty things. Even those charming representations of the ladies of old Greece in the Tanagra figures are plain and unattractive beneath their unadorned sunshades.

SOME NEW HATS.

Dame Fashion has been very kind to us this season so far as headgear is concerned. There are scores of shapes and an infinite variety of trimmings from which to choose, and if every woman does not possess a becoming and stylish hat it must be due to utter lack of observation or a total want of variety.

The latest creations are distinguished by fluffy trimmings in the shape of chiffon, peau de soie and mousseline, enormous roses, with much foliage, and exquisite buckles of pearl and rhinestone.

Quite the most picturesque hats are the Leghorns, bent in Gainsborough style and with a heterogeneous mass of trimming. A very pretty one has a bunch of white plumes on the left side, and with them a large red rose and many leaves. A rosette of creamy Languedoc lace, caught with pearl buckle, rests on the right side of the brim, and falling on the hair are some tiny rosebuds. Another of the same type is of white chiffon, artistically trimmed with satin buttercups and large bows of double-faced white and grass-green satin ribbon.

For the girl who adores masculinity in hats, are the stiff white sailors with their narrow ribbon band; and a trifle less mannish are the walking hats. The prettiest one of this season's style is very tall, and simply but stylishly trimmed with a black velvet band and a tall black wing shading into an iridescent bluet blue. It would be effective worn with a tailor-made suit.

A hat suitable for any occasion was one of the white, short-backed sailors, now so much in vogue. Directly in front were four stiff white wings, narrow and long. Two of these stand out at each side, and in the center a soft fluff of peau de soie made an effective finish. At the sides, near the back, two large rosettes of this silky stuff were placed, and from under the brim some green leaves fell against the hair.

Another hat of this shape—white-crowned, but with a black under brim—was striking and artistic. Two bunches of blue corn flowers were placed on the sides, two rosebuds nestled in front, and an abundance of green covered the brim all the way around. A black bird perched on the crown as though pecking at the flowers, and the effect was wonderfully fine.

For the pert girl with saucy face and retrousse nose, a clever artist has designed a really perfect hat. The crown is of the tall, beef-eater variety in butter-colored fancy braid, while the brim is of soft cream straw, and straight all around. In the front a bunch of black aigrettes is placed on the right side, and caught by a jet buckle and a black velvet bow. A twist of the velvet reaches from there to the black bird that mounts guard over the left side, some black violets. More bows and some fancy jets are placed at the left side near the back, and the whole hat was stunning and effective.

A large shade hat is made of chiffon softly gathered around the brim, with six small ostrich feathers set around it at intervals; the crown of this is embroidered in jet, while a curled osprey stands at one side, and pink and yellow roses are massed at either side of the back.

An ideal hat for a garden party is of fine chip, trimmed with a large double bow of white chiffon, edged with butter-colored lace; a spray of roses, thorns, buds and foliage stand at the back.

Bonnets are odd but pretty, a very swell one being of jet, with a transparent brim standing up at the back and front. It is trimmed with odd shot ribbon, blue and pink on the one side and green and pink on the other; ivy leaves and some delicate posies at the back give the finishing touches to this original little hat.

A jet toque, with the brim very convoluted, is stylish and distinctive. Into the corners are tucked quills and ostrich feathers, while at the back a group of pink roses forms a pleasing contrast.

A Dutch bonnet was very pretty, the bunches at the sides being composed of dewy daisies. Stiff green leaves formed wings in front and seemed caught in place by a pearl and diamond buckle.

A pretty traveling hat for a summer bride is of dark blue straw, jauntily trimmed with blue shaded ribbon, green leaves and an abundance of "ragged sailors."

A PRETTY MULL GOWN.

The beauty of mull is something that can never be denied, and while it is not a particularly expensive material, it becomes rather costly to make it up, inasmuch as silk or satin is required for its lining, writes Isabel A. Mallon in the June Ladies' Home Journal. That girl who is at once fond of pretty clothes and economical has saved the white silk or white satin party dress that has served its time, and utilized it, after it has been thoroughly cleaned, as a foundation for the mull skirt, under which it looks so well. It might be that instead of white it was a pale pink or blue that did service, for this would also be in good taste and make a very effective background for the thin mull. Instead of being plaited, the mull skirt is carefully gathered and falls over its silky lining in fine curves. Its trimming consists of three narrow flounces carefully hemmed by hand and headed by a quille, which is, in reality, a triple box plait, of very narrow pink satin ribbon. Broad pink ribbon, that which is known as the sash width, makes the yoke; and the lower part of the bodice, which is of the mull, is fulled to it. This fullness is evenly laid on the yoke edge, but at the waist it is drawn to the center so that a pointed effect is achieved.

The yoke is overlaid with rather coarse lace, white in color, and the collar, which is of the folded mull, has an edge of lace turned over on it as if it were a specially-made rolling collar.

FASHION NOTES.

And as to handkerchiefs of the present day, they are very small indeed; sometimes they have the owner's Christian name embroidered in the corner, but this name must only consist of four letters, so all the Wilhelminas, Georginas, Louisas, Henriettas, Florences, etc., must content themselves with ordinary monograms or nothing. For mourning, handkerchiefs are being edged with black Chantilly lace appliqué, which looks very effective over the white, and is a good way of using up small pieces of lace. Of course the lace needs to be sewn on very, very neatly.

The newest way of making the thin textiles is to have them separate from the lining, which for the bodice may be high or low necked, and in either case come within the scope of fashion and propriety. For convenience sake, however, the outside skirt and the lining skirt of the thin gown are sometimes attached to the same band. And a good thing to know is that though crinolined skirts are fast being relegated to the unfashionable populace, it is very necessary to grasscloth the silk petticoat that goes with a gauzy costume. Otherwise, unless the petticoat silk is of phenomenal stiffness, there will be no set to the dainty rig you have meant to be the darling of your summer eye. And the least damp will bring on a limpness that would make faint the bravest heart.

By the way, have you noticed the prominent part the creamy new laces and embroidered muslins are playing in every fashionable woman's gowns? The prettiest sheer white collars or stocks are of soft creamy mull, batiste, lawn or nainsook, tucked by hand in two clusters, each of five or six tucks around the neck. An insertion half an inch wide of yellow Valenciennes is between these clusters. Both edges—top and bottom—are finished with scalloped edging to match the insertion. When completed this is four or five inches wide, and is drawn in folds around a collar band of white silk two inches deep, and hooked under a rosette made of row after row of the yellow Valenciennes edging. Still other batiste collars are of tucks and insertion with straight hemmed edges instead of the lace finish, and have two Paquin points of the batiste turned over at the top.

Eton jackets are very popular for woolen costumes for young girls over 10, especially for cloth, serge and duck. The skirt is bell shape, and the open jacket has a deep square collet and revers edged with braid. With this is worn a box-plaited blouse front of plaid silk or cambric.

Coarse straw and Leghorn hats, embellished with stiff bows and an occasional bunch of flowers, are desirable for all girls over 7 years of age.

Young girls' gowns do not admit of such variety in style as those of their elders, but any little change is an acceptable hint for mothers who cannot buy the dresses ready made. Challies, in both light and dark colors, make very sensible and pretty dresses for girls of all ages, and they are made simply with box-plaited blouse waists and satin ribbon collar and belt; or, in a fashion more dressy, with pointed yoke and epaulets of lace over plain color and trimmed with bands of inch-wide satin ribbon.

Cream white batiste collars, trimmed with lace insertion and edge, are used on crepon, taffeta silk and dimity gowns and wide square collars of colored linen are seen on dark serge frocks for girls.

Some of the new crepons show changeable effects.

Novel French creped silks are printed in chine devices.

Fancy dress buttons match Dresden designs in silk and satin ribbons.

Many of the new silk waists have entire fronts of guipure or point de Gene lace.

Undressed kid gloves of pale cameo pink are worn with evening toilets of cream or pale rose color.

Box pleated waists of light colored liberty satin are fashionably worn with full gored skirts of white serge or crepon.

Sleeves of transparent material are lined with thinnest tarletan to keep them in place, and caught up with ribbon rosettes with pretty effect.

Lace on the stylish shoulder capes by means of stiff linings is made to stand out after the manner of quills upon an offended porcupine.

White duck suits are to continue in vogue, but not the cheap, domestic duck. The material that comes over the sea will have the preference.

Lace, silk, muslin and crepon berths, which were worn in the days colonial will be "all the go" this season. They have the "soft, soothing" effect.

Neapolitan straw is the material of which some of the most beautiful of the newly imported bonnets are made. And it is declared they cannot be imitated.

Pure undyed silk with a weave resembling canvas and rather coarse in texture is called Arabian silk. It is used for tailor suits for morning and traveling wear.

Imitation ivy vines for the exterior of the modern old homestead can be had at so much per yard. To those who do not know the real it is a good imitation.

Dressy sleeves for afternoon as well as evening wear are made quite short, reaching only to the elbow. From thence falls a very deep frill of lace, covering the arm to the wrist.

Dimities, organdies, lawns and light silks are more tempting just now than any sort of cloth, and lovely gowns of these delicate fabrics are made in most instances without linings, and worn over silk petticoats.

Costumes of pure white, from the plain crepon or silk parasol to the tip of the shoes, will be one of the prevailing fashions in summer dress, and they will be worn morning, noon and night, in all the varying graces of elegance.

Golden russet shades are in high favor once again in addition to tan, fawn, and beige tints. These dyes appear among gowns, jackets, waists, capes, gloves and hosiery. Shoes to match are worn, not only in the country, but also in cities with morning costumes. With cycling and tennis suits they are universally worn.

An afternoon dress of cream glace foulard, dotted with black, has a strap of white satin covered with jet at each side and finished with a band and large velvet bow at the foot. The bodice is of cherry red chiffon, with accordion-pleated jabot of jetted lace at the neck. The pointed revers are open-work jet, which also bands the lower edge of the immense puffed sleeves.

Among the dainty things for summer are very short silk capes with lace revers and collarettes; white silk parasols with Dresden figures in chine effects and white handles; silk waists with wide velvet straps down the front, and from shoulder to belt, these straps studded with jet or cut steel buttons; large Leghorn hats simply laden with white or pink ostrich tips, plaited chiffon rosettes, full blown roses, and foliage sprays.

The newest summer bonnets—so called—are new in the sense of freshness, but not as marked novelties, and are made of crepe lisse, chiffon, Parisian patterned nets or exquisitely wrought Indian tissues, with laces to match. These French trifles light as air represent foreign "dress" styles, the delicate straws, satin braids, and bonnets made of rushes being relegated to a secondary place in fashionable gowning.

THE DISCOVERY SAVED HIS LIFE.

G. Caillouette, druggist, Beaversville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with la grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at Max Wirth's drug store.
